ON THE COVER

Running back Terrell Davis was named the National Football League's Most Valuable Player in 1998, as he rushed for 2,008 yards to post the third-highest single-season rushing total in league history. Already the Broncos' career rushing leader with 6,413 yards in just four seasons, Davis continues to establish himself as one of the league's elite players, having helped lead Denver to back-to-back Super Bowl wins. Representing that accomplishment on the cover are the images of two Vince Lombardi trophies, embossed and inset in the lower right corner. THE PAUL D. BOWLEN MEMORIAL BRONCOS CENTRE

On March 5, 1990 the Denver Broncos moved into the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, the state-of-the-art headquarters for the National Football League team. The complex is named for the Broncos owner's late father, and is the culmination of Pat Bowlen's desire to maximize a positive working environment for his team, which has won back-to-back World Championships with victories in Super Bowls XXXII and XXXIII. The Broncos were the only American Football Conference club to appear in the three Super Bowls during the 1980s.

The training facility is situated on 13.5 acres in the rapidly expanding Dove Valley Business Park in south Arapahoe County. It includes an administrative building, two full-size practice fields and a smaller workout field.

The Bowlen Broncos Centre is a two-story building totaling 60,000 square feet, well over twice the size of the team's previous facility. The ground floor houses the main entry, visitors area and trophy display area, and media room, in addition to the play-related facilities, which encompass the locker room, meeting rooms, training area, weight room, equipment room, and video department.

It is on the second level, which is accessible through two stairways adjacent to the lobby area, that most of the administrative offices are located. These include the offices for Pat Bowlen, Mike Shanahan, Neal Dahlen, Joe Ellis and John Beake, as well as those of all assistant coaches and football operations personnel. The second floor is divided into one wing for administrative offices and another for coaches and meeting rooms. The Broncos' extensive computer operation also is located on the second floor.

There is ample practice space available for use by the Broncos, as both practice fields are 100 yards and one of them has a unique design system that includes underground wiring to prevent the turf from freezing and thus allows the Broncos to practice year-round on unfrozen natural grass. The complex also includes a smaller, 50-yard natural grass workout field and the Broncos' indoor "bubble," which houses a 70-yard artificial turf field.

The expansive weight room and training room are among the largest in the entire league, and the Bowlen Centre also includes a separate building that houses two racquetball courts for training and leisure use by players and staff members.

PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

PAT BOWLEN

Denver Broncos owner Pat Bowlen directed his franchise to an elite level of sports accomplishment in 1998 when Denver became just the sixth National Football League franchise to win back-to-back Super Bowl championships.

In posting a decisive 34-19 win over the Atlanta Falcons in Super Bowl XXXIII, Denver joined Green Bay, Miami, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, and Dallas as the only back-to-back Super Bowl champions in NFL history, and the Broncos became the first American Football Conference team to reach that lofty status in two decades.

The Broncos enter 1999 at the pinnacle of sports franchises, balancing a great record on the playing field, player stability that is startling in this era of free agency, a string of home sellouts that will mark 30 consecutive years this season, and construction under way on a new stadium that will allow Denver to compete at the NFL's highest level for decades to come.

Pat Bowlen's deft guidance provides the foundation of leadership on which the Broncos won a franchise record 17 games, 14 in the regular season, in 1998, including a 13-0 start that resulted in Denver going an entire calendar year without a loss.

His Broncos set standards that will be very difficult for any club to match in winning a record seven postseason games in the past two years, a record 33 wins in two years (1997-98) and a record 46 wins in three years (1996-98). In addition, Pat Bowlen has watched his Broncos become just the second team in modern NFL history to go undefeated during regular season play at home for three consecutive seasons (1996-98).

He works closely with Head Coach Mike Shanahan in maintaining the team's roster in the present era of free agency, and the resulting player stability was a major factor in the brilliant performance of the 1998 Broncos.

As much as the Broncos first World Championship one year earlier was for John Elway and the team's legion of fans, no one was more deserving of that triumph or the one that followed in 1998 than Pat Bowlen, whose single-minded pursuit of the Super Bowl title has been unwavering since he purchased the Broncos in 1984.

All are aware that it is the owner who provides the financial backing that is integral to a championship team, but many fans are unaware that much of the heart, soul, and drive of this championship organization comes directly from Pat Bowlen.

Champions are built from the top, and the Broncos owner has been a model of leadership in the scope of his drive and commitment. "I want us to be number one in everything," Bowlen has often said in a recurring theme that marks his management style.

His 1997 Broncos fulfilled the team's lifelong quest in bringing the Mile High City the World Championship with their sterling 31-24 triumph over the Green Bay Packers, in the process becoming the first American Football Conference team to win in 14 years and just the second wild card to win the Super Bowl under the NFL's present playoff system.

It is the owner himself who charts the course for this highly successful franchise, infusing his team and employees with the drive to attain those goals. Financially and philosophically, his pursuit of a championship is absolute, whether judged by the Broncos' pursuit of free agents, by his pledge to contribute over $100 million to Denver's new stadium, or simply by his fierce desire to have his Broncos at the pinnacle in all ways that success can be measured.

Well into his second decade as the Broncos' chief executive, Pat Bowlen comes into 1999 braced with the satisfaction of great success, both for his franchise and the NFL structure, and yet at the forefront of new challenges for the team, the city and the league.

The Broncos' President and Chief Executive Officer has fashioned a powerful reputation among his peers as a bold, dynamic leader who is single-minded in his pursuit of excellence, whether in representing Denver and Broncos or the hierarchy of the National Football League.

In addition to his role with the Broncos, Bowlen was a key figure in spearheading both the league's labor and TV contracts. He has been a member of the NFL Management Council

Executive Committee, and is currently the Chairman of the highly prestigious NFL Broadcasting Committee, while also serving on the NFL Finance Committee. A pivotal voice in league policy, he also is Chairman of the NFL Enterprises/NFL Films Executive Committees and serves as a member of the NFL International Committee and the Board of the NFL Europe League. Bowlen also is active on a special NFL expansion committee.

Bowlen comes into the 1999 season having completed a drive for a critically needed new stadium that will mutually benefit the Broncos and the Mile High City, and in his role as Chairman of the NFL Broadcasting Committee he once again spearheaded the negotiations for the league's new television contract, at over 18 billion dollars the most lucrative single-sport contract in history.

Nineteen ninety-nine will be the 30th straight year of home sellouts at Mile High Stadium, longest in the American Football Conference, and that streak is just one measure of the Pat Bowlen success story in Denver.

During his tenure as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Broncos (1984-98) Bowlen's team has dominated the American Football Conference Western Division in posting more division titles (seven), conference Championship Game appearances (six), and Super Bowl appearances (five) than any other club in the division. Under Bowlen's leadership the Broncos have had nine playoff appearances and just two losing seasons.

The 1995 campaign began a new era both for the Broncos and the NFL, and Pat Bowlen played an integral role in both, selecting a dynamic new head coach in Mike Shanahan while also having had a pivotal role in the creation of the new collective bargaining agreement and the television contract, changing the face of professional football in the process.

The Broncos' dynamic chief executive followed up the hiring of Shanahan by once again becoming a major player in the league's free agency. Under Bowlen's leadership Denver has been very aggressive in the marketplace, with unrestricted free agents becoming a major component of the Denver roster.

Bowlen has made all these moves with one goal unchanged: to aggressively position the Broncos for yet another run at a Super Bowl championship for the Mile High City. No one sets higher standards for the Broncos than Pat Bowlen himself, whose unchanging goal is to have his franchise annually regarded among the finest in pro sports, with victory being the measuring stick for that success. Thus, the goal of Denver's dynamic and energetic chief executive remains firmly set on repeating the World Championship seasons of 1997 and '98.

He presides over a franchise that by any standard has been one of the NFL's most successful in this time frame (1984-98). In Bowlen's 15 years of ownership the Broncos have played 21 postseason games, with all regular and postseason games sold out at Mile High Stadium.

The Broncos President has seen the team's consecutive home game sellout streak stretch to 231 straight regular and postseason non-strike games through the end of the 1998 campaign, as Denver led the entire National Football League in actual in-stadium attendance over that 15-year period. The Broncos have drawn nearly nine million fans to Mile High Stadium from 1984-98, tops in the NFL.

Bowlen's 15 years of ownership have resulted in the best home record (96-25) in the AFC. Bowlen finished second in The Sporting News 1987 Executive of the Year balloting.

In addition to winning seven division crowns, Bowlen's franchise has had regular season win totals of 14, 13 (twice), 12 (twice), 11 (three times) and 10. In fact, nine of the 10 finest campaigns in team history have come during the Bowlen regime.

In 1991 Bowlen's team had the greatest turnaround in team history, finishing with a 12-4 record that included the American Football Conference Western Division title and the fourth AFC Championship Game appearance of Bowlen's vibrant ownership.

Bowlen's focus for the coming year is to once again put his team in line to defend its title. The Broncos own AFC Championship wins in 1986, 1987, 1989, 1997 and 1998. Denver was the only AFC franchise to make three Super Bowl appearances in the 1980s and without question Pat Bowlen provides the organizational thrust that has served as the catalyst to the Broncos' outstanding record.

The Broncos once again will pursue a championship season from their spacious headquarters, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 60,000-square-foot state-of-the-art office and training complex in Arapahoe County's Dove Valley location. The move into this new facility, which came on March 5, 1990, accomplished one of Bowlen's significant goals, that being to upgrade the Broncos' working facility and in so doing solidify the foundation for continued success.

Pat Bowlen was introduced as the majority owner of the Denver Broncos on March 23, 1984, and that announcement triggered a new era in franchise history, one which has coupled success on the playing field with enthusiasm for an even brighter future.

He immediately put his own mark on the Broncos, establishing a solid administration and creating a positive atmosphere that was a major factor in the team's success both on and off the field. The team responded with a 13-3 record and the American Football Conference Western Division championship in 1984, following that up with an 11-5 record that just barely kept the Broncos out of the playoffs in 1985.

Having established a solid foundation, Bowlen took a dramatic step toward the future during 1986 with the construction of 60 luxury Penthouse Suites atop the west side of Mile High Stadium. Bowlen and the Bowlen family acquired 100% ownership of the Broncos franchise in July of 1985.

Born in Prairie du Chien, Wis., he attended high school there and went on to the University of Oklahoma, where he earned degrees in both business (1965) and law (1968). He is President of the Denver Broncos Charities Fund and in that capacity has donated nearly $7 million to charitable organizations in the Denver area.

Bowlen has served as the Honorary Chairman of the Colorado Special Olympics for 14 years, and was that organization's Outstanding Celebrity in 1993. Bowlen has served as the Honorary Chairman of the Colorado Family Classic to benefit St. Joseph's Hospital for 15 years and this is his fourth year as Chairman of the Capuchin Friars fund-raising dinner. He also chaired the 1989 Centennial Scholarship rally at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley and was Co-Chairman of the Rose Medical Center Critical Care Campaign from 1986-89.

In addition, Bowlen was elected to the University of Denver Board of Trustees in 1987, and is active on several committees. He chairs the Athletic Affairs Committee and plays a role in the Capital Campaign for major athletic gifts, while also serving on the Buildings and Grounds Committee. His previous DU committee memberships include the Institutional Advancement Committee and Institutional Advancement/University Relations subcommittee. He was also named to the Colorado Academy Board of Trustees in 1991.

He also serves on the Board of Trustees of the Hawaii Maritime Center and was the 1992 honoree at the American Ireland Fund dinner.

Bowlen is a member of several clubs and societies, including the Chief Executive's Organization, the Canadian and Edmonton Bar Associations, and the Law Society of Alberta. Bowlen is also a past member of the Young President's Organization.

He also is Chairman of the Board and Director of Hambledon Estates Limited, and Northern Development Company Limited of Edmonton.

Bowlen maintains an active lifestyle and exercises extensively as part of his daily regimen. He has competed in the Ironman Triathlon — an event in which one must swim 2.4 miles, ride 112 miles on a bicycle, and run 26.2 miles, all consecutively — as well as in other triathlon races and several marathons.

Mike Shanahan is one of just five head coaches in the history of the NFL to have won back-to-back Super Bowls with Denver's victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, followed by its defeat of Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII last January. Shanahan has the best winning percentage (.734) of any head coach in club history, and has compiled a 30-2 home record at Mile High Stadium, including three straight undefeated campaigns.

MIKE SHANAHAN

Mike Shanahan has accomplished more in four years as the Denver Broncos head coach than most coaches do in an entire career, but complacency and satisfaction are qualities completely foreign to the Broncos' driven leader.

The back-to-back World Champion Denver Broncos stand as the perfect symbol of a team manifesting the personality of its head coach — maintaining discipline, focus, preparation, mental toughness, and physical effort — all qualities indelibly stamped onto the franchise by Head Coach/Vice President of Football Operations Mike Shanahan, whose superb guidance directed the Broncos to victory in Super Bowls XXXII and XXXIII.

Shanahan has taken his career and the Broncos to new levels in 1997 and 1998 as the intense and personable Denver Broncos head coach became one of just five active National Football League mentors with Super Bowl victories (joining, alphabetically, Mike Ditka, Mike Holmgren, Jimmy Johnson, and Bill Parcells).

His stunning record as the Broncos' mentor also places him in the legendary class of Vince Lombardi, Don Shula, Chuck Noll, and Jimmy Johnson as the only coaches with back-to-back Super Bowl championships. The three retired members of that illustrious group already have been inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Following his magnificent 1998 season, the Broncos' mentor was named AFC Coach of the Year by the Kansas City 101 Club and by the Touchdown Club of Columbus (his second time to be honored by each organization).

Under Shanahan's brilliant guidance, Denver has:

- posted the most wins in pro football history in a two-year period (33 in 1997-98).
- posted the most wins in pro football history in a three-year period (46 in 1996-98).
- won the most postseason games ever in a two-year period (seven).
- won 18 straight games over 1997-98 to tie the all-time NFL record for consecutive wins.
- been undefeated for three straight regular seasons at home, just the second team ever to do so.
- posted a 22-2 record in its last 24 games.

He is the first coach in history to win two Super Bowl titles in his first four years coaching a team, and he is the only coach to have directed two different teams to a 500-point season (last year the Broncos scored 501 points, and Shanahan's 1994 San Francisco offense scored 505). The 500-point mark has only been reached six times overall in pro football history.

His winning percentage is the best by any coach in Denver history, and in 1998 he reached his 40th win faster than any coach in franchise history.

While his seal of leadership already had been permanently ingrained into the entire Broncos organization, Shanahan took his first steps in the direction of legend when he joined Tom Flores in 1997 as the only two coaches in pro football history to post four wins in one postseason.

In his third and fourth seasons at the helm of the Denver Broncos, Mike Shanahan not only led the Broncos to their first Super Bowl victories, but in 1998 he became the winningest active coach in postseason play in the process (7-1), with that won-lost record trailing only the legendary Vince Lombardi's 9-1 mark.

Mike Shanahan now has that glittering postseason record of 7-1 — the best postseason record among active coaches — which added to a regular season mark of 47-17 give the him a combined record of 54-18 (an exceptional .698 percentage) in four years as head coach of the Broncos. Not only is that record the best among all coaches in Denver history, but his home record at Mile High Stadium is a staggering 30-2 (.937) in regular season play.

Since Shanahan took over the Broncos' coaching reins in 1995, Denver has scored 30 or more points 22 times (twice in postseason) at Mile High Stadium and 20 or more points 31 times (four times in playoff action) at Mile High Stadium in 32 regular season and four postseason games. They have scored 30 or more points 33 times (including three times in the playoffs) and 20 or more points 53 times in the 64 regular season games and seven postseason games under him. Denver's record in the 33 games in which it has scored 30 or more points under Shanahan is an amazing 32-1 (which includes 3-0 in postseason), including a 22-0 mark (which includes 2-0 playoff record) at Mile High Stadium.

Over the last seven years (four in Denver and the previous three in San Francisco) Mike Shanahan's offenses have finished number one in the NFL four times, second once, and third twice; in two of those campaigns Denver was just 17 yards and 83 yards short of the number one spot.

Since 1995, his first year in Denver as head coach of the Broncos, Denver has more rushing yards (9,002) and total yards (23,795) than any team in the NFL.

The defending world champions stormed to their second straight title with an offense that scored 501 points and finished third in the NFL in total yards, while the defense had another spectacular postseason, allowing just 25 points and two touchdowns while sparking a remarkable 13-1 turnover ratio in the playoffs.

The 1998 Broncos set team records with 14 regular season and 17 overall wins, starting off with a stunning 13-0 record and marking Denver as a team that went an entire calendar year without a loss.

Ten Broncos were named to the Pro Bowl following that magnificent season, but throughout it all Shanahan's inspired direction was nationally recognized as the driving force behind the back-to-back World Champion Broncos.

In 1997 he directed a Denver offense that scored a total of 583 points (29.2 per game) during the entire 1997 season, the fifth highest total in NFL history and the second highest total in AFC history for a combined regular and postseason. Of course, last year Shanahan's Broncos topped that mark by producing 596 regular and postseason points. The all-time high of 636 points came from the 1994 World Champion San Francisco 49ers, for whom Shanahan was the offensive coordinator.

He led his team to a 12-4 regular season record in 1997, marking the first time in franchise history that the team won 12 or more games in back-to-back seasons.

His high-powered offense reached 30 points a franchise record nine times during the 1997 regular season and twice in the postseason. Denver also broke the franchise record for most points in a season (previously 391 in 1996) in just their 13th game of 1997 and broke the record for most touchdowns in a season (previously 47 in 1996) in just their 14th game.

The Broncos stormed through 1997 postseason play to their eventual World Championship with a home win over Jacksonville and subsequent road victories at Kansas City and Pittsburgh, defeating those Super Bowl contenders in their home parks on back-to-back weeks, answering any lingering questions about the status of Denver as the best team in the American Football Conference.

It has been widely documented that the Broncos posted one of the greatest upsets in Super Bowl history, played in perhaps the best Super Bowl game ever, and ended the National Football Conference's 13-year domination in the NFL's Championship Game.

The Broncos posted their win — in fact, their four wins — in convincing style.

Under Mike Shanahan's steady control and forceful leadership, the Broncos had no question that they were the best team in football, and their postseason performance reflected that belief every step of the way.

In 1997 postseason play, Denver scored nine touchdowns in nine goal-to-go situations, including four-of-four in Super Bowl XXXII.

Conversely, opponents started six drives in Denver territory in the postseason, netting just six points (two field goals).

Denver scored 13 touchdowns in 16 red zone opportunities in postseason and of the Broncos' 46 postseason possessions, Denver scored 16 times (14 touchdowns and two field goals), accomplishing that feat against teams with a combined record of 51-16 at the time of each game.

The Broncos had posted the biggest win by a sports team in Colorado history, and one of the most significant in NFL history, all with Shanahan pointing the way. The Broncos had entered the playoffs as a wild card, but their head coach never let the team's compass waver even slightly from the only goal he had ever set.

NOTING SHANAHAN'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Broncos' Record From 1996-98 Tops in Franchise History — The Denver Broncos, under the direction of Head Coach Mike Shanahan, have amassed a 39-9 mark over the last three regular seasons, the best winning percentage and the most victories over a three-year stretch in the 39-year history of the franchise:

BEST THREE-YEAR RECORD IN BRONCOS' HISTORY

YEARS	HEAD COACH	RECORD	PCT.
1984-86	Dan Reeves	35-13	.729

Shanahan in the Postseason — The 1998 season was capped by Shanahan's ninth venture into the post-season, and his third as a head coach, having previously gone to the postseason as an assistant in 1984, 1986-87, 1989, 1991 (all with Denver) and 1992-94 (San Francisco) and as a head coach in 1996 and '97 (Denver). He has coached in six Super Bowls and has earned three Super Bowl rings (1994 with San Francisco; 1997 and '98 as head coach with Denver). Shanahan has coached in nine conference championship games, having won six of them (two as a head coach) and five of those six with Denver. His post-season record as a head coach is 7-1, tops among active coaches and second-best all-time, behind only Vince Lombardi (9-1). He was 12-7 in the postseason as an assistant, including a 7-5 mark with the Broncos. Shanahan's postseason mark of 7-1 (.875) ranks No. 1 in terms of winning percentage amongst Broncos' head coaches.

GENERAL MANAGER

NEAL DAHLEN

Neal Dahlen was promoted to the position of General Manager during the offseason, a tribute to his outstanding work in player evaluation, negotiation and acquisition, with that personnel work proving to be an integral factor in the Denver Broncos' back-to-back world championships.

Dahlen comes into 1999 in his fourth season with the Broncos, having been the club's Director of Player Personnel until his recent promotion.

Nineteen ninety-nine is Neal Dahlen's 36th year overall in football, and he is involved in all aspects of player acquisition for the Broncos, working very closely with Head Coach Mike Shanahan in building the team that represents Denver on the field and in the community. In addition, his new role encompasses a variety of administrative responsibilities relative to the organization's direction.

Dahlen is unique in professional football as the only individual — including players, coaches, and administrators — to have played a key role on seven world championship teams. Dahlen obviously has had a major role on the Broncos' Super Bowl championships in 1997 and 1998 (XXXII in San Diego and XXXIII in Atlanta), but in addition he was a vital cog in the player personnel department of the San Francisco 49ers during all five of their Super Bowl championship seasons (XVI in 1981 at Detroit, XXIV in 1984 at Palo Alto, XXIII in 1988 at Miami, XXIV in 1989 at New Orleans, and XXIX in 1994 at Miami).

He joined the Broncos on March 4, 1996, renewing his association with Mike Shanahan, with whom he had worked while Shanahan was the San Francisco 49ers' offensive coordinator from 1992-94.

Dahlen spent 17 years with the 49ers organization, beginning in 1979 as a part-time assistant to the coaching staff. In 1984 he took on full-time duties as director of research and development, and later served as the team's coordinator of football operations.

During his final three years in San Francisco Dahlen held the title of coaching administrator/financial liaison, a role that saw him work directly with 49ers head coach George Seifert on player personnel and management matters. He was primarily involved with monitoring financial affairs relating to player personnel, acting as the coaching staff liaison with the administrative staff, and was responsible for the acquisition of free agent players, negotiating player contracts, and developing game plan scouting reports for the defensive coaching staff.

A physical education major at San Jose State, Dahlen played quarterback for the Spartans and graduated in 1963, also earning his master's degree from the school in '64.

In June of 1999 Neal Dahlen was inducted into the San Mateo County Sports Hall of Fame for his athletic accomplishments as a player, coach and administrator. He resided in San Mateo County for more than 40 years, and, in addition to being a star high school and college athlete, Neal had a number of championship teams in football and baseball as a high school coach prior to joining the 49ers.

He coached football at the College of San Mateo for three years before beginning his 19-year career as a prep coach and administrator.

Born in Spokane, Wash., April 13, 1940, Neal and his wife, Nancy, make their home in Aurora, Colo. They have four grown children: Laurie, Sherri, Christy and Tim.

ASSISTANT COACHES

FRANK BUSH • LINEBACKERS

NFL Season: 8th (5th year with Broncos)

Frank Bush is in his fifth season as linebackers coach for the Denver Broncos, a position in which he has overseen considerable progress each year, bolstering the overall play of the Broncos' defense.

Bush's linebacking corps has played a pivotal role in the Broncos' back-to-back World Championships, producing the club's top three tacklers in 1998 and its top two in '97.

Last year, John Mobley (132), Glenn Cadrez (105) and Bill Romanowski (95) contributed nearly one-third of the Broncos total tackles, as Romanowski was voted to his second Pro Bowl in three years at strongside linebacker, and Denver ranked No. 3 in the NFL against the rush. Bush also successfully implemented Cadrez into the starting position at middle linebacker in 1998, while continuing to mold Mobley into one of the game's brightest young defensive stars at the weakside position.

With Mobley blossoming into one of the game's brightest young defensive stars, Romanowski continuing to play at an elite level and Cadrez in the prime of his career, Bush will again be armed with a talented assortment of youth and veteran leadership at the linebacker position in 1999.

Bush's troops produced the team's No. 1 and No. 2 tacklers in 1997 — Mobley (162) and Romanowski (117) — as Denver won its first-ever Super Bowl. Mobley was named first-team All-Pro by the Associated Press, leading a defensive unit that raised its level of play over the latter part of the season and was crucial to the club's title run.

The linebacking corps was much improved in 1996, following the addition of Romanowski through free agency and Mobley through the draft. They joined Allen Aldridge to form an outstanding starting group that played a major role in the Broncos' improvement to the No. 4 defensive ranking in the NFL, including a No. 1 ranking against the rush. Romanowski's impact was immediate as he earned his first Pro Bowl invitation in nine NFL seasons.

In his first year in Denver, 1995, Bush's linebackers were part of a defensive unit that improved its league ranking by 13 places to figure 15th overall in the NFL.

Bush joined the Broncos staff in 1995 after spending the previous 10 years with the Houston Oilers as a player, scout and assistant coach. He began his coaching career in 1992, when he coached the Oilers linebackers. Under Bush's tutelage, several members of the linebacking corps earned postseason honors as Houston boasted one of the most aggressive defenses in the NFL.

Before his coaching tenure with Houston, Bush was a college scout for the Oilers from 1987-92. During that period Bush was the primary college scout in the Western states, helping to bring in some of the players who made the Oilers a very successful team during his tenure.

Bush, 36, was considered one of the most talented young players during his two years in the NFL until a spinal injury prematurely ended his career. In 1985, he played in all 16 games with 11 starts and contributed 114 tackles and four sacks (including two of John Elway). For his efforts, he was selected to UPI's first-team All-NFL rookie squad.

Bush was a fifth-round draft choice of the Oilers in 1985 out of North Carolina State. As a three-year starter for the Wolfpack he recorded 247 tackles, 15 sacks and four interceptions. He majored in communications while at N.C. State.

A native of Athens, Ga., Bush starred at Clarke Central High School in his hometown. While at Clarke, Bush was recruited to play football at North Carolina State by current Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson. Bush was born Jan. 10, 1963.

Frank and his wife, Stephanie, reside in Aurora, Colo.

BARNEY CHAVOUS • ASST. OFF. LINE/ASST. STRENGTH & COND.

NFL Season: 11th (all with Broncos)

Barney Chavous is in his 11th season with the Broncos' coaching staff, assisting Alex Gibbs with the offensive line and Rich Tuten with the strength and conditioning program for the fourth straight year. He joined the coaching staff in 1988 as a coaching intern.

During his 10-year coaching career, Chavous has coached with such defensive greats as Earl Leggett (most recently with New York Giants) and Pro Football Hall of Famer Ernie Stautner.

Over the past four seasons, the Broncos' offensive line has established itself as the most productive unit in the league under the tutelage of Gibbs and Chavous, culminating in back-to-back World Championships. The 1998 unit allowed just 25 sacks, the lowest total in franchise history for a 16-game season.

Over the two-year span from 1995-96, the Broncos' offensive line allowed just 57 sacks, sixth-fewest in the NFL, third-fewest in the AFC and the lowest two-year total in franchise history.

Chavous, 48, was a standout defensive end for the Broncos from 1973-85 and currently ranks third on the Broncos' all-time sacks list with 75. He is one of only seven former Broncos to play 13 or more years with the club, and also started at defensive end for the Broncos in Super Bowl XII as part of the famed "Orange Crush" defense. He finished his career having played in 182 games in a Bronco uniform (fifth all-time), including 177 starts (tied for third all-time). In 1973, Chavous was named NFLPA Rookie of the Year and made the UPI and AP All-Rookie teams. He was also named the Pittsburgh Courier's NFL Defensive Lineman of the Year in 1978 after being a second-round draft pick of the Broncos in 1973.

Chavous was an all-conference selection at South Carolina State, where he was a three-year starter, and was named the team's most valuable player as well as earning Associated Press All-America honors as a senior.

Chavous has been inducted into the Mid-Eastern Atlantic Conference Hall of Fame, the Aiken County Hall of Fame (1987), the South Carolina Sports Hall of Fame (1992) and the South Carolina State University Athletic Hall of Fame (1998).

A native of Aiken, S.C. (3/22/51), Chavous and his wife Odessa reside in Englewood with their four children: sons Shedric and Barney Amon, and daughters Jasmine and Nikeya Monique.

RICK DENNISON • SPECIAL TEAMS

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Rick Dennison is in his fifth season on the Broncos' coaching staff and his third as special teams coach.

The play of his special teams units has been instrumental in the success of the team over the past two seasons, as Denver has won back-to-back World Championships. Kicker Jason Elam enjoyed the finest season of his six-year NFL career in 1998, earning his second Pro Bowl invitation by setting a franchise record for PATs in a season (58 for 58) and converting 85% (23 of 27) of his field goal attempts. Elam also tied Tom Dempsey's 28-year old NFL record for longest field goal, with a 63-yarder vs. Jacksonville, Oct. 25.

Punter Tom Rouen also turned in his most outstanding season to date, ranking second in the NFL with a 46.9-yard punting average, while Dennison's kick-return unit ranked sixth in the NFL, staking the Broncos to an average drive start of their opponents' 28-yard line.

Under his guidance in 1997 the Broncos' special teams played an integral role in leading the franchise to its first World Championship. Darrien Gordon tied for the NFL lead with three touchdowns on punt returns and ranked second in the NFL in punt return average (13.6), while Vaughn Hebron ranked sixth in the AFC (23.5) in kickoff return average, Jason Elam ranked second in the AFC (4th NFL) in scoring (124) and Tom Rouen ranked fourth in the AFC (5th NFL) in net punting average.

As a unit, Denver's kickoff and kick coverage teams ranked among the league leaders, as the Broncos recorded an average drive start of 28.6 (2nd AFC/4th NFL), while forcing their opponents to an average drive start of 24.4 (4th AFC/9th NFL). Denver also led the NFL in punt return average (13.5).

A former standout linebacker for the club, Dennison joined the coaching staff in 1995 after spending the previous three years coaching at Suffield Academy in Connecticut. He served for two years in Denver as an offensive assistant, providing quality control work and assistance of all types to the offensive coaching staff before being promoted to his current post Feb. 12, 1997.

In Dennison's two years on the offensive staff the Broncos' offense posted the most prolific two-year total offense numbers in franchise history, including a No. 1 NFL ranking in total offense for 1996, and a bevy of franchise offensive records set in both seasons.

Dennison, 41, played inside linebacker for the Broncos from 1982-90, playing in 128 games, including 52 starts and three Super Bowls. In 1989, he received the Ed Block Memorial Award for Courage. Dennison ranked second on the team in tackles in 1988 with 133 and led the team with three fumble recoveries.

Perhaps the best performance of his career came in a 1987 playoff game against Houston when he registered eight tackles and a quarterback pressure. He also had an excellent season in 1984 when he had 164 stops and a career-high three sacks in his first full season as a starter. Dennison was a free agent acquisition by the Broncos in 1982.

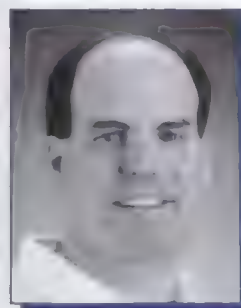

Dennison joined the Broncos in 1982 after a fine college career at Colorado State where he was a second-team Academic All-American as a senior and earned three varsity letters. In 1979, Dennison received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering from CSU, followed by a master's degree in the same field from CSU in 1982.

Dennison, born in Kalispell, Mont., on June 22, 1958, attended Rocky Mountain High School in Fort Collins where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. His father, George, is president of the University of Montana.

Rick and his sons, Joseph and Steven, reside in Englewood, Colo.

ED DONATELL • DEFENSIVE BACKS

NFL Season: 10th (5th with Broncos)

Ed Donatell is in his fifth season as defensive backs coach for the Broncos after spending the previous five seasons in the same capacity with the New York Jets.

Donatell and Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson brought to Denver in 1995 a new, more aggressive style of defense that has dramatically improved the Broncos' standing in the league total defense rankings. The defense jumped from 28th in 1994 — the year prior to their arrival — to No. 4 in just two seasons, and has continued to post strong rankings over the past two years.

In particular, Donatell's defensive backs have boosted the unit's ranking against the pass at a steady progression, improving an inherited No. 28 ranking to No. 9 in 1995, then No. 10 in 1996 and up to a high of No. 5 in 1997 as the franchise claimed its first World Championship.

Donatell's defensive backfield was challenged often in 1998, as teams routinely took to the air to combat early deficits. His group met the challenge, playing an integral role in leading Denver to its second consecutive World Championship, as the Broncos intercepted seven passes in the three postseason games. Veteran Ray Crockett turned in another outstanding season, and will be paired in 1999 with four-time Pro Bowl cornerback Dale Carter, signed through free agency in the offseason. With Tyrone Braxton returning, and a host of talented young corners and safeties to groom, Donatell has a full complement of talent, youth and depth to keep the unit performing at a high level for years to come.

Donatell has seen several of his players go on to receive postseason honors in his career, most recently safety Steve Atwater who earned his eighth Pro Bowl invitation in 1998, and Braxton, who was selected to his first in 1996. Donatell has not only worked with future Hall of Famers such as Atwater and Ronnie Lott, but has also been instrumental in the development of such NFL standouts as James Hasty and Aaron Glenn in their early years in New York.

Donatelli, 42, joined the Jets in 1990 after prior coaching stints on the collegiate level at Cal State Fullerton (1989), Idaho (1986-88), Pacific (1983-85), Washington (1981-82) and Kent State (1979-80).

A native of Akron, Ohio, Donatelli attended Glenville State in West Virginia where he was team captain a four-year letterman and was named all-conference as a defensive back. He earned his bachelor's degree in physical education and then went on to earn his master's from Kent State in administration.

Donatelli (2/4/57), his wife Shari, daughter Brenna (12) and sons Thomas (10) and Steven (5) reside in Lone Tree, Colo.

GEORGE DYER • DEFENSIVE LINE

NFL Season: 18th (5th year with Broncos)

George Dyer is in his 18th season coaching in the NFL and his fifth with the Broncos as defensive line coach. He came to Denver in 1995 following a three-year stint in Los Angeles where he was the Rams' defensive coordinator and defensive line coach (1992-94). Dyer joined the Rams staff after nine years with the Seattle Seahawks (1983-91) where he was also in charge of the defensive line, and one year with the Buffalo Bills (1982).

Dyer's defensive line unit in 1998 featured the team's individual sack leaders in Trevor Pryce (8.5) and Maa Tanuvasa (8.5), who led a defensive unit that posted the highest sack total (47) for a Denver club since 1992. The line was equally proficient against the run in 1998, allowing just 1,287 yards, the second-lowest total in franchise history, behind only the nine-game total of 935 yards allowed during the strike-shortened 1982 season.

Eight players who saw action on the defensive line in '98 return in 1999, and will be complemented by a host of young, aspiring players, including second-round draft choice Montae Reagor. Pryce blossomed in his second season under Dyer's tutelage, and shows promise for an extraordinary future in the NFL. He teams with Keith Traylor to give Denver as imposing a pair of defensive tackles as any team in the league.

Dyer's 1997 unit boasted three players with at least eight sacks — Tanuvasa and defensive ends Neil Smith and Alfred Williams, each with 8.5 — spearheading a defensive group that posted 44 for the season, the highest Denver total since 1993. Tanuvasa, a Dyer pupil on the Rams' practice squad in '93, showed considerable growth in his third season, and Smith was voted to his sixth Pro Bowl.

In his first two seasons in Denver, Dyer's defensive line helped the entire defensive unit improve its league ranking from 28th in 1994 to fourth in '96 — including a No. 1 ranking against the rush.

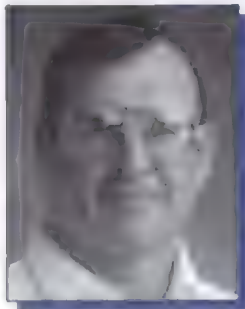

During his tenure in the NFL, Dyer has coached All-Pro linemen wherever he has been, including six-time Pro Bowler Fred Smerlas and Ben Williams in Buffalo; Jacob Green, Cortez Kennedy and Joe Nash in Seattle and Sean Gilbert in Los Angeles. While in Denver he has tutored Pro Bowl players in Alfred Williams (1996) and Neil Smith (1997). Dyer's 1994 Rams defense ranked seventh in the NFC and 12th in the league against the pass and their defensive line gave up an average of just 3.6 net yards per rush, which tied them for third in the NFC and sixth in the NFL.

In 1983, Dyer's defensive line in Seattle averaged 2.7 sacks per game, as the Seahawks advanced to the AFC Championship Game for the only time in their history. Prior to joining the Bills, Dyer served as defensive coordinator at Arizona State (1980-81) and at Michigan State (1977-79). He also coached for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League from 1974-76 and had stints with San Jose State (1973) and Idaho (1972).

Dyer, 58, started his coaching career at Humboldt State (1964-66) before becoming head coach at Coalinga Junior College in Central California, in 1967. He was the defensive coordinator at Portland State from 1968-71.

As a player, Dyer was a center and linebacker at UC Santa Barbara from 1961-63. He attended San Gabriel High School in San Gabriel, Calif.

Dyer (5/4/40), born in Alhambra, California, makes his home in Aurora, Colo., with his wife Marjorie. They have five children: sons George and Doak, and daughters Tami, Darci, and Marni.

ALEX GIBBS • ASST. HEAD COACH / OFFENSIVE LINE

NFL Season: 16th (5th year with Broncos)

Alex Gibbs is in the fifth year of his second tour of duty with the Broncos in 1999, and his 36th year overall in coaching. He returned to Denver in 1995 to assume the role of assistant head coach/offensive line coach under Mike Shanahan, and has further enhanced his reputation as an elite coach in the National Football League.

Gibbs, who coached in Denver from 1984-87, has coached for every franchise in the AFC West except Seattle, spending time with the Raiders (1988-89), Chargers (1990-91) and Chiefs (1993-94) in addition to two tenures in Denver.

His offensive line unit has played an integral role in Denver's back-to-back World Championships, paving the way for a punishing ground game and providing superior pass protection. In seven playoff games over the past two seasons, Denver has averaged 185 rushing yards per game, while allowing just 1.4 sacks per game. The Broncos ranked No. 1 in the NFL in rushing in 1996, No. 5 in '97 and No. 3 in '98, while the offense overall led the NFL in 1996 and '97, and ranked third in '98.

Overall, the Denver offense set six franchise records in 1998, and that all began up front where Gibbs' troops served as the catalyst for such tremendous output. Those records included total offense (6,092), first downs (347), points scored (501), rushing yards (2,468), rushing touchdowns (32) and total touchdowns (62). In addition, the 1998 unit allowed just 25 sacks, the lowest total in franchise history for a 16-game season. Individually, tackle Tony Jones, center Tom Nalen and guard Mark Schlereth were each named to the Pro Bowl, due in large part to the performance they turned in blocking for NFL Most Valuable Player Terrell Davis, who gained over 2,000 yards to win the rushing title. Davis now has posted four straight 1,000-yard seasons and been named to three consecutive Pro Bowls.

Gibbs' line gained broad recognition for its contribution to Denver's first title run in 1997, clearing the way for an astonishing rushing average of 187 yards-per-game in the playoffs. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay, the line bullied the opposition for 179 rushing yards — 100 of which came in the second half when the Broncos controlled the clock and the line of scrimmage en route to the historic win. In all, Denver running backs recorded a total of 15 100-yard games over the course of the 20-game regular season and postseason slate, including Davis' 157-yard, MVP effort in the Super Bowl.

The 1997 team also led the NFL in scoring (472) and touchdowns (55), setting franchise records in each category. The offensive line received a rare group award following Denver's '97 Wild Card win over Jacksonville, as the entire unit was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week, marking just the second time in NFL history such an award has been bestowed to an offensive line.

While the strength of the offensive line has been its ability to function as a unit, Gibbs' linemen have been singled out with Pro Bowl invitations in each of the four seasons since his return to Denver. In addition to the selections of Jones, Nalen and Schlereth last year, left tackle Gary Zimmerman was voted to the Pro Bowl in 1995 and '96, while Nalen made his first trip to Honolulu following the '97 season.

It has been Gibbs' ability to mold that unit into the league's best that has allowed the Broncos' offense to put up the most prolific four-year totals in franchise history over the 1995-98 seasons. He had worked the same magic in Kansas City, dropping the Chiefs' sack total from 48 in 1992 to 19 in '94. Under his guidance, tackle John Alt and guard Will Shields earned Pro Bowl and consensus all-rookie honors, respectively, in 1993, as the Chiefs advanced to the AFC Championship Game.

In the first two years after his return Denver (1995-96), Gibbs succeeded at the very task that had formed the basis for his glowing reputation in the NFL: protecting the quarterback. Gibbs' offensive line allowed just 57 sacks over the those two seasons — a dramatic reduction from the total of 55 allowed in 1994 alone, prior to Gibbs' return. The 57 sacks (26 in '95 / 31 in '96) were the sixth-fewest in the NFL over that two-year period (third in the AFC) and the lowest two-year total in franchise history.

In 1992, Gibbs was the offensive line coach for the Indianapolis Colts, whose sack total dropped by 13 in the one season he was there. Prior to that, he spent the 1990-91 seasons in San Diego, where he helped put together a line that propelled the Chargers to the second-best rushing offense in the league in 1991 with an average output of 140.5 yards per game. The Chargers were the league's third-most potent rushing offense in 1990, averaging 141.1 yards per game.

Gibbs spent the 1988-89 seasons with the Los Angeles Raiders, where he coached with current Bronco head coach, and then-Raiders head coach Mike Shanahan. While at Los Angeles, he helped to groom the talents of guard Steve Wisniewski, who has been an All-Pro selection seven times in his career.

Gibbs had first become an NFL assistant in 1984 with the Broncos, serving as the club's offensive line coach for four seasons. He was part of a staff that saw Denver earn trips to two straight Super Bowls (XXI and XXII). Under Gibbs' guidance, guard Keith Bishop earned All-Pro and Pro Bowl honors in 1986 and '87.

Gibbs coached at the collegiate level for 13 seasons before entering the pro ranks. He worked at Duke (1969-70) and Kentucky (1971-72) before moving to West Virginia (1973-74), where he worked under head coach Bobby Bowden. He then became the offensive coordinator/line coach at Ohio State (1975-78) where his line troops opened up the holes that enabled Archie Griffin to claim back-to-back Heisman Trophy awards. In 1979, Gibbs became offensive coordinator at Auburn, a position he held for three seasons. He then coached the offensive line at Georgia from 1982-83. Gibbs also spent three years at Mount Airy (N.C.) High School where he won a pair of state championships.

Gibbs, 58, is a native of Morganton, N.C., where he was a running back and defensive back at Davidson College. He studied pre-law and then earned his master's degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in European history, and later received his doctorate in education from Auburn.

Gibbs is not the only athlete in his family. His son David was a defensive back on Colorado's 1990 National Championship team, where his teammates included current Broncos Alfred Williams and Tom Rouen. Gibbs' son Mark played at UCLA, and his son Chuck played for Army. David is currently the defensive coordinator/secondary coach at Minnesota.

Alex (2/22/41) resides in Englewood, Colo. He is the father of five children: sons Steve, David, Chuck and Mark, and daughter Sandy.

MIKE HEIMERDINGER • WIDE RECEIVERS

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Mike Heimerdinger is in his fifth year coaching the Broncos' wide receivers, coming off four highly successful seasons in which his receiving corps has helped propel the Broncos' offense to its most prolific statistical showing ever, culminating in back-to-back World Championships.

Heimerdinger has not only enhanced the performance of veteran receivers like Ed McCaffrey, but has also been influential in the development of young receivers such as Rod Smith, who has flourished over the past two seasons under Heimerdinger's tutelage.

Smith in 1998 exceeded his breakout year of '97 by catching 86 passes for 1,222 yards to rank among the top four in the NFL in both categories. His yardage mark ranks third in team history, giving him the Nos. 3 and 4 marks on the list now. Not to be outdone, Heimerdinger's other starting receiver, McCaffrey, earned the first

Pro Bowl invitation of his eight-year NFL career in 1998 and was named second-team All-NFL by the Associated Press. McCaffrey caught 64 passes for 1,053 yards with a career-high 10 touchdowns (11st AFC) to give Denver two 1,000-yard pass-catchers in the season for just the third time in franchise history — and the first time with two wide receivers.

Both Smith and McCaffrey return in 1999, along with former No. 1 draft choice Marcus Nash, who looks to step up and seize a more active role in his second season. Reinforcements have also arrived via the draft, in which the Broncos chose three receivers.

McCaffrey and Smith formed a solid receiving duo in 1997, as McCaffrey set a new career high with eight touchdown receptions (5th AFC), while Smith established himself as a big-play threat with then-career highs in receptions (70), yards (1,180) and touchdowns (12), ranking among the league leaders in all three categories.

Heimerdinger came to Denver in 1995 from Duke University where he was the offensive coordinator and offensive backs coach in 1994. In his one season at Duke he directed an offense that finished 15th in the country in scoring (32.7 per game), putting up over 40 points on five occasions. The Blue Devils enjoyed one of the finest seasons in school history in 1994, finishing with an 8-3 regular season record and earning a bid to the Hall of Fame Bowl, only their second bowl appearance in 35 years.

Heimerdinger also helped to develop the skills of running back Robert Baldwin, who led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing with 1,187 yards and also had 12 touchdowns.

The 46-year old Heimerdinger has a history of running successful offensive units. While coaching at Rice from 1989-93, he ran an attack that produced 1991 Doak Walker Award winner Trevor Cobb and quarterbacks Donald Hollas and Bert Emmanuel. The Owls pulled off a rare feat during Heimerdinger's tenure, as they produced the school's first back-to-back winning seasons since 1960-61.

Prior to his stay with Rice, Heimerdinger was the offensive coordinator at Cal State Fullerton in 1988. Among the offensive records recorded by his unit that season was a new standard for points in a game (58).

Heimerdinger began his coaching career in 1975 as head coach at Johnsbrough High School in McHenry, Ill., where he remained for five years before accepting a graduate assistant position at Florida in 1980. One-year stints at Air Force (1981) and as quarterbacks coach at North Texas (1982) followed, before Heimerdinger returned to Florida (1983-87). Two years at Florida (1980, '83) came while his former college teammate Mike Shanahan was the Gators' offensive coordinator, also coinciding with Broncos strength coach Rich Tuten's tenure in Gainesville (1980-88). With Shanahan as offensive coordinator and Heimerdinger as receivers coach in 1983, the Gators ranked among the nation's top passing teams. They also enjoyed bowl success during Heimerdinger's tenure, playing in the 1983 Gator Bowl and 1987 Aloha Bowl, while also posting identical 9-1-1 records in both 1984 and 1985.

Heimerdinger earned his bachelor's degree in history from Eastern Illinois in 1975, and his master's in administration from Northern Illinois. He played wide receiver at Eastern from 1970-71, and also played for the Panther's baseball team as a centerfielder, participating in the Division II College World Series in 1974.

Heimerdinger was born in Dekalb, Ill., Oct. 13, 1952. He and his wife Kathie live in Highlands Ranch, Colo., with their daughter, Alicia, and son, Brian.

GARY KUBIAK • OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR/QUARTERBACKS

NFL Season: 6th (5th year with Broncos)

Gary Kubiak is in his fifth season as Denver's offensive coordinator in 1999, coming off four highly successful seasons in which the offensive unit has produced numbers unparalleled in the history of the organization, culminating in back-to-back World Championships.

Kubiak, who now owns three Super Bowl rings, is one of just eight NFL coaches to win a Super Bowl with two different franchises (San Francisco, 1994) and one of just five to win a title with a team from each conference.

He returned to the Broncos organization in 1995 with head coach Mike Shanahan, after the pair coached together in 1994 in San Francisco, where Shanahan was offensive coordinator, Kubiak was quarterbacks coach and fellow Broncos assistant coach Brian Pariani (tight ends) was an offensive assistant.

Kubiak's return to Denver — where he played quarterback behind All-Pro John Elway from 1983-91 — has been marked by extraordinary success. The Broncos have produced the National Football League's No. 1 offense twice during Kubiak's tenure (1996-97) — a first in franchise history — and the third-ranked unit in his other two campaigns (1995, 1998). The total offensive numbers produced in Kubiak's first four years at the controls mark the most prolific four-year totals in club annals.

The Broncos have set new single-season standards for touchdowns and points scored in each of the past three years, and have posted a new record for yards per rush in each of the past two seasons, while also scoring 30 or more points in a game 36 times (including four times in post-season) in the 72 regular and postseason games since Kubiak's hire. In the four years that Kubiak has been at the controls of the Denver offense, Denver has accumulated more rushing yards (9,002) and total yards (23,795) than any team in the NFL.

Denver has had 18 Pro Bowl selections from the offensive side of the football in Kubiak's four seasons as offensive coordinator, and is the only team in NFL history to produce a 3,000-yard passer (John Elway), a 1,500-yard rusher (Terrell Davis) and a 1,000-yard receiver (Shannon Sharpe; and Rod Smith in '97) two years in a row, doing so in 1996 and '97.

Denver set six offensive franchise records in 1998, establishing new marks for total yards (6,092), rushing yards (2,468) touchdowns (62), rushing touchdowns (32) points (501) and first downs (347), as the Broncos scored 30 or more points in 12 of their 19 games. Davis was the NFL rushing champion, gaining a franchise-record 2,008 yards to become just the fourth NFL player ever to top 2,000. Davis, named the league's Most Valuable Player, was joined by John Elway, Tony Jones, Ed McCaffrey, Tom Nalen, Mark Schlereth and Shannon Sharpe to give Denver an unprecedented seven offensive players voted into the Pro Bowl, and Elway closed his Hall of Fame career as Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXIII.

Davis won the AFC rushing title (2nd NFL) with 1,750 yards in 1997, and went on to win Super Bowl Most Valuable Player honors en route to an all-time NFL record for rushing attempts and yards in a combined regular and postseason. Elway, Davis, Sharpe and center Tom Nalen earned Pro Bowl berths in '97, while the offense set club records for points (472; 1st in NFL), touchdowns (55; 1st in NFL) and yards per rush (4.6), and led the league in total offense for the second straight year. The rushing total of 2,378 yards was the highest since the team record of 2,451 was set in 1978.

The Broncos led the NFL in total offense for the first time in 1996 after figuring third (1st AFC) in '95 with a franchise-record 377.5 yards-per-game average. The '96 club set a new team record for total points (391) and tied the record for highest average gain per rush (4.5) which was set a year prior, in Kubiak's first season. Davis led the AFC in rushing (2nd NFL), broke five team records, was named AFC Offensive Player of the Year and was selected to his first Pro Bowl.

Davis and Elway joined tight end Shannon Sharpe and tackle Gary Zimmerman to give Denver four offensive players in the Pro Bowl. The 1996 Broncos offense, under Kubiak's direction, became just the fifth in NFL history — and first in Broncos history — to produce a 3,000-yard passer (Elway — 3,328), 1,500-yard rusher (Davis — 1,538) and 1,000-yard receiver (Sharpe — 1,062) in the same season.

Kubiak wasted no time making an impact in his first season as offensive coordinator, as the 1995 Broncos broke team records for points scored (388), total yards (6,040), passing yards (4,260), first downs passing (205) and highest average gain per play (5.7; tops in the AFC). Individually, wide receiver Anthony Miller topped the 1,000-yard mark (1,079) and set a franchise record for touchdown receptions (14), while Davis topped the 1,000-yard rushing mark (1,117) and finished second in the NFL Rookie of the Year balloting. Overall, three members of the Broncos' offensive unit — Miller, Sharpe and Zimmerman — were chosen to play in the Pro Bowl.

During the 1994 season, Kubiak coached the league's most dominating quarterback, Steve Young, in San Francisco. Young not only led the 49ers to a victory in Super Bowl XXIX, but he also earned Super Bowl MVP honors, as well as the NFL's Most Valuable Player award, besides setting numerous passing records during the campaign. He also became the NFL's all-time passer-rating leader and the first quarterback to lead the league in passing four years in a row.

Prior to his year in San Francisco, Kubiak coached the running backs at his alma mater, Texas A&M, from 1992-93. During his two seasons the Aggies posted a record of 22-3 and played in back-to-back Cotton Bowls. His star pupil at A&M was Greg Hill, a first-round pick by Kansas City in 1994. Hill was second-team All-America as a junior (The Sporting News) and first-team All-Southwest Conference, as well as an All-SWC pick as a senior by the Dallas Morning News, despite missing four games. He rushed for 2,046 yards and 21 touchdowns in Kubiak's two years at College Station. Also in Kubiak's backfield were current Broncos Detron Smith and Leeland McElroy.

Before embarking on his coaching career, Kubiak played nine seasons (1983-91) as a quarterback for the Broncos. During that time he was a member of three Super Bowl teams and appeared in 11 of the 14 playoff games played by the Broncos during his tenure. He played in 119 games for Denver (second all-time among quarterbacks behind John Elway), with five starts over that period (4-1 record). Kubiak completed 173 passes in 298 attempts for 2,020 yards, with 16 interceptions and 14 touchdowns. He also rushed for 238 yards and two touchdowns, and his completion percentage of .581 is the second-best mark in team history. Kubiak also holds the Broncos' single-season record for interception avoidance with a mark of .013 (one interception in 75 attempts), set in 1984.

Kubiak's finest moment as a Bronco was probably his final performance in a Denver uniform, when he relieved an injured John Elway in the 1992 AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/12/92) and completed 11-of-12 passes for 102 yards and added 22 yards rushing, though the Broncos fell to the Bills 10-7. He entered the game in the fourth quarter and drove the Broncos into Buffalo territory three times, including an 85-yard touchdown drive that cut Denver's deficit to three points. Kubiak was an eighth-round draft pick of the Broncos in 1983.

As a player at Texas A&M, Kubiak made the Player's All-SWC team in 1982 and earned appearances in the Blue-Gray and Hula Bowl all-star games. In 1982 he led the SWC in attempts (324), completions (181), percentage (55.9), yardage (1,948), touchdowns (19) and total offense (1,885). As a junior he set conference records for touchdown passes in a game (six against Rice) and percentage in a game (19-21 for 90.5% against Arkansas), and ranked second in the SWC in passing (1,908) and total offense (1,986). He has a degree from A&M in physical education.

While at St. Pius High School in his native Houston, Gary made all-state, all-district, and All-America and set the state passing record with 6,190 yards. He lettered four years in football, basketball and baseball, and made all-state in all three sports in both his junior and senior years. He was also all-state twice in track.

Kubiak was recognized for his outstanding accomplishments with induction into the prestigious Texas High School Sports Hall of Fame in March 1999.

Gary (8/15/61) and his wife, Rhonda, reside in Greenwood Village, Colo., with their three sons, Klint, Klay and Klein.

PAT MCPHERSON • OFFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 2nd (2nd with Broncos)

Pat McPherson, in his second year on the Broncos' coaching staff, moves into his new role as an offensive assistant, after breaking in last year as a defensive assistant. In his new role he will handle a variety of quality control duties on the offensive side of the ball.

Working with the defensive staff in 1998, McPherson played a role in tutoring a defense that ranked third in the NFL against the run, and 11th in the overall defensive rankings.

McPherson was hired by the club April 7, 1998 following a four-year coaching stint at his high school alma mater, Bellarmine College Prep in San Jose, Calif. In addition to coordinating the defense and coaching the inside linebackers, McPherson's duties also included teaching English, algebra and physical fitness. During his tenure at Bellarmine, the football team compiled a record of 35-11, won three consecutive league titles and made one section championship appearance as well as two semifinal appearances. He also gained valuable coaching experience volunteering with the San Francisco 49ers in 1996, in a defensive quality control capacity.

McPherson holds a bachelor's degree in English and an M.B.A. from Santa Clara, where he captained the football team and was voted Most Inspirational Player as an inside linebacker during his senior season of 1992. He began his collegiate career at UCLA in 1987, where he received the Charles Pike Award in recognition of the school's outstanding freshman football player. McPherson signed with the 49ers as a rookie free agent in 1993 and participated in three preseason games, including one versus the Broncos at Mile High Stadium.

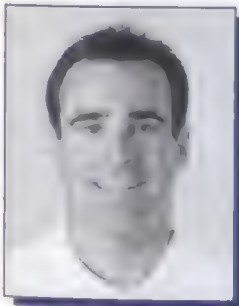

A native of San Jose, Calif., McPherson was an all-state and All-America inside linebacker at Bellarmine College Prep, where he earned Scholar-Athlete of the Year honors as a senior. He was voted captain of the North team in California's North-South Shrine Game played at the Rose Bowl.

McPherson, 30, worked with the National Multiple Sclerosis Society in Santa Clara, Calif., in 1994, organizing and implementing the chapter's largest fund-raising event, the 1994 MS Walk. His father, Bill McPherson, has 21 years of NFL coaching experience, and is currently with the 49ers.

Pat was born April 15, 1969 in Santa Clara, Calif. He is single and resides in Littleton, Colo.

BRIAN PARIANI • TIGHT ENDS

NFL Season: 10th (5th year with Broncos)

Brian Pariani is in his fifth year coaching the Broncos' tight ends, a group that has played an integral role in the club's offensive success in recent seasons, culminating in back-to-back World Championships. Pariani came to the Broncos in 1995 after spending the previous five seasons (1990-94) with the San Francisco 49ers, coaching alongside Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak.

With Denver's win in Super Bowl XXXII, Pariani joined a list of just eight NFL coaches who have won World Championships with two different organizations, and one of just five to win a title with a team from each conference. The Broncos' triumph in Super Bowl XXXIII now makes Pariani a three-time Super Bowl winner.

Upon his arrival in 1995 Pariani inherited the league's top tight end in Shannon Sharpe, who has since gone on to earn four more consecutive Pro Bowl appearances, bringing his career total to seven. Even more impressive, however, has been the development of Sharpe's backups, Dwayne Carswell and Byron Chamberlain, under Pariani's tutelage. The pair has played a vital role in the Denver offense, and along with Sharpe, formed a three-man unit that has remained intact throughout Pariani's four years in Denver.

Last year Sharpe led all NFL tight ends in receiving yards (768), while ranking third among his peers in receptions (64) and tying for the AFC lead in receiving touchdowns (10). He was a unanimous All NFL selection for the seventh straight year, and became the first tight end in league history to post seven straight 50-catch seasons. The Broncos' depth at tight end was never more evident than in their Super Bowl XXXIII win over Atlanta, when Sharpe left the game in the first quarter with a knee injury. Carswell and Chamberlain performed admirably with Chamberlain catching three passes for 29 yards and recovering two Atlanta on-side kicks.

In 1997 Sharpe led the club in receptions (72) for the sixth straight year, and led all NFL tight ends in receptions and receiving yards (1,107) for the second straight year. Sharpe's 1,107 yards represented a career high, and marked his third 1,000-yard season, tying him with Todd Christensen and Kellen Winslow for most 1,000-yard seasons by a tight end in NFL history.

In 1996 Sharpe set career highs for receiving yardage (1,062) and touchdowns (10), while posting his second-most receptions (80) to lead all NFL tight ends in each category, en route to All-NFL honors.

Overall, Pariani's tight ends have caught more passes (343) for more yards (4,279) over the last four seasons than any other group of tight ends in the NFL. That productivity has helped propel the Broncos' offense to the most prolific four-year totals in franchise history, highlighted by a No. 1 NFL total offense ranking in 1996 and '97. The 1998 team set franchise records for touchdowns (82), points (501), total offense (6,092) and first downs (347).

Pariani started his NFL coaching career in 1990 as a scouting assistant with the 49ers. He then became the team's offensive coaches' assistant for the next four seasons, working directly with the offensive coaches and quarterbacks, assisting with daily practices and game plans. The 49ers' offense led the league in total yards in 1992 and '93, and scored a team-record 505 points and 62 touchdowns in '94 en route to a Super Bowl title.

After earning his political science degree from UCLA in 1989, Pariani served as a graduate assistant with the Bruins, helping head coach Terry Donahue's offense during the 1989 season.

Pariani attended Marin (Calif.) Catholic High School where he played football, baseball and basketball. He is a native of San Francisco, Calif. (7/2/65). He, his wife, Stephanie, and daughter, Jessica, reside in Castle Pines, Colo.

RICKY PORTER • ASST. STRENGTH & COND.

NFL Season: 4th (3rd year with Broncos)

Ricky Porter is in his third year on the Denver Broncos' coaching staff, expanding his role in 1999 to include responsibilities with the strength and conditioning program, as well as quality control duties with the offensive coaching staff. Porter began with the Broncos in 1997 as an offensive assistant, after spending the 1996 season in the same capacity with Tampa Bay.

Porter has spent the past two seasons working with an offensive unit that has ranked among the best in the NFL, and produced numerous franchise records, en route to back-to-back World Championships. The 1997 team led the NFL in total yardage (5,872) for the second year in a row, while the '98 club topped that mark (6,092), along with four other franchise records. Offensive highlights also came from NFL Most Valuable Player Terrell Davis, who became just the fourth player in league history to rush for over 2,000 yards in a single season, en route to the NFL rushing title.

Prior to his stint with the Buccaneers, Porter worked as a scout for National Football Scouting in 1995, where his primary responsibility was assessing talent in the Ohio Valley region.

Porter has had previous NFL coaching experience with Buffalo (1991), New Orleans (1993) and Detroit (1994) through the league's Minority Coaching Fellowship Program. His first full-time experience came at his alma mater, Slippery Rock State, where he coached the running backs and special teams in 1990-91 before moving on to handle the same responsibilities at Kent State from 1992-93.

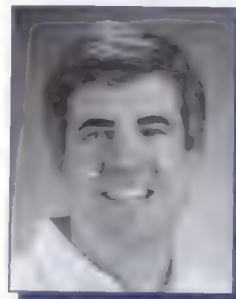

The 39-year-old Porter played five years in the NFL with Detroit (1982), Baltimore (1983) and Buffalo (1987-89). He also played for the USFL's Memphis Showboats in 1985 and the CFL's Montreal Alouettes from 1986 until the club folded during the 1987 season. The Alouettes' director of football operations at that time was Marv Levy who was later responsible for bringing Porter to Buffalo.

A member of the Slippery Rock Sports Hall of Fame, Porter was the first player ever drafted from the Division II school, chosen by Detroit in 1982 after rushing for 3,124 yards over his four-year career. A three-time all-conference, two-time All-America and two-time team MVP, Porter led the nation in rushing as a senior in 1981, and also starred for the Rockets' baseball and track teams. In 1990 he put his baseball skills to use as a member of the Baltimore Orioles' AAA Rochester Red Wings. Porter holds a bachelor's degree in communications from Slippery Rock and a master's degree in athletic administration from Kent State.

A native of Sylacauga, Ala. (1/14/60), Porter grew up in Baltimore, Md., where he was a three-sport star at Milford Mills High School. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and while at Slippery Rock in 1982 was named ESPN's Amateur Athlete of the Week. Ricky and his wife, Carla, reside in Highlands Ranch, Colo., with their sons, Armani Vaniko (11/3/95) and Otavio Vantaj (6/3/98).

GREG ROBINSON • DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

NFL Season: 10th (5th year with Broncos)

Greg Robinson is in his fifth season as the Broncos' defensive coordinator in 1999, a position in which he has guided steady and dramatic improvement, and crafted the Denver defense into one of the best in the NFL. Over the past two seasons, the Broncos' defense has been a dominant force in the postseason, and played a crucial role in the club winning back-to-back World Championships.

Robinson had spent the previous five seasons with the New York Jets, serving as defensive coordinator in 1994 after four years coaching the team's defensive line. While there he worked with Broncos defensive backs coach Ed Donatell (1990-94) and Director of Pro Scouting Jack Elway (1990).

The performance of Robinson's defense throughout the 1998 playoffs was paramount to Denver's quest for a second straight title.

Denver allowed its opponents just 53 rushing yards per game in the postseason, and forced an unbelievable 13 turnovers in just three games, giving Denver a +12 turnover ratio. Add that to an impressive +10 ratio for the regular season, and Denver boasted a +22 ratio for all of 1998. In each of the Broncos' first two postseason games, the defense allowed a franchise-low 14 rushing yards, and in the entire postseason allowed just 25 points and two touchdowns.

The Broncos ranked third in the NFL in rushing defense last season, allowing just 80.4 yards per game, the lowest in franchise history. The top two full-season rushing defense figures in franchise history have now come during Robinson's tenure (1st-1998, 2nd-1996). Over the final 11 games of the season (including postseason), Denver allowed just 56.6 rushing yards per game, and for the season, allowed just two individuals to rush for more than 100 yards. Additionally, the Broncos allowed fewer than 20 points in 11 of their 19 regular or postseason games in 1998.

The Broncos' defense was equally impressive in 1997 when Denver won its first World Championship. Robinson carried out a brilliant game-plan in Super Bowl XXXII to control the explosive Green Bay offense, resulting in a 31-24 win. Robinson's defensive unit rose to the occasion when most challenged, limiting the Packers to an 0-of-7 showing on third-down attempts in the second half, and 0-of-1 on fourth down. Out of six occasions during the entire playoffs in which opponents began a drive in Denver territory, just two netted points, and both were field goals. During the regular season, opponents were shut out once and held to three points on three other occasions.

Under Robinson's direction, nine Pro Bowl selections have been bestowed upon Broncos defensive players in the past four years, including linebacker Bill Romanowski and safety Steve Atwater in 1998. In addition to those nine, linebacker John Mobley was recognized with Associated Press All-NFL honors in '97, in just his second NFL season.

The 1996 defensive unit featured five players who would earn Pro Bowl honors — safeties Atwater and Tyrone Braxton, defensive tackle Michael Dean Perry, Romanowski and defensive end Alfred Williams.

In his first two years as defensive coordinator, Robinson guided an improvement in overall league rank from 28th the year prior to his arrival ('94) to fourth in '96, and has kept his unit among the league's best in the two years since.

The 1996 ranking was buoyed by a No. 1 standing against the rush for only the second time in franchise history, paving the way for the lowest yardage total allowed (4,470) by a Broncos team since 1978. The defense set franchise records for fewest rushing yards allowed in a 16-game/non-strike season and fewest rushing first downs in a 16-game season, while allowing just two opponent backs to rush for 100 yards.

Robinson set out to upgrade the defense immediately upon his arrival in 1995, improving the Broncos' total defense ranking 13 places to 15th. His defense posted one shutout during the season (27-0 over Oakland on Monday Night Football, Oct. 16) and held opponents under 10 points on three other occasions. Atwater represented the Broncos' defense in Honolulu with his sixth straight invitation to the Pro Bowl.

During his last four years with New York, Robinson's defense forced 151 turnovers, most in the AFC and second-most in the NFL during that span (Philadelphia was first with 155). They also improved from 27th in the league in total defense in 1989 (374.6 yards per game) to eighth in 1993 (294.5 yards per game). As the defensive coordinator in 1994, his defense tied with Kansas City for second in the AFC and the NFL in takeaways (38), two behind New England. They finished the season with 29 sacks and gave up just 20 points per game, 6th best in the AFC.

The Jets' defensive line also saw dramatic improvement under Robinson's tutelage. They were fifth in the NFL in rush defense in 1993 (92.1 yards per game — down from 133.5 in 1989) and improved to 17th in the NFL in pass defense (202.4 yards per game), while 18 of the defense's 32 sacks were produced by the line. The defense also ranked No. 1 in the AFC against the run in 1991 (90.1 yards per game — a 36-yard improvement over 1990) and recorded 35 sacks.

Robinson has also been instrumental in the development of many young players, including defensive linemen Jeff Lageman, former Bronco Marvin Washington and linebacker Mo Lewis while with the Jets. Lageman and Washington combined for 54.5 sacks from 1990-94, with Lageman leading the team with 6.5 in 1994, 8.5 in '93 and '91, and Washington leading the way with 8.5 in 1992. Lewis led the team in tackles in 1994 with 155, had four interceptions, six sacks and five forced fumbles.

Prior to his stay in New York, Robinson coached for eight years at UCLA (1982-89) under head coach Terry Donahue, primarily as a defensive assistant but also as an offensive coordinator in 1989. He had been promoted to assistant head coach for the 1990 season, but opted to join the Jets instead.

While at UCLA, Robinson coached the defensive line for the Bruins from 1982-88. Many of his former pupils have moved on to the NFL, including current Bronco Mike Lodish, former Washington Redskin Jim Wahler and new Broncos defensive assistant coach Terry Tumeay, a three-time All-Pac-10 performer. His run defense ranked in the Top 10 in the nation in 1987 and '88, allowing just 95 yards per game over two seasons. In 1985, the Bruins led the nation in defense against the run at 70.3 yards per game. Their defense also averaged over 40 sacks a year from 1985-88.

During his one season on the offensive side of the ball, Robinson helped groom the talents of several future NFL players, including former Broncos quarterback Tommy Maddox, former Dolphins wide receiver Scott Miller and former Chiefs wide receiver Sean LaChapelle. The Bruins' 1989 offense also produced two All-Americans in center Frank Cornish (Charger, Cowboys, Jaguars, Eagles) and tight end Charles Arbuckle (Saints, Chargers, Colts).

Robinson coached at North Carolina State from 1980-81 where he helped recruit former Wolfpack linebacker and current Broncos linebackers coach Frank Bush. He coached at Cal State Fullerton from 1977-79 and at the University of the Pacific from 1975-76, where he worked with the wide receivers as a graduate assistant, and later the defensive line.

A native of Los Angeles, Robinson began his collegiate playing career as a linebacker at Bakersfield Community College from 1970-71, playing on a team that was ranked No. 1 in the nation. He then went on to play linebacker, center and tight end at the University of the Pacific from 1972-74. He earned his bachelor's degree in political science from Pacific in 1975. Robinson is a graduate of Garces High School in Bakersfield, Calif.

Robinson, 47 (10/9/51), lives in Aurora with his wife Laura and his son Dominic, and daughters Lindsay and Leslie Ann.

GREG SAPORTA • ASST. STRENGTH & COND.

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Greg Saporta is in his fifth season as an assistant in the strength and conditioning department for the Broncos. He assists Head Strength Coach Rich Tuten in coordinating the year-round strength and conditioning program for the Broncos' players.

Saporta came to the Broncos in 1995 from the University of Florida where he spent two separate stints as an assistant strength coach under Tuten. He originally began as a student assistant at Florida in 1981, and became assistant strength coach in 1985. Saporta held that position until 1988, when he went to the University of North Carolina to assume the same position from 1988-92, once again working with Tuten, who had been named Strength Director. Saporta then returned to Florida in 1992 to resume his position as assistant strength coach, which he held until April 1995 when he joined the Broncos' staff. He also coached with Broncos head coach

During his time at both Florida and North Carolina, Saporta worked with many athletes who went on to enjoy success in the NFL, including former Broncos players Ray Jacobs and Rondell Jones (North Carolina), as well as 1996 Broncos draftee Mark Campbell (Florida).

Saporta, 42, received his bachelor's degree in physical education with a concentration in exercise physiology from Florida in 1985. He previously had attended Buffalo State University in New York, where he lettered for two years in football and rugby, as well as participating in track. Greg has also worked in the past with Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

Saporta, born Feb. 18, 1957, is originally from Manhattan, N.Y. He resides in Denver, Colo.

RICK SMITH • DEFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 4th (all with Broncos)

Rick Smith is in his fourth year on the Broncos' coaching staff, assisting the Broncos' defensive coaches in all aspects of game preparation and practice regimen.

During Smith's first three years the Broncos' defense has consistently ranked among the NFL's best, with rankings of No. 4 in 1996 and No. 5 in 1997, and has played an integral role in Denver securing back-to-back World Championships.

The Broncos' defensive secondary accounted for six of the club's astonishing total of seven interceptions in the three postseason games last year.

Denver's pass defense in 1997 posted a No. 5 ranking in the NFL, and limited four of the 16 regular season opponents to 3 points or fewer, including one shutout.

In his first year, Smith helped coach a defensive unit that improved from No. 15 to No. 4 in the NFL — including a No. 1 ranking against the run for just the second time in franchise history. The defense set or tied three different franchise records in 1996.

Smith, 30, was hired April 3, 1996, following a two-year stint as defensive backs coach at his alma mater Purdue. He had left Purdue in February to accept a coaching position at Texas Christian, but spent just one month there before being hired by the Broncos.

A 1992 Purdue graduate, Smith began his coaching career with the Boilermakers shortly after his graduation, serving as the school's assistant strength and conditioning coordinator. In that role, Smith worked exclusively with football, volleyball and wrestling before being promoted to the role of interim strength and conditioning coordinator during the summer of 1993. While coaching at Purdue, Smith began graduate studies in educational administration, and received his master's degree in the summer of 1995.

Smith was a starter at strong safety and defensive captain for Purdue as a senior in 1991.

A native of Petersburg, Va. (9/3/69), Smith attended Meadowdale High School in Dayton, Ohio. Smith, a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, is single and makes his home in Parker, Colo.

JOHN TEERLINCK • PASS RUSH SPECIALIST

NFL Season: 11th (3rd with Broncos)

John Teerlinck is in his third year as pass-rush specialist on the Broncos' staff, hired in February 1997 to that newly-created position. Teerlinck has established himself as one of the NFL's best in that area in his 10 seasons in the league, and is largely responsible for the development of several of the league's most dominant pass rushers.

The increased emphasis on the pass rush, and the resulting pressure on opposing quarterbacks, has been the starting point for a defensive effort that has helped lead Denver to back-to-back World Championships. For the second consecutive year, defensive linemen tied for the team lead in sacks in 1998, as Trevor Pryce and Maa Tanuvasa each posted 8.5. The team total of 47 was the highest by a Denver club since 1992, and the second-highest in the AFC. The line also played an integral role in Denver posting a No. 3 ranking against the rush last year, and allowing just two opposing running backs to top the 100-yard mark.

With all four starters returning in 1998, in addition to a strong mix of veterans and promising young players vying for time in the defensive line rotation, the unit appears poised to put even greater pressure on opposing quarterbacks.

The performance of the defensive line in 1997 was crucial to the Broncos' successful navigation through a four-game postseason slate, which included 11 sacks, and culminated with the first World Championship in franchise history.

The line boasted three players with at least eight sacks — defensive ends Neil Smith and Alfred Williams, and Tanuvasa each with 8.5 — spearheading a defensive group that posted 44 for the season, the highest Denver total since 1993. Especially promising was the development of Tanuvasa, who had entered the year with five career sacks over his first two seasons.

Teerlinck came to Denver from Detroit where he had spent two seasons as the Lions' Assistant Head Coach/Defense. While there he dramatically improved the club's sack totals, posting an average of 37 per season, up from a total of 28 the year prior to his arrival. His 1995 squad registered 42 sacks for an NFC-high 317 yards lost. Individually, Henry Thomas posted a career-high 10.5 sacks under Teerlinck's guidance in 1995 — the most by a Lion since 1988 — and in '96 Robert Porcher notched a career-high 10 to lead the team.

Prior to his two-year stint in Detroit, Teerlinck spent three years as the defensive line coach for the Minnesota Vikings. Under his tutelage, the Vikings' defensive line was known for its dominating play and relentless pursuit of opposing quarterbacks. Three of the four linemen he coached in Minnesota were named All-Pro. The Vikings led the league in rushing defense each of his last two seasons (the Vikings limited their opponents to 68.1 yards per game in 1994, the fourth-fewest in NFL history) as Minnesota led the league in total defense in 1993 and finished fifth in 1994.

In 1993, the Vikings led the NFC in defense against the run and finished third in the league in sacks-per-pass-play. Also in 1993, the Vikings' front four totaled 41 sacks, the most by any defensive line in the league and more than 16 other entire teams in the league. The Vikings' 51 sacks in 1992 were the second-most in team history and Chris Doleman was named the NFC's Defensive Player of the Year. Teerlinck has the distinction of tutoring two conference defensive players of the year, former Bronco Michael Dean Perry in 1989 while the two were with the Cleveland Browns, and John Randle in Minnesota, whom Teerlinck groomed from an undrafted rookie to a consensus All-Pro in 1993-94.

Teerlinck spent one season with the Los Angeles Rams (1991) before joining the Vikings staff, and prior to that spent two seasons with Cleveland (1989-90) where the Browns set a franchise record in 1989 with 45 sacks. He began his pro coaching career in 1983 under the late George Allen with the USFL's Chicago Blitz, who would later become the Arizona Wranglers. The team led the USFL in defense and sacks in each of his three seasons. Teerlinck's players also held nine of the 12 All-USFL defensive line spots available during the league's three-year existence.

Teerlinck spent three years (1980-82) at the University of Illinois under Mike White before moving into the pro ranks. During Teerlinck's tenure, the Fighting Illini had back-to-back winning seasons (1981-82) and played in their first bowl game since the early 1960s. Teerlinck spent two years (1978-79) as the defensive coordinator at Eastern Illinois, along with Broncos Head Coach Mike Shanahan, prior to joining the Fighting Illini staff. In 1978, the Panthers won the NCAA Division II national title with Teerlinck and Shanahan on the coaching staff. His first coaching job was at Iowa Lakes Junior College in 1977 after being released from the San Diego Chargers' roster in late August.

A fifth-round draft choice by San Diego in 1974, Teerlinck started two games at defensive end his rookie season. He started five of the first six games at defensive tackle in 1975 before suffering a knee injury, which ended his career two years later.

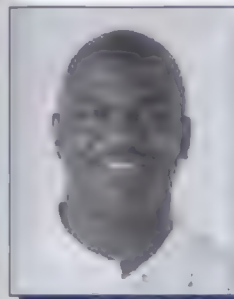

Teerlinck earned Little All-America honors and was co-captain as a senior at Western Illinois. He was the team's defensive MVP after posting 122 tackles and 14 sacks in 1973. He still holds a share of the school's single-game record with four sacks in a 1973 contest.

A 48-year old native of Rochester, N.Y. (4/9/51), Teerlinck was named All-Chicago Catholic League at Fenwick High School. He holds a bachelor's degree in physical education from Western Illinois and earned a master's degree in education from Eastern Illinois. In 1986 he opened a highly successful brokerage business in Phoenix, Ariz.

John and his wife, Sue, have five children: Ann, Bill, Mark, Molly and Mary.

TERRY TUMEY • DEFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 1st (1st with Broncos)

Terry Tumey is in his first season with the Broncos, working with the defensive coaching staff in the role of defensive assistant. He has previous experience with the Broncos, assisting the coaching staff during the 1998 training camp as a Coaching Fellow.

Tumey joins the staff after four seasons as the defensive line coach at his alma mater, UCLA, where he also handled the PAT and field-goal block units. Tumey molded the Bruins' defensive line into a formidable unit that ranked among the best in the nation at stopping the run.

Prior to joining the UCLA coaching staff on a full-time basis in 1995, Tumey served as a graduate assistant for the Bruins in 1992.

A three-time All-Pac-10 first-team choice as a nose guard at UCLA (1985-87), Tumey still ranks second on the Bruins' all-time list with 39 tackles for loss and third on the quarterback sack list with 25.

He is one of just six UCLA players in the last 32 years to earn first-team all-conference honors three times, and was a driving force behind a club that compiled a 27-7-2 record over his final three years. Overall, Tumey played on four winning bowl teams at UCLA, during which time the team went 36-10-2 and was ranked in the final top 10 nationally three times.

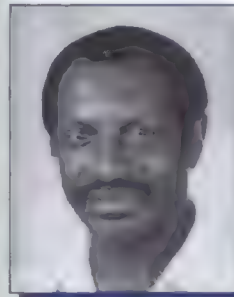

Tumey earned his bachelor's degree in political science from UCLA in 1988, and a master's in business administration in 1993. He was a teammate of Broncos defensive tackle Mike Lodish.

A native of Tulsa, Okla., Tumey starred at Booker T. Washington High School where he earned all-state honors in football and track and field (shot put), and lettered in wrestling. He was also a member of the National Honor Society.

Terry and his wife, Candace, have a two-year-old daughter, Cameron, and the family makes its home in Parker, Colo.

BOBBY TURNER • RUNNING BACKS

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Bobby Turner is in his fifth season as the Broncos' running backs coach, a position he took over in 1995 and has since raised to a level unmatched in franchise history. The productivity of Denver's running game and the play of Turner's star pupil Terrell Davis has been at the core of the Broncos' drive to back-to-back World Championships.

Since Turner's hire, the Broncos have produced more rushing yards (9,002) and total yards (23,795) than any team in the NFL, largely due to the emergence of Davis as the premier running back in the league, and perhaps the game's most outstanding player overall.

Denver set six franchise records on offense in 1998, including rushing yards (2,468), rushing touchdowns (32) and fewest fumbles lost in a season. The Broncos have ranked in the league's top 5 in rushing every season under Turner, including a No. 1 ranking in 1996 and a No. 2 standing in '98.

Turner has achieved great success in his first four years in Denver grooming Davis, who has rushed for over 1,000-yards in all four of his NFL seasons — including a club-record 2,008 in 1998 that ranked as the third-best season in league history and propelled Davis to NFL Most Valuable Player honors. In so doing, Davis became just the second Bronco ever to win the league rushing title (Otis Armstrong, 1974), and also became the Broncos' all-time leading rusher with 6,413 yards in just four seasons. He capped his brilliant year with 102 yards in Super Bowl XXXIII as Denver captured its second straight World Championship.

Fullback Howard Griffith has also been outstanding, giving Turner arguably the finest backfield duo in the entire league. In addition to his stellar blocking for Davis, Griffith scored three touchdowns in the 1998 postseason, including two rushing scores in the Super Bowl win over Atlanta, and a receiving touchdown in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets. The latter ignited a 20-point Denver scoring barrage in the third quarter to erase a 10-0 deficit.

Davis closed the 1997 campaign as Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXII, as the proficiency of the running game was instrumental in Denver securing the first World Championship in the 38-year history of the franchise. The Broncos' 2,378 rushing yards for the season were, at the time, the second-most by a Broncos team, trailing only the 1978 total of 2,451.

The Broncos rushed for 179 yards in the Super Bowl win, including 100 in the second half when Denver began to take control of the game. The team averaged an astonishing 187 yards per game on the ground during the playoffs, and Davis came up just 20 yards shy of setting an all-time NFL record for rushing yards in single postseason (581).

Among the club records set by the Broncos in 1997 was a new standard for average yards per rush (4.6), topping the previous record of 4.5 set in Turner's first year, 1995, and matched a year later. The Broncos boasted an individual 100-yard rushing performer in 15 of the 20 regular and postseason games in 1997, including two (Davis and Derek Loville) in the Broncos' Wild Card win over Jacksonville, just the third time in NFL postseason history that feat has been accomplished. In that contest Denver rushed for 310 yards, the fifth-highest postseason figure in NFL history.

The Broncos led the league in rushing in 1996 for the first time in franchise history, and Davis set five club rushing records under Turner's guidance, blossoming into one of the league's finest running backs. The '96 Broncos' league-leading total of 2,362 rushing yards was the second-highest single-season mark in franchise history at that time.

Turner wasted no time in 1995 making his mark in Denver, leading the running game to its highest yardage total since 1991 with 1,995 yards on the ground. Davis, then a rookie, topped the 1,000-yard plateau (1,117) and went on to finish second in the Associated Press Rookie of the Year balloting. Overall, the Denver offense posted the most prolific numbers in franchise history in 1995, thanks in part to a balanced rushing and passing game.

Prior to his arrival in Denver, Turner was assistant head coach, offensive coordinator and running backs coach at Purdue. During his tenure the Boilermakers' running game and entire offense improved each season, going from 106th in the nation in 1990 to 12th in '94, a season in which it set numerous school records and ranked nationally in many categories, including rushing touchdowns (36) and average per carry (5.01). The offense produced 336 points, the highest Purdue total since 1969. Turner's backfield also produced the school's first 1,000-yard rusher in 18 years in All-Big 10 second-teamer, and current Tampa Bay Buccaneer, Mike Alstott (1,188 yards and 14 TDs).

Seven different Boilermakers rushed for more than 100 yards in a game in 1992, and in 1991 Turner coached the Big Ten Freshman of the Year in running back Corey Rodgers, as well as former Cincinnati Bengal Jeff Hill.

Turner served in the same capacity at Ohio State from 1989-90, during which time the Buckeyes went to two bowl games and had one of the best running games in the Big Ten. His 1990 backfield of former Bronco Butler By'not'e, Minnesota's Robert Smith, former Bengals Scottie Graham and Jeff Cothran, and former Bear Raymont Harris was rated No. 1 in the nation by The Sporting News, producing a 1,000-yard rusher in Smith. He finished the season with 1,126 yards and eight touchdowns, and was named Big Ten and National Freshman of the Year.

In 1989 the Buckeyes ranked No. 1 in Big Ten rushing at 241 yards per game, as well as No. 1 in total offense and scoring, coming within 16 yards of having two 1,000 yard rushers (Carlos Snow, 1,031 yards, Graham, 984). On the day of his first game at OSU, Turner's daughter Kiaana was born at the university hospital just 500 yards away from Ohio Stadium.

Prior to his stint at Ohio State Turner coached the running backs at Fresno State (1983-88) and at his alma mater, Indiana State (1975-82). At Fresno he coached future pros Lavale Thomas (Packers), Anthony Mosely (Bears, Raiders) and Aaron Craver (Dolphins, Broncos, Chargers, Saints). He accepted a position as running backs coach at ISU in 1975 and spent three of his eight seasons there (1976, '77, '82) as the defensive backs coach in addition to five years as special teams coordinator (1978-82). At ISU, Turner recruited and coached two All-Americans: Wayne Davis (Chargers, Redskins) and Vencie Glenn (Chargers, Vikings, Giants).

Turner also had an opportunity to be an assistant coach on ISU's 1979 Larry Bird-led Final Four basketball team but turned down the offer to concentrate on coaching football. He began his coaching career at Haworth High School in Kokomo, Ind., as an assistant with the football and basketball teams.

A native of East Chicago, Ind. (5/6/49), Turner enjoyed a fine career as an all-conference defensive back at Indiana State, where he played both football and basketball. He set the school record as a sophomore with nine of his 16 career interceptions, including two returned for touchdowns. He earned his bachelor's degree in health and physical education in 1972 and his master's from ISU in education/administration in 1976.

Turner, 50, attended East Chicago Washington High School where he was one of only two athletes in the school's history to play four sports (football, basketball, baseball, and track). He was inducted in 1993 into the Indiana High School Basketball Hall of Fame, and was honored again this past spring with induction into the East Chicago, Ind., Sports Hall of Fame.

Bobby and his wife, Kimberly, have three daughters, Nacole, Krishana and Kiaana, and make their home in Aurora, Colo.

RICH TUTEN • STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Rich Tuten is in his fifth season as the Broncos' strength and conditioning coach. He coordinates the organization's year-round strength and conditioning program with assistance from Greg Saporta and Barney Chavous.

Under Tuten's guidance during the Mike Shanahan regime, the Broncos' offseason strength and conditioning program has become a model among NFL franchises. It has been overwhelmingly successful, not only in terms of attendance by Broncos players, but in their performance on the field, as Denver has captured back-to-back World Championships.

Tuten came to the Broncos in 1995 from the University of Florida, where he was the Director of Strength and Conditioning from 1980-88, and also from 1993-94. He was the Athletic Strength Director at the University of North Carolina from 1989-92.

While at both schools, Tuten supervised the strength and conditioning programs for every sport. With UF he also served as the head strength and conditioning coach for the nationally ranked Gator football team, and played a key role in the design of Florida's current strength and conditioning complex.

At North Carolina Tuten helped the Tar Heels make major advancements in their strength and conditioning program, helping them to be able to compete with the top collegiate programs in the country. Besides his work at collegiate institutions, Tuten is also a member of the National Strength and Conditioning Association.

Tuten has worked with many athletes who have gone on to enjoy success in the NFL, including Emmitt Smith (Cowboys), Neal Anderson (former Bear), Ricky Nattiel (former Bronco), John L. Williams (former Seahawk and Steeler), Errict Rhett (Buccaneers, Ravens) and Godfrey Myles (former Cowboy) at Florida, as well as former Bronco Rondell Jones (Ravens) at North Carolina.

Tuten, 45, has also coached with three current members of the Broncos coaching staff. He coached with Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and wide receivers coach Mike Heimerdinger at Florida from 1980-83, and with his assistant Greg Saporta at both Florida and North Carolina over the last 19 years.

A 1979 Clemson University graduate, Tuten was a three-year letterman and starting nose guard for the Tigers. He was named to the All-America Strength team in 1978 and was part of the 1978 Atlantic Coast Conference champion Tiger squad. Tuten registered nine tackles and three sacks against Maryland that season to help clinch the conference title. He was named ACC Defensive Player of the Week for his efforts. He received his degree in therapeutic recreation from Clemson in 1978.

Tuten, born Dec. 30, 1953, attended Wakefield High School in Arlington, Va., where he participated in football, wrestling and track. He is a native of Columbia, S.C.

Always noted for creative, multi-dimensional offenses, Elway also has been chosen as head coach in the Blue-Gray Game and East-West Shrine Game.

Elway, 67, a native of Hoquiam, Wash., played quarterback at Washington State, where he earned both bachelor's and master's degrees.

Jack and his wife Jan have three children, Lee Ann, John Jr., and Jana. John Jr. was the No. 1 pick in the 1983 NFL draft and led the Broncos to five Super Bowl appearances — including back-to-back World Championship in 1997 and '98 — before retiring in May 1999.

TED SUNDQUIST

DIRECTOR OF COLLEGE SCOUTING

Ted Sundquist is in his eighth season with the Broncos organization and his fourth in the capacity of Director of College Scouting. He spent the 1995 season apprenticing under former college scouting director Jerry Frei before being promoted to his current post following the 1996 draft. Sundquist was a college scout in 1993-94.

His current duties include overseeing the Broncos' entire college scouting process, in particular, managing the scouting department's budget, division of territory and travel itinerary. Sundquist also evaluates the top collegiate players to supplement reports gathered by the club's area scouts, and assists General Manager Neal Dahlen with the negotiation of contracts for drafted players.

As testament to his prominence within the league's scouting profession, Sundquist was selected in 1997 to sit on the five-member Executive Committee of National Football Scouting, Inc., and is a member of the selection committee for the annual National Invitational Camp.

Sundquist spent his first three years with the Broncos in the Player Personnel department as a player personnel assistant, working closely with Jack Elway in opponent scouting, veteran player evaluation, development of computer scouting analysis systems and scouting the Western region.

Sundquist, 37, played collegiately at the Air Force Academy before graduating into the coaching ranks. He joined the Air Force coaching staff for the 1984 season, and returned for the 1988-91 seasons. Between those two stints, Sundquist served as an Air Force Intelligence Officer in Berlin, Germany from 1986-88.

Along with his coaching duties Sundquist was also the head coach for the USAFA Preparatory School (1990-91) and took an active part in scouting for the Falcons.

Sundquist has also had considerable athletic experience outside of football, having been a member of the U.S. National Bobsled Team from 1984-88, and competing in the Olympic Trials in that sport in '88.

A Houston, Texas, native, Sundquist earned his master's degree in public administration from the University of Colorado in 1992.

Ted was born May 1, 1962 in Houston, where he attended Spring Woods High School. He and his wife, Amy, make their home in Aurora, Colo.

JERRY FREI

COLLEGE SCOUTING CONSULTANT

Jerry Frei, in his 23rd year with the Denver Broncos — and his 48th as either a coach or scout in professional or college football — began a new role in 1996 as a college scouting consultant.

After spending the 1994 and '95 seasons as Director of College Scouting, Frei scaled back his duties as Ted Sundquist assumed the director's role. Frei is still involved in the Broncos' college scouting process, but, at his request, has assumed a lighter workload since Sundquist's appointment.

Frei's history with the Broncos includes time as both a scout and assistant coach. He coached for the Broncos from 1972-75, and again from 1981-82, before moving into the scouting department the following season. Frei has been an area scout and has performed a variety of administrative roles within the scouting department for the Broncos organization.

Frei's initial tenure as the Broncos' offensive line coach from 1972-75 was his first in professional football, and was followed by a two-year stint in the same capacity with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (1976-77) and a three-year stint with the Chicago Bears (1978-80), prior to his return to the Mile High City in 1981.

His professional coaching career was preceded by a long and successful assistant and head coaching career in the collegiate ranks at the University of Oregon. Frei joined the Ducks' coaching staff as an assistant in 1955 and served in that role through the 1966 season before succeeding Len Casanova as head coach in 1967. Oregon compiled a 22-29-2 record during his five years as head coach, including a 1970 record of 6-4-1 that was good enough for second place in the Pacific-8 Conference. His 1970 and '71 teams featured two future NFL stars: Dan Fouts at quarterback and Bobby Moore (now Ahmad Rashad) at running back.

Frei, 74, is a University of Wisconsin graduate, and was an offensive lineman on the standout Badger teams of 1942, '46 and '47. His collegiate career was interrupted by service in the U.S. Military in World War II, during which he flew 67 Pacific missions in a P-38 for the U.S. Army Air Corps.

His first collegiate coaching experience came from 1952-54 at Willamette University in Salem, Ore.

Jerry and his wife Marian have five children: sons David and Terry, and daughters Judy, Susan and Nancy.

Prior to his stint with the Dolphins, Blando spent three years with the National Football League's main office in New York City as Manager of Player Information and Research for the NFL Management Council. He played an integral role in such areas as Daily Salary Cap Reconciliation, Rookie Pool, Free Agent Analysis and Market Valuation. BOB BEERS
COLLEGE SCOUT

Bob Beers is in his fifth season with the Broncos' scouting staff, joining the organization in June 1995 after a very successful season on the coaching staff of the World League's Amsterdam Admirals. He is responsible for scouting the Western United States.

With Beers as offensive coordinator in 1995, the Admirals compiled a 9-1 regular season record and advanced to the World Bowl. Amsterdam's regular season record equaled that of the 1991 London Monarchs, tying the club for the best record in WLAF history.

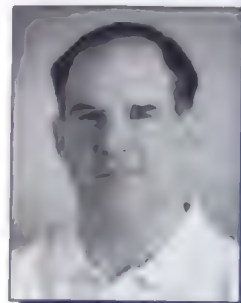

Prior to his stint with the Admirals, Beers served two seasons as head coach at Western Montana where he guided the program to Frontier Conference titles and earned Coach of the Year honors both seasons. His 1994 team claimed the conference title and garnered the school's first ever berth in the NAIA national playoffs, advancing to the Final Four and finishing with an 8-3 record. The Bulldogs finished second in the nation in passing (3,535 yards) and total offense (5,000), and 10 Bulldogs earned All-America honors, including two first-teamers.

In 1993, the Western offense set 23 school records, led the nation in passing (3,069 yards) and finished second in total offense (4,206).

His first head coaching position came at Valdosta (Ga.) State from 1982-84, where he also served as associate AD, before accepting the full-time athletic director's position in 1985. He was also with the Roughriders from 1983-90, holding various positions, including director of scouting, Director of Player Personnel and Assistant General Manager.

Rambo accepted a position in Dallas, Texas, with the World League of American Football in 1990. During the offseason he was the Director of College Scouting, and during the season was Director of European Football operations, working out of Barcelona, Spain.

Rambo, 47, returned to the CFL in 1992 as General Manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders, as the team posted nine wins to craft its best record in 10 years. During his first stint with Saskatchewan, he recruited most of the players that helped lead the Roughriders to the Grey Cup Championship in 1989. In his one season as a scout with Denver, the Broncos made a Wild Card playoff appearance.

Rambo is a graduate of Carroll College in Helena, Mont., where his mother, Viola, and sisters, Kathleen and Patty, still reside. He led the nation in rushing in 1974 with an average of 152.1 yards per game, and had eight tryouts in the CFL, WFL and the NFL, including one with the Broncos in 1977.

Dan and his wife, Kathy, have two children, daughter Teeghan and son Arthur. The family makes its home in Blackburn Hamlet, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.

DALE STRAHM COLLEGE SCOUT

Dale Strahm is in his second season on the Denver Broncos' scouting staff, responsible for scouting the Southeast region.

A veteran of 29 collegiate football seasons in the coaching ranks, Strahm came to the Broncos from Temple University where he spent four years (1994-97) as defensive coordinator and linebackers coach. In Strahm's first season with the Owls, their defense went from last to first in the Big East Conference in turnover/takeaway margin, tying for 20th nationally with a plus .82 margin per game. They also made great strides in total defense after beginning his career ranked last in the conference. A motivational speaker for a variety of corporations, Strahm also taught leadership classes at Temple.

Strahm was head coach at Western Carolina from 1989-90, and has experience as a defensive coordinator at Duke (1990-93), Georgia (1981-88), Navy (1977-80) and Bowling Green (1971-76). He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Bowling Green in 1968. He has also spent six years coaching at the high school level. During Strahm's tenure at Georgia, the Bulldogs won SEC Championships in 1981 and 1982 and participated in eight straight bowl games. In all, he has coached in 11 major bowl games.

Strahm, 55, is a 1965 graduate of Ohio Northern University, where he played four years of football and ran four years of track, earning six varsity letters in the process. He earned his master's degree at Bowling Green in 1968.

A native of Toledo, Ohio, Strahm is a graduate of E.D. Libbey High School, where he was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 1997. He and his wife, Diane, have three sons, Brian, Bradley and Brett. The Strahm family resides in Charlotte, N.C.

VICE PRESIDENT OF BUSINESS OPERATIONS

JOE ELLIS

Joe Ellis is in his second season as Vice President of Business Operations for the Denver Broncos, having rejoined the club from the National Football League office, where he had been Vice President of Club Administration and Stadium Management.

Ellis had his first stint with the Broncos as Director of Marketing from 1983-85.

He left the Broncos following the 1985 season to obtain his master's degree from the J. L. Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University. He graduated from Northwestern in 1988 and joined the NFL in 1990.

Ellis' major project is representing the Broncos in the creation of Denver's new football stadium. Ellis has an extremely active role in all aspects of the new stadium, and in this capacity works very closely with important members of the political, business, and civic communities that comprise the cultural fabric of Denver.

He is responsible for business and financial management, marketing and sales functions, media relations, ticket operations, and facilities and administrative operations for the National Football League team.

Ellis came to his new position with comprehensive expertise in the areas of stadium operations, fiscal planning, personnel management, marketing, media and community relations.

Denver Broncos President Pat Bowlen has said, "We are very pleased to have Joe back. I have tracked his career since he left the Broncos for graduate school, and of course we have worked closely with him in his time at the NFL. He is highly regarded throughout the league, and we are very pleased that he is back with us. Joe has brought considerable expertise to the organization, particularly in the area of stadium development."

While with the NFL, Ellis was involved in several aspects of league operations, with a strong focus on new stadium development. Most recently, Ellis was especially involved in the league's oversight of the Cleveland Browns' reentry into the NFL this year. Specifically, Ellis played a critical role in the process of designing, constructing and marketing the new 70,000-seat football stadium in Cleveland.

Ellis represents the Broncos on numerous boards and civic organizations in the metropolitan area, and is a 1980 graduate of Colorado College.

VICE PRESIDENT OF ADMINISTRATION

JOHN BEAKE

John Beake moves into his new position as Vice President of Administration for the Denver Broncos in 1999, after having spent 14 years as the team's general manager. John's tenure as general manager was the longest in franchise history, and his new position is a reflection of current duties in the ever-broadening administrative world that reflects both the National Football League and NFL Europe.

John works closely with team owner Pat Bowlen on a wide range of National Football League administrative matters, and sits on the board of directors of NFL Europe, the most successful venture ever operated by an American sports league outside the United States.

Nineteen ninety-nine is John Beake's 31st year in professional football, his 22nd with the Broncos, and his 40th overall season working in the sport. His career as an administrator and coach is highlighted by great degrees of both versatility and success, with his clubs having posted 344 wins on the professional, collegiate and high school level, a total unmatched by any other current NFL administrator. He has had a key role with teams or schools that have reached postseason play in 19 of those campaigns.

The only upper-level administrator in the National Football League to be on a World Championship club in both coaching and the front office — John was on the Kansas City coaching staff for their victory in Super Bowl IV — his 14 years as the Broncos general manager included five Super Bowl appearances, six division titles, eight playoff appearances and a continuing string of sellouts at Mile High Stadium.

In addition to being on three Super Bowl championship teams, John Beake has the unique distinction of being the only individual in NFL history to be a member of world championship clubs 28 years apart (winning at Super Bowl IV with the Chiefs, and Super Bowls XXXII and XXXIII with the Broncos).

The Denver Broncos have earned international recognition as a model sports franchise that has developed a pattern of the highest success on and off the field, and John has played an integral role in the creation and continuance of this tradition.

John Beake's prominence in the Broncos' hierarchy is paralleled by continuing respect within the NFL. Active in the NFL's international development, his involvement is one of the keys to the Broncos being among just two teams (along with San Francisco) to have been selected for American Bowl games in London, Tokyo (twice), Berlin, Barcelona and Mexico City. The Broncos' game this year in Sydney, Australia, is Denver's seventh American Bowl game, with the 49ers being the only other team to have played that many. In addition, he played an integral role in Denver being the only American Football Conference club to win three conference crowns and thus make three Super Bowl appearances (XXI, XXII, and XXIV) in the 1980s.

In 1991 John was named to the Board of Directors of the World League of American Football, now NFL Europe. Now in his ninth year working with the board, he spends a considerable portion of time lending administrative guidance to the NFL Europe offices in New York. John was instrumental in determining the methodology by which NFL players are provided to the European league, beginning with the 1992 campaign.

In the 1993-94 seasons the World League was put on hold and John Beake played a major role in helping to restructure the league to the format in which it exists today: six teams playing American Football in Europe. The commitment to take our game of football globally was maintained, and the resulting format provides solid structure, organization and the chance to give the NFL a grass-roots presence in Europe.

The NFL has had ever-increasing support of its European league, as 30 NFL players participated in the WL in 1995, with that number increasing to 69 for the 1996 campaign and almost doubling to 110 — representing all 30 teams — for the 1997 season. For the 1998 campaign NFL clubs allocated 97 players, all of whom came from either the 53-man rosters or the practice squads. In 1999, 153 NFL players were allocated, representing 29 of the 31 clubs, a contribution which has led to this group being called the best assembly of players ever in NFL Europe. By steadily increasing the number of NFL players as reflected by the above totals, the skill level of the European league has jumped dramatically and the commitment of all 31 NFL teams is strongly demonstrated — NFL Europe is the only sports league outside America with the financial support of a United States league — a tribute to the vision and dedication which John Beake has contributed.

Along with his continuing commitment to NFL Europe, John serves as chairman of the NFL International Working Group, which is primarily comprised of other NFL general managers and player personnel directors. He is also a member of the NFL College Relations Committee.

A member of six Super Bowl teams during his pro football career, he represents the Broncos and the Mile High City in the most successful and positive manner. John embodies the philosophy that one should combine performance with community involvement. He personally directs the Broncos' contractual relationships with local radio and television entities, and is in charge of all Bronco-related operations at Mile High Stadium.

John has perhaps the broadest range of experience of any NFL administrator, the only one in the league who has coached championship teams on the pro, college and high school levels, as well as having served in a wide variety of administrative roles.

He has been a vital cog in a Denver club that has dominated the American Football Conference Western Division, winning more division titles (seven) than any other AFC West team.

One of his most visible Bronco accomplishments has been to provide a key leadership role in the construction of and move into the team's training facility, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 60,000-square foot state-of-the-art complex in Arapahoe County. This project, several years in the planning stages, was the fulfillment of one of John's key goals as the Broncos' general manager.

A prime area of interest for John is working closely with city and state representatives on a variety of community concerns. For the past 10 years, John has served as the chairman of the Red Ribbon Campaign, a strong educational anti-drug, chemical and substance abuse association that works in conjunction with the Colorado Federation of Parents.

An avid skier, he is on the Board of Directors of the National Sports Center for the Disabled at Winter Park, Colo., Ski Resort. The NSCD is heavily supported by the Denver Broncos Charities Fund. John is an annual participant in the Winter Park Pro-Am race to benefit the disabled skiers program. He is also involved with the Cancer League of Colorado, the Western Fantasy (Volunteers of America), is a member of the St. Joseph's Foundation Board, and also sits on the board of 9 Who Cares.

As part of the continuing plan to broaden the team's community role and strengthen a family spirit within the club, John is very supportive of the Performing Arts Center.

John served as assistant General Manager in 1984 and was the Broncos' Director of Football Operations the previous year, so his position is the culmination of a steady rise within the organization.

He joined the Broncos in 1979 as the Director of Pro Personnel and became Director of Player Personnel in 1981, having concentrated on the coaching aspects of the game prior to coming to Denver.

As assistant coach for the Kansas City Chiefs from 1968 through 1974, John was the offensive backfield coach for the Chiefs when they defeated the Minnesota Vikings to win Super Bowl IV in New Orleans. He also coached the running backs at New Orleans in 1976-77. On the college level, he coached at Penn State in 1961-62 and was the offensive coordinator at Colorado State University in 1975.

Upon receiving his master's degree from Penn State in 1962, John coached for six years at the high school level, where his teams lost just four games and won two championships at Nyack High School. He has a bachelor's degree from The College of New Jersey, in addition to his graduate degree from Penn State. On May 14 of this year, he was the commencement speaker at the College of New Jersey.

John was inducted into the College of New Jersey Hall of Fame in 1981, and in 1998 was inducted into the Long Branch High School Hall of Fame, in Long Branch, N.J.

John and his wife, Marcia, have three children, Jerilyn, Chip, and Chris.

DENVER'S WINNING TRADITION

Denver Broncos football enters its 40th season in 1999, fresh off the two most successful seasons in franchise history, in which the team won back-to-back Super Bowls with wins over Green Bay and Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXII and Super Bowl XXXIII, respectively. The 1999 Broncos will defend those titles by playing before sellout crowds at Mile High Stadium for the 30th consecutive campaign. The team has sold out 219 consecutive regular season non-strike games, and 232 straight including playoff games. Broncos fans have watched their team amass one of the NFL's finest records since the club's first winning season in 1973, enduring just four losing seasons — second-fewest in the NFL — as shown in the list below.

This season also marks Pat Bowlen's 16th as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Broncos. During that time, Denver has enjoyed a virtually unmatched level of success in the context of the entire NFL and within the American Football Conference Western Division.

More than 650,000 people descended on downtown Denver January 27, 1998 to salute the World Champion Broncos two days after their defeat of Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXIII in San Diego. A parade through the streets of the city culminated in a rally at Civic Center Park, where Colorado Governor Roy Romer and Denver Mayor Wellington Webb officially welcomed the Super Bowl champions home. A similar gathering was held a year later, February 1, 1999, when the Broncos returned home from Miami after defeating Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII. Governor-elect Bill Owens and Mayor Webb joined the festivities to salute the back-to-back World Champs.

DENVER LEADS THE AFC IN SUPER BOWL APPEARANCES — The Broncos made their sixth Super Bowl appearance against Atlanta last January, the most by any current American Football Conference franchise, and second-most in the NFL, behind Dallas (8). By winning the last two Super Bowls the Denver Broncos became one of just six franchises to "repeat," marking the seventh time the feat has been accomplished.

COMING BACK STRONGER — Since the Super Bowl was first played after the 1966 season, only three teams have won the game and gone on to post a better record the following season, including the 1997-98 Broncos teams. All three teams not only improved their record, but repeated as Super Bowl champions.

THE BRONCOS' STREAKS — The Broncos' undefeated home finish in 1998 was the club's third in a row, making them only the fourth franchise in NFL history to complete three straight regular seasons at home without losing a game, and only the third to win every home game for three straight years. Furthermore, they are the only team to accomplish this feat since the 16-game schedule was implemented in 1978. That adds up to a 24-game win streak at Mile High Stadium for the Broncos, the third-longest home winning streak in NFL history. Denver enters the 1999 season needing to win four straight to eclipse Miami's record of 27 straight (1971-74). Overall, the 1998 Broncos began the season by reeling off 13 straight wins, the second-best start in NFL history, contributing to an NFL-record-tying 18-game winning streak (regular and postseason combined).

WHAT TO LOOK FOR FROM THE BRONCOS IN 1999

- The Broncos seek to become the first team in NFL history to claim three consecutive Super Bowl Championships. They would be the third team in NFL history to win three straight NFL Championships, but the first since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970 to accomplish this feat. The Green Bay Packers won three straight titles from 1929-31 and from 1965-67.
- The Broncos seek their fourth consecutive regular season with 12 or more wins, a feat that has only been accomplished once in the 79-year history of the NFL (Dallas, 1992-95). Denver is currently one of only four teams in league annals to have three straight 12-win regular seasons (Raiders, 1967-69, Cowboys, 1993-95 and 49ers, 1996-98).
- The Broncos seek to compile a fourth consecutive double-digit win total in the regular season for only the second time in franchise history. The other streak was from 1984-87, when they won 13, 11, 11 and 10 games, respectively.
- The Broncos seek to further improve their NFL-best home record of 158-47-1 (147-45-1 in regular season) since 1974. Both the regular season and overall win totals are the most over that period.
- If Denver wins its first four regular season home games in 1999, the Broncos will move into first place on the NFL's all-time list for consecutive regular season home victories, with 28. The NFL record is 27, held by Miami (1971-74). Denver has won 24 straight regular season home games, a team record. Wins in their first two home games will move them past Green Bay (1995-98) into second place.
- The Broncos need five regular season wins to reach the 300-regular season win plateau for the organization. Denver has won 295 regular season games and 16 postseason games in the franchise's 39-year history. Denver would become the 17th team to win 300 games and only the sixth current AFC team to do so. Of the five AFC teams to do so, only Kansas City, Miami and Oakland were original AFL franchises. The other two (Cleveland and Pittsburgh) began play in the NFL before joining the AFC after the AFL-NFL merger in 1970.

TYRONE BRAXTON

- Needs seven interceptions to pass Billy Thompson (40) for third place, 10 to pass Goose Gonsoulin (43) for second place, and 11 to pass Steve Foley (44) for first place on Denver's all-time INT list. Braxton has 36 career interceptions, but only 34 as a Bronco. Two came while he was in Miami in 1994.
- Needs three interception-return yards to pass Steve Foley (622) for third place and 24 to pass Mike Harden (643) for second place on Denver's all-time list. Braxton is currently at 620.

TERRELL DAVIS

- Can become the fourth player in NFL history (Barry Sanders, Eric Dickerson and Tony Dorsett) to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first five NFL seasons.
- Needs 1,291 total yards from scrimmage to pass Floyd Little (8,741) for first place all-time in total yards from scrimmage by a Bronco. He also needs 2,631 yards to pass Rick Upchurch (10,081) for second place all-time in combined yardage (rushing/receiving/returns) by a Bronco.
- Needs 25 yards of total offense to pass Steve Ramsey (6,537) for fifth place, 843 yards to pass Charley Johnson (7,255) for fourth place and 1,239 yards to pass Frank Tripucka (7,851) for third place on Denver's all-time total offense (passing and rushing yards) list.
- Needs 151 rushing attempts to pass Sammy Winder (1,493) for second place and 299 attempts to pass Floyd Little for first place all-time in rushing attempts by a Bronco.
- Needs to be involved in two plays to pass Sammy Winder (1,496) for fourth place, 156 to pass Floyd Little (1,650) for second place and 199 to pass Craig Morton (1,693) for second place all-time in total offensive plays for a Bronco.

JASON ELAM

- Needs to connect on his first 16 point-after attempts in 1999 to move past Eddie Murray (250) for second place all-time for consecutive points after touchdown in NFL history. If he connects on his first 42 point-after attempts, he'll pass Norm Johnson for first place all-time, provided Johnson does not add to his current NFL record streak of 276. Elam's streak is currently at 235, a franchise record.
- Needs 13 points to pass Jim Turner (742) for first place on the Broncos' all-time scoring list. Elam is currently at 730 points.
- Needs 45 point-after attempts to pass Jim Turner (304) for first place on Denver's all-time list. He is currently at 260 attempts.
- Needs 25 point-after conversions to pass Jim Turner (283) for first place on Denver's all-time list. Elam is currently at 259.
- Needs 33 field goal attempts to pass Jim Turner (233) for first place on Denver's all-time list. He is currently at 201.
- Needs to score in his first five games of the 1999 season to reach 100 consecutive games with at least one point. He already holds the franchise record at 96 games.

SHANNON SHARPE

- Needs 13 catches to pass Kellen Winslow (541) for second place all-time in receptions by a tight end.
- Needs 15 receptions to pass Lionel Taylor (543) for first place on Denver's all-time receiving list. Sharpe is currently at 529 receptions.
- Needs 114 receiving yards to pass Lionel Taylor (6,872) for first place all-time in receiving yards by a Bronco. Sharpe is currently at 6,759 yards.
- Needs 241 receiving yards to reach 7,000 for his career, becoming only the third Bronco to accomplish this feat.
- Needs two receiving touchdowns to pass Kellen Winslow (45) for first place all-time in receiving touchdowns by a tight end.
- Needs one receiving touchdown to move into first place all-time in receiving touchdowns by a Bronco. He would break a tie for first with Haven Moses (44) and Lionel Taylor (44).
- Needs one touchdown of any kind to pass Riley Odoms (44) and Lionel Taylor (44) for fifth and sixth place; two to pass Haven Moses (45) for fourth place, five to pass Sammy Winder (48) for third place and 11 to pass Floyd Little (54) for second place on Denver's all-time touchdown list. Sharpe is currently at 44. He would trail only Terrell Davis (61).
- Needs to catch a pass in each of the first seven games in which he plays in 1999 to move into first place all-time on the Broncos' list for consecutive games with at least one reception. He would pass Lionel Taylor (62). Sharpe's streak is currently at 56 games.
- Needs 57 yards to pass Lionel Taylor (6,824) for third place in total yards from scrimmage and fifth place in combined yardage. Sharpe currently sits at 6,768 yards. He would also need 562 combined yards to pass Vance Johnson (7,329) for fourth place.

NEIL SMITH

- Needs two sacks to become the 17th player in NFL history to record 100 regular season sacks for a career. He has 98 in the regular season and 9.5 in the postseason.

ALFRED WILLIAMS

- Needs six multi-sack games to move into fifth place on the Broncos' all-time list for multi-sack games. He would pass (in order from 9th to 5th) Tom Jackson (8), Dave Costa (9), Rich Jackson (10), Karl Mecklenberg (11) and Rulon Jones (11). Williams currently has six multi-sack games as a Bronco.

Chris Banks made the jump to the Broncos' active roster in 1998, and looks to build on that progress in 1999. A former seventh-round draft pick of the club in 1996 (226th overall), Banks spent the 1997 season on the Broncos' practice squad before seeing his first NFL action in 1998. He has appeared in four games, primarily on special teams.

1998: Banks saw action in four games in his first NFL season (vs. New England, 9/7; at Washington, 9/27; vs. Philadelphia, 10/4 and at Seattle, 10/11), primarily on special teams. He saw his first professional action on offense vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he replaced Mark Schlereth in the fourth quarter of a 41-16 win. He was active but did not play vs. Dallas (9/13) and at Oakland (9/20), and was inactive (Fri.) for the final 10 games, as well as all three postseason games. In the preseason Banks played in all four games and started vs. New Orleans (8/14) in place of Schlereth, who had undergone surgery to remove bone chips from his elbow. Banks signed a free agent contract with the Broncos Jan. 30, 1998, after his practice squad contract had expired at the conclusion of the '97 season.

1997: Banks was a member of the Broncos' practice squad for the entire season. He had spent the spring of 1997 with the Barcelona Dragons of the former World League (now NFL Europe), and went through training camp with the Broncos before being waived Aug. 24. He was re-signed to the practice squad Aug. 25. 1996: Banks was released at the end training camp by the Broncos, first being placed on injured reserve with a knee injury, and then being waived outright. He was drafted in the seventh round (226th overall).

COLLEGE: Banks played in 33 games (16 starts) at Kansas, where he earned first-team All-Big Eight and third-team All-America honors as a senior. A National Honor Society member, Banks was a sports management major at Kansas.

PERSONAL: Banks is a graduate of Lexington High School in Lexington, Mo., where he was all-state and all-conference on the offensive and defensive lines. He was born April 4, 1973 in Lexington, Mo. Banks resides in Lone Tree, Colo.

Tony Berti comes to the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from division-rival Seattle, and is expected to battle for the vacant right tackle position. His signing marks a homecoming for Berti, a native of Thornton, Colo., who played his collegiate ball at the University of Colorado. Berti played 3-1/2 seasons with the Chargers, playing in 33 games and starting 30, mostly at tackle.

1998: Berti was placed on injured reserve by San Diego before the start of the 1998 season (Aug. 25) because of a knee injury, and released by the Chargers Nov. 25. He was signed by Seattle as a free agent Nov. 27, 1998, and was inactive for each of the Seahawks' final five games.

1997: Berti started all 16 games at right tackle for the Chargers, one of just five offensive players to do so. He had opened training camp that year at left tackle, but was switched back before the start of the regular season. 1996: Berti started 14 of 16 regular season contests, making his first NFL start on opening day vs. Seattle. He did not start the next two games before taking over the starting duties at right tackle for the rest of the season. 1995: Berti played in only one game for the Chargers, on Dec. 9 vs. Arizona. He was originally chosen by San Diego in the sixth round of the 1995 draft (200th overall).

Perhaps no Broncos player other than John Elway has symbolized the perseverance — nor enjoyed the rewards — that go with Denver's back-to-back Super Bowl wins more than Tyrone Braxton. The 12-year veteran, and former 12th-round draft choice, has played a vital role on the Broncos' two World Championship clubs, by continuing to prove skeptics wrong, displaying an uncanny knack for making the big play. Braxton, who had played in two previous Super Bowls with the Broncos, produced a key interception in the first quarter of Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, and recovered a fumble in the fourth quarter of the 34-19 defeat of Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII. Braxton regained his starting strong safety role in the 11th game of the 1998 season, and finished the year with 57 tackles (43 solo), one interception, six passes defensed, one forced fumble and a special teams tackle. Braxton has one Pro Bowl appearance in his career, coming in 1996, along with first-team All-NFL honors from Football News and second-team All-AFC from UPI. He also received the Mackey Award that year for leading the league in interceptions with a career-high 9, and was named the Broncos' NFL/True Value Man of the Year in 1997 for his charitable contributions in the Rocky Mountain Region. Braxton has appeared in 165 games with 117 starts, totaling 844 tackles (591 solo), 116 pass breakups and 36 interceptions (34 with Denver) for 623 return yards and four touchdowns, including one in 1997 (vs. Carolina, 11/9; 27 yds.). His others have come in 1989 (vs. Kansas City, 9/10; 52 yds.), 1991 (vs. Cincinnati, 9/1; 34 yds.) and 1996 (vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15; 69 yds.). Braxton also has played in 19 postseason games (17 with Denver) with 77 stops (63 solo), 10 pass breakups and three interceptions. His 17 postseason appearances rank second in club history, while his 13 postseason starts tie for third. Braxton ranks fourth on the Broncos' all-time interceptions list, and stands third in interception return yards, while also tying for second in postseason interceptions with three. He also owns the team record for most consecutive games with an interception with his four in games 12-15 of the 1996 season, and posted the longest non-scoring interception return in club history with his 72-yarder in 1998 (vs. Oakland, 11/22), the fourth-longest overall by a Bronco. The big-play maker, and former 12th-round draft pick (334th overall, 1987), has now been responsible for 52 takeaways as a Bronco.

1998: Braxton saw significant action at strong safety in all 16 games, including six starts (at Seattle, 10/11; vs. Oakland, 11/22; at San Diego, 11/29; vs. Kansas City, 12/6; at N.Y. Giants, 12/13 and vs. Seattle, 12/27), and recorded 57 tackles (43 solo) with one forced fumble, six passes defended and one interception, while adding one tackle on special teams (vs. Oak., 11/22). His season high of 8 tackles (6 solo) came at Washington (9/27), along with a pass defended. His start at Seattle came when the Broncos opened in a nickel defense, and his starts in games 11-14 came in place of an injured Eric Brown (groin). He started the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27), despite a sore shoulder, because the Seahawks opened the game in a three-receiver formation. In the Oakland contest (11/22), Braxton intercepted his only pass of the year to raise his Broncos' career total to 34, moving past Mike Harden (33) for fourth place on the franchise's all-time list. Braxton's return of 72 yards on the play was the longest of his career, the longest non-scoring interception return in franchise history and the fourth-longest overall. Braxton forced a fumble in the 4th qtr. at the Giants (12/13), leading to a recovery by Bill Romanowski to give Denver the ball back with 3:36 remaining and a 16-13 lead. Postseason. Braxton played in all three postseason games and started two at strong safety, making 10 tackles (8 solo) with one pass defended and two fumble recoveries. He was not credited with a start in the AFC Championship Game as the Broncos opened the game in a nickel package with Darrius Johnson replacing Braxton. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) Braxton was the second-leading tackler on the team with seven (6 solo). He added one more solo tackle in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), and recovered a fumble that was forced by Alfred Williams on Curtis Martin in the 1st qtr. Braxton made it two games in a row with a fumble recovery by scooping up a Jamal Anderson fumble in the 4th qtr. of Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). He also posted two tackles (1 solo) and a pass defended in the game.

1997: Braxton started all 16 games at strong safety and ranked third on the team with 90 tackles (74 solo), including a half a sack (0.5), while also adding four interceptions (tied for team lead and eighth in the AFC), nine passes defended, a forced fumble and three fumble recoveries. Off the field in 1997, Braxton was honored in early November for his generous charitable contributions in the Denver area by being named the Denver Broncos NFL/True Value Man of the Year. Braxton's first interception came in the season-opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) when he thwarted a second-half Chiefs scoring opportunity and returned the interception 43 yards. He also had five tackles (four solo) and one pass breakup in the game. His second interception came in the second quarter at Buffalo (10/26) and was returned 23 yards to set up a Broncos field goal in a 23-20 overtime victory. He also had eight tackles (five solo) in the contest. Against Seattle on Nov. 2, he had half a sack and six tackles (five solo) in Denver's 30-27 win over the Seahawks. The sack, which he shared with Trevor Pryce, forced Warren Moon to fumble and set up a Broncos' field goal. Braxton's third interception of the season, vs. Carolina (11/9), was returned 27 yards for a fourth-quarter touchdown, the fourth time that Braxton has taken an interception back for a score in his 11-year career. He also had four tackles and two pass breakups during the game. On Nov. 24 vs. Oakland, he had seven tackles (all solos) and recovered a fumble that was forced by Ray Crockett and returned it eight yards to set up Denver's first touchdown of the evening in a 31-3 victory. He added his fourth pickoff at San Diego (11/30) and returned it 20 yards and also had four solo stops and three pass breakups in Denver's 38-28 win. The interception was the 35th of Braxton's career and his 33rd as a Bronco, moving him into a tie with Mike Harden for fourth place in franchise history. Braxton recovered his third fumble of the season at Pittsburgh (12/7) to set up Denver's first touchdown of the day in a 35-24 defeat. In the postseason, Braxton started all four games at strong safety and recorded 22 tackles (15 solo) with two interceptions and four passes defended. The two interceptions gave Braxton three in his postseason career, which, at the time, tied for first on the Broncos' all-time postseason interception list with Bob Swenson. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98) he came up with numerous big plays, tallying eight tackles (3 solo), three passes defended and his second career postseason interception, helping lead Denver back to the Super Bowl with a 24-21 victory. He picked off a Kordell Stewart bomb on the final play of the first half and returned it six yards. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) he led the team with seven tackles (6 solo) and a pass defended, while also plucking his third career postseason interception, and second of the 1997 playoffs. The interception, which ended the Packers' second possession of the game, set up a Denver touchdown for a 14-7 lead. 1996: Braxton made big-play after big-play to earn his first Pro Bowl berth, as well as first-team Football News All-NFL and second-team UPI All-AFC honors. He finished fourth on the team with 102 tackles (78 solo), knocked down 19 passes, forced one fumble, recovered another and snared a team-leading nine interceptions, tying him with St. Louis' Keith Lyle for most in the NFL. The nine interceptions also exceeded his previous career high for a season (6 in 1989) and tied for the second-highest single-season total in franchise history (Willie Brown, 1964), two behind Goose Gonsoulin's club record of 11 (1960). For his efforts he received the Mackey Award for leading the league in interceptions. Braxton's first pick of the year (vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15) was returned 69 yards for a Broncos touchdown. The return for a touchdown was the third of his career, and his longest, as well as being the fourth-longest scoring interception return in franchise history and fifth-longest overall. His second interception thwarted a Cincinnati (9/29) scoring drive in the back of the end zone. The third ended any last threat that Baltimore might have had in the Broncos' 45-34 win Oct. 20. Always possessing a knack for the big play, Braxton's fourth interception was an end-zone drive-killer vs. Kansas City (10/27) with the Chiefs trailing just 17-7 in the second quarter. On 11/10 vs. Chicago, Braxton started at strong safety and played as big a roll in the Broncos' narrow 17-12 victory as any other defensive player. He finished with eight tackles (6 solo), recovered a fumble and returned it 20 yards, knocked down four passes and registered his fifth interception of the season. On the last play of the game, he knocked away a pass in the endzone that was intended for Curtis Conway, to preserve the victory. Two weeks later at Minnesota (11/24) Braxton turned in another big-play performance, posting eight tackles (5 solo), knocking down two passes and intercepting his sixth of the year, matching his previous best season (1989). The following week vs. Seattle (12/1) he finished with a team-high 12 tackles (7 solo), knocked down two passes and snagged his career-high seventh interception of the season. At Green Bay (12/8) he posted five tackles to go along with his team-leading eighth interception of the year, which he returned 14 yards. The following week vs. Oakland (12/15) he posted six solo tackles with one pass defended, as well as his ninth interception of the season. The pickoff ended the Raiders' first drive of the game, and set the tone for the afternoon. It was also his fourth consecutive game with a pick, a new team record. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Braxton led the team with 11 tackles (10 solo). 1995: Braxton started all 16 games at strong safety and finished tied for second on the team with 110 tackles (74 solo), 10 passes defended and two interceptions in his first season back in Denver after spending a year in Miami. He posted a season-high 10 tackles (7 solo) at Dallas (9/10), and turned in a fine all-around performance against Kansas City (10/22), breaking up three passes and making a touchdown-saving tackle, one of his seven (4 solo) on the day. Braxton had eight tackles (5 solo) vs. Arizona (11/5), including a first-quarter touchdown-saving solo tackle of Garrison Hearst at the Broncos' 5-yard line after a 39-yard pass play. The Cardinals were held to a field goal, and did not get into the end zone all day in Denver's 38-6 victory. Braxton matched his season high of 10 tackles (9 solo) at Philadelphia (11/12), and recorded his first interception of the year against Jacksonville (12/3) along with 7 tackles (4 solo) on the day. His second interception came just a week later against Seattle (12/10), and was returned 36 yards. 1994: Braxton played in all 16 games for a Miami team that advanced to the AFC Divisional Playoff before falling to San Diego. He recorded six tackles and two interceptions during the season, playing in nickel situations and on special teams. He played in both postseason games and recorded four solo tackles. Braxton was signed by the Dolphins as an unrestricted free agent from Denver May 13, 1994. 1993: Braxton started all 16 games for the Broncos, his fifth straight season as the team's starting left cornerback. He finished second on the team in total tackles with 111 (79 solo), intercepted three passes for 37 yards in returns, had a team-high 19 passes defended, recovered two fumbles and forced two as well. 1992: Braxton started all 16 games at left corner and led the team with 16 passes defended, 99 tackles (56 solo) and two interceptions. He played well in week two against San Diego (9/13), notching 11 tackles and four passes defended. 1991: Braxton made a successful comeback from a knee injury that caused him to miss most of the 1990 campaign. He started at left corner and marked his return by intercepting a pass for a touchdown in the season-opener vs. Cincinnati (9/1). Braxton recorded 92 total tackles (57 solo), 12 passes defended, four interceptions, a sack, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery in regular season play. He had a big game against New England (12/1), posting six tackles, three passes defended and a sack. In postseason play, Braxton had 14 tackles (7 solo) and intercepted a pass in the AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/12). 1990: Braxton tore the medial collateral ligament in his right knee in the third game of the season and underwent surgery, thus ending his season. Up to that point he had registered 17 total tackles, an interception and two passes defended. 1989: Braxton had a tremendous campaign in his third NFL season, playing cornerback for the first time in his career. He started every game for the Broncos and ranked sixth in the AFC with a team-leading six interceptions, while also pacing Denver's defense with 14 passes defended. In regular season play Braxton posted 111 total tackles (77 solo), two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. He helped set the tone for the Broncos' defensive resurgence that season when on opening day vs. Kansas City (9/10) he intercepted a pass on the Chiefs' first play from scrimmage and returned it 34 yards for a touchdown. Braxton also set up a Denver touchdown with a 35-yard fumble return against Washington (11/20), and racked up 12 tackles and an interception at Seattle (10/22). 1988: Braxton had a good season as one of the leaders on Denver's special teams and as a reserve defensive back. He closed that campaign with a total of 49 tackles (38 solo), five passes defended, two interceptions, a fumble recovery and a quarterback sack. 1987: Braxton played in the final two regular season games and all three postseason contests, spending the first 13 weeks of the season on injured reserve with a shoulder injury suffered in the preseason. He played primarily on special teams in the regular season, then posted five total tackles (3 solo) in the postseason. The rookie was named Denver's special teams most valuable player for his performance in the divisional playoff game vs. Houston (1/10). Braxton was Denver's 12th-round draft pick in 1987, the second-to-last player taken (334th overall).

COLLEGE Braxton was a defensive back and punt return specialist at North Dakota State, earning all-conference honors as a senior after posting 128 tackles, an interception, and two fumble recoveries. As a junior he led the conference with five interceptions and a punt return average of 15.0, earning him second-team all-conference honors. Braxton was a member of the North Central Conference champion outdoor 400-meter relay squad that competed in the national championship.

PERSONAL: A native of Madison, Wisc., Braxton attended James Madison Memorial High School, where he was named all-conference in football as a senior. He lettered twice each in football and basketball and once in track. Tyrone majored in physical education, enjoys fishing in his spare time and once had a job as a gravedigger. He and his wife, Elizabeth, have a daughter, Chloe (12/29/93), and a son, Tyrone Jr., or "T.J." (1/22/99). The family makes its home in Denver. Braxton was chosen as the Broncos' 1996 Unsung Hero by the NFL Players Association, and was named the Broncos' 1997 NFL True Value Man of the Year. He is a relative of the late Jim Braxton, a former fullback for the Buffalo Bills. Tyrone Scott Braxton was born Dec. 17, 1964 in Madison.

The other four franchises are the Jacksonville Jaguars, Kansas City Chiefs, New York Giants and New York Jets. The Giants (24 years) and Broncos (23) have surpassed the 70,000 mark for the most consecutive seasons.

Bubba Brister enters his 13th NFL season in 1999 with increased confidence and motivation, and will do so under a much brighter spotlight. As the first quarterback other than John Elway to enter a season as the Broncos starter since 1982, Brister becomes the answer to a question that has preoccupied many in Denver for years. But at no point in the course of Elway's long career have the Broncos been better equipped to absorb his loss than they are now, with Brister taking the reins. A 12-year veteran, Brister played in seven games for the club in 1998, and started four, completing 60% of his passes (78-131) for 986 yards and 10 touchdowns, with three interceptions. The Broncos were 4-0 in his starts, and did not skip a beat under his leadership, en route to a second straight World Championship. In his NFL career, Brister has played in 95 games (75 starts) and completed 54.6% of his passes (1,185-2,172) for 14,276 yards and 84 touchdowns, with 71 interceptions. He has been sacked 192 times (-1,619 yards), and rushed 184 times for 509 yards (2.8) with a long of 38 (TD) and eight touchdowns, compiling a record of 37-38 as a starter. Brister has also participated in five postseason games (two starts), throwing for 356 yards and one score, while completing 54.8% of his passes (34-62). He played for the Steelers from 1986-92, Philadelphia from 1993-94 and the Jets in 1995. Brister returned to action in 1997 after a year off from pro football, signing with the Broncos as a free agent during the offseason. His career highs in passing yards (353) and his longest touchdown pass (90) both came against the Broncos in 1990. He was drafted in the third round (67th overall) by Pittsburgh in 1986 out of Northeast Louisiana.

1998: Brister played in seven games and started four (at Washington, 9/27; vs. Philadelphia, 10/4; vs. San Diego, 11/8 and at Kansas City, 11/16) in place of John Elway, completing 78 of 131 (59.5%) passes for 986 yards and 10 touchdowns, with three interceptions and a long of 48. He also rushed 19 times for 102 yds (5.4) and one touchdown (career-best 38-yd run at K.C., 11/16) and was sacked seven times for 49 yds. Brister did not have enough pass attempts to qualify for the league rankings, but his career-best passer rating of 99.0 would have ranked second in the AFC (5th NFL). In his first start as a Bronco (at Was., 9/27) — and first since 1995 (Wk. 10) — Brister led Denver to a 38-16 win by completing 16 of 24 (66.7%) passes for 180 yds and two touchdowns with a long of 41. Brister connected with Ed McCaffrey for a 19-yd. score in the 1st quarter, and later found Howard Griffith for a 14-yd. in the 3rd quarter. Brister's winning performance in a starting role was the first by a Broncos quarterback other than John Elway since Nov. 20, 1989, when current offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak led Denver to a 14-10 win in relief, also at Washington. Brister started again the next week vs. Philadelphia (10/4) and tied a career high with four touchdown passes. Overall he completed 16 of 29 (55.2%) passes for 203 yds. and was intercepted once, while being sacked twice for 13 yds. and rushing once for 11 yds. His first two touchdowns came in the first quarter, covering 8 yds. to Rod Smith and 9 yds. to Shannon Sharpe, followed by a 12-yd. to McCaffrey in the second quarter, a 31-yd. to Smith in the third. Brister's third start came vs. San Diego (11/8) when Elway was suffering from strained rib muscles. He completed 20 of 33 for 229 yds. and two touchdowns with one interception in a 27-10 Broncos win. He played all but one series, the second of the game when Elway entered the game for what would be his only series due to his ailing ribs. Brister's two touchdown passes went 4 yds. to Terrell Davis in the first qtr. and 7 yds. to McCaffrey in the third. He also rushed twice for -2 yds. Brister's fourth start of the season came at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football, as he led Denver to a 30-7 win by completing 13 of 23 passes (56.5%) for 180 yds., with a long of 31. He also rushed 5 times for 53 yds. (10.6) including the longest run of his career, which went for 38 yds. and a TD in the 1st qtr. to put Denver ahead 7-0. Brister's first significant action of the season came in Week 3 when he replaced Elway (hamstring) midway through the second quarter at Oakland (9/20) and led the Broncos to a win by completing 10 of 17 passes (58.8%) for 140 yards and 2 TDs with one INT. while being sacked once for 9 yds. His longest completion went for 36 yds. to Rod Smith, and he rushed five times for 38 yds. (7.6) with a long of 15. Brister's first touchdown went 3 yds. to Griffith with 35 seconds left in the first half, and was his first scoring toss since Oct. 29, 1995, as a member of the N.Y. Jets, playing at Indianapolis. His second covered 13

yds. to McCaffrey midway through the 3rd qtr. to give Denver a 24-10 lead en route to a 34-17 win. He saw his first action of the season in Week 2 vs. Dallas (9/13), completing his only pass for 36 yards to McCaffrey, while rushing once for 2 yards. His next relief appearance came at Miami (12/21) when he replaced Elway in the 4th qtr. and completed 2 of 4 for 16 yds. with one sack (-6). He also connected with McCaffrey on a 2-pt. conversion attempt to pull Denver to within a touchdown at 28-21. Postseason: Brister played in two of the three postseason games (7 carries, -3 yds.), seeing action in relief of John Elway in the 4th qtr. of both the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) and Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). He was credited with six rushing attempts for -2 yds. (-0.3) with a long of 2 vs. Miami, the last three of which were kneel-downs to run out the clock. Brister was active but did not play in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) and then was inserted for the final play in the Super Bowl, taking a knee for a 1-yd. loss.

1997: Brister signed with the Broncos in the offseason after a year away from football and began the season as the third quarterback. He was promoted to the backup position after the 13th game, and spent the final three games of the regular season in that role. Brister's only action of the season came in the season-finale vs. San Diego (12/21) when he replaced John Elway in the third quarter. His totals for the day — and the season — included six completions in nine attempts for 48 yards with a long of 15. He also rushed four times for 2 yards with a long of 2. In the postseason Brister made one appearance, finishing the Wild Card game vs. Jacksonville (12/27) for John Elway and piloting the Broncos on their final scoring drive, capped by a Vaughn Hebron 6-yard touchdown run. He served as the backup quarterback for the rest of Denver's playoff run. 1996: Brister was out of football. 1995: Brister played nine games for the Jets and started four (games 7-10), completing 93 of 170 passes (54.7%) for 726 yards, four touchdowns and eight interceptions. He was also sacked 16 times (-122). In the season opener at Miami, Brister spelled Boomer Esiason and went 5-8 for 37 yards and one interception. In Week Two vs. Indianapolis he played but did not throw a pass. Brister completed 13 of 23 passes for 112 yards, one touchdown and one interception at Buffalo (10/8). The next week at Carolina he completed 17 of 41 passes for 143 yards with 3 interceptions. A week later against Miami (10/22) he was 15-26 for 152 yards with two touchdowns and one interception in New York's 17-16. He followed that at Indianapolis (10/29) by completing 19 of 31 for 154 yards, one touchdown and one interception. Brister signed with the Jets as an unrestricted free agent Mar. 1, 1995. 1994: Brister played in seven games (two starts) for Philadelphia as the backup to Randall Cunningham. He was also the holder on field goals and PATs in Games 1-5. Brister started the final two games of the year, eclipsing the 300-yard passing mark for the fifth time in his career with a 26-of-37, 325-yard, one-touchdown performance in the season finale at Cincinnati. 1993: Brister started eight games with Philadelphia and finished fourth in the NFC (7th NFL) with an 89.4 passer rating. He led Philly to a 4-2 record over the final six games, completing 141 of 236 passes for 1,479 yards, 11 touchdowns and three interceptions. He threw for three touchdowns and 350 yards and led a 68-yard overtime drive that set up the game-winning field goal in the season finale at San Francisco on Monday Night Football. He also threw for three scores the previous week at New Orleans. Brister set career-highs for attempts (45) and completions (27) at Dallas (12/6), then topped that performance a week later with 28 completions on 48 attempts for 299 yards and a score vs. Buffalo. He led a 75-yard game-winning drive at Washington (11/28) that culminated with a two-yard pass to James Joseph with 46 seconds remaining in regulation to give the Eagles a 17-14 victory. He took over for Cunningham in Game Four against the Jets and started two games before missing the next five with neck and ankle injuries. 1992: Brister played in six games for Pittsburgh, starting the last four in place of injured Neil O'Donnell. He led the team to two comeback victories, including a 23-13 win over Cleveland that clinched a home playoff game for the Steelers. 1991: Brister started Games 1-5 for Pittsburgh before a sprained knee in Game Five forced him out of the next eight contests. He returned to the starting lineup for the final three games of the season and finished the year with 103 completions on 190 attempts for 1,350 yards, nine touchdowns and nine interceptions en route to a 5-3 record as a starter. 1990: Brister started all 16 games for the first time in his career and had his best year as a pro, setting career highs in attempts (387), completions (223), passing yards (2,725), touchdown passes (20) and passer rating (81.6). The 20 scores were the most by a Pittsburgh quarterback since Terry Bradshaw's 22 in 1981. Brister ranked sixth in the AFC and 10th in the NFL in passer rating. He had an outstanding day at Denver (10/14), completing 21 of 28 for a career-high 353 yards and four touchdowns in a 34-17 win, including a career-long 90-yard touchdown pass to Dwight Stone. He earned AFC Offensive Player of the Month honors for October. 1989: Brister started 14 games for the Steelers and finished the season with a 73.1 passer rating. He had a stretch of eight games without throwing an interception after throwing three on opening day vs. Cleveland. Brister set a Steeler record with 15 consecutive completions at Detroit and finished 21 of 27 for 267 yards and one touchdown to earn AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors. He sprained his left knee in Game Five vs. Cincinnati, forcing him to miss Games 6-7, but came back to lead the team to wins in five of their last six games. Brister was 15 of 33 for 127 yards in Pittsburgh's 26-23 overtime AFC Wild Card victory at Houston. He was 19 of 29 for 229 yards and a score the next week in the AFC Divisional Playoff loss at Denver. 1988: Brister won the Steelers' starting job over Todd Blackledge and Steve Bono and led the team with six rushing touchdowns. He won his first game as a starter in Pittsburgh's opening day win over Dallas. He missed three games with a dislocated finger on his throwing hand in Game Five vs. Cleveland. He threw the AFC's longest pass of the year (89-yard TD to Louis Lipps) vs. Philadelphia and earned AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors with his 17-of-36, 311-yard, three-touchdown performance in a 37-34 upset win at Houston. 1987: Brister played in two games for Pittsburgh and was 4 of 12 for 33 yards and three interceptions. 1986: Brister started two games for the injured Mark Malone and was 21 of 60 for 291 yards and two interceptions. He was a third-round selection by the Steelers out of Northeastern Louisiana (4th QB, 67th player overall).

COLLEGE: Brister played collegiately at Northeastern Louisiana where he was a first-team All-Southland Conference selection and Louisiana's Most Valuable Player as a senior when he ranked seventh in the country with a 134.8 passer rating. Brister led the conference in passing and total offense as a senior. He transferred to Northeastern Louisiana from Tulane.

PERSONAL: Brister was a two-sport star at Neville High School in Monroe, La., and was drafted in the 10th round by the Detroit Tigers baseball team in 1981. He played 39 games in their farm system, batting .180 (20-for-111) with 10 RBI as a shortstop and outfielder. He also played winter ball for current Colorado Rockies manager Jim Leyland. Cyron Brown made great strides during his rookie season of 1998 after joining the Broncos as an undrafted free agent out of Western Illinois. After bulking up considerably from a collegiate playing weight of 241 pounds, Brown hopes to maintain all the speed and athleticism on his 275-pound frame to make a big impact in his second NFL season. He played in four games last season, both on defense and special teams.

1998: Brown played in four games (vs. Dal., 9/13; at Oak., 9/20; at Miami, 12/21 and vs. Sea., 12/27) as a rookie, both on defense and special teams, and was inactive for the other 12. His appearance as a reserve defensive end vs. Dallas was the first of his NFL career. He saw his next action the following week at Oakland (9/20), and did not play again until Dec. 21 at Miami. Brown was declared inactive for all three postseason games. In the preseason Brown played in all four games and posted six tackles (4 solo), including one sack (-5), to go along with one pass defended, to win a roster spot as an undrafted free agent.

COLLEGE: Brown played just one season at Western Illinois (1997) after transferring from Illinois, but had a memorable year, finishing second on the team with 107 tackles (52 solo), including no fewer than six in every game. He played in 12 of the Leathernecks' 13 games and recorded 14 sacks, 39 tackles for loss (-183), seven pass breakups, two fumble recoveries, two forced fumbles and a blocked punt that was recovered for a touchdown. Brown, who had a sack in every game but one, recorded 28% of his tackles behind the line of scrimmage, and had a career-high three sacks in his collegiate finale vs. Div I-AA runner-up McNeese State (12/6) in a second-round playoff game. He was a Buck Buchanan Award Candidate. At Illinois (1993-96), Brown redshirted in 1993, then went on to record 61 stops (39 solo) — including six tackles for loss and four sacks — as a defensive lineman and linebacker during his Fighting Illini career. He was named the Bresee Award winner in 1994 for being the most improved defensive player during spring practice.

PERSONAL: A native of Chicago, Ill., Brown was all-state and team MVP in football, as well as all-city in basketball, at Lane Tech. He has a 5-year-old son, Darius DeAndre. Cyron DeAndre Brown was born June 28, 1975 in Chicago. He is single and makes his home in Lone Tree, Colo.

Eric Brown stands poised in 1999 to regain the starting position in the Denver secondary that he relinquished over the latter part of 1998 because of a nagging groin injury. As a rookie, Brown played in 11 games and started 10, making 43 tackles (29 solo) and knocking down three passes. He earned All-Rookie acclaim from Football

News, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, after being selected by Denver in the second round (61st overall) of the 1998 draft.

1998: Brown — named to the all-rookie teams of Football News, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly — started 10 games and played in 11 at strong safety, recording 43 tackles (29 solo), as well as three passes defended and a fumble recovery in his rookie season. He also had eight tackles on special teams, including a season-high 2 vs. Jacksonville (10/25). Brown played but did not start at Seattle (10/11), being replaced in the starting lineup by Tyrone Braxton as the Seahawks opened in a three-wide receiver set, and was then inactive for games 11-14 and 16 because of a groin injury suffered in practice 11/19. He returned to action at Miami (12/21), starting at strong safety, but came out in the second quarter when the injury flared up again, and was back on the inactive list (Fri.) for the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27). Brown's Week 1 start vs. New England (9/7) was the first of his NFL career, as he became the second rookie defensive back to start for a defending Super Bowl champion, following Washington's Darrell Green, who did so in 1983. He recovered his first NFL fumble at Washington (9/27) in the fourth quarter to set up Denver's final touchdown in a 38-16 win. Brown turned in the high-tackle performance of his young career at Cincinnati (11/1), posting 10 (9 solo) to rank second on the team. Brown was declared inactive for all three postseason contests because of a groin injury that kept him out of five of the final six regular season games. In the preseason Brown played in all four games and started two (at St. Louis, 8/8, and at Tennessee, 8/29) at strong safety. He was inserted into the starting lineup on a full-time basis the week of the Tennessee game. Brown was impressive in compiling 16 tackles (15 solo), second-most on the team, and also recovered a fumble in the opener at St. Louis (8/8), as well as contributing a tackle on special teams.

COLLEGE: Brown was a two-year starter at Mississippi State, where he was named All-American by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft and earned All-Southeastern Conference second-team honors as a senior in 1997. Glenn Cadrez's career took a significant step forward in 1998 when he won the starting middle linebacker position in training camp and went on to finish second on the team in tackles. His play gave the Denver defense a spark as it successfully defended its World Championship and won its second straight Super Bowl, with Cadrez leading all Broncos defenders in the win over Atlanta with eight tackles (4 solo). A seven-year veteran, Cadrez has now played in 107 career games (22 starts) and made 180 tackles (118 solo), including six sacks (-23), as well as two passes defended, three forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He came to the Broncos Sept. 27, 1995 after playing in the season-opener for the Jets. He had played under Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson during his three-year stay in New York. Cadrez was originally a sixth-round pick (154th overall) by the Jets in 1992.

1998: Cadrez started at his new position of middle linebacker in 15 of the 16 games and ranked second on the team with a career-high 105 tackles (76 solo), including a career-high four sacks (-20), to go along with two passes defended, the first two interceptions of his career, three forced fumbles and four special teams tackles (high of 2 vs. K.C., 12/6). He did not start vs. Seattle in the season-finale (nickel package). His first sack since 1995 came at Washington (9/27) when he dropped Trent Green for an 8-yd. loss in the 4th qtr., which was followed the next week by a 2-yd. sack of Philadelphia's Bobby Hoyer. After posting the first two sacks of his career on back-to-back plays in a 1995 game vs. Jacksonville, (12/3) Cadrez went 38 games without a sack before posting two in a two-game span. He added his third sack vs. Jacksonville (10/25) with an 8-yd. sack of Mark Brunell in the 2nd qtr., and his fourth at San Diego (11/29) on Craig Whelihan (-2). Cadrez's first career interception came at Seattle in Week 6, when he plucked a John Friesz pass to halt a potential go-ahead drive by the Seahawks in the fourth quarter. Denver led 21-16 and Seattle had driven to the Broncos' 28-yd. line before Cadrez came up with the interception, which he returned 6 yds., to go along with a then-career-high 10 tackles (9 solo) to lead the team. He topped that effort with a team-leading 11 tackles (7 solo) three weeks later at Cincinnati (11/1), and then established a new career best by leading the club with 12 tackles (7 solo) in a 30-7 Broncos win at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football. Cadrez victimized Seattle again for his second career interception, snaring a Jon Kitna pass just before halftime in the season-finale (12/27). Postseason: Cadrez started at middle linebacker in all three contests and tied for fourth on the team with 14 tackles (7 solo). He made his first career postseason start in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) and posted two tackles (1 solo) with one pass defended, and then contributed four tackles (2 solo) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Cadrez was Denver's leading tackler in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), posting eight (4 solo).

1997: Cadrez contributed at linebacker in all 16 games, making eight tackles (7 solo), and on special teams where he added six more and a forced fumble. His forced fumble came on the opening kickoff of the second half vs. Seattle (11/2), and was scooped up and returned six yards for a touchdown by Darrius Johnson. At Atlanta (9/28) he recorded one assisted tackle and one special teams stop in Denver's 29-21 victory. He also had two solo stops and a special teams tackle at Oakland (10/19) and followed that up with two solo tackles the next week at Buffalo. In the season-finale vs. San Diego (12/21) he made one solo tackle, and played on special teams. In the postseason Cadrez saw action at linebacker in all four games, making three tackles (2 solo), and also contributed on special teams. He had one assisted tackle at Pittsburgh and served as the "spy" on Steelers quarterback Kordell Stewart for most of the day, as Stewart only ran for 11 yards on two carries after his 33-yard touchdown in the first quarter. In Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card Playoff win over Jacksonville (12/21/97) Cadrez made two solo tackles and participated on special teams. 1996: Cadrez saw action in all 16 regular season games, both as a linebacker and on special teams. He made 15 tackles (7 solo), including half a sack, on defense and six tackles on special teams. His most extensive action of the season came vs. San Diego (10/6) when he replaced an injured John Mobley and played nearly half the game at weakside linebacker. He also replaced Mobley for a significant portion of the game at Oakland (11/4) on Monday Night Football, making two tackles (one solo). He participated on special teams in Denver's lone postseason contest. 1995: Cadrez, who had played in the season opener as a member of the New York Jets before being released Sept. 19, made his first professional start at left linebacker at New England (10/8) as a replacement for the injured Elijah Alexander. He took over that role full-time when Alexander was placed on injured reserve (11/22). Cadrez finished the season with 44 tackles (22 solo), two sacks and one fumble recovery on defense, and contributed two more tackles on special teams. Cadrez made his first appearance as a Bronco at Seattle (10/1), and started the following week at New England (10/8). He tore cartilage in his right knee during the latter contest, and underwent arthroscopic surgery Tuesday, Oct. 10. He was expected to miss two weeks, but did not return to action until Nov. 5 when the Broncos faced the Cardinals. Cadrez registered the first two sacks of his career on consecutive plays — third and fourth down — to thwart a late Jacksonville rally Dec. 3 in the Broncos' 31-23 win. He also made a key play in the fourth quarter of the Broncos' come-from-behind victory at Oakland in the season finale (12/24), recovering a fumble at Denver's 28-yard line with 3:52 remaining in the game and the score tied at 28-28. The recovery stalled the Raiders' potential game-winning drive, and set up the Broncos' own game-winning drive that culminated with a Jason Elam 37-yard field goal. 1994: As a member of the New York Jets, Cadrez played in all 16 games, primarily on special teams, recording 11 special teams stops. 1993: Cadrez played in all 16 games, recording 11 special teams tackles and six tackles as a backup linebacker. 1992: As a rookie, Cadrez played in all 16 games, registering eight special teams tackles on the season. He was a sixth-round pick (154th overall) by the Jets in 1992.

COLLEGE: Cadrez played collegiately at the University of Houston from 1990-91, where he earned All-Southwest Conference honors as a senior in 1991 when he led the Cougars with 12 sacks as a defensive end. For the season he recorded 63 tackles, one forced fumble and 14 tackles for loss. Cadrez transferred to Houston from Chaffey Junior College, where he led the team in tackles and sacks both seasons he was there.

He and his wife, Betsy, and their two daughters, make their home in El Centro. Cadrez opened a restaurant in his hometown last year. Glenn E. Cadrez was born January 2, 1970.

Dwayne Carswell continues to be one of the most valuable backups on the Broncos' roster, spelling All-Pro tight end Shannon Sharpe as well as providing outstanding special teams play throughout his five-year career. Carswell has played in 61 career games (seven starts), catching 34 passes for 269 yards (7.9) with a long of 24 yards and one touchdown, while making 29 special teams tackles. He has also played in eight postseason games, in which he has caught five passes for 55 yards (11.0) with a long of 26 and made one special teams tackle. Carswell began his career with the Broncos in 1994 as a rookie free agent from Liberty University.

1998: Carswell played in all 16 games as the second tight end and caught four passes for 51 yds. (12.8) with a long of 15, as well as on special teams, where he made 10 tackles and forced a fumble (at K.C., 11/16). He started at Seattle (10/11) when the Broncos opened in a two-tight end alignment. Postseason: Carswell saw action as the second tight end and on special teams in all three games and caught one pass for 7 yds., while making one special teams tackle. The pass reception came in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17/99), while the special teams tackle came in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9).

1997: Carswell contributed in a reserve role at tight end and on special teams in all 16 games, and made two starts as Denver opened the game in a two-tight end set at Buffalo (10/26) and Kansas City (11/16). For the year he recorded 12 receptions for 96 yards (8.0), and scored his first career touchdown on a career-best 24-yard reception from John Elway vs. St. Louis (9/14). In that game Carswell tied his career high for receptions (4), and set a new career high for receiving yards (47). He also injured tissue on the top of his left foot during the St. Louis game and was held out of practice the following week, but did not miss a game. Carswell made 12 special teams tackles on the season, and recovered a fumble on a kickoff at Buffalo (10/26). He was named the Broncos' special teams captain at midseason, joining offensive captains John Elway and Terrell Davis and defensive captains Steve Atwater and Bill Romanowski. In the postseason Carswell saw action at tight end in all four postseason games and caught two passes for 30 yards (15-0) with a long of 26, while also contributing one tackle on special teams. In Denver's 31-24 victory in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) Carswell caught one pass for four yards, and also contributed on special teams. His other postseason grab, a 26-yarder, came in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98). 1996 Carswell saw action in all 16 regular season games and started one at tight end in place of Shannon Sharpe (at San Diego, 12/22). Most of his action during the regular season came on special teams and as the second tight end on offense. For the season he caught 15 passes for 85 yards, and made five special teams tackles according to unofficial press box statistics. He caught a career-high four passes (16 yards) vs. Oakland (12/15) in the Broncos' 24-19 victory, and later started at tight end in place of Shannon Sharpe (ankle) at San Diego (12/22) in Denver's regular season finale and caught three passes for 24 yards. Carswell started as the second tight end for Denver against the Chargers on Oct. 6, as the Broncos opened the game in a two-tight end set. He caught a three-yard pass and made one special teams tackle. He also saw plenty of action at tight end in Denver's regular season opener against the Jets, as Shannon Sharpe was nursing a slightly sprained ankle. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville, Carswell saw action as the backup tight end, catching two passes for 18 yards with a long of 10, and also contributed on special teams in his first career postseason game. 1995 Carswell was declared inactive for seven of the Broncos' first 13 games, before making his first career start against Seattle Dec. 10. He replaced the injured Shannon Sharpe (eye) and Jerry Evans (knee) in the starting lineup, and did so again the following week at Kansas City (12/17) when he caught two passes for 32 yards, including a career-best 23-yarder. He sprained his ankle on the second play of the game, but played through it. For the year, Carswell caught three passes for 37 yards and made two special teams tackles. His first action of the season came at Seattle (10/1) when he played on special teams, and he made his first appearance on offense versus Arizona (11/5). Carswell's first career start came Dec. 10 against Seattle when he caught his first career pass, a five-yarder from John Elway in the second quarter. He was inactive for the first four games of the season. 1994 Carswell spent the first 11 weeks of the season on the practice squad before being moved to the active roster during the week of the Cincinnati game (11/27). He played on special teams during that game, and then saw his first duty at tight end the following week at Kansas City (12/4). Carswell again saw action in the following two games, recovering a fumble against the Raiders (12/11), but was inactive in the season finale against New Orleans (12/24).

COLLEGE: Carswell finished his career at Liberty with 65 receptions for 511 yards and two touchdowns, and posted senior-year totals of 32 receptions for 259 yards in 1993. He also played in the Flames' offensive backfield for two seasons, finishing 1991 with 435 yards rushing and five touchdowns. Carswell was coached at Liberty by former Cleveland Browns' head coach Sam Rutigliano.

PERSONAL: Carswell, a native of Jacksonville, Fla., earned all-state honors as a junior and senior at Temple and University Christian High Schools. He was named second-team all-state as a sophomore at Temple, and also earned all-conference, all-district and all-county honors during his high school career as a safety, running back and wide receiver. He and his wife Tamara make their home in Aurora, Colo., with their daughters, Ashley and Aaron.

The addition of Dale Carter to the Broncos' secondary in 1999 gives Denver a tremendous 1-2 punch at the cornerback position along with Ray Crockett, and solidifies the Broncos' standing among the top defensive units in the NFL. Carter's aggressive style of play and outstanding speed have given him the reputation of being one of the top cornerbacks in pro football today. Carter has played in 104 regular season games (88 starts), all with Kansas City, and recorded 21 interceptions (one touchdown), 473 tackles (330 solo), five forced fumbles, two fumble recoveries and 97 passes defended. He has participated in four postseason games. Carter is one of only two active players (Deion Sanders) to score touchdowns on a punt return, interception return and as a wide receiver during his career. He was Kansas City's first-round draft choice (20th overall) in 1992 and played seven seasons with the Chiefs.

1998: Carter played in 11 games (nine starts) at left cornerback for the Kansas City Chiefs, producing 54 tackles (34 solo) and two interceptions (23 return yds.). He registered a team-high 10 tackles (eight solo) and one pass defended vs. Oakland (9/6). He did not start the following week at Jacksonville (9/13) because of a foot injury, but recorded two tackles (one solo). Carter picked off a Ryan Leaf pass (23 yd. return) vs. San Diego (9/20), in addition to tallying one quarterback pressure and six tackles (two solo). His other interception came vs. Seattle (John Friesz) Oct. 4, along with a forced fumble, four tackles (two solo) and one pass defended. Carter suffered a right knee sprain at New England (10/11) and left the game after making three solo tackles. He started at left cornerback vs. the N.Y. Jets (11/1), but suffered an injury to his left forearm in the first quarter and did not return. Carter was listed as inactive with a left forearm injury at Seattle (11/8), vs. Denver (11/16) and at San Diego (11/22), then returned to action in a reserve role vs. Arizona (11/29) and totaled five tackles (four solo) with one pass breakup. At Denver (12/6) he started at left cornerback for the first time since the Jets game and racked up six tackles (five solo). Carter closed the season on the inactive list (forearm) for the final two games, at the N.Y. Giants (12/20) and at Oakland (12/26).

1997: Carter started in 15 of 16 games for the Chiefs, registering 77 tackles (55 solo), two interceptions (9 yards) and nine passes defended. He earned Pro Bowl honors for the fourth consecutive season — his third straight trip as a starter — and received first-team All-AFC accolades from Pro Football Weekly and Football News. In the postseason, Carter started and tallied four tackles against Denver (1/4/98) in an AFC Divisional game. 1996: Carter earned a Pro Bowl nod for the third straight season, starting 14 of 16 games. He missed the season's final two games with a left knee sprain, but still paced the club with a career-high 21 passes defended and added three interceptions (17 yards), as well as two forced fumbles and a fumble recovery. He ranked fifth on the team with 65 tackles (55 solo). Carter was an All-Pro pick by The Sporting News, a second-team All-Pro selection by AP and a first-team All-AFC selection by UPI. He also merited a spot on the All-AFC team of Football News. Carter had the second rushing attempt of his career against Minnesota (11/3). 1995: Carter played in all 16 games, starting 14, and was selected to the AFC Pro Bowl squad for the second straight year, his first as a starter. He was a first-team All-NFL choice by USA Today, received second-team All-NFL honors from AP and College & Pro Football Newsweekly and was named first-team All-AFC by Pro Football Weekly. Carter led the team with four interceptions (134 yards) and posted 16 passes defended to top the club for the fourth straight year. He posted 70 tackles (54 solo) and had nine stops on punt returns. Carter did not start in the season-opener at Seattle (9/3). He recorded all four of his interceptions in a three-game stretch from Oct. 15-Nov. 5 (one vs. New England, two vs. Denver, one vs. Washington). Carter started the club's lone playoff contest vs. Indianapolis (1/7/96) and had one tackle and a pass deflection. 1994. Carter started all 16 games and earned his first Pro Bowl trip after another stellar season, finishing third on the team with 94 tackles. He picked off two passes, deflected 15 others and returned 16 punts for a 7.8 avg., including a 42-yarder vs. Seattle (11/27). Carter's interceptions came against Cleveland (11/20) and Atlanta (9/18), the latter of which broke Jeff George's streak of 279 passes without an interception. 1993. Carter played in 15 games (11 starts) and finished eighth on the club with 58 tackles (43 solo) while also posting 12 pass deflections (second on team), one interception (against Buffalo, 11/28) and a forced fumble. He also returned 27 punts for a 9.1 avg. (sixth in AFC), blocked a PAT and made 10 coverage tackles (fourth on team). He missed the season finale and all three playoff games after suffering a broken forearm at Minnesota (12/26). Carter moved to right cornerback after starting the first three games at left corner for Albert Lewis, who was also out with a broken forearm. Carter was a backup in games 4-7. He had his first pro carry on a reverse against Buffalo. 1992. Carter played in all 16 games (nine starts) and won the Bert Bell trophy as the NFL Rookie of the Year. He was also named NFL Rookie of the Year by the Pro Football Writers of America and earned NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year honors from AP, Pro Football Weekly and College & Pro Football Newsweekly (co-winner). UPI named him their top rookie choice, and he was a consensus member of the various all-rookie teams. Carter was also a first-team selection as a punt returner by UPI. He scored a touchdown the very first time he touched a ball in an NFL game by scoring on a 46-yard punt return against San Diego (9/6). Carter also had a career-high 86-yard punt return for a score against Seattle (11/22), the second-longest in team history. His seven picks (tied for third in NFL) were the second-most ever by a Chiefs rookie, topped only by Bobby Hunt's eight in 1962. Carter was a first round (20th overall) selection by the Chiefs out of Tennessee.

COLLEGE: Carter was a standout free safety and return man at Tennessee, earning first-team All-America honors as a senior. He played just two seasons of major college ball after transferring from Ellsworth Community College in Iowa Falls, Iowa. As a two-year starter for the Vols, Carter posted 108 tackles (84 solo), nine interceptions and 10 pass deflections, while averaging 27.7 yards on 44 kick returns and 9.9 yards on 53 punt returns. He scored a touchdown on a kick return and an interception return. Byron Chamberlain continued to grow in his backup tight end position in 1998, and with Shannon Sharpe and Dwayne Carswell gives Denver the strongest and deepest tight end corps in the NFL. That depth has kept Chamberlain from posting big numbers, but his contributions to Denver's offense and special teams have played an integral role in the club's back-to-back Super Bowl wins. That was never more evident than in Super Bowl XXXIII last January, when he helped pick up the slack after Sharpe left the game with an injury, catching three passes for 29 yards and recovering two Atlanta on-side kicks. Now in his fifth year, Chamberlain has played in 42 games and caught 18 passes for 193 yards (10.7) with a long of 17. He has also appeared in seven postseason games and caught five passes for 55 yards (11.0) with a long of 16. Chamberlain was drafted by the Broncos in the seventh round (222nd overall) in 1995 out of Wayne State, and is in his fifth year with the club. He spent the 1996 World League season with the Rhein Fire, and led the league with 58 receptions for 685 yards (11.8) and a league-leading eight touchdowns.

1998: Chamberlain saw action at tight end and on special teams in all 16 games and caught three passes for 35 yards (11.7) with a long of 16, while making five special teams tackles. He caught a pass in each of the first two games, for 7 yds. vs. New England (9/7) and 12 yds. vs. Dallas (9/13), and waited until the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27) to add another, for a season-long 16 yds. Postseason: Chamberlain played in all three games and caught five passes for 55 yards (11.0) with a long of 16. His first two postseason receptions (for 26 yds.) came in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/31), including the aforementioned 16-yarder. Chamberlain stepped in for an injured Shannon Sharpe (knee) in the second quarter of Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31) and came through with three receptions for 29 yds. and a long of 13. He also recovered two Atlanta on-side kicks in the 4th qtr. to help seal Denver's 34-19 win.

1997: Chamberlain saw action in 10 of the 16 games as a reserve tight end and special teams performer, and caught two passes for 18 yards (9.0), with a long of 9, both coming against St. Louis on Sept. 14 in a 35-14 Broncos victory. He also returned one kickoff for 13 yards (at Kansas City, 11/16). Chamberlain was inactive at Atlanta (9/28), vs. New England (10/6), vs. Seattle (11/2), at San Francisco (12/15) and vs. San Diego (12/21), and was active but did not play at Pittsburgh (12/7). He returned a kickoff for 13 yards at Kansas City (11/16/97). His fumble at the end of the return was recovered by teammate Vaughn Hebron. In the postseason Chamberlain appeared in three of the four games at tight end and on special teams (exception was Super Bowl XXXII). 1996:

Chamberlain saw action in 11 regular season games on special teams and at tight end, and caught 12 passes for 129 yards (10.8). He also returned three kickoffs for 49 (16.3) yards and made one special teams tackle. Chamberlain was inactive for the first three games while recovering from a ruptured tendon in his left ring finger. He returned to practice Sept. 18 after missing six weeks, then saw his first game action of the season at Kansas City (9/22). On Oct. 6 vs. San Diego, Chamberlain established a new career high with two receptions for 18 yards, including his first of the year — a 12-yarder on which he put a nice spin move on two San Diego defenders to gain several extra yards. His longest career reception was a 17-yarder vs. Seattle (12/1). Chamberlain set career highs in both receptions (5) and receiving yards (61) vs. Oakland (12/15). On Dec. 22 at San Diego, Chamberlain saw action at tight end, making three catches for 22 yards. In the AFC Divisional Playoffs vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97), he saw action on offense and also contributed on special teams, returning one kickoff for 15 yards. 1995: Chamberlain was signed to the active roster Nov. 24 after spending the first 11 games of the season on the practice squad. His first professional game came at Houston (11/26). Chamberlain was elevated to the second-string tight end position for the final three games of the season while Shannon Sharpe was out with an eye injury and Jerry Evans was placed on injured reserve with a knee injury. For the season, Chamberlain caught one pass for 11 yards (at Oak., 12/24) and had two special teams tackles. The reception, from John Elway, came during Denver's game-tying drive in the fourth quarter, as the Broncos went on to win 31-28.

COLLEGE: Chamberlain set a school record for receptions at Wayne State with 161, and ranks third on the all-time list for receiving yards with 1,941. He began his college career at Missouri, where he was an All-Big Eight Conference honorable mention selection in 1991. Chamberlain started all 10 games as a senior at Wayne State in 1994, registering a school-record 83 catches for 926 yards (11.2 avg.), and seven touchdowns. He also rushed seven times for 100 yards (14.3) and one touchdown. Chamberlain was a Division II first-team All-America choice by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. Chamberlain sat out the 1992 season following his transfer from Missouri where he had spent three seasons. He played in every game as a freshman in 1989, catching three balls for 92 yards (30.7) and one touchdown, before redshirting in 1990 and then returning for his sophomore season in 1991 when he earned All-Big Eight honorable mention. Chamberlain was a sports management major at Wayne State.

PERSONAL: Chamberlain was a third-team all-state selection as a wide receiver at Eastern Hills High School in Fort Worth, Texas. He was also an all-district and All-Tarrant County first-team choice. He caught 34 passes for 645 yards (19.0 avg.) and seven touchdowns, adding 216 yards rushing with a pair of scores on 13 carries as a senior. Coghill joined the Broncos as a free agent July 16, 1997 and showed steady improvement in his game during a season on the practice squad. He entered the league in 1993 as a rookie free agent with New Orleans, but spent the year on injured reserve, and was out of football in 1994. Coghill then played in the World League (now NFL Europe) from 1995-97 with the Scottish Claymores before signing with Denver.

1998: Coghill saw action in nine games (at Sea., 10/11; at Cin., 11/1) and each of the final seven games of the year) and was declared inactive for the other seven (3 Fri./4 Sun.) in his first season of NFL play. He snared his first career interception at San Diego (11/29), picking off a Craig Whelihan pass with 46 seconds left in the game, to go along with a career-high four tackles (3 solo). Postseason: Coghill saw action at safety and on special teams in all three games. He made one solo tackle and forced a fumble in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), stripping Jamal Anderson of the ball in the 4th qtr., leading to a recovery by Tyrone Braxton. He also added two special teams tackles in the game, and had one in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17).

1997: Coghill played in the World League with the Scottish Claymores before signing with the Broncos just prior to the start of training camp (7/16). He spent the entire season on the Broncos' practice squad, earning his first Super Bowl ring. Coghill was waived Aug. 24, 1997, but was re-signed to the practice squad Aug. 25.

1996: Coghill played in the World League with the Scottish Claymores. 1995: Coghill played in the World League with the Scottish Claymores. 1994: Coghill was in training camp with New Orleans but was released Aug. 22. 1993: Coghill was signed by New Orleans as a rookie free agent April 27, 1993. Ray Crockett continues to play at the top of his game, distinguishing himself as one of the finest cornerbacks in the NFL. His play at the left cornerback position has been key to Denver's back-to-back World Championship run, and is paired with Pro Bowl right corner Dale Carter in 1999 to give the Broncos arguably the top cornerback tandem in the league. Crockett was rewarded with a five-year, $15 million contract during the 1998 offseason, putting him among the highest paid defensive backs in the NFL. Now in his sixth year in Denver and 11th year in the NFL, Crockett has played in 156 games and started 130, and made 678 tackles (554 solo), including 11.5 sacks (-104.5), in addition to 27 interceptions (407 return yards/2 TDs), 132 passes defended, 12 forced fumbles and seven fumble recoveries. He has also scored twice on fumble returns, giving him four touchdowns in his career. Crockett has also played in 10 postseason games (all starts), and posted 44 tackles (39 solo), including one sack, as well as one interception and seven passes defended. He has been named Conference Defensive Player of the Week three times in his career (NFC: Wk. 9 of 1991 and Wk. 18 of 1993 with Detroit / AFC: Wk. 3 of 1998 with Denver) and NFC Defensive Player of the Month once (Nov. 1991 with Detroit). Signed by the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent in 1994, Crockett was originally drafted by the Detroit Lions in the fourth round of the 1989 NFL Draft, 86th overall.

1998: Crockett started at left cornerback in all 16 games and ranked sixth on the team with 68 tackles (61 solo) as well as a team-leading 15 passes defended, one forced fumble and three interceptions (all vs. Oakland). He was also credited with half a sack (-2.5), combining with Bill Romanowski to wrap up Jacksonville's Mark Brunell in Week Eight (10/25). He posted his then-season-high of eight solo tackles in Week 2 vs. Dallas (9/13), and then turned in a spectacular performance the next week at Oakland (9/20) to earn AFC Defensive Player of the Week honors for the third time in his career (Wk. 9 of 1991 and Wk. 18 of 1993). Crockett intercepted two passes — one of which he returned 80 yds. for his fourth career touchdown — and deflected two others, while posting five solo tackles. His 80-yd. return for a touchdown (the second-longest in franchise history) came with 4:29 remaining in the game and helped seal the 34-17 victory. It was Crockett's second career multi-interception game, and his second career interception return for a TD, to go along with two fumble returns. Crockett missed most of the second-half at Seattle (10/11) because of an ankle injury. He recorded his third interception of the year when Oakland visited Denver Nov. 22, picking off a Donald Hollas pass in the 4th qtr. to set up a Broncos TD that gave the club a 26-14 lead. Crockett posted his season high of nine tackles (8 solo) in a 35-31 win vs. Kansas City (12/6), and his season high of four passes defended at Miami (12/21). Postseason: Crockett started at left cornerback in all three contests and ranked third on the team with 15 tackles (11 solo), to go along with two passes defended and two special teams tackles. He posted four tackles (2 solo), one pass defended and two special teams tackles in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) and added six stops (4 solo) and another pass defended in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Crockett was Denver's third-leading tackler in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), posting five solos and displaying stellar pass coverage in the secondary.

1997: Crockett started all 16 games at left cornerback and put in one of his finest years, in his ninth pro season, tying for fourth on the team with 83 tackles (69 solo), as well as tying for the team lead with four interceptions (tied for eighth in AFC), a forced fumble and a team-best 21 pass breakups. Crockett's four interceptions tied for eighth-most in the AFC and represented his highest single-season total since 1992 (4). His most notable pass breakup of the season thwarted a potential 33-yard scoring play by Kansas City in the season-opener (8/31). He also totaled five tackles on the day. Crockett plucked two interceptions in a game for the first time in his career with a pair of thefts vs. Carolina (11/9), which came on back-to-back series in the third quarter. He added four stops (three solo) against the Panthers in a 34-0 shutout, Denver's first shutout since 1995. His first interception of the season came vs. St. Louis (9/14) when he picked off a Tony Banks pass in the fourth quarter, adding to five pass breakups he registered in the contest. His second interception came at Buffalo (10/26), deep in Broncos territory in the fourth quarter to complement his six stops against the Bills. Crockett's forced fumble early in the second quarter vs. the Raiders (11/24) was recovered by Tyrone Braxton and returned 8 yards to set up the Broncos' first touchdown. Crockett was also among Denver's leaders in tackles during the season, racking up at least four tackles in all but two games (two stops vs. New England, 10/6, and two stops vs. San Diego, 12/21). He had a season-high nine stops (seven solo) vs. Seattle on Nov. 2 and matched those numbers at Pittsburgh on Dec. 7. He also had seven stops (four solo) at Seattle (9/7) and at San Diego (six solo, 11/30). He closed out the regular season with a two-tackle (both solo), three pass breakup effort against the Chargers (12/21). In the postseason Crockett started at left cornerback in all four games and elevated his performance to match the occasion, making 19 solo tackles (third on the team), including a sack (-1), with an interception and three passes defended. He also recovered a fumble on special teams (at Pittsburgh, 1/11). After starting the postseason slowly with only one tackle against Jacksonville in an AFC Wild Card Game (12/27), Crockett had a four-tackle effort at Kansas City on Jan. 4 in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win. Crockett was given the responsibility of covering Andre Rison, the Chiefs best receiver, for most of the day, a task he would have to take the following week in Pittsburgh against Yancey Thigpen in the AFC Championship Game. He proved he was up to the task, holding Thigpen to six receptions for the game and no touchdowns (Thigpen scored three on Denver in December). He also added a sack of Kordell Stewart, two passes defended and a team-leading eight tackles (all solo) in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) he tied for second on the team with six solo tackles and a pass defended, as the Broncos defense forced three-time MVP Brett Favre into two critical turnovers during the game to lead to Denver's 31-24 victory. 1996: Crockett started 15 games at left cornerback, missing only the regular season finale (at S.D., 12/22) with a knee injury. He was solid all season and came up with numerous big plays in the Denver secondary, while putting up outstanding numbers with 68 tackles (56 solo), a career-best four sacks (-29), three forced fumbles, 15 passes defended and two interceptions (34 yards). He also added five special teams tackles. At Seattle (9/8) Crockett made five tackles (3 solo), including a sack of Rick Mirer for a seven-yard loss. He forced a fumble on the play, recovered by Bill Romanowski. It was Crockett's second straight game with a sack, following his eight-yarder against the Jets in Week One. At Kansas City (9/22) Crockett made seven tackles (6 solo), including a sack of Steve Bono for a four-yard loss. The following week at Cincinnati (9/29), he made two solo tackles while breaking up two passes. His second was perhaps the most important defensive play of the day, as he reached with his left hand to tip away a 60-yard bomb from Jeff Blake, intended for Darnay Scott, at the Broncos' 10-yard line with just under two minutes remaining and the Broncos leading 14-10. He capped a brilliant three-week performance against San Diego (10/6) by registering six solo tackles and forcing two fumbles in Denver's 28-17 come-from-behind victory. Crockett had another big day vs. Kansas City (10/27), making four tackles (2 solo), knocking down three passes and plucking his first interception of the season. He had tipped an earlier ball that was intercepted in the end zone by Tyrone Braxton, then ended a Kansas City scoring threat in the fourth quarter with his own end zone interception. At Oakland (11/4) Crockett made three tackles (2 solo), including his fourth sack of the season (-10) to establish a new career high in Denver's thrilling 22-21 Monday Night victory. He also added two special teams stops on the evening. His second interception of the year came vs. Oakland (12/15) and ended the Raiders' final threat, preserving Denver's 24-19 win. He suffered a knee injury at the end of the 34-yard return, but an MRI the following day proved negative. He was declared inactive for the San Diego game (12/22) because of the injury. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97), Crockett made two solo tackles with one pass defended. 1995: Crockett started all 16 games at left cornerback and made 78 tackles (61 solo), with 16 passes defended and three sacks. He also made two special teams tackles. Crockett recorded sacks in consecutive games vs. Arizona (11/5) and at Philadelphia (11/12), to account for two of his three on the year. He sprained his right knee in the first quarter vs. San Diego (11/19), and had to leave the game for several series, but came back to play the rest of the game after having it wrapped in the locker room. Crockett scored his third career touchdown at Kansas City (12/17) after stripping the ball from Chiefs quarterback Steve Bono on a sack, and racing 50 yards for the score. On the day he had seven tackles (6 solo), one pass defended and the aforementioned sack for -13 yards. 1994: Crockett joined the Broncos during the offseason as an unrestricted free agent from the Detroit Lions and immediately stepped in as a starter at right cornerback. He started all 14 games in which he played at that position, missing two games with a sprained ankle (at Seattle 10/9 and vs. Kansas City 10/17) suffered in the Broncos' 27-20 loss at Buffalo (9/26). He finished the season with 70 tackles (48 solo), tied for the team lead in interceptions with two (6 yards in returns), led the team in passes defended with 20 and scooped up two fumbles. He posted his season high in tackles with 10 (6 solo) in the Broncos' 20-17 overtime win at Kansas City (12/4). Crockett pulled down his first interception in a Denver uniform at San Diego (10/23) and recorded his second against Cincinnati (11/27) to set up a Broncos' score. Among his other highlights was a fumble recovery against the Raiders (9/18) that he returned 43 yards before being tackled inside the Raiders' 10-yard line, setting up a Denver score. 1993: Crockett started all 16 games for the Detroit Lions and finished the season with 68 tackles (57 solo), two interceptions, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery. In Crockett's five seasons in the NFC he earned the reputation as one of the game's most physical cornerbacks. He was named NFC Defensive Player of the Week for Week 18. 1992: Crockett was slowed early in the season by injuries, but had a good outing versus Minnesota (9/13). He finished the game with a pass interception and four tackles (three solo). Two weeks later vs. Tampa Bay he picked off his second pass of the season, and was credited with four tackles. His best all-around performance came versus Chicago, where he recorded a sack, intercepted a pass, and made five solo tackles. He ended the season with 52 tackles (41 solo), four interceptions, one forced and one recovered fumble. 1991: Crockett tied for the NFC lead and finished second in the NFL in interceptions with six. His interception return of 96 yards was the NFL's longest of the season. Crockett's 141 return yards were the most by a Lion since 1967. He was named Defensive Player of the Week for Week 9 after recording a team-high eight tackles and the 96-yard interception return vs. Dallas (10/27), and went on to earn NFC Defensive Player of the Month honors for November. Crockett finished the year with 86 tackles (74 solo), six interceptions and one forced fumble. 1990: Crockett finished second on the team in interceptions with three. He played primarily in nickel situations, earning his first start against the Broncos on Thanksgiving Day (11/22). Crockett finished the game with five solo tackles and an interception. His best game came at Green Bay (12/22), finishing with eight tackles, one interception, and a 22-yard fumble return for a touchdown to tie the score at 17-17. For the season Crockett's numbers were 59 tackles (53 solo), three interceptions, two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. 1989: Crockett played as a nickel back in all 16 contests, finishing the season with 46 tackles (34 solo), one interception and one forced fumble. He was drafted by Detroit in the fourth round of the 1989 NFL draft, 86th overall.

COLLEGE: Crockett finished his four-year career at Baylor with 169 tackles (120 solo), five interceptions and seven tackles for loss. He also returned five punts as a junior for 30 yards and earned first-team All-Southwest Conference honors with 62 tackles on the year and 13 passes defended. He also lettered in track. Crockett received his B.A. degree in computer science in May, 1992.

PERSONAL: Ray was a first-team all-district choice at Duncanville (Texas) High School and was named to the Dallas Morning News All-Academic team as an A student. He earned all-state honors as a tailback and cornerback, and also earned all-state honors in track for Duncanville. Throughout his career Ray has been very active in several communities, hosting the Ray Crockett Barry Foster Celebrity Golf Tournament in Dallas to benefit Ronald McDonald Children's Charities. During the offseason he regularly speaks to children on behalf of a "Stay in School" program in the Dallas area, then hosts a free football camp for the kids. Ray is also a United Way volunteer, and along with his wife, April, and Harald and Aundrea Hasselbach, organized a charity auction in May 1999 that raised $50,000 for victims of the Columbine High School shootings. Donald Ray Crockett was born January 5, 1967 in Dallas, Texas.

Terrell Davis was voted the National Football League's Most Valuable Player in 1998 by the Associated Press, climbing further into the upper echelon of running backs in pro football history. He is on a path that has him poised to make a run at every significant rushing record in the game, all the while maintaining an active role in the Denver community, and a nationwide effort to improve the lives of America's youth through his support of Pop Warner football.

Davis turned in a performance in 1998 that ranked among the greatest of all-time by a running back, claiming — in addition to NFL MVP honors — Offensive Player of the Year by AP, as well as consensus first-team All-NFL consideration and a starting berth in his third straight Pro Bowl as the only unanimous selection on all three ballots. The NFL's rushing and touchdown-scoring champion also picked up NFL MVP accolades from Pro Football Weekly and the Professional Football Writers of America, as well as Player of the Year honors from The Sporting News and Football Digest; Offensive Player of the Year from College & Pro Football Newsweekly and AFC Player of the Year from Football News. He capped his glorious run by picking up AFC Offensive Player of the Year honors from the Kansas City 101 Club, Professional Star of the Year acclaim for the second year in a row from the San Diego Hall of Champions and an ESPY Award for Pro Football Performer of the Year after becoming just the fourth player in league history to top the 2,000-yard rushing mark in a season. In the postseason he extended his NFL-record streak of 100-yard rushing performances to seven, in leading Denver to its second straight World Championship. Davis owns the best per-game rushing average in NFL history (105.1) for the regular season, and both the per-rush (5.6) and per-game (142.5) averages for the postseason, as well.

Davis has led the AFC in rushing each of the past three seasons and won his first NFL rushing title in 1998 after finishing second behind Detroit's Barry Sanders for two years prior. He set the all-time NFL record for most rushing yards gained (2,476) in a regular and postseason combined in 1998, after setting the mark for attempts (495) in 1997. Here is a look at some of Davis' more prominent career statistical notes after four seasons:

- After only four seasons in the league (61 games, 61 starts) Terrell Davis already ranks first on the Broncos' all-time rushing yardage list (6,413), third in rushing attempts (1,343), first in rushing touchdowns (56), first in total touchdowns (61) and first in career rushing average (4.8).
- Davis has 152 receptions for 1,181 yards (7.8 avg.) and five TD receptions.
- He also has 7,594 total yards from scrimmage (2nd) and 7,594 combined yards (3rd).
- Davis already holds or shares 59 team records (21 in the postseason), including most points scored in a season (138 in 1998), most total yards from scrimmage in a season (2,225 in 1998), most rushing yards in a season (2,008 in 1998), most rushing touchdowns in a season (21 in 1998), most touchdowns in a season (23 in 1998), most rushing attempts (31) and rushing yards (184) in a postseason game, and most rushing and total touchdowns (3) in a postseason game.
- Davis also has the most rushing yards in postseason play by a Bronco (871) and the most rushing and total touchdowns in postseason play by a Bronco (11).
- In 1998, Davis earned the Associated Press NFL Most Valuable Player Award, only the second Bronco (John Elway in 1987) to do so.
- Davis reached the 6,000-yard rushing plateau faster than any player in Broncos' history, and third-fastest in NFL history. He also reached 7,000 total yards from scrimmage mark faster than any other Denver player, and second-fastest in NFL history.
- Davis ranks No. 1 all-time in 100-yard rushing games in the regular season by a Bronco (31), recording his 30th in just his 59th NFL contest (12/13/98) and after notching his 25th in just his 50th NFL contest (10/11/98). Only three running backs in NFL history reached 30 100-yard rushing games quicker than Davis.

1998 NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Terrell Davis was voted the National Football League's 1998 Most Valuable Player by the Associated Press, becoming the second Broncos player ever to win the award. John Elway was MVP in 1987. Davis earned the award by posting just the fourth 2,000-yard season in NFL history, with a franchise-record 2,008 and 23 total touchdowns. He is the 13th running back to claim the award and only the fourth running back in the last 13 years to earn the most coveted individual award in professional football.

- Davis is one of only three players to rush for 6,000 yards in his first four seasons and ranks third in all-time rushing yards in the first four seasons of an NFL career.
- Davis is one of only six players to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first four NFL seasons, and in 1998 became only the second player in NFL history with three straight 1,500-yard rushing seasons, as well as the second player to ever have three such seasons in his first four years in the NFL.
- One of Davis' most notable accomplishments was becoming the lowest drafted player to rush for 1,000 yards in his first season, doing so with his 1,117-yard performance in 1995.

In just three years of postseason play, Davis has already re-written the Broncos postseason record book, laying claim to 21 postseason franchise records (59 overall). Here is a look at Davis' postseason franchise records:

- Most rushing attempts (32) and yards (199) in a game; most rushing TDs and total TDs in a game (3); longest run from scrimmage (62); most rushing and total TDs for a career (12); most total yards from scrimmage in a game (206); most total yards from scrimmage in a career (1,271); most points scored in a single postseason (48); most points scored in a career (74); most rushing yards in a postseason (581); most rushing yards in a career (1,140); most 100-yard rushing games (7); most consecutive 100-yard rushing games (7); most consecutive games scoring a touchdown (7); most consecutive 20-carry performances (7); most two-point conversions in a single postseason (1); and most two point conversions in a career (1).

What is most amazing is that it took him only four games to pass Sammy Winders' 461 rushing yards (11 games). Also, Davis became the first AFC rushing leader in the 32-year history of the Super Bowl to be on the winning side in Super Bowl XXXII, and duplicated that feat in XXXIII. A conference leader has only made it to the Super Bowl nine times, with Emmitt Smith (Dallas in 1992, '93 and '95) and Davis being the only leaders to win the game. Larry Brown (Washington in 1972), Thurman Thomas (Buffalo in 1990, '91 and '93) and Jamal Anderson (1998) are the only other conference rushing champions to make it to the Super Bowl. Davis was drafted by Denver 196th overall in the sixth round of the 1995 NFL Draft.

1998: Davis started at halfback in all 16 games and won his first NFL rushing title with 2,008 yards and 21 touchdowns on 392 carries (5.1), with a long of 70 (at Sea., 10/11), to become just the fourth player in league history to top the 2,000-yard rushing mark in a single season. His total

DAVIS' 1998 REGULAR SEASON RUSHING TOTAL RANKS AMONG BEST ALL-TIME

Terrell Davis' 1998 season will be one to remember for a long time in Denver, as he produced more total yards from scrimmage, rushing yards, attempts and touchdowns than any player in a season in franchise history. His rushing total of 2,008 yards ranks No. 3 all-time in a single season by any back, and No. 1 all-time by an AFC back.

DAVIS' PER-GAME AVERAGE CURRENTLY BEST OF ALL-TIME

Terrell Davis' career rushing average of 105.1 yards-per-game ranks No. 1 in NFL history, ahead of Hall-of-Famer Jim Brown and future Hall-of-Famer Barry Sanders. Here's a look at the top three:

TOP THREE ALL-TIME PER-GAME RUSHING AVERAGES

PLAYER	Yds./Gm.	YEARS PLAYED
1. Terrell Davis	105.1	1995-present
2. Jim Brown	104.3	1957-65
3. Barry Sanders	98.8	1989-present

ranked third-best all-time behind Hall-of-Famer Eric Dickerson's 2,105 (1984) and Barry Sanders' 2,053 (1997), and helped Davis become the Broncos' all-time career rushing leader with 6,413 yards, passing Floyd Little (6,323; 1967-75). He amassed his total in just 61 career games, giving him the best per-game rushing average in NFL history at 105.1 yards per game at the end of '98, just ahead of the only other player to average more than 100 yds. per game: Jim Brown (104.3). Davis also caught 25 passes for 217 yards (8.7) and two touchdowns in '98 to account for 2,225 total yards from scrimmage (2nd in NFL). Davis finished his fourth season with a whopping 7,594 total yards in his career, second-most ever in the first four years of a career, trailing only Dickerson (7,842). Davis' 23 total TDs were the most by a Bronco in a single season, and tied for third-most in NFL history (Jerry Rice, 1987 and O.J. Simpson, 1975) behind Emmitt Smith's 25 (1995) and John Riggins' 24 (1983). He shattered his previous club record of 15 set in 1996 (13 rush./2 rec.) and '97 (15 rush.), and his 21 rushing TDs also represent a team record, six better than the 15 he scored last year. In all for 1998, Davis set franchise single-season records for attempts (392), yards (2,008), rushing TDs (21), total TDs (23), total yards from scrimmage (2,225), total combined yards (also 2,225—that total includes returns), scoring (138) and 100-yd. games (11), conquering several more new categories in the Broncos' record book. Davis finished the season with 61 total touchdowns for his career (in 61 games), more than any other Bronco in history (Floyd Little, 54, 1967-75), and has scored more touchdowns in the first four years of an NFL career than any other player (Marcus Allen—58). He also has scored more rushing touchdowns per game (.918; 56 in 61 gms.) for his career than any other player in history. Davis became just the third player in NFL history to reach the 1,000-yd. plateau in the first seven games (1,001) of a season, matching Hall of Famers Jim Brown (Cleve., 1958) and O.J. Simpson (1973 and '75), and is the second back in NFL history to string together three straight 1,500-yd. rushing seasons (Barry Sanders, 1994-97). He recorded his third 1,500-yd. season in just his fourth year, tying Dickerson for fastest in league history to post such a total. In games 2-8 he put together a franchise-record streak of seven 100-yd. rushing performances. Davis in 1998 led the NFL in rushing yards, touchdowns, rushing touchdowns, first downs (112) and points (138), and ranked second in total yards from scrimmage (2,225). He was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for September (94-489-5.2-63t-6 in four games) and October (81-512-6.3-70-6), the third and fourth such awards of his career (Sept. 1996 and '97), and earned four AFC Offensive Player of the Week awards (Wks. 2, 5, 8 and 17; 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th of his career), while also garnering a Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honor (Week 2). Davis was outstanding in Week 2 vs. Dallas, rushing for 191 yards and three touchdowns on 23 carries (8.3), including touchdown runs of 59 and 63 yds. to earn both AFC Offensive Player of the Week and Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors. The 191-yard rushing total ranked sixth on his personal single-game ledger, and the two long runs — which came on successive plays — stand as the fourth-longest (63) and sixth-longest (59) of his career (7 of his top 9 have gone for touchdowns), and made him just the third player in NFL history to post two scoring runs of 50 yards or longer in the same quarter (Cliff Battles, Wash. vs. Pitt., 10/17/37, 60 & 72 yds. in 4th qtr.; LeShon Johnson, Anz. vs. N.O., 9/22/96, 56 & 70 yds. in 4th qtr.). Davis' 138 yards in the first quarter (best one-quarter total of his career) vs. Dallas (9/13) gave him his second career 100-yd. quarter, en route to his seventh career 100-yd. half (154). His three rushing touchdowns tied the franchise record and moved him past Sammy Winder (39) into second place on the Broncos all-time rushing touchdowns list. He set a franchise record vs. Dallas by scoring a rushing touchdown for the sixth straight game, besting the previous record of five that he shared with Winder (Davis—'97, Winder—'85). Davis' first two touchdowns of the season came in the season-opener vs. New England (9/7) on a 9-yard run in the second quarter that gave Denver a 17-0 lead, and a 1-yard run in the fourth quarter for a 27-14 margin. In that game he passed Otis Armstrong (4,453 yds.) to move into third place on Denver's all-time rushing list. He went over 100 yds. again at Oakland (9/20) with 28 carries for 104 yds (3.7), and moved past Otis Armstrong (1,023) for third on the Broncos' all-time list for rushing attempts. He then went over the

With his 28-carry, 147-yard performance at the New York Giants, Dec. 13, 1998, Terrell Davis broke his own franchise record from 1997 for most rushing yards in a season, setting the new standard at 2,008 yards. His 195-yard total offense performance in the season-finales vs. Seattle, Dec. 27, pushed him past his previous franchise record for total yards from scrimmage in a season, finishing at 2,225.

Davis' 215-yard rushing performance against Cincinnati Sept. 21, 1997 not only set a personal high, but also broke his own team record of 194 yards in a game (10/20/96 vs. Baltimore). He added a 207-yard effort at Buffalo on Oct. 26, 1997, and three more high games in 1998, and now owns the top five — and 9 of the top 11 — single-game marks in franchise history. Davis registered a franchise-best 236 total yards from scrimmage in the Buffalo contest, and also owns the top five in that category.

DAVIS AMONG 100-YARD GAME LEADERS

With his 147-yard effort at the New York Giants Dec. 13, 1998, Terrell Davis recorded his 30th career 100-yard rushing game in just his 59th regular season contest, making him the fourth-fastest to reach that plateau among all-time NFL running backs. Here is a look at the top five.

Davis has rushed for 100 or more yards 31 times in his career, and the Broncos have posted a 27-4 record in those contests. Denver is a perfect 7-0 in the postseason when Davis rushes for 100 yards.

century mark again the next week at Washington (9/27) with 119 on 21 carries (5.7), including a 42-yd. touchdown run that ranked at the time as his seventh-longest rush from scrimmage. The score came in the third quarter to give Denver a 24-0 lead. Davis was spectacular again vs. Philadelphia (10/4), posting his 24th career 100-yd. game with 168 yards and two touchdowns on 20 carries — all in the first half — to earn AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the fifth time in his career. He did not play in the second half with the game comfortably in hand. Davis gained 120 yards and scored both touchdowns (20- and 1-yd. runs) in the first quarter — his third career 100-yd. qtr. — and had reached 168 yds. by halftime to post a new career high for a half before resting for the remainder of the contest. Davis' two rushing touchdowns moved him into a tie with Floyd Little (43) for the franchise career record, and gave him 45 total touchdowns to move ahead of Riley Odoms (44) and Lionel Taylor (44) for fourth on Denver's all-time list. In the Philadelphia contest he also became just the seventh player in NFL history to amass more than 5,000 rushing yards in the first four years of a career, and did so in his 50th NFL game to become the fourth-fastest to accomplish the feat (Eric Dickerson-45 gms., Earl Campbell-46, Jim Brown-48). He also became just the sixth Bronco ever to amass 6,000 total yards from scrimmage, doing so faster than any of the others (50 gms.). Davis posted the second-highest rushing total of his career — and the second-highest in the NFL in 1998 — at Seattle in Week 6 with 208 yds. and a touchdown on 30 carries, giving him a franchise-record fifth-straight 100-yd. rushing performance. His 70-yd. scamper in the 4th qtr. was the longest non-scoring rush of his career, and his second-longest overall, helping him to his fourth career 100-yd. qtr. (122; 4th) and his ninth career 100-yd. half (135; 2nd). With one touchdown in the Seattle contest, Davis became the Broncos' all-time leader in rushing touchdowns, topping the previous record held by Little (43 from 1965-77). He kept his record-breaking form intact in his next outing vs. Jacksonville (10/25), racking up 136 yds. and a franchise-record-tying 3 TDs (3rd time with 3 rushing; 5th time with 3 total TDs) on 31 carries (4.4), as well as a career-high 76 yards on 5 receptions to record 212 total yds. from scrimmage and earn his third AFC Offensive Player of the Week award of '98 (6th of career) and seal his second straight AFC Offensive Player of the Month award (4th of career). Davis finished the day at 1,001 rushing yds. in the first 7 games of the season, tying him with Jim Brown (Cleve., 1958) and O.J. Simpson (1973 and '75) as the fastest to reach 1,000 yds. in a season. His three touchdowns also moved him past Sammy Winder (48) for second place on the Broncos' all-time career touchdown list. In the game he also passed Walter Payton to claim the fifth-highest rushing total in the first four years of an NFL career, and extended his franchise-record streak of 100-

On Sept. 13, 1998, Terrell Davis had 59- and 63-yard touchdown runs on consecutive carries in the first quarter. It marked just the third time in NFL history that a player has posted two scoring runs of 50 yards or longer in the same quarter:

Davis climbed to new heights at Cincinnati (11/1) with 149 yds. and 2 TDs on 27 carries (5.5) to move past Sammy Winder (5.428) into second place on the Broncos' all-time rushing list. He also caught one pass for 3 yds. It was Davis' seventh straight 100-yd. game, to extend his franchise-record streak, and the 27th of his career. His streak would end a week later vs. San Diego (11/8) when he tallied 69 yds. on 20 carries and 19 more on two receptions, but he still managed to make history with his two touchdowns. After a 4 yd. TD reception from Bobby Brister in the first qtr. for his first receiving TD of the year, Davis scored on a 24-yd. run in the second qtr. — his longest carry of the day — to notch his franchise-record 16th TD of the season. In Game 10 at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football, Davis carried 18 times for 111 yds. (6.2) and scored his 16th rushing touchdown of the season on his longest rush of the day (41 yds.) to set a new franchise single-season mark (15 by Davis in '97). It was also his 55th career TD (51 rush / 4 rec.), making him the Broncos' all-time leader, and established a franchise record by scoring a rushing touchdown for the seventh consecutive game (previous best was Davis, 6 straight, 1997-98), despite sitting out the 4th qtr. with a mild concussion. Davis provided the spark the Broncos needed vs. Oakland (11/22), muscling his way to 162 yds. on 31 carries, including a 1-yd. TD run in the 2nd qtr., to go along with 26 yds. on three pass receptions. In the game he moved from sixth to second place on the NFL's all-time list for total yards from scrimmage in the first four years of a career (passing Thurman Thomas, Emmitt Smith, Marcus Allen and Barry Sanders), finishing the day at 7,007 (Eric Dickerson—7,428). With 110 yds. in the 1st half, Davis notched his 10th career 100-yd. half (4 of which have come in one qtr.), and with his rushing touchdown extended his franchise-record streak to eight straight games with such a score (12 rushing TDs in the 8 yrs. of the streak). Davis was held to 74 yds. on 24 carries at San Diego (11/29), but went over the 1,500-yd. rushing mark for the season, giving him three straight seasons over 1,500, a feat achieved previously by just one man. 1,500-1,500-1,500

On Nov. 28, 1998 at San Diego, Terrell Davis surpassed the 1,500-yard rushing mark for the season, reaching that plateau for the third consecutive season — a feat previously accomplished by only Barry Sanders. By doing so in his fourth year, Davis tied Eric Dickerson as the only players in league history to rush for 1,500 or more yards three times in the first four seasons of a career.

the third time all season, and the second time by San Diego. He tied the franchise record for touchdowns in a game for the sixth time in his career vs. Kansas City (12/6), scoring three and rushing for 88 yds. on 24 carries, while also catching five passes (ties season high) for 45 yds. He scored on runs of 1-yd. each in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd qtrs., the latter of which was the 59th of his career, giving him more total TDs in the first four years of a career than any other player in history (Marcus Allen, 58). In the K.C. game, Davis fumbled for the first time in the regular season since Nov. 2, 1997 vs. Seattle, a span of 443 carries and 477 total touches. It was, however, the first time he had lost a fumble since Nov. 24, 1996, at Minnesota, a span of 767 carries and 836 total touches. At the Giants (12/13), Davis logged his 10th 100-yd. game of the season to tie his franchise record from 1997, and the 30th of his career, with 147 yds. on 28 carries (5.3). In so doing, Davis eclipsed his franchise record for rushing yards in a season (1,750) set the year before, finishing the day at 1,801 with two games remaining. His 27-yd. TD with 4:08 remaining in the game gave Denver a 16-13 lead, and was his 56th career rushing TD to pass Earl Campbell and Eric Dickerson for most in the first four years of a career. In the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27), Davis needed 170 yards to become just the fourth player in NFL history to rush for 2,000 or more yards in a single season — and delivered, with 178 yds. on 29 carries (6.1) to finish at 2,008 yds., third-best all-time (Dickerson-2,105 in 1984; Sanders-2,053 in 1997), and claim his first NFL rushing title. Davis is the second Bronco to do so, joining Otis Armstrong, who led the league with 1,407 yds. in 1974. He gained 54 yds. in the 1st qtr., 28 in the 2nd, 51 in the 3rd and 45 in the 4th, with the final, history-making yardage coming on a 15-yd. run on 2nd-and-6 from the Seahawks' 48-yd. line with 8:52 remaining in the game. Along the way he also became the Broncos' all-time leading rusher, topping Floyd Little's previous record of 6,323 yds. in the 3rd qtr. It was his franchise-record 11th 100-yd. game of the season, and tied for the fifth-highest single-game rushing total in franchise history (tied for his own fourth-highest), and earned him AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the fourth time in 1998. 1998 Postseason: Davis started at halfback in all three postseason contests and rushed for 468 yards on 78 carries (6.0) to run his combined season rushing total (regular and postseason combined) to an NFL-record 2,476 yds., topping his own previous league standard of 2,331 set one year earlier. He also caught four passes for 69 yds. (17.3) with a long of 39, which came in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). During the 1998 postseason Davis moved up to sixth in NFL all-time postseason rushing yardage with 1,140 yards, passing Larry Csonka (891) and John Riggins (996) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Davis' 468 rushing yards in the 1998 playoffs represent the third-highest rushing total in one postseason (John Riggins, 610 yards in 1982; Davis, 581 in 1997), and the highest for a three-game postseason. His career postseason rushing averages of 142.5 yds.-per-game and 5.6 yds.-per-attempt stood as the best in NFL history after 1998, and Davis finished the season with the record for most consecutive 100-yard rushing games in the postseason with seven, a figure that also ties

DAVIS' POSTSEASON AVERAGES BEST ALL-TIME

Terrell Davis' 5.6 yards-per-carry career average in postseason play (1,140 yards on 204 carries) ranks first all-time among NFL running backs. He also possesses the NFL's best yards-per-game average in the postseason, at 142.5 (1,140 in eight games).

him with Dallas' Emmitt Smith most total 100-yard games in the postseason. Davis now holds every major franchise postseason rushing record, and also became the all-time leader in touchdowns (12) and points scored (74). In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he set a Broncos postseason record with 199 rushing yards — the fourth-highest single-game total in NFL postseason history — on 21 carries (9.5; also a franchise record), with two touchdowns. Davis, who also caught one pass for 7 yards, was scintillating as he temporarily moved into eighth place on the NFL's career postseason rushing list, finishing the day at 871 yards to pass Chuck Foreman (860), Roger Craig (841) and Earnest Byner (839). Both touchdowns came in the 1st qtr. on runs of 1 and 20 yards to give Denver a 14-0 lead, and his 62-yard run on the first play of the second half was the longest postseason run in franchise history, topping his 59-yard burst in the 1997 Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). His 21 carries made him the Broncos' all-time postseason leader in that category, finishing the day at 147 to pass Sammy Winder (144), and he had his first postseason 100-yd. half (129; 1st half). He followed that performance with 167 yards on a franchise postseason-record 32 carries (5.2) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), including a 31-yd. touchdown run in the 3rd qtr. that was his longest carry of the day. He also caught one pass for 12 yds. Davis' TD gave the Broncos a 20-10 lead en route to a 23-10 win and a repeat appearance in the Super Bowl. It also gave him a rushing TD in seven consecutive postseason games, tied for the third-longest streak in NFL history. Davis capped his brilliant season with 102 yards on 25 carries (4.1) in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). His longest rush went for 15 yards, and he added two catches for 50 yards, including a 39-yarder, the longest reception of his career. The 100-yd. performance was Davis' seventh in a row in the postseason, an NFL record, and his 14th in 1998 (regular and postseason combined) to tie himself and Barry Sanders (both 1997) for the NFL record. With the win, Davis also became the second player in NFL history to win the NFL rushing title and the Super Bowl in the same season (Dallas' Emmitt Smith has done it three times: 1992, 1993 and 1995).

1997: Davis took many huge steps towards being touted as the best running back the sport has seen in many years, putting up numbers never before reached by a Broncos running back — not even himself a year earlier. Among the franchise records set by Davis in 1997 were new standards for rushing yards in a season (1,750), most rushing touchdowns in a season (15), most rushing attempts in a season (369), 100-yard performances in a season (10) and total yards from scrim-

DAVIS' 1997 AND 1998 POSTSEASONS RANK AMONG BEST ALL-TIME

With his 30-carry, 157-yard performance against Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, Terrell Davis finished the 1997 postseason with 581 yards on 112 carries in four games. His attempts and rushing yardage both rank second in NFL history for a single postseason, and he scored an NFL postseason record eight touchdowns, surpassing by two the mark of six held by six other players. Davis added his name again to the list in 1998, posting the third-highest yardage total, and the No. 1 total for a three-game postseason:

DAVIS RE-WITES BRONCOS' POSTSEASON RECORD BOOK

In just three journeys into the postseason, Terrell Davis has been so spectacular that his name dominates every category of the Broncos' postseason record book. He has played just eight postseason games, and owns seven of the top nine single-game performances in both rushing attempts and rushing yards. Davis' ledger includes the entire top four in attempts and the top five in yardage.

mage in a season (2,037). He also tied the NFL record for most two-point conversions in a year with three, a feat that had been accomplished seven times prior. His postseason effort was also one to remember, as he posted four consecutive 100-yard games and scored an NFL-record eight touchdowns (all on the ground) to lead Denver to its first ever World Championship. Davis also added his second Pro Bowl appearance to his resumé as well as earning numerous individual awards, including Super Bowl XXXII Most Valuable Player honors. Among Davis' awards for his performance during the 1997 season were AFC Player of the Year by the KC 101 Club and Football News as well as first-team AFL-Pro honors from the Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, Pro Football Weekly, College and Pro Football Weekly, The Sporting News, Football News, Football Digest and USA Today. He was also given the Mackey Award by the NFL Players Association as the AFC's best running back. Davis, who started the first 15 games of the year, finished his third season in the NFL with 1,750 yards on 369 carries (4.7 avg.) and 15 rushing touchdowns, to go along with 42 receptions for 287 yards (6.8 avg.). All rushing numbers were career highs and franchise highs. He won the AFC rushing crown and finished second in the NFL, each for the second straight year, and was also second in the AFC and in the NFL in both rushing attempts and touchdowns scored, first in the AFC (2nd NFL) in total yards from scrimmage (2,037) and first in the NFL in rushing first downs and total first downs. Davis tied for first in the NFL in scoring by a non-kicker (96), and tied the NFL record for two-point conversions scored in a single season, recording three to match the effort of seven previous players. In the season-opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) Davis recorded the 11th 100-yard rushing performance of his brief NFL career, totaling 101 yards on 26 carries and one TD in Denver's 19-3 win. In that game he passed Bobby Humphrey (593) for sixth place in all-time rushing attempts by a Bronco. At Seattle (9/7) Davis rushed for 108 yards on 21 carries and one TD as the Broncos beat the Seahawks 35-14, and Davis notched his second straight 100-yard effort to mark the first time in his career he had back-to-back 100-yard games to start a season. Davis also tied Jon Keyworth for fifth place on the Broncos' list for rushing touchdowns with his 22nd. A week later vs. St. Louis Davis made it three straight 100-yard outputs by rushing for 103 yards on 21 carries in Denver's 35-14 victory, and he tied the franchise record for the second time in his career the following week by posting his fourth straight 100-yard effort. This was no ordinary effort, however, as Davis rushed 27 times for a franchise record 215 yards and one TD in Denver's 38-20 victory over the Bengals (9/21). He totaled a team-record 228 yards from scrimmage and topped the 3,000-yard rushing plateau in just his 34th game to establish another team record, and moved into third place in rushing touchdowns with his 23rd, passing Jon Keyworth. He also passed teammate John Elway for fourth place all-time in rushing yards, moving to 3,181. His efforts against the Bengals earned him AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors as well as Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors. A week later at Atlanta (9/28) Davis was held below 100 yards (23-79-1TD) for the first time all season in Denver's 29-21 victory but still managed to pass Keyworth (699) for fifth place all-time in career rushing attempts by a Bronco. His explosive start to the season earned him AFC Offensive Player of the Month honors for September, the second time he has won such an award (also in September of 1996). Davis stole the Monday Night spotlight in Week Six vs. New England (10/6), as he continued his mastery of the New England Patriots with a 32-carry, 171-yard, two-touchdown performance in Denver's 34-13 victory. During the contest, Davis became the fastest Bronco in franchise history to reach 4,000 total yards from scrimmage, moved into fourth place all-time in rushing attempts by a Bronco, rushed for 100 yards for the 15th time, tying the franchise record, and moved into fourth place all-time in rushing touchdowns by a Bronco. His efforts earned him Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors for the second time in three weeks. It also upped his rushing total in three career games against the Patriots to 422 yards. Two weeks later, after the bye, at Oakland (10/19) he rushed for 85 yards on 23 carries (two touchdowns) and added seven receptions for 70 yards in Denver's first loss of the season. During the contest, Davis became the ninth player in NFL history to rush for 3,500 yards in his first three seasons. He also reached the 100-reception plateau for his career, equaling his career high with seven catches, and set a career high with 70 receiving yards. Davis also tallied his third two-point conversion of the season, tying a single-season NFL record shared by seven other players. Davis broke new ground again at Buffalo (10/26) when he rushed for 207 yards on a franchise-record 42 carries and one touchdown in Denver's 23-20 overtime victory over the Bills. He also had five receptions for 29 yards, giving him 236 total yards from scrimmage, another franchise record. Also during the contest, Davis set franchise records for most 100-yard rushing games in a career (his 16th), most carries in a game (42, breaking Bobby Humphrey's record of 34 set in 1990 and the 4th-highest total in NFL history) and fewest games needed to reach 1,000 rushing yards in a season (eight, breaking his own record of 10 set in 1996). He handled the ball 47 times during the contest, one off the NFL record, and also passed William Andrews for the eighth-most rushing yards in the first three years of a career. Davis also became the eighth back in NFL history to rush for 1,000 in each of his first three seasons in the league (the first Bronco to ever do so) and the first Bronco to have three 1,000-yard rushing seasons in his career. The next week vs. Seattle (11/2) Davis reached the 100-yard plateau once again (21-101) to tie his own team record (1996: also Bobby Humphrey, 1990; Otis Armstrong, 1974) for 100-yard games in a season, as Denver won 30-27. It enabled Davis — in just the ninth game of the year — to pass his rookie rushing total of 1,117 yards, accomplished in 14 games. Davis also had six receptions for 17 yards in the game, making him the team's leading receiver for the second straight week, and passed Marcus Allen for the 10th-most total yards from scrimmage over the first three years of an NFL career, as well as passing Jim Brown for the sev-

DAVIS CARRIES STRING OF SEVEN STRAIGHT POSTSEASON 100-YARD GAMES INTO 1999

Terrell Davis enters the 1999 season riding an NFL-record streak of seven straight 100-yard rushing performances in postseason play:

DAVIS POSTS FOURTH-BEST POSTSEASON RUSHING GAME

With a 199-yard outburst vs. Miami in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game, Jan. 9, 1999, Terrell Davis etched his name further into the NFL record book. His performance — while also representing a Broncos postseason record — ranked fourth on the NFL's all-time postseason single-game list:

With his 136-yard performance against Jacksonville Oct. 25, 1997, Terrell Davis reached the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the fourth consecutive season, making him the fifth player in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first four years in the league. enth-most rushing yards in the first three years of a career. A week later Davis established a new franchise record with his eighth 100-yard game of the season, tallying 104 yards on 21 carries, and passed Walter Payton for the sixth-most rushing yards in the first three years of an NFL career. A week later at Kansas City (11/16) Davis ran his streak of 100-yard games to four as he tied Otis Armstrong's and Bobby Humphrey's franchise record for the third time in his young career. He also became the fourth-quickest player in NFL history (and the quickest in franchise history) to rush for 4,000 yards (41 games), and also passed Billy Sims and Thurman Thomas for eighth place in most total yards from scrimmage over the first three years of a career. He was held under 100 yards for just the second time all season vs. Oakland Nov. 24 on Monday Night Football, but tied his own franchise record with three touchdowns, and set a new standard with all three coming via the ground. Davis had twice previously posted two rushing and one receiving touchdown in the same game, but never three rushing. It marked the 19th time in franchise history that a player had scored three touchdowns in a game and the fifth time that all three scores were rushing touchdowns. During the contest, Davis also went over the 5,000-yard mark in total yards from scrimmage in his career faster than any player in franchise history (42 games). He also became just the eighth player in league history to accomplish this feat in the first three years of his career. Davis continued his assault on the record books the following week in his hometown of San Diego (11/30), rushing for more than 150 yards for the fourth time this season — and more than 100 yards for the 10th time — by totaling 178 yards on 26 carries and one TD in Denver's 38-28 victory over the Chargers. This was Davis' 20th 100-yard game in just his 43rd NFL contest, making him the fifth fastest player to reach 20 100-yard performances. He also set new single-season marks in rushing and total yards from scrimmage, surpassing his own team marks set in 1996 (1,538 rushing / 1,848 total). He also passed teammate John Elway (32) for third place in career TD runs, passed Emmitt Smith, William Andrews and Herschel Walker for seventh, sixth and fifth place, respectively in total yards from scrimmage during the first three years of a career, and passed Smith for fifth place all-time in rushing yards in the first three years of a career. His rushing touchdown was his 13th, tying his own team record (1996). Davis moved into third place all-time in rushing yards during the first three years of a career (4,333) with his 75-yard output at Pittsburgh (12/7), passing Barry Sanders and Otis Anderson, and also went over the 2,000-yard mark in single-season total yards from scrimmage (26th time in NFL history), broke his own team

FEWEST GAMES NEEDED TO REACH 1,000 YARDS IN A SINGLE SEASON

With his 136-yard rushing performance against Jacksonville Oct. 25, 1998, Terrell Davis became just the third player in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards in seven games, joining the likes of Hall of Famers Jim Brown and O.J. Simpson. This feat has now been accomplished four times, twice by Simpson.

SUPER BOWL XXXII MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Terrell Davis, a native of San Diego, made history in winning the Pete Rozelle Award as Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXII. He not only became the first player to be named Super Bowl MVP for a game played in his hometown, but also became the sixth-lowest drafted player to receive this honor. The other players who were drafted even later than Davis (6th round, 196th selection in 1995) were Richard Dent (Chicago 8th round, MVP in 1986), Jake Scott (Miami, 7th round, MVP in 1973), Roger Staubach (Dallas, 10th round, MVP in 1972), Larry Brown (Dallas, 12th round, MVP in 1996) and Bart Starr (Green Bay, 17th round, MVP in 1967 and '68). Davis and Marcus Allen (MVP 1984) have made Lincoln High School in San Diego the only high school ever to produce two Super Bowl MVPs. Davis' jersey No. 7 was retired at the high school in a special ceremony held Tues., Jan. 20, 1998 during Super Bowl week.

mark for rushing touchdowns in a season with his 14th, and broke his own team record for rushing attempts in a season (345). It was only the fourth of five times in 1997 that he would fail to reach 100 rushing yards in a game. This was also Davis' 14th consecutive game with at least 20 carries, breaking the NFL record previously held by Terry Allen (1995-96). At San Francisco (12/15) on Monday Night Football Davis rushed for just 28 yards on 10 carries and caught two passes for zero yards in just over a quarter of Denver's 34-17 loss to San Francisco. He left the game in the second quarter due to a mild anterior cruciate sprain to his right shoulder, but not before registering his 15th rushing touchdown of the season, tying his own franchise record for total touchdowns in a season (13 rush./2 rec., 1996). The injury forced him to be deactivated for the Broncos' regular season finale against San Diego. It was only the third game of his career that he had missed, including the two to end the 1995 regular season. In the preseason Davis looked sensational in limited duty, starting all five games at halfback and rushing 34 times for a team-leading 211 yards (6.2) with a long of 37 and two touchdowns. He also caught three passes for 46 yards (15.3) with a long of 20. Both rushing TDs came in the finale against San Francisco (8/23) on runs of 6 and 11 yards. 1997 Postseason: In Davis' short NFL career, he has put up some astounding postseason numbers — most of them in 1997. He finished the 1997 postseason with 112 carries for 581 yards (5.2 avg.) and eight touchdowns in four games — all Broncos wins en route to the World Championship. Davis also had eight catches for 38 yards (4.8 avg.) in the postseason, bning his career postseason numbers (5 games) to 126 carries for 672 yards (5.3 avg.) and nine touchdowns, plus 15 receptions for 62 yards. In Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card Playoff Game victory over Jacksonville (12/27/97) Davis had the longest run in a postseason game by a Bronco (59 yards), and also logged the most carries (31), rushing yards (184), rushing touchdowns (2) and total touchdowns (2) of any Broncos postseason performer ever. His 5.9 yards-per-rush average against the Jaguars was topped only in team postseason annals by teammate Derek Loville's 9.4-yard average in the same game (11-103) and his own 6.5 average in the 1996 play-off game against the Jaguars. During the contest, he also moved into third place all-time in both carries and rushing yards in the postseason by a Bronco, passing Gaston Green (36) and Bobby Humphrey (38) in attempts and Gene Lang (138) and Humphrey (169) in yards. In Denver's 14-10 Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), Davis rushed for 101 yards and two touchdowns on 25 carries (third-most ever in a postseason game by a Bronco), and added one reception for 17 yards, his longest postseason reception to date. This was Davis' second career postseason 100-yard game (second in a row), setting a new franchise record for postseason 100-yard games.

DAVIS AMONG SUPER BOWL RECORD-HOLDERS AFTER MVP PERFORMANCE

Terrell Davis returned to his hometown of San Diego for Super Bowl XXXII in January 1998 and rushed for 157 yards on 30 carries and scored three touchdowns, as Denver defeated Green Bay 31-24. He was named the game's Most Valuable Player, and set or tied three records, as detailed below:

DAVIS ONE OF FASTEST IN NFL HISTORY TO REACH 6,000 CAREER RUSHING YARDS

In just his 58th NFL game, Dec. 6, 1998, vs. Kansas City, Terrell Davis reached the 6,000-yard rushing mark, and did so faster than all but three other backs in league history (Eric Dickerson — 53 games; Earl Campbell — 56; and Jim Brown — 58). He is third all time in rushing yards in the first four years of a career.

He also set the franchise record for most rushing and total touchdowns by a Bronco in the post-season with five. For the second consecutive week he tied the team record for most rushing and total touchdowns in a postseason game with two. Davis showed his mettle again the following week in Denver's 24-21 AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), rushing for 139 yards on 26 carries, and added his fifth postseason touchdown of 1997. It was his third consecutive 100-yard game in the postseason, tying four other NFL players for third place all-time in consecutive postseason 100-yard rushing games. He also passed Freeman McNeil (349 in 1982), Natrone Means (358 in 1996) and Thurman Thomas (390 in 1990) for fifth, fourth and third place respectively in most rushing yards in a single postseason. Teamwise, Davis surpassed David Treadwell (32) for the second-most points scored in franchise postseason history (38), passed his teammate John Elway (80) for second place in postseason rushing attempts (96), and passed Elway (410) and Sammy Winder (461) to move into first place in postseason rushing yards by a Bronco. Lastly, Davis' 26 carries equaled the second-most carries in a postseason contest by a Bronco, tying Sammy Winder and remaining eight carries behind his own record he set in the Wild Card Game against Jacksonville (12/27/97). The 141 total yards represented his second-highest total in the postseason (195 vs. Jax., 12/27/97) and placed him second all-time in postseason total yards from scrimmage by a Bronco to earn NFL Offensive Player of the Week honors. Davis then capped one of the most memorable individual seasons in NFL history by rushing for 157 yards on 30 carries and scoring three touchdowns to earn Most Valuable Player honors in Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, in his hometown of San Diego (1/25/98). Davis also had two receptions for eight yards during the contest. The three TDs (all on the ground) tied a Super Bowl record for most points scored and most touchdowns scored in a single game, and he also set a Super Bowl record with three rushing touchdowns in a single game. The 157 yards ranks fifth all-time in a Super Bowl and the 30 carries ties for fourth all-time in a Super Bowl. Even more remarkable is the fact that Davis missed the entire second quarter while trying to fight off the onset of a migraine headache. He returned to start the second half and helped Denver control the ball and clock the rest of the way. Davis recorded his fourth consecutive 100-yard rushing game in postseason play, tying Thurman Thomas for the second-longest postseason 100-yard game streak in NFL history, and notched his 24th career 100-yard rushing game (fourth in the postseason), with Denver posting a 21-3 mark in those games (4-0 in postseason). It was also Davis' 14th 100-yard performance of the entire season, tying Barry Sanders (14 in 1997) for the NFL record. Davis also set the single-season record for most postseason touchdowns (8) and most postseason rushing touchdowns (8), and passed Marcus Allen (466 in 1983) for second place all-time in rushing yards in one postseason with 581 (John Riggins, 610, 1982). His 56 points scored moved him past Rich Karlis (55) into first on the Broncos' all-time postseason scoring list. He also passed Sammy Winder and Vance Johnson to move into first place all-time in postseason yards from scrimmage by a Bronco (734 yards in five games; avg. of 146.7 per game), and passed Eric Dickerson and Riggins to move into first place all-time in rushing yards (2,331) and rushing attempts (495) for an entire season (regular and postseason). His regular and postseason total of 23 touchdowns (all on the ground) rank tied for fourth all-time. Davis, who had his high school jersey retired the Tuesday prior to the game became the second player from San Diego's Lincoln High School to receive Super Bowl MVP honors (Allen in January, 1984), making him the sixth-lowest drafted player to win the MVP award (sixth round in 1995). He also became the first player in the 32-year history of the game to earn this award while playing the game in his hometown.

DAVIS ONE OF FASTEST IN NFL HISTORY TO REACH 7,000 CAREER TOTAL YARDS

With his 188-yard total offense output against Oakland Nov. 22, 1998, Terrell Davis, in just his 56th NFL game, became the fastest Broncos player ever to reach 7,000 total yards from scrimmage. He also became just the second player in NFL history to reach 7,000 total yards in his first four NFL seasons, and now boasts the NFL's second-highest total yardage figure after the first four years of a career.

1996: Davis' list of 1996 honors included Associated Press NFL Offensive Player of the Year, Sports Illustrated and UPI NFL Player of the Year, his first Pro Bowl selection. All-Pro selections from the Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News, USA Today, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, All-AFC nods from UPI and Football News and a third-place showing in the AP NFL Most Valuable Player voting. Davis led the AFC and was second in the NFL in both rushing yards (1,538 yards on 345 carries; 4.5) and total yards from scrimmage (1,848), and led the NFL in first downs earned (108). He was second in the AFC (3rd NFL) in both rushing touchdowns (13) and total touchdowns (15), and set franchise records in both categories. He also set franchise single-season records in rushing attempts, rushing yards and total yards, topping previous standards held by Sammy Winder (296 carries in 1984) and Otis Armstrong (1,407 rushing yards and 1,812 total yards in 1974). With 15 total touchdowns, Davis broke the franchise single-season record of 14 held by Sammy Winder (1986) and Anthony Miller (1995), and joined tight end Shannon Sharpe (10 TDs) to give the Broncos two players with double-figure touchdowns in the same season for the first time in franchise history. Davis teamed with QB John Elway and TE Shannon Sharpe to make the Broncos only the sixth team in NFL history to have a trio that had a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher, and 1,000-yard receiver. The trio along with WR Rod Smith, duplicated the feat in 1997, becoming the first team to do this in back-to-back seasons and only the third team to have two 1,000-yard receivers as part of the group. Davis got off to a quick start in '96, putting together a string of five 100-yard games over a six-game span — including four in a row — beginning with Week Two at Seattle when he tallied 111 yards on 28 carries in Denver's 30-20 victory. A week later vs. Tampa Bay (9/15) he posted the second-highest rushing total of his young career with 137 yards on 22 carries (6.2) despite missing more than a quarter due to symptoms of a migraine headache. He also finished with 23 receiving

T.D. SCORING TDs IN BUNCHES

Terrell Davis' touchdown against Seattle in the 1998 season-finale (Dec. 27), was his 21st rushing and 23rd total for the season, a franchise record, and among the most ever scored by an individual in a single NFL season. He led the league in scoring by a non-kicker in 1998, with a franchise-record 138 points:

ing yards on four catches (5/8). Davis left the game late in the first quarter when his vision became blurred and he felt nauseous, but he returned to start the second half and carried the entire offense to the come-from-behind win. He rushed eight times for 39 yards on the Broncos' 14-play, 80-yard game-winning drive that consumed 8:11 in the fourth quarter. He capped the drive with a three-yard touchdown run to give Denver the 27-23 win. The following week at Kansas City (9/22) he put together his third straight 100-yard game, rushing for 141 yards (second-highest in his career at the time) and two touchdowns on 19 carries (7.4). He scored from six yards out in the first quarter, then topped that with a then-career-best 65-yard scoring run in the second. He had already tallied 130 yards on 14 carries by halftime. The following week at Cincinnati (9/29) he notched his fourth straight 100-yard game with 112 yards on 24 carries (4.7). His long carry was a 19-yarder. His fourth straight game over the century mark tied a Broncos record set by Bobby Humphrey in 1990 and Otis Armstrong in 1974. On Oct. 6 vs. San Diego he rushed 17 times for 50 yards, while suffering the effects of a migraine headache that kept him out of the game for much of the second quarter. The Broncos used primarily a one-back offense during the game due to a knee injury suffered by starting fullback Aaron Craver the week before at Cincinnati. He also caught a season-high six passes for 42 yards after not catching a pass in the previous two games. Davis had the best day of his young career on Oct. 20 vs. Baltimore, setting a franchise record with 194 yards on 28 carries (6.9), including a career-best 71-yard touchdown run in the first quarter of Denver's 45-34 victory. The run was the fourth-longest ever by a Bronco, and the longest since 1973 (Joe Dawkins at K.C., 10/7). He also scored later from four yards out, and caught three passes for 19 yards (6.3). His 213 total yards also were a career high. Davis' reached the 2,000-yard rushing mark for his career with his 77-yard effort vs. Kansas City (10/27), making him the fastest to reach that milestone in Broncos history. It was his 22nd game, four earlier than Bobby Humphrey who reached the mark in his 26th game. Versus Chicago (11/10) Davis' 25-yard run in the second quarter pushed him over the 1,000-yard mark for the season, the earliest a Bronco has ever done so (game 10; Otis Armstrong topped 1,000 in the 12th game of the '74 season). Nov. 17 at New England he tallied his sixth 100-yard game of 1996, rushing for 154 yards on a career-high 32 carries, and adding 56 yards on four catches for 210 total yards in Denver's 34-8 victory. The performance earned him not only AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the second in 1996 (also Week Eight), but also the Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week award. His total yardage figure was second-best in his career, trailing only his 213-yard effort vs. Baltimore (10/20). He also tied his own (and several others') Broncos record with three touchdowns, rushing for two and catching another, matching his effort vs. Washington last year (9/17). Davis' 68 yards at Minnesota (11/24) allowed him to move past Bobby Humphrey (2,386 yards) on the franchise's all-

With his three touchdown runs vs. Kansas City Dec. 6, 1998, Terrell Davis passed Marcus Allen and moved into first place for most total touchdowns scored in the first four years of a career. Davis also passes Barry Sanders, Eric Dickerson and Chuck Foreman on the historic day.

T.D.'s 50-YARD TDs

Terrell Davis' 59- and 63-yard touchdown runs against Dallas Sept. 13, 1998 were the fifth and sixth scoring runs of 50 yards or more in his four-year career, ranking him among the NFL's active leaders in touchdown runs of 50 or more yards:

time rushing list. Davis' touchdowns in the game came on a one-yard run and a one-yard pass reception, giving him five scores over a two-game stretch. On Dec. 1 vs. Seattle Davis tallied his seventh 100-yard game of the 1996 season, tying Otis Armstrong's franchise record set in 1974, during Denver's 34-7 division-clinching victory. Davis carried the ball 26 times for 106 yards and one touchdown, and caught two passes for 15 yards. The following week at Green Bay (12/8) he rushed for 54 yards on 14 carries to establish franchise single-season records in both categories, topping the previous highs of 1,407 yards (Otis Armstrong, 1974) and 296 carries (Sammy Winder, 1984). Davis' five-yard carry to end the first half was the run that put him over Armstrong's yardage record. Against the Raiders (12/15) Davis carried the ball 27 times for 80 yards with a long of 12 and one touchdown, to set a new Broncos single-season record for total yards in a season in Denver's 24-19 win. He topped the previous standard of 1,812 yards set by Otis Armstrong in 1974. His three-yard touchdown run in the first quarter staked Denver to an early 7-0 lead, and was his 14th of the season, tying a franchise record. At San Diego (12/22) he started at tailback but played only into the second quarter. He carried nine times for 21 yards and a touchdown, and caught one pass for nine yards. His one-yard touchdown run in the first quarter put Denver ahead 10-0. In the game Davis surpassed Jon Keyworth (2,653 yards) for fifth place on the Broncos' career rushing list, and registered his 15th touchdown (13 rushing, two receiving) to establish a new franchise record. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Davis started at tailback and rushed 14 times for 91 yards (6.5) with a long of 47 yards and one touchdown, while catching a game-high seven passes for 24 yards with a long of 6. His 47-yard run in the first quarter was the longest ever by a Bronco in the postseason, and set up Denver's first touchdown. Davis' 91 rushing yards were the second-most by Bronco in the postseason, trailing only Sammy Winder's 102-yard effort vs. New England, Jan. 4, 1987, and his seven receptions tied for third-most in a postseason game with Vance Johnson (1/14/90 and 1/12/92), Steve Sewell (1/12/92) and Jesse Myles (12/24/83). Davis scored on a two-yard run with 7:37 remaining in the game to pull Denver within 23-20, and added the two-point conversion himself. Davis mildly sprained the medial collateral ligament in his right knee in the first quarter, and left the game for several plays before returning.

1995: Davis started 14 of the Broncos' 16 games, missing the final two (at Kansas City, 12/17 and at Oakland, 12/24) with a hamstring tear suffered in the first quarter vs. Seattle (12/10). For the season he led the team with 1,117 rushing yards on 237 carries (4.7) with seven touchdowns and a long of 60 yards (at Houston, 11/26) that went for a touchdown. Through the air, Davis caught 49 passes for 367 yards (7.5) with one touchdown and a long reception of 31. He was voted by his teammates as the club's Offensive MVP for '95, and finished second in the voting for NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year by a nationwide media panel. He garnered 16 votes, trailing only New England's Curtis Martin, who tallied 57, but was selected by Football Digest as its NFL Rookie of the Year. Davis was also voted to All-Rookie teams published by Pro Football Weekly and Football News, and was selected as a Pro Bowl alternate at running back. In 1995 Davis became the first Bronco to rush for 1,000 yards in a season since Gaston Green tallied 1,037 in 1991, and the first Broncos rookie to do so since Bobby Humphrey racked up 1,151 in 1989. He is also the lowest-drafted player in National Football League history to rush for 1,000 yards in his rookie season. The Chargers' Don Woods, who rushed for more than 1,000 in 1974, was also a sixth-round pick (by the Packers), but was selected earlier overall in the draft than Davis, the 196th pick in the 1995 draft. His season total of 1,484 total yards from scrimmage ranked fifth in the AFC and 16th in the NFL — despite missing two games — and were the most ever by a Broncos rookie. He finished third in the AFC in rushing (1,117 yards; 9th NFL) and fourth in total first downs (76; tied for 18th NFL). In the season opener vs. Buffalo, Davis started at tailback in his first professional game, carrying the ball a team-leading 20 times for 70 yards (3.5) with a long of 17, and catching two passes for nine yards (4.5) with a long of seven. He scored his first professional touchdown on a three-yard run with 3:22 remaining in the game to cap the Broncos scoring. Davis became the sixth Broncos rookie to start at tailback in a season-opener, and the first since Jeff Alexander in 1989. His statistics were the best of any of the six previous opening-day starters. Against Washington (9/17), Davis tied a Broncos' record with three touchdowns (2 rushing, 1 receiving) in a 13-carry, 68-yard performance, and caught a team-leading seven passes for 61 yards. Davis registered his first 100-yard performance in his ninth professional game, rambling for 135 on 22 carries against Arizona (11/5), including a 34-yarder. Davis' 135 yards against Arizona were the most by a Broncos running back at Mile High Stadium since Dec. 8, 1974 (Otis Armstrong, 183 yards against Houston), and the most by a Bronco in any game since Sept. 29, 1991 (Gaston Green, 158 yards at Minnesota), as well as the highest single-game total by a rookie in Broncos franchise history. His 34-yard run on the second play from scrimmage was the longest of his career up to that point, and highlighted an opening drive on which he carried the ball six times for 60 yards, capped by a 5-yard TD run that put the Broncos ahead 7-0. He also caught three passes for 25 yards, with a long of 18, to give him a then-career-best 160 total yards from scrimmage. He topped that effort in Game 11 vs. San Diego (11/19) when he powered his way to 176 yards on 30 carries — the third-best rushing performance in club history at the time. It was the most yards by a Bronco since Bobby Humphrey gained 177 on 34 carries at Buffalo Sept. 30, 1990, and the most by a Bronco at Mile High, again, since Armstrong's aforementioned effort in 1974. He gained 98 yards in the first half, and also finished strong, carrying the ball six times for 53 yards on the Broncos' final drive, which was capped by a 32-yard game-winning field goal from Jason Elam with 0:02 remaining. Davis surpassed the 1,000-yard mark against Jacksonville (12/3) on his first carry of the day, a 13-yarder around left end, en route to a 21-carry, 84-yard performance. Davis strung together three 100-yard games in four outings late in the season, going for 135 vs. Arizona (11/5), 176 vs. San Diego (11/19) and 110 at Houston (11/26). His 60-yard scoring jaunt in the second quarter of the Houston game was the longest of his career, and the longest by a Bronco since 1992. He also caught a career-best seven passes for 30 yards. With his 140 total yards from scrimmage, Davis improved his season total to 1,348, surpassing Bobby

100 YARDS IN A HALF — AND IN A QUARTER

Even more remarkable than Terrell Davis' 31 100-yard games is his list of 100-yard halves, which stands at 10 — as well as four 100-yard quarters — after his first four years in the league.

Humphrey for the most total yards in a season by a Broncos rookie (Humphrey had 1,307 in 1989). Davis began training camp behind several players on the Broncos' depth chart at running back, but worked his way into the starting lineup by the final preseason game at Jacksonville (8/25/95).

COLLEGE Davis continued a strong tradition of standout tailbacks from Georgia throughout the '80s and '90s — following in the footsteps of Herschel Walker, Rodney Hampton, Garrison Hearst and Tim Worley — after transferring from Long Beach State. He spent his first collegiate season playing under George Allen for the 49ers, until the program was eliminated following the 1991 season, in which Davis rushed for 262 yards and two touchdowns on 55 carries (4.8). He transferred to Georgia where he played three seasons — the first behind Garrison Hearst, who finished third in the Heisman Trophy voting in 1992. He finished his career at Georgia with 1,657 yards on 317 carries (5.2) and 15 touchdowns. Davis also caught 46 passes for 529 yards (11.5) and four touchdowns. As a senior in 1994 Davis played in eight games as a scatback and started seven. He missed three contests due to a groin injury, but still managed to lead the team with 445 yards and seven touchdowns on 97 carries (4.6 average), in addition to 31 receptions for 330 yards (10.7). He had his finest campaign as a junior when he played in all 11 games and started six at scatback, leading the team with 824 yards on 167 carries (4.9) and five touchdowns, along with 12 receptions for 161 (13.4) and three scores. Davis played behind Garrison Hearst as a sophomore in his first year at Georgia in '92, seeing action in 10 games, and finished the season with 388 yards on 53 carries (7.3) and three touchdowns, plus three receptions for 38 yards (12.7) and one score. He was a consumer economics major at Georgia.

PERSONAL: Davis was an All-CIF second-team all-league first-team selection as a senior at Lincoln Prep in San Diego, Calif., where he played six different positions, including nose guard, and also lettered in track. His No. 7 was retired by the school Tues., Jan. 20, 1998 in a ceremony attended by Davis during preparations for Super Bowl XXXII in San Diego. He is an avid Sega video game player who particularly enjoys playing Madden Football '99. Davis was presented with a 1997 ESPY Award for Best Performance Under Pressure, in recognition of his record-breaking exploits in Super Bowl XXXII, and a 1998 ESPY for Pro Football Performer of the Year. During the past two seasons he has made appearances on The Late Show with David Letterman, The Tonight Show with Jay Leno, Live with Regis and Kathy Lee, the WB network sitcom Sister, Sister and Sesame Street. In January, 1998, Davis — a life-long sufferer of migraine headaches — signed an agreement with New York-based Novartis Pharmaceuticals Corp. to endorse the company's Migranal nasal spray, which he used during the Super Bowl to combat the onset of a migraine. Part of the deal also calls for the establishment of the Terrell Davis Foundation for Migraine Education and Treatment. Davis traveled to Washington, D.C., April 20, 1999 to testify before the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources about the urgent need for more urban parks and open space. An avid supporter of Pop Warner football, Davis was invited by Jon Butler, executive director of Pop Warner Little Scholars, to testify in favor of a bill that would appropriate a portion of some oil and gas revenues for parks and open space. Davis makes his home in Aurora, Colo. He was born Oct. 28 1972, in San Diego, Calif.

David Diaz-Infante epitomizes resiliency in pro football. After spending the first nine seasons of his career establishing himself with stints in the NFL, the World League and the Canadian Football League, Diaz-Infante finally got a chance for some valuable playing time over the past three seasons, and showed that some players bloom later than others. His progress was slowed in 1998 as he missed the first six weeks of the season with a right knee injury, then contributed primarily on special teams for the remainder of the year. Diaz-Infante, believed to be the oldest player to ever make his first NFL start (32 years of age at Minnesota, 11/24/96), has now played in 38 NFL games (nine starts). He has the Broncos' key backup at the interior offensive line positions for the past two seasons, and has handled the snapping on all field goal and extra point attempts. Diaz-Infante's only prior playing experience in the NFL before joining the Broncos in 1995 was a three-game replacement stint with the San Diego Chargers during the 1987 players strike. From 1993-94 he played in the Canadian Football League with the Sacramento Gold Miners after having spent two seasons (1991-92) in the World League with the Frankfurt Galaxy.

1998. Diaz-Infante played in 10 games on special teams, handling the long-snapping for field goals and PATs, after being inactive (Fri.) for the first six games of the season because of a knee injury suffered during the preseason. He returned to practice in Week Four, prior to the Washington game (9/27), and played in his first game vs. Jacksonville (10/25). The injury — a tear of the anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee — occurred in practice Aug. 19, and surgery was performed Aug. 25. Postseason Diaz-Infante saw action on special teams in all three contests, handling the long-snapping duties for field goals and PATs.

1997. Diaz-Infante saw action in all 16 games and started seven. He took over for Mark Schlereth at left guard for the final five games of the season while Schlereth recovered from back surgery, after having started two earlier games at right guard in place of the injured Brian Habib (vs. Seattle, 11/2; vs. Carolina, 11/9). His other action came primarily on special teams and as a reserve on the offensive line. Diaz-Infante's most extensive action prior to his first start came at Buffalo (10/26) when he replaced Habib at right guard for more than three quarters after Habib left the game with back spasms. Diaz-Infante also handled the long-snapping duties on field goals and PATs throughout the season. In the postseason, Diaz-Infante saw action on special teams in all four games as the long snapper for field goals and PATs. He also saw action on the offensive line in Denver's 42-17 Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). 1996: Diaz-Infante played in nine games and started two (at Minnesota, 11/24 and at San Diego, 12/22) at left guard in place of Mark Schlereth (knee). His start at Minnesota was the first of his NFL career, possibly making him the oldest first-time starter in modern NFL history, at age 33. He was active but did not play in the other seven games. Prior to his first start, Diaz-Infante's most extensive action of the season came at Cincinnati (9/29) when he replaced an injured Schlereth at left guard early in the first quarter. He also took Schlereth's place for the second half at New England (11/17). In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Jacksonville Diaz-Infante was active but did not play. 1995: Diaz-Infante spent the season on the Broncos' practice squad after being signed by the club March 30. 1994: Diaz-Infante was nominated for CFL Offensive Lineman of the Year while playing for Sacramento. 1993: Diaz-Infante started the season in the San Francisco 49ers training camp, but was released before the season. He then signed with Sacramento of the CFL where he played the entire season. 1992: Diaz-Infante played for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League. 1991: Diaz-Infante played for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League. 1990: Diaz-Infante was not with any team. 1989: Diaz-Infante began the season in the Los Angeles Rams' training camp but was injured and released. 1988: Diaz-Infante was in camp with the Rams but was released during the last week of preseason camp. 1987: Diaz-Infante made his NFL debut by playing in all three replacement games for the San Diego Chargers.

COLLEGE: Diaz-Infante played his college ball at San Jose State, where he was an honorable mention Associated Press, All-American, a first-team all-conference pick (UPI and PCAA) and a four-year letterwinner. He was a social science major at SJSU.

PERSONAL: David and his wife, Audra, have a son, Dante Antonio (10/3/97), and make their home in Parker, Colo. Diaz-Infante joined Broncos offensive linemen Tony Jones and Mark Schlereth on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien show in late January 1998, days after the Broncos' Super Bowl win over Green Bay. David attended San Jose's Bellarmine Prep where he was the conference Lineman of the Year in 1981. He was born March 31, 1964 in San Jose, Calif.

Broncos kicker Jason Elam continues to be one of the team's steadiest offensive forces after posting his finest NFL season in 1998. He took a step toward football immortality in October when he tied the NFL record for longest field, converting a 63-yard attempt vs. Jacksonville (10/25/98), which served as the high point in a season filled with success for the former third-round pick from Hawaii, who earned his second Pro Bowl invitation in 1998. Elam tied for third in the AFC in scoring, and set new franchise records for PATs (58) and field-goal percentage (.852) in a single season. He has firmly established himself as one of the top kickers in the league, having led the NFL in total points scored over the past six seasons (730 points) and ranking second in field goals (131) made since 1994. Elam enters 1999 needing

ELAM TIES ONE OF FOOTBALL'S LONGEST-STANDING RECORDS

On Oct. 25, 1998, Jason Elam tied a 28-year old NFL record by kicking a 63-yard field goal against the Jacksonville Jaguars at the end of the first half. He equaled Tom Dempsey's record set Nov. 8, 1970 as a member of the New Orleans Saints against Detroit (a game-winner).

LONGEST FIELD GOALS IN NFL HISTORY

PLAYER	TEAM	OPPONENT (DATE)	DISTANCE
1. Jason Elam	Denver	vs. Jacksonville (10/25/98)	63
Tom Dempsey	New Orleans	vs. Detroit (11/8/70)	63
3. Morten Andersen	New Orleans	vs. Chicago (10/27/91)	60

to score just 13 points to overtake Jim Turner (742) for the franchise scoring record. Elam remains the NFL's fifth-most accurate kicker on field goal attempts from inside 40 yards (111/120; .925) and ranks No. 1 on the Broncos' all-time field goal percentage list (.781), just ahead of David Treadwell (.780). He has also made 259 of 260 (.996) point-after attempts, the best career percentage in NFL history. Elam has made his last 235 regular season point-after attempts, also a franchise record. He made the first 24 of his career before his only regular season miss, a block by Minnesota's Tim Irwin, Nov. 12, 1993. Elam became the third Bronco to surpass the 500-point plateau for his career with his last point-after attempt at Seattle in 1997 (9/7), and reached that milestone in the fewest games (66). His 51-yard field goal in Super Bowl XXXII was the second-longest in Super Bowl history (54 yds., Steve Christie, Buff., SB XXVIII), as well as the longest in Broncos postseason history, and his 6-for-6 output on point-after attempts in the AFC Wild Card Game vs. Jacksonville (12/27/97) also set a Broncos postseason record. Elam now ranks second in all-time postseason scoring by a Bronco (57 points), and has made more point-after attempts (30) in the postseason than any other player in franchise history. Elam also ranks second in field goals made (9) in the postseason by a Bronco, and his 11 attempts tie for second all-time. In the regular season Elam is 17-28 (.607) for his career on field goal attempts of 50 yards or more, including a 3-4 mark in 1998. He is 16-26 (.615) from 50-59, and 1-2 in the 60+ range, missing from 66 yds. vs. Seattle in 1995 (Dec. 10). His streak of three straight games with a field goal of 50 or more yards (last game of 1996 through second game of 1997) tied Elam with three other NFL players (Horst Muhlmann, 1970; Tom Dempsey, 1971, and Chris Bahr, 1981) for the longest such streak since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970. Elam was honored in October 1996 as one of the Broncos' three nominees for the True Value/NFL Man of the Year Award. He was selected by the Broncos in the third round of the 1993 NFL Draft out of Hawaii.

1998: Elam turned in the finest all-around performance of his six-year NFL career, being selected to his second Pro Bowl, named second-team All-NFL by the Associated Press, College & Pro Football Newsweekly and All-AFC by Pro Football Weekly and Football News. He carved out his place in NFL history Oct. 25 vs. Jacksonville when he tied the pro football record for the longest field goal, clearing the crossbar from 63 yds. away as time expired in the first half to match the 28-year old standard set by New Orleans' Tom Dempsey (vs. Detroit, Nov. 8, 1970). The kick shattered the previous club record of 57 yds. by Fred Steinfort (vs. Wash., 10/13/80) and the previous Mile High Stadium record of 58 yds. by Cleveland's Steve Cox (12/4/83), and earned Elam AFC Special Teams Player of the Week and Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors for the first time in his career. It was the fourth field goal of 60-or-more yards in NFL history, with Cox (60 yds. vs. Cin., 10/21/84) and Morten Andersen (N.O., 60 yds. vs. Chi., 10/27/91) joining Elam and Dempsey in the 60+ club. Elam enjoyed his finest season statistically in 1998, converting 23 of his 27 field goal attempts for a career-best and franchise-record percentage of .852, and all 58 point-after attempts for 127 total points, while also making one tackle on a kickoff return. Elam tied for third in the AFC (T5th NFL) in scoring among kickers, and his 58 PAT conversions ranked second-most in the NFL, while also representing a team record for a single season (previous: 46 by Elam, 1996).

ELAM ETCHES NAME IN SUPER BOWL RECORD BOOK

Jason Elam's second-quarter 51-yard field goal in Super Bowl XXXII not only gave Denver a 17-7 lead at the time, it was the second longest field goal in Super Bowl history, trailing only a 54-yarder by Steve Christie in Super Bowl XXVIII.

'97). He strained his right hamstring in the second quarter vs. Philadelphia (10/4) and was unable to play in the second half. Elam practiced sparingly the following week, but was able to play at Seattle (10/11), converting all three point-after attempts. His successful boot from 53 yards in Week 1 vs. New England (9/7), his NFL-record-tying 63-yarder vs. Jacksonville, his 52-yarder at Miami (12/21) and his miss from 55 yds. vs. Seattle (12/27) raised his career accuracy on kicks of 50 yards or longer to 17 for 28 (60.7%). The 53-yarder had been his longest field goal since converting from the same distance in the 1997 season-opener vs. Kansas City (8/31/97). Versus Dallas (9/13) he tied a franchise record that he already shared with four other players by converting six point-after attempts. A week later at Oakland (9/20) his two field goals moved him past Rich Karlis (137) for second place on Denver's all-time field goal list, and he became the Broncos' all-time field goal leader at San Diego, with his 152nd (Jim Turner, 151). Elam's 13 pts. vs. Jacksonville (10/25) moved him past Karlis (655) for second on the all-time franchise scoring list, finishing the year with 730 points. Elam set a franchise record for consecutive field goals made in Game 10 at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football, converting his 14th in a row to top Rich Karlis' previous standard of 13 (1984-85), and ran his streak to 19 straight before having a 37-yd. attempt vs. Kansas City (12/6) blocked. His four PATs at San Diego (11/29) pushed his total to 47, besting his own previous franchise record of 46, achieved in 1996 and '97, and he finished the year with 58. Postseason: Elam made six of eight field goal attempts and all 11 point-after attempts for a team-leading 29 points in three postseason contests to move into second place in all-time postseason scoring by a Bronco. He also moved into the club postseason lead in point-after attempts (30) and second place in field goals made (9) and attempted (11). He made his only field goal attempt (32 yds.) and all five point-after attempts to account for eight points in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9). That effort, however, was overshadowed by what he did a week later in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), tying a franchise record with three field goals (also accomplished by David Treadwell, vs. Cleve., 1/14/90 and Rich Karlis, at Cleve., 1/11/87) and drilling both point-after attempts for 11 points on the day. Elam's 48-yarder ties for the third-longest in franchise playoff history, matching Rich Karlis' vs. the Giants in Super Bowl XXI (1/25/87). Elam had a busy day in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), converting two of four field goal attempts and all four point-after attempts for 10 points in the Broncos' 34-19 win. He was successful from 26 and 37 yards in the 2nd and 4th qtrs., respectively, and missed from 38 and 48 yards in the 3rd, the first two postseason misses of his career.

1997: Elam converted 26 of his 36 field goal attempts — including three from beyond 50 yards (50, 51 and 53) — and tied his own franchise record (1996) for PATs in a season by going a perfect 46-46 in that department. His 124 total points on the season ranked second in the AFC (4th NFL), and his 46 PATs led the AFC (2nd NFL). Elam's three field goals from beyond 50 yards in 1997 gave him 14 for his career (23 att.), and a .609 percentage from that range. He also made

WHERE DID THE NAME DENVER BRONCOS COME FROM?

The name "Denver Broncos" was chosen from 500 entries in a name-the-team contest in January, 1960. The name was suggested by Ward M. Vining of Lakewood. But the football team isn't the first Denver Broncos. Denver's 1921 entry in the Midwest Baseball League was also called the Broncos.

Brian Griese looks to step up in his second year as he will be called upon to share a great deal more responsibility at the quarterback position with the retirement of John Elway. Griese enters training camp as the backup to Bubba Brister, and seeks to implement all that he learned as a rookie a year ago. Griese has played in one NFL game and completed 1 of 3 passes for 2 yds. He was selected by the Broncos in the third round (No. 91 overall) of the 1998 NFL Draft, out of Michigan.

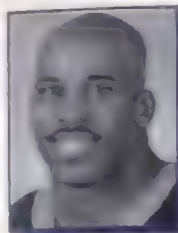

1998: Griese was designated the Broncos' third quarterback for 14 of the 16 games in his rookie season. He saw his first NFL action in Week Five vs. Philadelphia (10/4), replacing Bubba Brister in the fourth quarter. Griese completed 1 of 3 passes for 2 yds. with one interception, while also being credited with four rushing attempts for -4 yds. He completed his first NFL pass for a 2-yd. gain to Vaughn Hebrorn. Griese was active for the Broncos' Monday Night game at Kansas City (11/16), as the backup to starter Bubba Brister, with John Elway being designated Denver's third QB because of strained rib cartilage. In the preseason, Griese played in all four games and completed 27 of 50 passes (54.0) for 372 yards and two touchdowns with one interception. His longest completion, of 48 yards, went to Justin Armour for the game-winning touchdown vs. New Orleans. Griese, who also rushed 14 times for 32 yards (2.3) with a long of 8, directed game-winning fourth-quarter drives in each of his first three appearances. Postseason: Griese was designated the Broncos' third quarterback for all three contests. With Denver's 34-19 conquest of Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII (1/31), Griese, a rookie, completed his second straight championship season, after quarterbacking the University of Michigan to the collegiate national championship in 1997.

COLLEGE: Griese helped lead the Michigan Wolverines their first national championship in 49 years as a senior in 1997, earning first-team All-Big Ten Conference honors. Griese led the Wolverines to a 12-0 mark and a share of the national championship with Nebraska, defeating Washington State in the Rose Bowl with an MVP performance. He was a finalist for the Davey O'Brien Award and the recipient of the National Football Foundation & Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete Award. He completed 193 of 307 passes (62.9%) for 2,293 yards, 17 touchdowns and only six interceptions, breaking the previous school single-season records of 189 completions of 296 passes by Todd Collins in 1993. Only Collins (2,509 in 1993 and 2,518 in 1994) and Jim Harbaugh (2,729 in 1986) threw for more yards in a season for the Wolverines. Griese's interception percentage of 1.95% was the fourth-lowest in school annals. He was an Academic All-Big Ten Conference pick as a junior, playing mostly in a reserve role. Griese started the last nine games as a sophomore, completing 193 of 307 passes for 2,293 yards, 17 touchdowns and six interceptions. He saw action only as a holder for placements and field goals for the last nine games of his freshman season after redshirting in 1993. He was a philosophy major at Michigan.

PERSONAL: Griese was a Prep Football Report All-Southeast, Miami Herald all-city second-team and all-state third-team selection as a senior at Columbus High School in Miami, Fla., completing 101 of 183 passes for 1,387 yards and seven touchdowns in his final year. He hit on 194 of 335 attempts for 2,356 yards and 19 scores during his career. Griese also lettered in basketball, averaging 10 points per game, and added another letter in golf. His father, Bob, played 14 years with the Miami Dolphins and was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1990. Brian David Griese was born March 18, 1975 in Miami.

Among the most significant offseason acquisitions made by Broncos' head coach Mike Shanahan in 1997 was that of fullback Howard Griffith, who lived up to his reputation as being the best blocking fullback in pro football, while also showing that he is the best all-around fullback in the game. Griffith has paved the way for a Broncos running attack that has finished in the top four in the NFL each of the past two seasons, and produced the third-most prolific single-season rushing total by a player in pro football history in 1998, with Terrell Davis rushing for 2,008 yards. Griffith scored two touchdowns in Denver's 34-19 win over Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII, as the Broncos claimed their second straight World Championship. He scored three touchdowns in the 1998 postseason, and has scored four total in the past two postseasons, all of which have come in either the AFC Championship or Super Bowl. Griffith has now played in 91 NFL games (57 starts) and rushed for 281 yards on 99 carries (2.8) with two touchdowns. His receiving statistics include 80 catches for 557 yards (7.0) and six scores. Griffith has participated in nine postseason games (all starts) with 20 rushing yards and 114 receiving yards with five touchdowns (2 rushing, 3 receiving). The two touchdowns in Super Bowl XXXIII tied for the second-most in a Super Bowl game, and left Griffith tied for fifth in Super Bowl rushing TDs. Griffith is tied for fourth on the Broncos' all-time postseason rushing TD list, and is tied for third in total TDs (4—2 rush., 2 rec.) with Vance Johnson. A testament to his incredible blocking skills is the fact that Griffith has paved the way for 1,000-yard rushing seasons by three different backs in his career (Jerome Bettis with the Rams in '94, Anthony Johnson with the Panthers in '96 and Davis in '97 and '98). Originally drafted by Indianapolis in 1991 (237th overall), Griffith was waived after training camp and spent the '91 season on Buffalo's practice squad, followed by a stint on San Diego's practice squad in '92. He then played for the L.A. Rams (1993-94) and Carolina (1995-96) before signing with Denver as an unrestricted free agent Feb. 18, 1997.

1998: Griffith — named second-team All-NFL by Football Digest — started at fullback in 13 of the 16 games and played in 14, rushing four times for 13 yards (3.3) with a long of 16 (the longest rush of his career, @NYG, 12/13), while catching 15 passes for 97 yards (6.5) with a long of 15 (vs. N.E., 9/7) and three touchdowns. Griffith's three receiving TDs matched his entire career total prior to '98 (5 seasons), and were the most by a Broncos fullback in a single season since Bo Dickinson posted the franchise record of four in 1962. He played but did not start at Seattle (10/11) as the Broncos opened the game in a two-tight end alignment, and then missed the Cincinnati game (11/1) with a hamstring strain. Griffith returned to the starting lineup a week later vs. San Diego (11/8), but left the game during the first series because of a second-degree medial collateral tear in his left knee, and did not return. The injury also sidelined Griffith for the following week's game at Kansas City (11/16). Griffith's first scoring reception of the season came on a 3-yd. toss from Bubba Brister at Oakland (9/20), and his second came a week later on a 14-yarder at Washington (9/27), also from Brister. He missed most of the fourth quarter vs. Jacksonville (10/25) because of a right hamstring injury that forced him out of the next week's game at Cincinnati (11/1). Griffith returned to the starting lineup vs. Oakland (11/22) and caught two passes for 8 yds., including a 3-yd. scoring reception from Elway in the 4th qtr., his third of the year. Griffith had his most productive day of the season statistically at the Giants (12/13), rushing twice for 11 yds. (5.5) — including a career-best 16-yd. carry in the 3rd qtr. — and caught two passes for 11 yds. (5.5) with a long of 9. Griffith's primary contributions came as a blocking back in support of the Broncos' overall running game, which ranked second in the NFL with an average of 154.3 yards-per-game. Preseason: Griffith started all four games at fullback and caught one pass for one yard (1.0), while providing excellent lead blocking for the Broncos' running game. Postseason: Griffith started at fullback in two of the three games (Broncos opened in a two-tight end alignment in the AFC Championship Game) and rushed four times for nine yards (2.3) and two touchdowns, while catching three passes for 32 yards (10.7) and one touchdown. He also provided stellar lead-blocking for a dominant rushing attack that averaged 183 yds. per game in the postseason. Griffith caught one pass for 14 yds. while paving the way for Terrell Davis in his franchise postseason-record 199-yard rushing performance in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9), and caught another for an 11-yd. touchdown in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). The TD provided Denver's first points of the day, and began the Broncos' comeback from a 10-0 3rd-qr. deficit. It marked the third straight season in which Griffith caught a touchdown pass in a conference championship game (1996 NFC-Carolina at Green Bay, 1997 AFC-Denver at Pittsburgh). All four of Griffith's rushing attempts came in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), including two touchdowns on 1-yd. runs in the 1st and 4th qtrs. The first gave Denver a 7-3 lead, and the second increased the margin to 24-6. The two touchdowns tied for the second-most in a Super Bowl and left Griffith tied for fifth in career Super Bowl rushing TDs. He rushed for nine yards total in the game, and added one reception for seven yards. In the 1998 postseason Griffith touched the ball just seven times (4 rush, att., 3 rec.) and scored three touchdowns.

1997: Griffith played in 15 of the 16 games and made 13 starts at fullback in his first year in Denver, opening holes for Terrell Davis while also shouldering his share of the offensive load. For the year he rushed nine times for 34 yards (3.8) with a long of 9 yards (vs. K.C., 8/31), and caught 11 passes for 55 yards (5.0) with a long of 20 (at Oakland, 10/19). He had a season-high four receptions at Pittsburgh (12/7) for 18 yards. Griffith did not start vs. Oakland (11/24) and at Kansas City (11/16) because the Broncos opened both games in a two-tight end set (Dwayne Carswell), and he was inactive for the Buffalo game (10/26) because of soreness in his right knee resulting from a medial collateral injury originally suffered at Atlanta (9/28), which kept him out for most of that game. Griffith's injury was initially thought to be a second-degree tear that might keep him out for 3-5 weeks, but an MRI proved negative and he was back in the starting lineup a week later vs. New England (10/6). He re-injured the knee in the third quarter at Oakland (10/19) and missed the remainder of that game, as well. His best rushing performance of the season came against St. Louis (four carries) in Week Three and Kansas City (two carries) in Week One, gaining 13 yards on the ground in each game. He paved the way for a franchise record 10 100-yard rushing games by backfield mate Terrell Davis, including two 200-yard efforts (vs. Cinc., 9/21 and at Buff., 10/26). In the postseason Griffith started all four games at fullback and rushed five times for 11 yards (2.2) with a long of 4 yards, and caught five passes for 58 yards (11.6) with a long of 23 and one touchdown. He also earned recognition for the lead-blocking he provided for Super Bowl MVP Terrell Davis, who rushed for more than 100 yards in all four postseason games. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff win vs. Jacksonville (12/27) Griffith put forth a stellar effort, helping power Denver's running game to 310 yards on the day, courtesy of two 100-yard rushers, Terrell Davis (184) and Derek Loville (103). Griffith did not run the ball himself, but provided powerful lead-blocking, and caught two passes for 9 yards with a long of 8. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff victory at Kansas City (1/4/98) he rushed four times for nine yards (2.3), while providing exceptional lead-blocking for Terrell Davis, who finished the day with 101 yards. Griffith's touchdown reception in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98) put Denver ahead to stay at 17-14, and helped propel the Broncos to the Super Bowl. His other reception for 11 yards came earlier on the same drive. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25) Griffith rushed once for 2 yards and caught one pass for 23 yards, while paving the way for Super Bowl MVP Terrell Davis' 157-yard rushing effort. His 23-yard reception on the Broncos' game-winning drive in the Super Bowl gave Denver a first down at the Green Bay 8-yard line in the closing minutes. The play was identical to the one on which he scored his only touchdown of the season two weeks prior in Pittsburgh.

1996: Griffith started 14 of 16 games for Carolina, with his only two non-starts coming in games where the Panthers opened in a three-receiver formation (12/1 at San Francisco and 11/17 at St. Louis). For the season he rushed 12 times for seven yards (0.6) with one touchdown and set career highs for both receptions (27) and receiving yards (223) and scored one receiving touchdown. Perhaps his greatest contribution, however, was the devastating blocking he provided for tailback Anthony Johnson who logged 1,120 yards on the year. Griffith had 36 yards receiving on four catches vs. the NY Giants (11/10), including a touchdown reception, and added a touchdown run three weeks later vs. Tampa Bay (12/1) for his two scores on the year. He also had 24 receiving yards on five catches in the 1996 postseason, including Carolina's only touchdown of the NFC Championship Game at Green Bay (1/12/97) on a three-yard reception. On the day he had four catches for 23 yards against the Packers. The previous week against Dallas in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game he had one reception for one yard. 1995: Griffith set career highs in rushing yards and attempts with 197 yards on 65 carries while highlighting his ability as a blocker and serving as an important part of the Panthers offense. After serving as a reserve for the first five games of the year, Howard took over full-time starting duties vs. the Jets (10/15), gaining five yards on three carries and hauling in two catches for 14 yards. Versus New Orleans (10/22) Griffith became the first Panther to score two touchdowns in a game, scoring on a two-yard run and a one-yard reception from Kerry Collins. At New England (10/29) Griffith aided in Derrick Moore's 119-yard rushing day with key blocks while adding three carries for 11 yards and a reception for 15 yards. At the Rams (11/12) he led the team with 13 carries for 46 yards and two catches for five yards. Versus Arizona (11/19), in a start at RB, he had the best rushing performance of his career with a team-leading 88 yards on 25 carries and was part of a running game that amassed a team-high 180 yards rushing. At New Orleans (11/26), he started at running back before spraining his right ankle in the first quarter. After a week inactive vs. Indianapolis (12/3) he saw brief time vs. San Francisco (12/10) but did not record a carry. Griffith was the 16th player selected in the expansion draft from the Los Angeles Rams, February 15, 1995 (8th round). 1994: Griffith started 10 games at fullback for the Los Angeles Rams, where he helped clear the way for All-Pro Jerome Bettis, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards for the second consecutive season. A capable receiver, Howard caught 16 passes, including his first career touchdown in a game vs. the Denver Broncos (11/6), a three-yard pass from Chris Chandler that gave the Rams a 27-21 victory. His nine rushes for 30 yards were the first of his career. 1993: Griffith signed as a free agent with the Rams, for whom he contributed on special teams, returning eight kickoffs for 169 yards (21.1), second-best on the squad. 1992: Griffith signed on the Chargers practice squad October 23 where he remained for the rest of the season. 1991: Drafted by the Indianapolis Colts in the ninth round (237th overall), Griffith was waived in training camp and was signed to the Bills practice squad where he was a part of Buffalo's 1991 AFC Championship.

COLLEGE: Griffith finished his career at Illinois with school records for career touchdowns (33), touchdowns in a season (15) and single-game rushing yards (263), among others. During his senior season (1990) Howard set an NCAA record with eight touchdowns vs. Southern Illinois. As a junior (1989) he ranked second on the team with 39 catches for 287 yards and earned Sporting News All-America honorable mention.

PERSONAL: An all-conference running back at Percy Julian High School in Chicago, Ill., Griffith also lettered three years in baseball. He is an avid Sega video game player, particularly in Madden Football. Howard Thomas Griffith was born Nov. 17, 1967 in Chicago. He and his wife, Kim, have a son, Howard II (9/21/96), and the family makes its home in Littleton, Colo.

Harald Hasselbach continues to be one of the Broncos' most dependable and versatile defensive linemen, playing a number of positions along the line. He took over the starting left end position late in the 1998 season, and helped propel the Broncos to their second consecutive Super Bowl win. In his five years with the club he has played in 80 games (26 starts) and recorded 164 tackles (119 solo), including 12.5 sacks (-92.5), with six passes defended, three forced fumbles and four fumble recoveries. Hasselbach began his professional career in 1990 with the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League, for whom he played four seasons before signing with the Broncos in 1994.

1998: Hasselbach saw action along the defensive line in all 16 games and started three (at Seattle, 10/11; at Miami, 12/21 and vs. Seattle, 12/27) at left defensive end, recording 27 tackles (24 solo), including three sacks (-26). His first came vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he dropped Bobby Hoving on the Eagles' first series of the game, and his second came at Seattle (10/11) when he collared Warren Moon for a 9-yd. loss just before halftime. Hasselbach's third came in a crucial fourth-quarter situation against Jacksonville's Mark Brunell (10/25) for a 12-yd. loss. He suffered a sprained ankle in the 4th qtr. vs. Oakland (11/22), and did not return to the game, but was well enough the following week at San Diego (11/29) to play in his usual position. Hasselbach's starts in the final two games of the season came in place of Neil Smith (strained abdominal) at left defensive end. Postseason: Hasselbach started at left defensive end in all three games and posted five tackles (1 solo). He made his first start in six career postseason appearances in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) and made one assisted tackle, and added two more in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Hasselbach tallied two stops (1 solo) in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Hasselbach played in all 16 games and made strong contributions on the defensive line in a reserve role, recording 23 tackles (19 solo), including a 1.5 sacks (-14.5), and one pass breakup. He made three starts at left defensive end, replacing an injured Neil Smith (triceps) vs. Seattle (11/2), Carolina (11/9) and Oakland (11/24). In his first start, Hasselbach responded with his first solo sack of the season for a 10-yard loss, and then posted a season-high five solo tackles vs. Oakland. He also had three stops against Carolina (11/9) and two each against St. Louis (also half a sack, 9/14) and at Buffalo (10/26). In the postseason Hasselbach played in all four games as a reserve on the defensive line and recorded seven tackles (4 solo), including an assist in the Wild Card Game (12/27), two solos in the Divisional Playoff Game (1/4/98), three tackles (two solo) in the Championship Game, and one solo in Super Bowl XXXII. 1996: Hasselbach played in all 16 regular season games and started one at left defensive end (at Green Bay, 12/8). For the season he recorded 17 tackles (14 solo) — including two sacks (-20) — as well as two passes defended and two forced fumbles as a key contributor on Denver's defensive line rotation. On opening day vs. the Jets (9/1) Hasselbach had two solo tackles and one sack in Denver's 31-6 victory. He added another sack the following week in Denver's 30-20 win at Seattle (9/8). He had a season-high four tackles (two solo) in Denver's 34-7 victory vs. Kansas City (10/27), and added two tackles (one solo) at Green Bay (12/8) in his only start of the season. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Hasselbach saw action on the defensive line and made one solo tackle. 1995: Hasselbach saw action in all 16 games and made 10 starts in place of the injured Dan Williams (knee), finishing the season with 31 tackles (22 solo), four sacks, two passes defended and four fumble recoveries. He took over the starting left defensive end position at Seattle (10/1), and continued to start at New England (10/8), vs. Oakland (10/16) and vs. Kansas City (10/22). After returning to his backup role for two games, Hasselbach returned to the starting lineup against San Diego (11/19) when Williams suffered another knee injury. His four sacks on the season came at Seattle (10/1), vs. Kansas City (10/22), vs. San Diego (11/19) and at Oakland (12/24), a game in which he posted his highest tackle total of the year (6; 4 solo). 1994: Hasselbach turned some heads after spending the previous four seasons with the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League. He played in all 16 games for the Broncos, including the final nine in a starting role at defensive right tackle. For the season Hasselbach accounted for 86 total tackles (40 solo) — including two sacks (-13) — one pass defended and one forced fumble. He was given his first start against Cleveland (10/30) and responded with five total tackles (2 solo), then posted his best numbers of the season the following week with 10 tackles (3 solo) against the Rams (11/6). Hasselbach went on to start the final nine games of the season and recorded his first NFL sack against Cincinnati (11/27). His impressive play allowed the team to rest previous starter Dan Williams who was slowed by injury. Hasselbach was an instant hit in training camp then progressed slowly during the regular season before jumping into the starting lineup. 1990-93: Hasselbach spent four seasons with the Calgary Stampeders of the CFL, emerging as one of the league's top defensive stars. He posted four-year career totals of 72 tackles and 14 sacks, seven of which came in his final season, 1993.

COLLEGE: Hasselbach lettered one season (1989) at the University of Washington as a reserve defensive lineman for a Husky team that defeated Florida 34-7 in the 1989 Freedom Bowl. He made four solo tackles during his senior season (1989), his second consecutive as a backup to All-American and former San Francisco 49ers defensive end Dennis Brown. Hasselbach redshirted in 1985 and spent the next three seasons as a non-letterman squad member with great physical attributes and potential.

PERSONAL: A native of Amsterdam, Holland, Hasselbach has also lived in Suriname, Indonesia, Kenya and Canada. He is fluent in Dutch and has also spoken French, German, Japanese, Swahili and Indonesian. His father is a retired agronomist whose job took the family all around the world before settling in British Columbia. Hasselbach grew up playing soccer, cricket, rugby and field hockey as well swimming, and did not begin to play football until his final two years at South Delta High School in Tsawassen, B.C., where he was a two-year letterman offensive and defensive tackle. He was named to the Fraser Valley All-Star team and was an All-British Columbia choice. Harald, his wife Aundrea and their son, Terran, make their home in Aurora, Colo. Harald and Aundrea have been very active in the Denver community, hosting a Christmas party for disadvantaged youth in 1998, and along with Ray and April Crockett organizing a charity auction in May 1999 that raised $50,000 for victims of the Columbine High School shootings.

Tory James cleared a major hurdle in 1998 in his recovery from a devastating 1997 knee injury that wiped out his season. He played in every game for the Broncos last year as the club won its second straight World Championship, and regained a measure of confidence that he will carry into the 1999 season. James seeks to make a major impact in the Broncos secondary, still building upon a very successful 1996 rookie campaign in which he justified all the faith the Broncos showed in choosing him with the 44th pick of the 1996 NFL Draft. He entered '97 as the designated starter at right cornerback before injuring his knee in the first preseason game. James will challenge for the nickel back position in '99 and for serious playing time behind veteran starters Ray Crockett and Dale Carter.

1998 James played in all 16 games and contributed 12 tackles (10 solo) and two pass breakups on defense, as well as 12 stops and a fumble recovery on special teams. He posted three special teams stops in each of the first two games of the season, and his fumble recovery came vs. Philadelphia (10/4) after Derek Loville knocked the ball from Allen Rossum's hands on a first-quarter kickoff return. James' first defensive tackle came vs. Dallas (9/13), and he posted two more (1 solo) at Seattle (10/11). James saw significant action at cornerback in the third and fourth quarters vs. Jacksonville (10/25) because of injuries in the secondary, and responded with his best statistical performance of the season, posting five tackles (4 solo) and a pass defended. His appearance in the season-opener vs. New England (9/7) was his first regular-season game action since 1996, since suffering a torn patellar tendon in the first quarter of the 1997 preseason opener vs. Buffalo (7/26). Postseason James saw action in the secondary and on special teams in all three games and recorded two solo tackles with two passes defended. The two tackles came in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9), and the pass breakups came in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) and Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). James added a special teams tackle in the Super Bowl.

1997 James was placed on injured reserve Aug. 18 following surgery to repair a torn patellar tendon in his right knee. The injury occurred in the first quarter of the Broncos' initial preseason game of the year, July 26, vs. Buffalo at Mile High Stadium. 1996 James saw action in the secondary and on special teams in all 16 regular season games and made two starts (at New England, 11/17; at Minnesota, 11/24) at right cornerback in place of the injured Lionel Washington (knee) and Randy Hilliard (ribs). He had already taken over the nickel back duties vs. Kansas City (10/27), and when Washington was hurt in that game James continued as the nickel back while Hilliard started at Oakland (11/4) and vs. Chicago (11/10). Hilliard was then hurt in the Chicago game, opening the door for James to start at New England and Minnesota while Washington eased back into play. For the season James posted 22 tackles (17 solo) and seven passes defended, and proved to be a big-play guy, snagging two interceptions, forcing a fumble and recovering a fumble. The forced fumble, the recovery and the first of his two interceptions all came vs. Seattle (12/1) in the contest in which Denver clinched its first AFC West title since 1991. James also made nine special teams stops, according to unofficial press box statistics. Versus Kansas City (10/27) James saw action as the nickel back for the first time, making two solo tackles, and also contributed on special teams in Denver's 34-7 win. In Game 11 at New England (11/17) James made his first career start, taking over the right cornerback spot with Lionel Washington just coming back from a knee injury and Randy Hilliard out with injured ribs. He responded with two tackles (1 solo) and two pass breakups, and added another tackle on special teams. The following week at Minnesota (11/24) James started for the second straight week and made five solo tackles in Denver's 21-17 victory. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) James saw action in a reserve role in the secondary, making two solo tackles, and also contributed on special teams. James was the Broncos' second overall selection in the 1996 draft, from LSU, chosen in the second round (44th overall).

COLLEGE: In his four years at Louisiana State, James played in 39 games (started 29) and made 117 tackles (81 solo), recovered three fumbles, caused one fumble, intercepted 11 passes, broke up 20 more, made two sacks (-9) and added five other tackles-for-loss (14). He returned one interception for a touchdown, and also played wide receiver as a freshman in 1992, catching six passes for 78 yards (13.0) with a long of 35 yards and one touchdown. He earned first-team All-Southeastern Conference honors as a junior in '94, and closed his career by being named to the All-America Dream Team by the Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft.

PERSONAL: James was All-District 10-5A as a defensive back and kick returner in his senior year at Archbishop Shaw High School in Marrero, La. He also starred in track and basketball during his prep career. James was criminal justice major at LSU. Tory Steven James was born May 18, 1973 in New Orleans, La. James is single and makes his home in Highlands Ranch, Colo.

Darrius Johnson has progressed remarkably in each of his first three seasons in Denver, and will now likely make a move to the safety position for 1999, proving to be a vital cog in the Broncos' defensive future. He has shown that he can be depended upon to carry his weight in the defensive backfield, and will likely be utilized in a way that will allow the Broncos to put their best players on the field, regardless of their previous positions. Over the past two seasons Johnson has seen considerable action in the secondary after playing primarily on special teams as a rookie. Johnson has now played in 45 NFL games and has 65 tackles (60 solo), including one sack (-11), with two interceptions (79 yds.), 18 pass breakups and one forced fumble. He has also participated in eight postseason games with 18 tackles (14 solo), two interceptions (76 yds.), four passes defended and a forced fumble. Johnson is tied for fourth on the Broncos' postseason interceptions list (2) and ranks second in interception return yardage (76). His special teams play also continues to be stellar, as he finished fourth on the team in 1998 with 14 stops. For his career Johnson has 43 in the regular season and four more in the postseason. Johnson joined the Broncos in 1996 as a fourth-round (No. 122 overall) draft choice out of Oklahoma.

1998: Johnson saw action in all 16 games as the Broncos' nickel back, posting 39 tackles (35 solo), including his first career sack (-11), as well as nine passes defended and the first two interceptions of his career (79 yds. in returns). He was also a big contributor on special teams where he made 14 tackles and forced a fumble (at K.C., 11/16). Johnson's first career interception came vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he picked off a Bobby Hoving pass with 1:20 left in the 1st half and returned it 45 yds. to the Denver 12-yd. line, setting up Denver's fifth touchdown of the half. He posted a career-high 6 solo tackles in the Broncos' 21-16 win at Seattle in Week 6, as he started the game in response to the Seahawks' three-wide receiver alignment. He then played the entire second half in place of Ray Crockett (ankle) at left cornerback, and saw extensive action both cornerback positions in the second half vs. Jacksonville (10/25) because of injuries to Crockett and Darrien Gordon. Johnson's second pickoff came at San Diego (11/29), when he plucked a Craig Whelihan pass in the 2nd qtr. and returned it 34 yds. Johnson's first career sack came in the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27) when he dropped Jon Kitna for an 11-yard loss late in the game. He had started at nickel back. Preseason: Johnson played in all four games and recorded 14 tackles (12 solo), including a sack (-3), as well as two interceptions (43 yds.), four passes defended and two forced fumbles. He also registered a tackle and fumble recovery on special teams. Postseason: Johnson saw action in the secondary and on special teams in all three games and started the AFC Divisional and Championship Games because the Broncos opened the contests defensively in a nickel package. He tied for fourth among all Broncos in postseason tackles with 14 (10 solo), to go along with three passes defended, two interceptions, a forced fumble and a special teams tackle. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he made his first postseason interception to go along with a team-leading nine tackles (7 solo). Johnson made the most of his first postseason start by adding a pass defended and a forced fumble. Johnson's interception of a Dan Marino pass came in the 4th qtr. and was returned 48 yds., the second-longest postseason interception return in franchise history at the time (now fourth). He later forced a fumble after a reception by Oronde Gadsden, which was recovered by Neil Smith and returned 79 yds. for a touchdown. Johnson came up big again with in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) with four tackles (2 solo), a pass defended and a special teams tackle. In Super Bowl XXXI-II vs. Atlanta (1/31) Johnson added his second postseason interception, to go along with one solo tackle and a pass defended. The interception came midway through the 3rd qtr. and was returned 28 yds. to the Atlanta 47-yd. line.

1997: Johnson provided youth and talent in the secondary, and also made strong contributions on special teams, playing in all 16 games. The only game in which he did not see any defensive action was at Oakland (10/19), Denver's first loss of the season. He took over the nickel back duties vs. Seattle (11/2), and finished the year with 17 solo tackles and seven passes defended, the first four of which came in the Seattle contest. Johnson ranked second on the team in special teams tackles (16), and also forced two fumbles, recovered a fumble and scored a touchdown. He recovered a fumbled kickoff return on the opening play of the second half vs. Seattle (11/2) when Glenn Cadrez knocked the ball away from Ronnie Harris, and dashed six yards into the end for his first professional score, giving Denver a 20-10 lead en route to a 30-27 victory. He finished the day with three solo tackles and four pass breakups on defense. Just one week earlier he had distinguished himself by forcing a fumble on a kickoff return, which was recovered by Dwayne Carswell to start the second half in Denver 23-20 overtime victory (10/26). His second forced fumble came vs. Carolina (11/9) when he stripped Winslow Oliver on a punt return in the third quarter. His high tackle game of the season came on Monday Night Football vs. Oakland (11/24) when he posted four solos. He also three stops (all solo) each vs. Seattle (11/2) and at San Diego (11/30). In the post-season Johnson contributed as the nickel back in all four games and made four solo tackles with one pass defended, as well three tackles on special teams. He had one pass breakup and two special teams stops vs. Jacksonville in Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card victory (12/27). In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), Johnson posted one tackle as the nickel back, and then added two stops (both solo) and a special teams tackle in the AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98). In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Johnson recorded one solo tackle as the nickel back in Denver's 31-24 victory. 1998: Johnson played in 13 regular season games, both on defense and special teams. He missed Weeks 2-4 (at Seattle, 9/8; vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15; and at Kansas City, 9/22) after suffering a knee injury in the season-opener vs. the Jets (9/1), but returned to action in Week Five at Cincinnati (9/29). Johnson began the year as the No. 1 kickoff returner but was set back by the injury and played behind Vaughn Hebron for that role throughout the rest of the regular season. For the season Johnson made nine tackles (8 solo), knocked down two passes and forced a fumble on defense, and added 13 special teams tackles according to unofficial press box statistics. Versus Kansas City (10/27) he made two solo tackles on defense and added two more on special teams. At Oakland (11/4), in his first Monday Night Football game, Johnson saw action on special teams and made two tackles. At New England (11/17) Johnson played in the defensive secondary where he made three solo tackles, knocked down two passes and caused a fumble, while also contributing two special teams tackles. He made three tackles (2 solo) at Green Bay (12/8) and added three more on special teams. Johnson also played in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97).

COLLEGE: Johnson was a three-year starter in the secondary at Oklahoma, was twice named All-Big Eight first team, and finished his career with 208 tackles (149 solo), 12 interceptions, 30 pass break-ups, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He played in two bowl games — John Hancock (after 1993) and Copper (after '94) — and figures seventh on the Sooners' all-time punt return list with 497 yards. Johnson also excelled in track and field, earning All-America honors in 1993 as a member of the Sooners' 1600-meter relay team. He ran the third leg on the relay squad that clocked a 39.03 at the NCAA Championships in New Orleans, La.

PERSONAL: Johnson was a Class 4A first-team all-state selection at Terrell High School in Terrell, Texas, where he lettered three times as a cornerback, running back and kickoff returner. An organizational communications major at Oklahoma, Johnson was born Sept. 17, 1972 in Terrell, Texas. He and his wife, Teniqua, make their home in Aurora, Colo.

KC. Jones made great strides last year, in what was essentially his rookie season in the NFL. After missing the 1997 season with a torn pectoral muscle, Jones was able to more practically apply in practice situations all that he had learned, and he now looks to make an even greater contribution in 1999. Jones entered the NFL as a rookie free agent with the Broncos out of Miami (Fla.) in '97.

1998: Jones was active for four of the 16 games (vs. N.E., 9/7; at Oak., 9/20; at Wash., 9/27 and vs. Phil., 10/4), but did not play. He was declared inactive for the other 12 games. In the preseason Jones played in the opener at St. Louis (8/8), but suffered a right foot sprain during the contest and missed the final three games. He returned to practice the week of the regular-season opener. Jones was declared inactive for all three postseason games.

1997: Jones tore a pectoral muscle in Denver's first mini-camp in 1997 and missed the entire season. He was placed on injured reserve Aug. 18. Jones originally signed with Denver as a rookie free agent May 2.

COLLEGE: Jones was a four-year starter at center for the University of Miami, grading out at 93% as a blocker in his 41 career games. He was an All-Big East selection his last three years at UM, including 1995, when he only played in the first four games due to torn ligaments in his knee, forcing him to miss the rest of the season. Miami won or shared the Big East title four of the five years Jones was there, only missing out in 1993. Jones was also a freshman All-America choice by the Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. He was a physical therapy major at Miami.

PERSONAL: Jones was a three-year starter and all-state center at Robert E. Lee High School in Midland, Texas, where he was team captain and named team MVP in 1991. Jones was the 10th-ranked prospect in the state of Texas as a senior by SuperPrep. His mother, Nancy, resides in Denver. Kirk Cameron Jones was born March 28, 1974 in Midland, Texas. Jones resides in Denver.

Tony Jones has been one of the Broncos' most valuable acquisitions of in recent years — and the most versatile and unselfish, as well. He has played at an elite level, at right tackle in 1997 and left tackle in 1998, as Denver won back-to-back World Championships. His Pro Bowl invitation in 1998 — the first of his career — speaks volumes about the performance he has put forth since joining the Broncos in a Feb. 14, 1997 trade from Baltimore. The Broncos sent their second-round pick in the '97 Draft to Baltimore for the rights to Jones, who stepped right in and helped the Broncos form the most effective offensive line in the NFL. Jones has proven over his 11-year career to be one of the top offensive linemen in the game and also showed his versatility to the Broncos by starting the season at left tackle and then flipping with Gary Zimmerman after the Broncos' sixth game, moving to right tackle and not missing a beat. Jones has also shown tremendous durability throughout his career, starting 146 of the 155 regular season games in which he has played, including a string of 105 starts in a row between 1989 and '96. He has started all but one game since the latter part of the 1989 season, and has also played in 12 postseason games and started 11: four at right tackle, five at left tackle and two at right guard. Jones entered the NFL as an undrafted rookie free agent with the Cleveland Browns in 1988.

1998: Jones — selected to the Pro Bowl as a reserve for the first time in his 11-year career — started at left tackle in all 16 games, playing through a groin strain in the Dallas contest (9/13) and a sprained left ankle at Seattle (10/11). The latter injury forced him to miss most of the third quarter, but he returned to play the final period as Denver went on to win 21-16. He suffered a mild left knee sprain vs. K.C. (12/6), but remained in the game. Jones played an integral role on an outstanding offensive line that allowed just 25 sacks — the third-lowest total for a full season in franchise history, and the lowest since 1971 — while paving the way for only the fourth 2,000-yard rusher in NFL history (Terrell Davis-2,008) and the league's second-most productive rushing attack at 154.3 yards per game. Postseason: Jones started at left tackle in all three postseason contests and helped pave the way for a rushing attack that averaged 183 yds.-per-game in the postseason. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he left the game midway through the 2nd qtr. with a twisted right knee and did not return. Jones, however, returned to practice during the week and was back in the starting lineup for the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), playing the whole game. He started and played the entirety of Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Jones started all 16 games in his first year with the Broncos, after being acquired in a trade with the Ravens during the offseason (2/14/97). He helped the Broncos produce the NFL's 4th-ranked running game (3rd in AFC) and the top-rated offense in the NFL, averaging 367 yards per game. Denver also scored a league-high and franchise record 472 points on the season, as they claimed the first Super Bowl championship in the teams' 38-year history. He and the rest of the offensive line opened holes that enabled Pro Bowl running back Terrell Davis to rush for a franchise-record 1,750 yards and 15 touchdowns. That unit also allowed only 35 sacks on the season and helped QB John Elway set a franchise record with 27 touchdown passes. The offense ran for more than 100 yards in 14 of 16 games and broke the 400-yard total offense number three times. Jones started the first six games at left tackle before moving to right tackle prior to the Oakland game (10/19), where he started the final 10. He missed a portion of the San Francisco game (12/15) after suffering a bruised right knee in the fourth quarter. An MRI done the following day proved negative. In the postseason Jones started all four games at right tackle as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed the Broncos to control games with a powerful rushing attack that averaged 187 yards per game. The offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for the Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). They also enabled Denver to rush for more than 100 yards in all four postseason contests — including five individual 100-yard performances in four games — culminating with 179 in Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII (1/25/98). 1996: Jones played in and started 15 games for the Ravens, running his streak of consecutive starts to 105. Jones' streak was ironically snapped when he missed the Ravens' Oct. 20 matchup with the Broncos at Mile High Stadium due to a knee injury suffered the week before at Indianapolis (10/13). A sprained knee also had forced him to miss most of the second half against New England (10/6). The Ravens' offense, which ranked third in the AFC (357.7), accumulated over 450 yards of total offense twice (vs. Jacksonville, 11/24 and vs. the Rams, 10/29) during the '96 season thanks in part to Jones' play at left tackle. His 100th career start came against a team that he will now be seeing twice a season, the Oakland Raiders (9/1). 1995: Jones started all 16 games at left tackle for the Browns in their final season in Cleveland, before the franchise's move and transformation into the Baltimore Ravens in 1996. His 100th consecutive start (including postseason) came at San Diego (12/3). He played in his 100th NFL game and his 91st career start in a 29-26 overtime Browns win at Cincinnati (10/29). Jones extended his consecutive start streak to 86 in a game at Houston (9/17), despite a sore groin. 1994: Jones, who started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the fifth consecutive season, earned second-team All-Pro honors from the Associated Press, UPI (AFC), College & Pro Football Newsweekly and Tom Jackson's Pro Football Update. During that season the team set a franchise record by allowing just 14 sacks. He also started both playoff games at left tackle (vs. New England, 1/1/95, and at Pittsburgh, 1/8/95). 1993: Jones started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the fourth consecutive season, missing just two quarters the entire season. In a 19-16 win at the Raiders (9/19) Jones held AFC sack leader Anthony Smith sackless after Smith had racked up four the previous week against Seattle. 1992: Jones started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the third consecutive season, despite having to play through a bad ankle he suffered Nov. 8 in a 24-14 Cleveland victory over Houston. He held Richard Dent and William Perry to no sacks and four tackles combined in a 27-14 win vs. Chicago (11/29). Jones held Chris Doleman to no sacks at Minnesota (11/22). He played his 50th game vs. Green Bay Oct. 18. 1991: Jones was one of four Cleveland offensive linemen to start all 16 games, the second consecutive season he had done so. He held Kansas City's Derrick Thomas sackless Nov. 24. 1990: Jones started all 16 games at right tackle, taking over for Cody Risien who retired prior to the start of training camp. 1989: Jones played in eight games, starting the final three of the regular season and both playoff contests at right guard. He started his second NFL game at right guard vs. Minnesota (12/17), then switched to right tackle when Cody Risien left the game with an eye injury late in regulation. Jones was activated from injured reserve before the Seattle game (11/12) after spending seven weeks on IR nursing a toe injury suffered in a Week Two win over the Jets (9/17). 1988: Jones played in the final four games of the season and one playoff game. He had been placed on injured reserve Aug. 29, 1988 with a toe injury. Jones was activated Oct. 22 and played in his first NFL game at Phoenix Oct. 23. He also played in Cleveland's Wild Card Game vs. Houston (12/24). Jones was a rookie free agent pickup by Cleveland May 20, 1988.

COLLEGE: Jones was a four-year letterman at Western Carolina University, garnering Most Improved Lineman and second-team All-Conference honors as a senior. He also ran track for the Catamounts. Jones returned to Western Carolina during the 1989 offseason to finish requirements for his degree (B.S.) in management (May '89).

PERSONAL: Jones played football, softball, basketball and ran track at Franklin County High School in Royston, Ga., winning MVP honors in football and basketball. He hails from the same hometown as baseball immortal Ty Cobb, however Jones has a street named after him in Royston (Tony Jones St.) and Cobb does not. Tony is involved in many off-the-field projects, such as Concern II, a sports carnival to help fund cancer research for children. He has also participated in the Diabetes Association "Swim for Diabetes" event and the American Lung Association's Celebrity Waiters' Luncheon. He has also headed a drive to increase adoption of minority children. Jones was married to Kamilla Orr on Valentine's Day 1992. They own two huge Rottweiler dogs. The couple's first child, Tony, Jr., was born May 27, 1995, three days after Tony, Sr.'s 29th birthday. They also have twins born March 13, 1999: a son, Kameron Tonius, and daughter, Kamilla Tonique. Jones enjoys swimming, softball, tennis and basketball. He wants to own a restaurant and clothing store after his playing career is finished. Jones is renowned for being one of the sharpest dressers in the NFL. He earned his nickname "T-Bone" in college when he would steal steaks from the younger players on the team during Wednesday "steak nights." Jones joined Broncos offensive linemen David Diaz-Infante and Mark Schlereth for an appearance on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien show in late January 1998, days after the Broncos' Super Bowl victory over Green Bay. Anthony Edward Jones was born May 24, 1966 in Royston, Ga.

Matt Lepsis enters the 1999 season with a significant opportunity to challenge for the starting right tackle position vacated by the departure of Harry Swayne via free agency. Lepsis, in this third NFL season, saw his first professional play a year ago after missing his entire first year in the league due to injury, and showed he has great promise for the future. He honed his skills before the '98 season by playing in the NFL Europe League for the Barcelona Dragons during the spring. Injuries from his college career at Colorado relegated him to the reserve/non-football injury list in 1997. He had signed with the Broncos that year (4/29/97) as a rookie free agent from the University of Colorado.

1998: Lepsis saw action in all 16 games on special teams, and limited duty as a reserve tackle. He played in his first professional regular season game in the season-opener vs. New England (9/7), replacing Harry Swayne at right tackle early in the fourth quarter and playing the remainder of the game. At Washington (9/27) Lepsis lined up as an eligible receiver on the line in a goal-line situation. He also played the fourth quarter at right tackle vs. Philadelphia (10/4) and the third quarter at right tackle at Seattle (10/11). Postseason Lepsis played in all three postseason games, both on the offensive line and on special teams. He played the final 2-1/2 quarters at right tackle in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) after Tony Jones left the game with a knee injury. Regular right tackle Harry Swayne moved to Jones' left tackle position, while Lepsis — playing in his first-ever postseason game — filled in admirably for Swayne on the right side, as the offensive line gave up just one sack for the day and cleared the way for 250 rushing yards. Earlier in the game, Lepsis was in on several offensive snaps as an eligible receiver, while also seeing action on special teams throughout the contest. He played on offense and special teams again in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), seeing several offensive plays as an eligible receiver on the line. Lepsis also saw action in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Lepsis spent the season on the reserve/non-football injury list due to a college knee injury.

COLLEGE: Lepsis played in 36 games as a tight end for Colorado (including bowl games), with 16 starts. He caught 45 passes for 519 yards and 3 touchdowns, including a two-yard reception for a score in the 1996 Cotton Bowl win over Oregon, capping a junior season in which he earned second-team All-Big Eight honors. Lepsis graded out as a 90% blocker during his career at CU and added seven special teams tackles to his credit. He also lettered three times in track at CU and was a two-time All-American in the discus with a collegiate best of 196 feet. Lepsis was a history major.

PERSONAL: Lepsis was an All-Southwest selection at Frisco (Texas) High School, where he was the Class 3A Defensive Player of the Year and a two-time state discus champion. He had the second-best discus throw in the country in 1992 (204'-8") and was also a member of the National Honor Society. Lepsis also bench presses more than 400 pounds and squats more than 600 pounds. He and teammate K.C. Jones have a friendship that dates back to their high school years, though the two attended different colleges. Lepsis was born January 13, 1974 in Conroe, Texas. He resides in Parker, Colo.

BORN: Aug. 11, 1967 in Detroit, Mich.
HIGH SCHOOL: Brother Rice High School, Birmingham, Mich.
RESIDES: Birmingham, Mich.

PRO YEAR: 10th • YEAR WITH BRONCOS: 5th
NFL GAMES PLAYED/STARTED: 139/29 • POSTSEASON: 21/1

Mike Lodish returns for his fifth year in Denver — and his 10th in the NFL — as a strong, veteran force on the defensive line. Lodish has earned the distinction of being the only player in the history of the National Football League to appear in six Super Bowls, claiming his second World Championship ring with Denver's 34-19 win over Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII last January. For his career, Lodish has appeared in 139 regular season games (29 starts) and amassed 136 tackles (94 solo), including nine sacks (-59), with four passes defended and four fumble recoveries, one of which he returned for a touchdown. He has also appeared in 21 postseason games, and started one (with Denver, vs. Jacksonville, 1/4/97), recording 11 solo tackles. Lodish entered the NFL in 1990 as a 10th-round draft choice (No. 265 overall) of the Buffalo Bills, with whom he spent his first five NFL seasons. He played in four Super Bowls with the Bills (SBs XXVI, XXVII, XXVIII and XXIX), and has now played in the past two with Denver, winning both (SBs XXXII and XXXIII).

1998: Lodish saw action on the defensive line in 15 of the 16 games and posted 14 tackles (7 solo), including two sacks (-11). He made one start, at Oakland (9/20), in place of an injured Keith Traylor. Lodish's first sack came early in the fourth quarter vs. Philadelphia (Bobby Hoving), as part of a two-tackle performance, and his second came at Cincinnati (11/1) when he dropped Neil O'Donnell for a 4-yd loss in the 3rd qtr. Lodish was a game-day inactive at Miami (12/21).

Postseason: Lodish saw action on the defensive line in all three contests. By playing in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta, Lodish became the only player in NFL history to play in six Super Bowls (4 with Buffalo and 2 with Denver).

1997: Lodish re-signed with Denver Aug. 5 as an unrestricted free agent and played in all 16 games on the defensive line, making 14 tackles (9 solo), including one sack (-7.5), to go along with a fumble recovery. He was credited with a half a sack each vs. Carolina (11/9) and St. Louis (9/14). Lodish's fumble recovery came in the third quarter vs. Oakland (11/24) after John Mobley stripped the ball from Napoleon Kaufman, and set up a Broncos field goal. He had three tackles each against Carolina (11/9) and at Pittsburgh (12/7) with two solos in each game. He also had two solo stops in Denver's 34-13 Monday Night Football win over New England (10/6). In the post-season Lodish played in all four games as a reserve defensive tackle and recorded three solo tackles, including two in Super Bowl XXXII, as he tied an NFL record by becoming the ninth player in league history to play in five Super Bowl games. He was instrumental in the Broncos' AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), recovering a Steelers fumble after Neil Smith sacked quarterback Kordell Stewart on the last play of the third quarter, killing another Steelers' drive and helping the Broncos hold on for a 24-21 victory. His other solo tackle came in the AFC Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98). 1996: Lodish started all 16 games for the Broncos at left defensive tackle, making 30 tackles (19 solo), including 1.5 sacks (-8.5). His season high of five solo tackles came in the finale at San Diego (12/22). Lodish had half a sack each at Seattle (9/8), at Oakland (11/4) and vs. Seattle (12/1). He started in Denver's lone playoff contest, vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97). 1995: Lodish played in all 16 games, contributing four solo tackles, in his first year with the Broncos after signing in the offseason as an unrestricted free agent from Buffalo. At New England (10/8), Lodish saw action on the defensive line, and finished with two solo tackles. In the season finale at Oakland (12/24), Lodish saw action on the defensive line, making one solo tackle. 1994: Lodish played in all 16 of the Bills' games, starting five. Derek Loville has proven to be a valuable asset to the Broncos' offense and special teams since his acquisition by the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent during the 1997 offseason. A hard runner who hits the hole quickly and uses his blockers well, while also excelling as a receiver out of the backfield, Loville has played in 101 career games (23 starts) with 1,417 yards rushing and 15 touchdowns. He has also caught 109 passes for 865 yards and five more scores, and can also be used as a kick returner when called upon, as his 61-yard kickoff return at San Francisco (12/15/97) and his 22.1-yard career average attest. Loville has also played in 13 postseason games (one start) and owns three Super Bowl rings, two with Denver (Super Bowl XXXII and XXXIII) and one with San Francisco (XXIX), placing him among an elite group of just 30 NFL players to win a ring with two different teams and one of only 13 to win one in each conference. In just two postseasons with the Broncos (seven games), Loville already ranks fifth on the club's postseason rushing list with 152 yards. Loville entered the NFL with Seattle in 1990 as a rookie free agent out of Oregon.

1998. Loville saw action on special teams and at halfback in all 16 games, carrying 53 times for 161 yards (3.0) with a long of 12 and two touchdowns, catching two passes for 29 yds. (14.5) with a long of 17 and returning six kickoffs for 105 yards (17.5) with a long of 25. His first TD came in the 4th qtr. at Washington (9/27) on a 1-yd. run to give Denver a 38-10 lead, and his second put the lid on a 30-7 Denver win at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football. That contest saw Loville post season-highs in both carries (10) and rushing yds. (40). Loville also posted 13 tackles (season-high 2 vs. Jax., 10/25 and at Oak., 9/20) and forced a fumble on special teams. The forced fumble came on a first-quarter kickoff return by Philadelphia's Allen Rossum in Week Five (10/4) and was recovered by Tory James to set up Denver's record-setting fourth touchdown of the quarter. Loville carried five times for 29 yds. vs. Oakland (11/22) and recorded his longest carry of the year (12 yds.) His one pass reception (12 yds.) came at Miami (12/21) from Bubby Brister in a game in which he also returned a kickoff 25 yds. for his longest return of the season. Preseason Loville played in all four games and carried the ball a team-high 40 times for 104 yards (2.6) with a long of 9 and one touchdown, while also catching six passes for 48 yards (8.0) with a long of 17. He also averaged 22.3 yards on four kickoff returns (89 yds.) with a long of 25, and made one special teams tackle. Postseason: Loville saw action on offense and special teams in all three games, rushing 12 times for 49 yds. (4.1) with a long of 11 yds. and one touchdown, which came in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9). In that game he carried eight times for 34 yds (4.3), and his 11-yd. TD dash came in the 2nd qtr. to give Denver a 21-3 lead. It was Loville's longest run of the day and moved him into third-place in postseason rushing touchdowns by a Bronco with three (Davis-12, Elway-6). Loville also made one tackle on special teams vs. Miami. He carried the ball twice for seven yds. (3.5) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) to move into fifth place on the Broncos' all-time postseason rushing list, passing Gene Lang (138). Loville carried twice for eight yards (4.0) and made one special teams tackle in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Loville played in all 16 games, contributing both on offense and special teams. He carried the ball 25 times for 124 yards (5.0) with a long of 17 and one touchdown, and caught two passes for 10 yards, while contributing five kickoff returns for 136 yards (27.2) — including a career-best long of 61 yards (12/15 at San Francisco) — and making one tackle. He had five carries for 22 yards (long of 9) in Denver's 35-14 victory over Seattle in Week Two (9/7), and did not have another carry until Nov. 24 against Oakland, when he had six for 36 (season-long of 17). His high rushing game of the season came in the finale vs. San Diego (12/21) when he led the team with 14 carries for 66 yards (4.7), and scored his only touchdown of the season on a 6-yard run in the fourth quarter. In the postseason Loville played in all four games and posted 13 carries for 103 yards (7.9) and two touchdowns with a long of 44 yards, and one reception for 10 yards. He was instrumental in securing Denver's Wild Card victory over Jacksonville (12/27/97) when he took over for an injured Terrell Davis (ribs) in the second half and went on to rush for a career-high 103

yards on 11 carries (9.4) and score two touchdowns, while also recording his one pass reception. The rushing total represented Loville's first career 100-yard rushing game, and, at the time, was one of three 100-yard games posted by a Bronco in the playoffs. It now ranks sixth on the Broncos' all-time postseason single-game rushing list, and his 9.4-yards per carry average in the game is the best by a Bronco in the postseason. With Loville's 103 yards and Davis' 184, the Broncos became just the third team in NFL playoff history to boast two 100-yard rushers in the same game. His 44-yard gallop in that game is the third-longest run from scrimmage by a Bronco in the postseason, and his career 7.9-yards per carry average as a Bronco in the postseason is the best in franchise history. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), Loville carried the ball twice for zero net yards and returned one kickoff 20 yards. He also had a special teams tackle in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11). 1996: Loville played in 12 games with San Francisco, starting six at halfback. He also played in both postseason contests, returning four kicks for 86 yards and rushing twice for minus three yards. Loville finished the season with 229 rushing yards on 70 carries (3.3) and 138 more yards on 16 receptions (8.6), while also returning 10 kickoffs for 229 yards. Loville was inactive for four games (at St. Louis, at Washington, at Atlanta and vs. Carolina). In Week One at New Orleans (9/1) he was the team leader with 16 carries for 61 yards, including a four-yard touchdown, while also adding three receptions for 15 yards. Loville carried the ball 12 times for 49 yards, including a two-yard touchdown, and caught two passes for six yards vs. St. Louis (9/8). He caught six passes for 85 yards, including a 44-yard touchdown, and carried the ball seven times for 20 yards at Carolina (9/22). Loville started in place of Terry Kirby in the regular season finale vs. Detroit (12/23) on Monday Night Football and rushed for 66 yards on 14 carries. He also caught four passes on the night for 32 yards, including a one-yard score, and returned two kickoffs for 58 yards. 1995: Loville started all 16 games for San Francisco, winning a heated battle in training camp for the spot vacated by Ricky Watters who signed with Philadelphia. He led the team in rushing with career highs in yards (723) and attempts (218) while tying a team record with 10 rushing touchdowns. Loville ranked second on the team in receptions with 87 (662 yards, 3 touchdowns), the fifth-highest reception total by a running back in NFL history. He gained 49 yards on 14 carries and caught six passes for 37 yards at New Orleans (9/3) in the regular season opener. A week later he ran 14 times for 61 yards and scored his first touchdown of the year, while catching six passes for 50 yards. vs. Atlanta (9/10). He also scored touchdowns against New England, Detroit, Dallas (two), Miami and St. Louis. Against the Cowboys he had 23 carries for 61 yards and two catches for 27 yards. Loville ran 15 times for 51 yards and added 78 yards on eight receptions at Miami the following week. Loville's most productive game of the season came against Buffalo when he touched the ball 34 times from scrimmage and racked up 174 total yards. Those numbers included career highs in carries (24), rushing yards (88), receptions (10) and receiving yards (86), with one touchdown on an eight-yard run. He had his second multiple-touchdown game at Carolina (12/10), scoring on runs of 1 and 7 yards. He had eight receptions for 70 yards in San Francisco's NFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Green Bay (1/6/96). 1994: Loville, who signed with the 49ers before the season, played in 14 games, totaling 31 carries for 99 yards and two receptions for 26 yards. He also returned two kicks for 34 yards and had eight special teams tackles. The 49ers went on to capture Super Bowl XXIX in Miami against San Diego (1/29/95). He was inactive for the season opener against the Raiders (9/5/94) and the season finale at Minnesota (12/26). Loville had a season-high nine rushing attempts for 20 yards at Atlanta (10/16) and gained 22 yards on five rushes while catching one pass for 19 yards vs. Denver (12/17). He saw special teams duty and brief action from scrimmage in all three postseason contests. 1993: Loville suffered a knee injury during training camp in August and spent the entire season on injured reserve. 1992: Loville signed with the Rams as a Plan 'B' free agent, but was waived before the start of the season and did not play for any team. 1991: Loville played in all 16 games with Seattle, primarily as a kick returner and ranked third in the AFC with a 22.9 average. He also ran 22 times for 69 yards. 1990: Loville played in 11 games, including his first professional start in the regular season opener at Chicago (9/10) when he rushed seven times for 12 yards. He was signed by the Seahawks as a rookie free agent in 1990.

COLLEGE: Loville was a four-year letterman at Oregon, rushing for 3,214 yards and 45 touchdowns, both school records. He also scored 272 points in his career, another school mark. Loville broke all the records that were set by former Ducks standout Bobby Moore (Ahmad Rashad) from 1969-71. He was the team leader in rushing all four years, with a high of 1,202 yards during his junior year of 1988. His 45 touchdowns rank fourth all-time in the Pac-10 Conference.

PERSONAL: Loville played football and ran track at Archbishop Riordan High School in his hometown of San Francisco, Calif. Riordan is also the alma mater of former Broncos great Steve Sewell. Derek Kevin Loville was born July 4, 1968 in San Francisco. He and his wife, Nina, were married March 14, 1998. They have a son, Derek II, and make their home in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Anthony Lynn is in the third year of his second go-around with the Broncos, having spent the 1993 season in Denver, prior to two years in San Francisco (1995-96). He returned to Denver in 1997, signing with the club as a free agent. Lynn has proven to be a quality backup at fullback and one of the top players on the squad on special teams. Besides his on-field capabilities, Lynn is also very popular in the Broncos locker room and is viewed by many of his peers and as one of the strongest players on the team mentally as well as physically. He has played in 67 regular season NFL games with one start, rushing for 175 yards on 26 carries (6.7) and catching two passes for 14 yards (7.0), and has played in nine postseason contests. Lynn entered the NFL as a rookie free agent with the Giants in 1992 (signed May 5) out of Texas Tech.

1998: Lynn saw action on special teams in all 16 games and made 16 tackles to go along with a forced fumble. His first playing time on offense came in the fourth quarter vs. Philadelphia (10/4), and he played again in relief of Howard Griffith in the fourth quarter a week later at Seattle (10/11). Lynn had his best statistical performance of the season vs. San Diego (11/8) with three special teams tackles and a forced fumble that came on kickoff coverage just before halftime. Postseason: Lynn saw action on special teams in all three games and made two tackles, the first of which came vs. the Jets in the AFC Championship Game (1/17) and the other in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Lynn saw action in all 16 games on special teams, making eight tackles. He played on offense for the only time vs. Carolina (11/9) and caught a 21-yard pass from Jeff Lewis in the fourth quarter, the longest reception of his career. He had two special teams stops in the regular season-finale against San Diego (12/21). In the postseason Lynn played on special teams in all four games, recording two tackles and a forced fumble, all in the Divisional Playoff Game at Kansas City (1/4/98). He knocked the ball from the hands of Tamarick Vanover on a second-quarter kickoff return, though Vanover would recover. In the AFC Wild Card Game vs. Jacksonville (12/27) he contributed on special teams and also saw considerable action in the fourth quarter at fullback, helping lead the way for Vaughn Hebronn's six-yard TD run on Denver's last drive of the contest, a 42-17 victory. 1996: Lynn played in all 16 games with San Francisco, starting one at fullback (vs. Cincinnati, 10/20). He finished the season with 164 yards rushing on 24 carries (6.8) and 14 yards receiving on two receptions (7.0 avg.). Lynn also had six special teams tackles in the regular season and two more in two postseason games. He made two special teams tackles in Week One vs. New Orleans (9/1) and also carried the ball twice for eight yards. Ed McCaffrey's career took a major turn in a positive direction in 1998, as he posted the best numbers of his eight NFL seasons and earned his first Pro Bowl berth. McCaffrey had been productive and consistent at the wide receiver position for the Broncos in each of his three years with the club, but 1998 proved to be a breakout year of sorts, as he posted career highs for receptions (64), yards (1,053), average (16.5) and touchdowns (10), tying for the AFC lead in the latter. The ninth-year pro, who signed with Denver as an unrestricted free agent in 1995, continues to be one of the most stable performers in the league at his position, showing an unerring ability to make the tough catch in clutch situations. McCaffrey, one of the best route-runners in the league, has played in 125 games (53 starts) over his eight-year career, catching 299 passes for 3,895 yards (13.0) and 36 touchdowns. He has also played in 13 postseason games (eight starts) and caught 34 passes for 479 yards (14.1) with a long of 47 and two touchdowns, winning World Championships with the Broncos (1997 and 1998) and 49ers (1994). McCaffrey is one of just 30 players in NFL history to win a Super Bowl with two different teams, and one of only 13 to win one in each conference. He entered the NFL in 1991 as a fourth-round draft choice of the New York Giants (No. 83 overall) out of Stanford.

1998: McCaffrey — selected to start in the Pro Bowl for the first time in his eight-year career; named second-team All-NFL by the Associated Press and All-AFC by Football News — started at wide receiver in 15 of the 16 games and enjoyed the finest statistical season of his career in all four receiving categories with 1,053 yds. on 64 receptions for an average of 16.5, with 10 touchdowns. He enjoyed an exemplary year off the field, as well, being named the "Sprint Broncos Man of the Year" for 1998. McCaffrey tied for the AFC lead in receiving TDs (T6th NFL), tied for sixth (T13th NFL) in total TDs, ranked sixth in the AFC (14th NFL) in receiving yards and tied for 15th in receptions, while his yards-per-catch avg. of 16.5 ranked sixth in the AFC (11th NFL). He posted a reception of 32 yds. or longer in 9 of the 15 games he played in '98 (32, 33, 37, 38, 41, 41, 44, 48, 48), finished the year having scored 13 TDs in his last 18 regular season games, dating back to the 1997 season. He turned in an outstanding '98 debut vs. New England (9/7), leading all receivers with seven catches for 97 yards (13.9), while also recovering a Patriots onside kick attempt in the final two minutes. His longest reception (44 yds.) came on the first play of the game and tied for the longest of his career. He followed that with a then-career-high 117 yards on five receptions vs. Dallas (9/13), including a 38-yard reception from backup QB Bubba Brister in the fourth quarter. His first two touchdowns of the season came in Week Three at Oakland (9/20), on a 1-yd. reception from John Elway and a 13-yd. grab from Brister, followed by a 19-yd. TD reception from Brister the next week at Washington (9/27). In Week 5 vs. Philadelphia (10/4) McCaffrey caught two passes for 60 yds., including a career-best 48-yarder from Brister on the first play from scrimmage, and his fourth touchdown of the year on a 12-yd. reception in the second quarter. He led all Denver receivers in yardage vs. Jacksonville (10/25) with 92 on three receptions, including a 41-yd. TD from Elway on the first play of the 2nd qtr., his fifth TD of the year. McCaffrey posted a new career high with 133 receiving yds. at Cincinnati (11/1) on seven receptions (19.0), including his sixth TD of the season. The score came on a 25-yd. pass from Elway in the 4th qtr. of a 33-26 come-from-behind win. He matched that career high, as well as his career-high for receptions, with a 9-133 performance vs. San Diego (11/8), which included a 7-yd. touchdown reception from Brister, his seventh of the year. It came early in the 3rd qtr. and gave Denver a 20-0 lead. McCaffrey posted back-to-back 100-yd. games for the first time in his career during the 1998 season (7-133 at Cin., 11/1 and 9-33 vs. S.D., 11/8), and recorded four of his six career 100-yd. games in 1998. Additionally, it marked just the sixth time in Broncos history that a player has posted receiving totals of 130 yds. or more in back-to-back games. McCaffrey caught one pass for 19 yds. at Kansas City (11/16) before leaving the game in the 1st qtr. with a hamstring strain. That injury also forced him to miss his first start of the season a week later vs. Oakland (11/22), as he was declared inactive the day of the game. McCaffrey bounced back a week later at San Diego (11/29), returning to the starting lineup and catching 5 passes for 74 yds. (14.8) and 2 TDs, both coming in the 1st qtr. on passes of 15 and 37 yds. from John Elway. The two scores gave him a career-high 9 for the season, and the five receptions allowed him to match his career high of 49. McCaffrey extended his career-high TD total to 10 vs. Kansas City (12/6), part of a 6-catch, 103-yd. performance that saw him break his previous single-season best of 49 catches, finishing the day at 55. It was McCaffrey's fourth 100-yd. game of the year, and the sixth of his career, and included a 48-yd. reception from Elway, tying the longest of McCaffrey's career. McCaffrey joined Rod Smith (165 yds.) to give Denver two 100-yd. receivers in the same game for the first time since Nov. 20, 1994 vs. Atlanta (Cedric Tillman—175, Anthony Miller—102). McCaffrey went over the 1,000-yd. receiving mark for the season with his 42 yds. at Miami (12/21), joining Rod Smith (1,222) to give Denver two 1,000-yd. receivers in the same season for the just the third time in franchise history (1994 and '97). McCaffrey suffered a tendon tear in his left ring finger in practice Aug. 11, and missed one preseason game (vs. New Orleans, 8/14). Postseason: McCaffrey started at wide receiver in all three postseason games and caught 11 passes for 190 yds. (17.3) with a long of 47, the longest postseason reception of his career (vs. the Jets, 1/17/99). In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he caught three passes for 52 yds. (17.3), and followed that up with three more catches for a team-high 66 yds. (22.0) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). He was superb again in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), catching five passes for 72 yds. with a long of 25, all in the second half. McCaffrey now ranks fourth on the Broncos' all-time postseason list for receptions (28), and ranks fifth in receiving yards (415).

1997: McCaffrey started 15 of the 16 games at wide receiver and ranked fourth on the team in receptions, with 45 for 590 yards (13.1), a long of 35 yards and a career-best eight touchdowns, tied for fifth-most receiving touchdowns in the AFC. McCaffrey missed his only game of the season in Week 15 at Pittsburgh (12/7) when he was declared inactive because of a strained hamstring. His first big performance of the 1997 season came at Seattle (9/7) in Week Two when he was matched up with rookie CB Shawn Springs and produced one of the biggest days of his career, catching eight passes for 93 yards and two touchdowns in Denver's 35-14 victory. Against St. Louis the next week (9/14) he had just one reception, but it was a 23-yard touchdown in the third quarter that put Denver ahead 35-7, en route to a 35-14 victory. The following week he caught his third touchdown of the season, a 32-yarder against Cincinnati (9/21) in Denver's 38-20 victory. He finished the day with four receptions for 62 yards. At Oakland (10/19) McCaffrey had three receptions for 61 yards and a 28-yard touchdown that brought Denver to within 28-25 in the fourth quarter, the score by which Denver would drop its first game of the season. In Denver's next matchup with the Raiders (11/24) he had four catches for 51 yards, including a diving 35-yard reception that set up Denver's first touchdown of the game en route to a 31-3 win on Monday Night Football. The next Sunday at San Diego, McCaffrey caught seven passes for a career-high 111 receiving yards (the second 100-yard game of his career) in Denver's 38-28 win. In that game he caught two touchdown passes (4 and 21 yards) to raise his total to seven, ending a five-game scoring drought since catching his fifth in the fourth quarter at Oakland (10/19). He closed the regular season with a four-catch, 32-yard performance that included his eighth touchdown of the year to set a new personal high. The touchdown came on a 1-yard reception from John Elway in the second quarter to put Denver ahead 21-3, en route to a 38-3 victory. In the postseason McCaffrey started at wide receiver in all four games and tied for the team lead in receptions (12) with Shannon Sharpe, covering 171 yards (14.3) with one touchdown, as he joined a list of just 30 players in NFL history to win a Super Bowl with more than one team (San Francisco, SB XXIX). In the Wild Card Game against Jacksonville (12/27) he caught two passes for 35 yards, including a 25-yarder on the Broncos' first possession on third-and-15 that kept the drive alive and set up their first score of the day in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98). McCaffrey caught three passes for 56 yards, including a 43-yarder on third-and-five early in the fourth quarter that set up Terrell Davis' game-winning touchdown with 12:32 remaining. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) he caught five passes for 37 yards, including a one-yard score right before the half to give Denver a 24-14 advantage. The Broncos held on to win 24-21 and advanced to their first Super Bowl in eight years. In Super Bowl XXXII against Green Bay, McCaffrey caught two passes for a team-high 45 yards, including a 36-yarder in the third quarter on Denver's 13-play, 92-yard drive (the longest of the game) that put them ahead 24-17. He also threw a crushing block on Packers' linebacker Brian Williams to free Howard Griffith for the bulk of his yardage on a 23-yard pass play from Elway that set up Denver's game-winning touchdown late in the fourth quarter. 1996: McCaffrey started 15 of the 16 regular season games at wide receiver opposite Anthony Miller and posted the second-best totals of his career with 48 receptions for 553 yards (11.5) and a long of 39 yards with a career-high seven touchdowns. He missed the Chicago game (11/10) when he was declared inactive because of a lower-back bruise. McCaffrey established a career high and tied a Broncos franchise record with three touchdown receptions against Baltimore (10/20). Easily his most dramatic touchdown catch of the year came at Minnesota (11/24) when he hauled in a five-yard John Elway pass that was tipped in the air three times by Vikings players, catching it at the one-yard line and diving backwards into the endzone for the score with 19 seconds left in the game. His longest reception of the year was a 39-yard touchdown from Elway in the season-opener against the Jets (9/1), and his most historic was his catch of Elway's 250th career touchdown pass in the second quarter vs. Seattle (12/1). McCaffrey sprained his ankle in practice Sept. 11 but was able to play four days later against Tampa Bay (9/15). In the season-opener vs. the Jets (9/1), McCaffrey started at wide receiver and caught a team-high four passes (tied with Shannon Sharpe) for 61 yards (15.3), including a 39-yard touchdown to put the Broncos ahead 14-0. In week five at Cincinnati (9/29) he caught five passes for 80 yards in a true iron-man performance. He was the victim of several vicious hits, but managed to return to the game each time, earning high praise from his teammates in the lockerroom after the Broncos' 14-10 victory. Versus San Diego (10/6) McCaffrey caught five passes for 58 yards with one touchdown (9 yards) and a long of 31 yards. His touchdown came with 8:22 remaining in the game, and put Denver ahead by the eventual final margin of 28-17. He had one of his best games of the year at Minnesota (11/24), catching six passes for a season-high 83 yards and one touchdown. His touchdown provided the winning points in Denver's 21-17 come-from-behind win, as he hauled in a thrice tipped five-yard pass from Elway with 19 seconds remaining in the game, and lunged backwards into the end zone for the score. It was his sixth touchdown of the year, surpassing his previous best of five as a New York Giant in 1992. Versus Seattle (12/1) he caught a team-high five passes for 43 yards with a long of 12 and one touchdown. His four-yard touchdown reception in the second quarter was the 250th touchdown pass of Elway's career, ninth-most in NFL history. Miller broke the 15,000-yard career passing mark in the fourth quarter of that game, and recorded the first 300-yard passing game of his Rams career, and his ninth overall, in the season finale against Washington (12/24). Miller signed with the Rams as an unrestricted free agent. 1993 Miller missed most of the season in his final year with the Falcons because of a knee injury. He played in three games and threw for 345 yards, one touchdown and three interceptions while rushing for 11 yards on two carries. He led the NFL in interceptions avoidance percentage (1.9) and recorded three 300-yard games (vs. Rams, 10/8; vs. Washington, 12/17 and Detroit, 12/24). Against the Lions he posted career highs in completions (37) and attempts (66). He also kicked a 25-yard field goal that season. A cornerstone of the Broncos' defense, John Mobley continues to quietly emerge as one of the finest all-around linebackers in the National Football League. He has an incredible knack for finding the football and is a devastating hitter once he does. Now in his fourth NFL season, Mobley has started 47 of the 48 games in which he has played and posted 387 tackles (284 solo), including 6.5 sacks (-32), with 25 passes defended, five forced fumbles, two fumble recoveries and three interceptions (19 yds.). Mobley has scored one

NFL touchdown, on a 13-yard interception return in 1997 (vs. N.E., 10/6), and earned his first All-NFL honors that season with selections by the Associated Press, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly. Mobley has one AFC Defensive Player of the Week award on his resumé, winning the honor for Week Six of the '97 season. He was named to the NCAA Division II Football Team of the Quarter Century (1973-1997) in 1998, joining the likes of Pro Football Hall of Famer Walter Payton and All-Pro performers Brent Jones, John Randle, Darrell Green and Greg Lloyd. Mobley entered the NFL in 1996 as the Broncos' first-round draft choice (No. 15 overall) out of Kutztown.

1998: Mobley started at weakside linebacker in 15 of the 16 games and led the team for the second straight year with 132 tackles (105 solo), including one sack (-7), two forced fumbles, one fumble recovery, one interception and a career-best 13 passes defended, third-most on the team. The sack came at Oakland (9/20) in the fourth quarter. He has also recorded six tackles on special teams (high of 2 at Miami, 12/21 and vs. Phila., 10/4). Mobley recorded double-figure tackle totals in back-to-back games early in the season (11 vs. Dallas, 9/13; and 10 at Oakland, 9/20), and strung together three more later in the season (12 vs. S.D., 11/8, 10 at K.C., 11/16 and 12 vs. Oak., 11/22). Overall he posted no fewer than five tackles in every game of the season. Mobley strained his right hamstring in practice Sept. 24, but was able to start at Washington three days later. His only non-start came at Seattle (10/11) when the Seahawks opened the game in a three-wide receiver alignment. Mobley recorded seven tackles (5 solo) at Cincinnati (11/1) to go along with a forced fumble and a career-high four passes defended. He stepped up big and stripped Bengals RB Corey Dillon of the ball at the Broncos' 3-yd. line late in the 1st qtr., as Bill Romanowski fell on the fumble to squelch a potential Cincinnati scoring drive. Mobley posted a season-high 12 tackles the next week vs. San Diego (11/8), including 10 solo stops, and tied his season-high vs. Oakland (11/22), including 9 solo stops. His third career interception came at San Diego (11/29), on an errant Craig Whelihan pass late in the first half. Mobley's fumble recovery came at the Giants (12/13) in the 4th qtr. after WR Ike Hilliard lost control of the football. He missed the preseason finale (at Tenn., 8/29) to rest a hyperextended left knee, injured vs. Green Bay (8/24). Postseason: Mobley started at weakside linebacker in all three games and tied for fourth on the team with 14 tackles (10 solo), including one sack (-6), as well as two passes defended and a fumble recovery. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he made two solo tackles with one pass defended. He contributed nine tackles (7 solo) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), along with a pass defended and his one fumble recovery, which came after Bill Romanowski knocked the ball out of Keith Byars' hands at the Broncos' 13-yd. line. Mobley's first career post-season sack came in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta, among three total tackles (1 solo). The sack of Chris Chandler came midway through the 3rd qtr. for a 6-yd. loss.

1997: Mobley — named first-team All-NFL by the Associated Press, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly and Football Digest, and second-team by College & Pro Football Newsweekly — started all 16 games at weakside linebacker and continued to blossom in his second NFL season, putting together a performance as outstanding as that of any other linebacker in the NFL. He led the team with 162 tackles (113 solo) including four sacks (-23), one interception which he returned for a touchdown (13 yds.), three forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and eight pass breakups, while also adding seven tackles on special teams. He posted double-figures in tackles a remarkable nine times in 16 games. In the regular season opener vs. Kansas City Mobley led the team with nine tackles (6 solo) in Denver's 19-3 victory. The game held extra significance for Mobley, as his father, Lee, watched him play in person for the first time since his sophomore year in high school (1990). Lee has been in a nursing home for seven years since suffering a stroke. The following week at Seattle (9/7) he made five tackles (3 solo) and one pass defended in Denver's 35-14 win. The next week vs. St. Louis (9/14) he recorded his first sack of the year (-4), among seven tackles (5 solo) he made on the day. In Week Three vs. Cincinnati (9/21) Mobley registered a career-high 15 tackles (11 solo) in an outstanding performance that included his second sack of the season (-3) and a pass breakup. On Monday Night Football vs. New England (10/6) he had the best all-around game of his young career, tying a personal best with 15 tackles (12 solo; career high), snaring his second career interception and returning it 13 yards for a touchdown for a 14-0 lead, causing a fumble, breaking up a pass and making a tackle on special teams in Denver's 34-13 victory. His efforts were recognized with AFC Defensive Player of the Week honors from the NFL. He wasted no time making an impact on the game, ending the Patriots game-opening drive at the Broncos' 28-yard line when he knocked the ball loose from Terry Glenn after a 19-yard reception, setting up the Broncos first touchdown. He then scored the second himself when he picked off a Drew Bledsoe pass and waltzed 13 yards into the end zone for his first professional touchdown, igniting a fired-up Mile High Stadium crowd of 75,821. On Nov. 2 vs. Seattle he posted a team-high 13 tackles (11 solo), while also adding another on special teams in Denver's 30-27 victory. On Nov. 9 vs. Carolina he had another fine all-around day with seven tackles (3 solo), including a sack (-12), and the first fumble recovery of his career. His sack of Kerry Collins came in the first quarter, and early in the second quarter he pounced on a fumble caused by Allen Aldridge, halting a Panthers scoring threat at the Denver 10-yard line. The next Sunday at Kansas City (11/16) he posted his fifth double-figure tackle total of the season, recording 10, including a team-high eight solos in Denver's 24-22 loss. Against Oakland on Monday Night Football (11/24), Mobley had another outstanding performance in prime time, posting 10 tackles (8 solo), including his fourth sack of the year (-4), to go along with two pass breakups. He also forced a fumble by Napoleon Kaufman early in the third quarter after he chased down the speedy Kaufman from behind in the backfield, setting up a recovery by Mike Lodish at the Raiders 28. The Broncos responded with a field goal to up their lead to 24-3. The next Sunday at San Diego (11/30) he tied for the team-lead with nine tackles (6 solo), while adding a forced fumble and a pass breakup. He posted a team-high 12 tackles (5 solo) with one pass defended at Pittsburgh (12/7), and led the team again the following week at San Francisco on Monday Night Football (12/15) with 10 tackles (8 solo), while also adding one more on special teams. In the postseason Mobley started all four games at weakside linebacker and led the team with 24 tackles (21 solo), in addition to two passes defended and one special teams tackle. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27) Mobley started at weakside linebacker and led the team with six tackles (4 solo). In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98), he led the team with seven solo tackles. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25) Mobley posted six solo tackles with one very huge pass defended in Denver's 31-24 victory. The pass breakup occurred on fourth-and-six from Denver's 31-yard line with 32 seconds remaining. Mobley stepped in front of Brett Favre's aerial that was intended for Mark Chmura and knocked it to the ground to seal Denver's first ever world championship. 1996: Mobley turned in an outstanding rookie season, starting all 16 regular season games and the Broncos' one playoff contest at weakside linebacker. He was named to NFL All-Rookie teams selected by Pro Football Weekly, Football News and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, finishing fifth on the team with 93 tackles (67 solo) and 1.5 sacks (-2). Mobley also broke up four passes, intercepted another (at Minnesota, 11/24) and added four tackles on special teams. He registered a season-high 12 tackles (9 solo) at Cincinnati (9/29), including his first career sack as he dropped Bengals quarterback Jeff Blake. He also came up big at New England (11/17), leading the team with eight solo tackles to spearhead a defensive effort that limited the Patriots' rushing attack to 17 yards in a 34-8 win. At Green Bay (12/8), Mobley made seven tackles (3 solo), knocked down two passes and combined with Michael Dean Perry for the Broncos' only sack of Brett Favre. Mobley remained injury-free much of the season, missing significant time only during the San Diego game (10/6) when he strained a groin muscle in the first half. He started his first postseason game against Jacksonville (1/4/97) and came up with eight tackles (6 solo) and one pass defended. Mobley entered training camp second on the depth chart at weakside linebacker, but quickly cemented a starting position after producing a 14-tackle performance (12 solo) in the preseason opener at San Francisco (8/3). In that game, Mobley was all over the field in the second half and delivered a hit on Gino Torretta that knocked the 49ers' signal-caller out of the game. He finished the preseason with 19 tackles (16 solo), one interception and three pass breakups.

COLLEGE: Mobley was a two-time Division II All-American (first-team 1995, second-team 1994), and was named Division II Player of the Year as a senior at Kutztown in 1995 by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. He started all 41 games during his four-year career and made 387 tackles (198 solo), recovered eight fumbles, forced four made eight interceptions with 22 pass deflections, registered 20 sacks (-169) and made 21 tackles-for-loss (-91). Offensively he carried the ball 12 times for 17 yards and five touchdowns, returned seven kickoffs for 226 yards (32.3) with a long of 69 yards, and returned 15 punts for 202 yards (13.5) with a long of 51 yards. In 1998 he was named to the NCAA Division II Football Team of the Quarter Century (1973-1997), joining the likes of Pro Football Hall of Famer Walter Payton and All-Pro performers Brent Jones, John Randle, Darrell Green and Greg Lloyd. Mobley was a telecommunications major.

and has a daughter, Kameron Yvonne (10/17/97). John Ulysses Mobley was born October 10, 1973 in Chester, Pa.

Tom Nalen solidified his place among the best centers in the National Football League in 1998, earning his second straight Pro Bowl berth and All-NFL honors from USA Today. He has been a consistent force and an anchor on a Broncos offensive line that has been at the forefront of Denver's run to back-to-back World Championships. In addition, the line helped pave the way for NFL MVP Terrell Davis, who rushed for 2,008 yards in 1998, the third-highest single-season total in league history. He has started 64 of the 70 games in which he has played — including 63 straight — and has started eight postseason contests. Nalen entered the NFL in 1994 as the Broncos' third choice in the seventh round (No. 218 overall) of the draft.

1998: Nalen — selected All-NFL by USA Today — started at center in all 16 games and was selected to play in the Pro Bowl for the second-straight season. He played an integral role on an outstanding offensive line that allowed just 25 sacks — the third-lowest total for a full season in franchise history, and the lowest since 1971 — while paving the way for the only fourth 2,000-yard rusher in NFL history (Terrell Davis-2,008) and the league's second-ranked rushing attack at 154.3 yards per game. Postseason: Nalen started at center in all three games and helped pave the way for a rushing attack that averaged 183 yds.-per-game as Denver won Super Bowl XXXIII.

1997: Nalen started all 16 games at center and had a breakout season, being selected to his first Pro Bowl and earning second-team All-NFL honors from College & Pro Football Newsweekly. He provided not only youth, but also tremendous talent, to a veteran offensive line regarded among the league's best. He made his first career pass reception at Oakland (10/19), catching a John Elway pass for -1 yard after it was batted at the line of scrimmage by the Raiders' Chester McGlockton. The Broncos' offense set a team record by scoring 472 points in one season and led the NFL in total offense (367 yards per game) for the second straight year, leading the AFC for the third straight year. Nalen was part of a unit that powered Broncos running backs to 15 individual 100-yard performances over the 20-game regular and postseason slate. In the postseason Nalen started at center in all four games as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed Denver to control games with its rushing attack. The Broncos averaged 187 rushing yards per game in the postseason, and the offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for Denver's Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). Nalen, starting at center, playing an integral role in the offensive unit piling up club postseason records of 511 total yards and 42 points in Denver's 42-17 win over the Jaguars. The line played a key role in running back Terrell Davis earning MVP honors in the Super Bowl with 157 rushing yards and three rushing touchdowns. 1996: Nalen started all 16 regular season games at center, playing a key role on a unit that cleared the way for AFC rushing leader Terrell Davis (1,538 yards) and allowed just 31 sacks. He suffered a partial tear to his medial collateral ligament early in the Minnesota game (11/24) and was listed as questionable for the Seattle game (12/1) but did start. He also started Denver's lone playoff contest. The Broncos rushed for over 100 yards in a game on 10 occasions during the 1996 season, and topped the 200-yard mark on four of those occasions. Overall, the Broncos' offense was the most productive in football in 1996, averaging 361.9 yards per game. 1995: Nalen started 15 of the Broncos' 16 games, missing only the Week Four matchup at San Diego (9/24) while recovering from arthroscopic surgery to repair a lateral meniscus tear in his left knee suffered in the Washington game (9/17). He underwent arthroscopic surgery at the Steadman-Hawkins Clinic in Vail, Colo., Sept. 18, and was expected to miss three to four weeks, but returned to his starting position at Seattle (10/1). Behind the blocking of Nalen and the rest of the offensive line, Denver was able to rush for over 100 yards in a game 11 out of 16 times during the 1995 season, and produce a 1,000-yard rusher in rookie Terrell Davis (1,117). 1994: Nalen played in seven games for the Broncos, including a start at left guard in his first NFL appearance against the Rams (11/6). Nalen continued to make appearances on the offensive line over the remainder of the season. Nalen entered camp in July as a rookie draft choice out of Boston College, was waived just prior to the start of the regular season and then re-signed to the practice squad Sept. 6. He was signed to the active roster the week of the Rams game to start in place of an injured Jon Melander.

COLLEGE: Nalen was a three-year starter in his five seasons at Boston College, earning numerous honors that included third-team Associated Press All-America, second-team All-Big East, and first-team ECAC citations. He closed out his outstanding college career with appearances in the East-West Shrine and Senior Bowl games. In 1993 Nalen was an honorable mention All-American and All-Big East second-team pick by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft, starting all year and leading the way as the Eagles ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (506.4 yards per game). Nalen's blocking was a key factor in the Boston College upset win over Notre Dame in South Bend. Nalen started every game from 1991-93 after serving as the deep-snapper, backup center and then starting center for the last three games in 1990. He redshirted in '89.

PERSONAL: A native of Foxboro, Mass., Nalen lettered three times each in football and basketball and twice in track at Foxboro (Mass.) High School. He was All-Hockamack League and an all-state selection by the Boston Globe, Boston Herald, Sun Chronicle and Patriot Ledger, adding state Lineman of the Year honors as a senior. Tom led the team to a pair of Division III titles and played in the Shrine All-Star Game, serving as team captain in both football and basketball. An all-conference and team MVP in basketball, he was named to the Academic All-State team by the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association. Tom has his degree in accounting from Boston College and would like ultimately to become a certified public accountant. Tom likes golf, basketball and video games. He and his wife, Denise, have a daughter, Delaney, and a son, Kyle, and make their home in Wrentham, Mass. Thomas Andrew Nalen was born May 13, 1971 in Foxboro, Mass.

Marcus Nash enters his second NFL season looking to build upon a rookie campaign that was largely a learning experience for the former No. 1 draft choice (No. 31 overall) out of Tennessee. Nash played in eight games and caught four passes for 76 yards (19.0) while enjoying the luxury of learning from veteran receivers Ed McCaffrey and Rod Smith. He will be looked upon to step up and seize the No. 3 receiver position and give the Broncos more productivity in that role.

1998: Nash played in eight games in his rookie season and caught four passes for 76 yards (19.0) with a long of 31. He saw his first NFL action vs. Dallas, (9/13), and then played again the following week at Oakland (9/20), before playing in six of the final eight games of the season. Nash was active but did not play at the Giants (12/13), and was declared inactive for the season's other seven games. Nash made his first NFL reception in a crucial situation in Week 3 at Oakland (9/20), hauling in a 30-yd. pass from John Elway on a 3rd-and-23 play midway through the second quarter. He caught a career-high two passes for 36 yds. on Monday Night Football at Kansas City (11/16), including the longest reception of his young career (31 yds.), as he saw increased playing time with Ed McCaffrey leaving the game early (hamstring). Nash added his fourth catch of the year (10 yds.) a week later vs. Oakland (11/22). Postseason: Nash saw action at wide receiver and on special teams in all three playoff games. The AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) was his first career postseason contest.

COLLEGE: Nash was a three-year starter at Tennessee, and ranks second on the school's career receptions (177) and touchdowns (20) lists behind Joey Kent, and third in career receiving yards (2,447) behind Kent and Peerless Price. As a senior in 1997 Nash was an All-America choice by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft and an All-Southeastern Conference first-team selection, leading the team with school-record setting totals of 77 receptions for 1,170 yards (15.4) and 13 touchdowns. He started every game at flanker as a junior, finishing second on the team with 53 catches for 688 yards (13.0 avg.) and three touchdowns. Nash moved into the starting lineup in the fourth game of his sophomore season and finished the year with 43 receptions for 512 yards (11.9) and four touchdowns, after a freshman campaign in which he played in every game and caught five passes for 77 yards (15.4). Nash played in four bowl games: the Orange Bowl, Citrus Bowl (twice) and Gator Bowl. He was an architecture major at Tennessee.

PERSONAL: A USA Today, Blue Chip Illustrated and Super Prep All-America choice at Edmond Memorial High School in Tulsa, Okla., Nash also earned Gatorade Circle of Champions Oklahoma Player of the Year honors. He was an all-state, all-city and City Player of the Year selection, catching 81 passes for 1,121 yards and 10 touchdowns as a senior. His 132 catches for 1,971 yards are both school career records. Marcus DeLando Nash was born February 1, 1976 in Tulsa, Okla. He and his wife, Lorie — also a Tennessee graduate — make their home in Parker, Colo.

Dan Neil had a breakthrough year in just his second NFL season in 1998, starting all 16 regular season and all three postseason games for the Broncos at right guard as Denver won its second straight World Championship. He seized the starting role in preseason and never relinquished it, giving the heralded Denver offensive line a much-needed infusion of young talent. Neil and his linemates played a key role in paving the way for NFL MVP Terrell Davis, who posted the third-highest single-season rushing total in league history. A young player with strong work ethic and tenacious blocking skill, Neil figures to be a fixture along the Denver offensive line for years to come. He has played in 19 career games and started 16. Neil was selected by the Broncos in the third round (No. 67 overall) of the 1997 NFL Draft with a pick obtained in a trade with the New York Jets that allowed Denver to move up 21 places for the opportunity to select him.

1998: Neil started all 16 games at right guard. He made his first professional start in the season-opener vs. New England (9/7). Neil played an integral role on an outstanding offensive line that allowed just 25 sacks — the third-lowest total for a full season in franchise history and the lowest since 1971 — while paving the way for only the fourth 2,000-yard rusher (Terrell Davis-2,008) in NFL history and the NFL's second-most productive rushing attack at 154.3 yards per game. Postseason: Neil started all three contests at right guard and helped pave the way for a rushing attack that averaged 183 yds.-per-game en route to the Broncos' second straight Super Bowl win. He made his first career postseason start in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9).

1997: Neil was declared inactive for 10 of the 16 games in his rookie season and played in three. He was active for the first time as a pro vs. Seattle (11/2), but did not play, and then saw his first NFL action vs. Oakland (11/24) on Monday Night Football. He played on special teams and as a reserve at guard in the fourth quarter. Neil was slowed at the start of the season by a groin injury that required surgery Aug. 27. His other game action came on special teams in both games against San Diego (11/30 and 12/21). In the postseason Neil was declared inactive for all four games. Neil was chosen by the Broncos in the third round with the 67th overall selection.

COLLEGE: One of the strongest players in school history at Texas, Neil was a consensus All-America and all-conference selection as both a junior and senior, and was a finalist for the Outland Trophy in 1996. He started every game for four years after redshirting as a freshman in '92, bringing his total to 48 straight, the school's longest streak at the time. Neil won the team Iron Man title every year he was at Texas, and in 1995 received the school's D. Harold Byrd Leadership Award. Neil was a sports management major at Texas, where he earned Athletic Director's Honor Roll accolades in 1993 and was very active in Longhorn Community Service efforts.

PERSONAL: Neil was a Parade All-America selection and earned Class 5A first-team all-state honors at Cypress Creek High School in Cypress Creek, Texas. He was rated as the state's best offensive line prospect by Max Emfinger's Blue Chip Illustrated and Tom Lemming's Prep Football Report, and one of the top line prospects in the nation by most recruiting lists. Neil was also twice named all-district and received honorable mention All-America consideration from USA Today. He married his high school sweetheart, Amylyn, after the 1996 Sugar Bowl on January 6, 1996. The couple has a daughter, Alexandra Lee (12/4/98), and makes its home in Lone Tree, Colo. Amylyn's uncle, Larry Cox, played defensive tackle for the Broncos from 1966-68. Daniel Neil was born October 21, 1973 in Houston, Texas.

He posted seven tackles (3 solo) and a pass breakup at Philadelphia (12/22) and had a six-tackle, one-pass breakup effort in a victory over the Giants (11/17). 1995: Paul played in 14 games (four starts) as a rookie with the Cardinals, recording 22 tackles (13 solo), one pass breakup and one interception, as well as four special teams tackles. The pickoff came vs. Seattle (10/29) in a 20-14 overtime victory. COLLEGE Paul played his college ball at Ohio State, where he earned a starting role as a senior in 1994 and responded with 56 tackles (four for loss), one sack and five pass breakups. He had 103 tackles, three blocked punts and recovered two others for scores in his career. Two of those blocks came in one game as a sophomore against Northwestern. He majored in economics.

Trevor Pryce came into his own with a breakout season in 1998, and seeks to further bolster his position as one of the game's most promising young defensive stars now in his third season. As a first-year starter last year, Pryce led all Denver defensive linemen in tackles (59) and tied for the team lead in sacks (8.5), pairing with Keith Traylor to give the Broncos as imposing a pair of defensive tackles as any team in the NFL. The Broncos' 1997 first-round draft choice (No. 15 overall), Pryce has now played 24 games (18 starts) and made 87 tackles (68 solo), including 10.5 sacks (-66), as well as one interception and a blocked field goal. He has also played in seven postseason games (2 starts) and added six tackles (2 solo), including one sack.

1998: Pryce started at right defensive tackle in 15 of the 16 games and ranked seventh on the team — No. 1 among defensive linemen — with 59 tackles (48 solo), including a career-high 8.5 sacks (-56.5) to tie for the team lead and tie for 10th in the AFC. He played but did not start at Seattle (10/11) because the Seahawks opened the game in a three-wide receiver alignment. Pryce's first sack came in Week 3 at Oakland (9/20) on the Raiders' Jeff George (-7), and his second came two weeks later vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he dropped Bobby Hoving for a 4-yd. loss. He posted his third (-7) a week later at Seattle (10/11) on John Friesz in the fourth quarter, and followed that with his first career two-sack game vs. Jacksonville (10/25), dropping Mark Brunell for 17 yds. in losses. He ran his sack total to six at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football, dropping Rich Gannon for a 10-yd. loss midway through the 4th qtr. on a 4th-and-9 play from the Broncos' 10-yd. line, and added his seventh the next week on Oakland's Donald Hollis (11/22). He combined with Maa Tanuvasa to sack Giants QB Kent Graham (-11) in the 2nd qtr. at New York (12/13) to raise his total to 7.5, and finished the year with a 4-yd. sack of Seattle's Jon Kitna in the season-finale (12/27). Pryce recorded his first career interception at Washington (9/27), picking off a Trent Green pass in Broncos territory to thwart a Redskins drive just before halftime. His first career blocked field goal came early in the second quarter of the season-opener vs. New England (9/7) when he penetrated the Patriots' line to thwart a 37-yd. attempt by Adam Vinatieri, making the recovery as well, to set up Denver for a drive that would result in a touchdown and a 17-0 lead. Pryce recorded a career-high eight tackles (6 solo) at Cincinnati. Preseason: Pryce started all four games at right defensive tackle and recorded eight tackles (5 solo), in his first preseason as a full-time starter. Postseason: Pryce saw action at defensive tackle in all three postseason games and started two, making four tackles (1 solo). In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he did not start as the Broncos opened the game in their nickel formation. He did see starter's playing time, however, and made two assisted tackles. He posted one solo tackle in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) and added one assisted tackle in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), starting both contests, as Denver repeated as Super Bowl champions.

1997: Pryce played in the final eight games of the season and started three (at San Diego, 11/30; at Pittsburgh, 12/7 and vs. San Diego, 12/21) at right defensive tackle in place of Maa Tanuvasa (ankle). He was declared inactive for the first eight games. For the season he posted 28 tackles (20 solo), including two sacks (-9.5), as he notched a half a sack in each of his first two NFL appearances (Seattle, 11/2 and Carolina, 11/9), and his first solo vs. San Diego (12/21). He split the two sacks with Tyrone Braxton and Mike Lodish, respectively. Pryce saw his first professional action vs. Seattle (11/2) and responded with two tackles, including half a sack (-0.5). He made his first NFL start at San Diego (11/30) and performed well with three solo tackles. Pryce started his second straight contest at Pittsburgh (12/7). His high-tackle games on the season came vs.

Oakland (11/24) and at San Francisco (12/15), posting seven stops (5 solo) in each. In the post-season Pryce played in all four games as a reserve defensive tackle and recorded two tackles (1 solo), including a sack of Jacksonville quarterback Mark Brunell in the Wild Card game (12/27/97) and an assisted tackle at Pittsburgh (1/11) in the AFC Championship Game.

COLLEGE Pryce played one season (1996) at defensive end for Clemson, starting all 11 games and earning first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors after transferring from Michigan where he played linebacker in 1993-94 (20 games/8 starts). He sat out the 1995 season due to NCAA transfer rules. Pryce finished his collegiate career with 118 tackles (72 solo), including 11.5 sacks (-105 yards) and 24 tackles for loss (-127), as well as 31 quarterback pressures, three forced fumbles, three fumble recoveries and two passes defended. He was a communications major.

PERSONAL Pryce was a consensus All-American and the top-rated defensive line prospect in the country by The Sporting News at Lake Howell High School in Casselberry, Fla. He earned All-Central Florida, all-conference and all-district accolades, and also excelled in track, finishing second in the district finals in the 110-meter high hurdles (15.0). He was born Aug. 3, 1975 in Brooklyn, N.Y. Trevor is single and resides in Aurora, Colo.

BILL ROMANOWSKI LINEBACKER

Bill Romanowski seems to get better with age, as he continues to play at the top of his game in his 12th NFL season. His stellar play in 1998 was a key ingredient in Denver winning its second straight World Championship, which marked the second time Romanowski had accomplished a repeat in his career. He was a member of San Francisco's victorious Super Bowl XXIII and XXIV teams, giving him four Super Bowl rings in his career. Romanowski is one of just three players to win back-to-back Super Bowls with two different organizations, joining Marv Fleming (Green Bay, SBI and SBII; Miami, SBVII and SBVIII) and Charles Haley (San Francisco, SBXXIII and SBXXIV; Dallas, SBXXVII and SBXXVIII), and one of just 20 to win back-to-back twice in their careers. Romanowski also holds the distinction of being one of only 30 players to win a Super Bowl ring with two different teams (also San Francisco, 1988-89), and is one of just 13 to win one in each conference. Romanowski is also one of the most durable athletes in the sport, having never missed a game due to injury during his 11 seasons in the league (176 games), which includes 64 consecutive starts (155 overall). He has compiled 1,009 tackles (746 solo), including 23 sacks (-159.5), with 12 interceptions (63 yds.), 51 passes defended, 13 forced fumbles and 15 fumble recoveries. He has played in 22 postseason games and started 16, including four Super Bowls (all victories) and seven conference championship games, among nine total playoff appearances. (6 NFC/3 AFC). His postseason numbers include 100 tackles (83 solo), including two sacks (-15), with two interceptions and seven passes defended. Romanowski was voted to his first Pro Bowl in 1996, and duplicated that feat in 1998. The consummate winner, Romanowski's teams have won 73% of their regular season games in his 11-year career, posting a record of 128-48 (72-24, 75%, with San Francisco; 17-15, 53%, with Philadelphia; and 39-9, 81% with Denver). In the postseason, his teams have won 77% of their games, with a 17-5 record (9-3, 75% with San Francisco; 1-1, 50% with Philadelphia; and 7-1, 88% with Denver). Romanowski was chosen in the third round (80th overall) of the 1988 draft by San Francisco, following an outstanding career at Boston College.

1998: Romanowski — selected to play in the Pro Bowl for the second time in his 11-year career — started at strongside linebacker in all 16 games and was outstanding, ranking third on the team with 95 tackles (71 solo), including a career-best 7.5 sacks (-56.5), as well as two interceptions, nine passes defended, three forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries. He had a fine outing in Week 1 vs. New England (9/7) with a season-high 12 tackles (9 solo), including a career-high two sacks (-22), as well as a forced fumble. His first sack came midway through the first quarter with the Patriots operating from their own 10-yard line, and the second came on the opening play of the fourth quarter. Romanowski followed that with a brilliant all-around performance at Oakland (9/20), which included his first interception of the season (and first since last year's game at Oakland, 10/19/97), as well as his third sack, which came on a 1st-and-goal play from the Broncos 10-yd line, disrupting a drive that eventually ended in a Raiders field goal. Romanowski's fourth sack came in Week Four at Washington (9/27), dropping Trent Green for a 2-yd. loss. He missed the second half vs. Philadelphia (10/4) because of a groin strain initially suffered a week earlier at Washington, and finished with just one assisted tackle. He reached 5.5 sacks for the year with 1.5 (-11.5) against Jacksonville QB Mark Brunell (10/25) in Week 8. The next week at Cincinnati (11/1), Romanowski pounced on a Corey Dillon fumble (forced by John Mobley) at the Broncos 3-yd line to squelch a potential Bengals scoring drive. A week later vs. San Diego (11/8) Romanowski again played a role in an opponent turnover near the goal line, this time forcing a

Running back Terrell Davis was named the National Football League's Most Valuable Player in 1998, as he rushed for 2,008 yards to post the third-highest single-season rushing total in league history. Already the Broncos' career rushing leader with 6,413 yards in just four seasons, Davis continues to establish himself as one of the league's elite players, having helped lead Denver to back-to-back Super Bowl wins. Representing that accomplishment on the cover are the images of two Vince Lombardi trophies, embossed and inset in the lower right corner. THE PAUL D. BOWLEN MEMORIAL BRONCOS CENTRE

On March 5, 1990 the Denver Broncos moved into the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, the state-of-the-art headquarters for the National Football League team. The complex is named for the Broncos owner's late father, and is the culmination of Pat Bowlen's desire to maximize a positive working environment for his team, which has won back-to-back World Championships with victories in Super Bowls XXXII and XXXIII. The Broncos were the only American Football Conference club to appear in the three Super Bowls during the 1980s.

The training facility is situated on 13.5 acres in the rapidly expanding Dove Valley Business Park in south Arapahoe County. It includes an administrative building, two full-size practice fields and a smaller workout field.

The Bowlen Broncos Centre is a two-story building totaling 60,000 square feet, well over twice the size of the team's previous facility. The ground floor houses the main entry, visitors area and trophy display area, and media room, in addition to the play-related facilities, which encompass the locker room, meeting rooms, training area, weight room, equipment room, and video department.

It is on the second level, which is accessible through two stairways adjacent to the lobby area, that most of the administrative offices are located. These include the offices for Pat Bowlen, Mike Shanahan, Neal Dahlen, Joe Ellis and John Beake, as well as those of all assistant coaches and football operations personnel. The second floor is divided into one wing for administrative offices and another for coaches and meeting rooms. The Broncos' extensive computer operation also is located on the second floor.

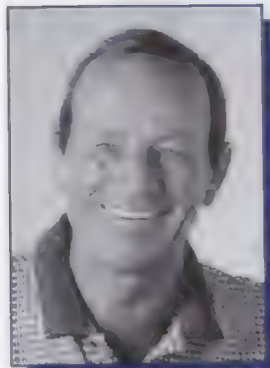

There is ample practice space available for use by the Broncos, as both practice fields are 100 yards and one of them has a unique design system that includes underground wiring to prevent the turf from freezing and thus allows the Broncos to practice year-round on unfrozen natural grass. The complex also includes a smaller, 50-yard natural grass workout field and the Broncos' indoor "bubble," which houses a 70-yard artificial turf field.

The expansive weight room and training room are among the largest in the entire league, and the Bowlen Centre also includes a separate building that houses two racquetball courts for training and leisure use by players and staff members.

PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

PAT BOWLEN

Denver Broncos owner Pat Bowlen directed his franchise to an elite level of sports accomplishment in 1998 when Denver became just the sixth National Football League franchise to win back-to-back Super Bowl championships.

In posting a decisive 34-19 win over the Atlanta Falcons in Super Bowl XXXIII, Denver joined Green Bay, Miami, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, and Dallas as the only back-to-back Super Bowl champions in NFL history, and the Broncos became the first American Football Conference team to reach that lofty status in two decades.

The Broncos enter 1999 at the pinnacle of sports franchises, balancing a great record on the playing field, player stability that is startling in this era of free agency, a string of home sellouts that will mark 30 consecutive years this season, and construction under way on a new stadium that will allow Denver to compete at the NFL's highest level for decades to come.

Pat Bowlen's deft guidance provides the foundation of leadership on which the Broncos won a franchise record 17 games, 14 in the regular season, in 1998, including a 13-0 start that resulted in Denver going an entire calendar year without a loss.

His Broncos set standards that will be very difficult for any club to match in winning a record seven postseason games in the past two years, a record 33 wins in two years (1997-98) and a record 46 wins in three years (1996-98). In addition, Pat Bowlen has watched his Broncos become just the second team in modern NFL history to go undefeated during regular season play at home for three consecutive seasons (1996-98).

He works closely with Head Coach Mike Shanahan in maintaining the team's roster in the present era of free agency, and the resulting player stability was a major factor in the brilliant performance of the 1998 Broncos.

As much as the Broncos first World Championship one year earlier was for John Elway and the team's legion of fans, no one was more deserving of that triumph or the one that followed in 1998 than Pat Bowlen, whose single-minded pursuit of the Super Bowl title has been unwavering since he purchased the Broncos in 1984.

All are aware that it is the owner who provides the financial backing that is integral to a championship team, but many fans are unaware that much of the heart, soul, and drive of this championship organization comes directly from Pat Bowlen.

Champions are built from the top, and the Broncos owner has been a model of leadership in the scope of his drive and commitment. "I want us to be number one in everything," Bowlen has often said in a recurring theme that marks his management style.

His 1997 Broncos fulfilled the team's lifelong quest in bringing the Mile High City the World Championship with their sterling 31-24 triumph over the Green Bay Packers, in the process becoming the first American Football Conference team to win in 14 years and just the second wild card to win the Super Bowl under the NFL's present playoff system.

It is the owner himself who charts the course for this highly successful franchise, infusing his team and employees with the drive to attain those goals. Financially and philosophically, his pursuit of a championship is absolute, whether judged by the Broncos' pursuit of free agents, by his pledge to contribute over $100 million to Denver's new stadium, or simply by his fierce desire to have his Broncos at the pinnacle in all ways that success can be measured.

Well into his second decade as the Broncos' chief executive, Pat Bowlen comes into 1999 braced with the satisfaction of great success, both for his franchise and the NFL structure, and yet at the forefront of new challenges for the team, the city and the league.

The Broncos' President and Chief Executive Officer has fashioned a powerful reputation among his peers as a bold, dynamic leader who is single-minded in his pursuit of excellence, whether in representing Denver and Broncos or the hierarchy of the National Football League.

In addition to his role with the Broncos, Bowlen was a key figure in spearheading both the league's labor and TV contracts. He has been a member of the NFL Management Council

Executive Committee, and is currently the Chairman of the highly prestigious NFL Broadcasting Committee, while also serving on the NFL Finance Committee. A pivotal voice in league policy, he also is Chairman of the NFL Enterprises, NFL Films Executive Committees and serves as a member of the NFL International Committee and the Board of the NFL Europe League. Bowlen also is active on a special NFL expansion committee.

Bowlen comes into the 1999 season having completed a drive for a critically needed new stadium that will mutually benefit the Broncos and the Mile High City, and in his role as Chairman of the NFL Broadcasting Committee he once again spearheaded the negotiations for the league's new television contract, at over 18 billion dollars the most lucrative single-sport contract in history.

Nineteen ninety-nine will be the 30th straight year of home sellouts at Mile High Stadium, longest in the American Football Conference, and that streak is just one measure of the Pat Bowlen success story in Denver.

During his tenure as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Broncos (1984-98) Bowlen's team has dominated the American Football Conference Western Division in posting more division titles (seven), conference Championship Game appearances (six), and Super Bowl appearances (five) than any other club in the division. Under Bowlen's leadership the Broncos have had nine playoff appearances and just two losing seasons.

The 1995 campaign began a new era both for the Broncos and the NFL, and Pat Bowlen played an integral role in both, selecting a dynamic new head coach in Mike Shanahan while also having had a pivotal role in the creation of the new collective bargaining agreement and the television contract, changing the face of professional football in the process.

The Broncos' dynamic chief executive followed up the hiring of Shanahan by once again becoming a major player in the league's free agency. Under Bowlen's leadership Denver has been very aggressive in the marketplace, with unrestricted free agents becoming a major component of the Denver roster.

Bowlen has made all these moves with one goal unchanged: to aggressively position the Broncos for yet another run at a Super Bowl championship for the Mile High City. No one sets higher standards for the Broncos than Pat Bowlen himself, whose unchanging goal is to have his franchise annually regarded among the finest in pro sports, with victory being the measuring stick for that success. Thus, the goal of Denver's dynamic and energetic chief executive remains firmly set on repeating the World Championship seasons of 1997 and '98.

He presides over a franchise that by any standard has been one of the NFL's most successful in this time frame (1984-98). In Bowlen's 15 years of ownership the Broncos have played 21 postseason games, with all regular and postseason games sold out at Mile High Stadium.

The Broncos President has seen the team's consecutive home game sellout streak stretch to 231 straight regular and postseason non-strike games through the end of the 1998 campaign, as Denver led the entire National Football League in actual in-stadium attendance over that 15-year period. The Broncos have drawn nearly nine million fans to Mile High Stadium from 1984-98, tops in the NFL.

Bowlen's 15 years of ownership have resulted in the best home record (96-25) in the AFC. Bowlen finished second in The Sporting News 1987 Executive of the Year balloting.

In addition to winning seven division crowns, Bowlen's franchise has had regular season win totals of 14, 13 (twice), 12 (twice), 11 (three times) and 10. In fact, nine of the 10 finest campaigns in team history have come during the Bowlen regime.

In 1991 Bowlen's team had the greatest turnaround in team history, finishing with a 12-4 record that included the American Football Conference Western Division title and the fourth AFC Championship Game appearance of Bowlen's vibrant ownership.

Bowlen's focus for the coming year is to once again put his team in line to defend its title. The Broncos own AFC Championship wins in 1986, 1987, 1989, 1997 and 1998. Denver was the only AFC franchise to make three Super Bowl appearances in the 1980s and without question Pat Bowlen provides the organizational thrust that has served as the catalyst to the Broncos' outstanding record.

The Broncos once again will pursue a championship season from their spacious headquarters, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 60,000-square-foot state-of-the-art office and training complex in Arapahoe County's Dove Valley location. The move into this new facility which came on March 5, 1990, accomplished one of Bowlen's significant goals, that being to upgrade the Broncos' working facility and in so doing solidify the foundation for continued success.

Pat Bowlen was introduced as the majority owner of the Denver Broncos on March 23, 1984, and that announcement triggered a new era in franchise history, one which has coupled success on the playing field with enthusiasm for an even brighter future.

He immediately put his own mark on the Broncos, establishing a solid administration and creating a positive atmosphere that was a major factor in the team's success both on and off the field. The team responded with a 13-3 record and the American Football Conference Western Division championship in 1984, following that up with an 11-5 record that just barely kept the Broncos out of the playoffs in 1985.

Having established a solid foundation, Bowlen took a dramatic step toward the future during 1986 with the construction of 60 luxury Penthouse Suites atop the west side of Mile High Stadium. Bowlen and the Bowlen family acquired 100% ownership of the Broncos franchise in July of 1985.

Born in Prairie du Chien, Wis., he attended high school there and went on to the University of Oklahoma, where he earned degrees in both business (1965) and law (1968). He is President of the Denver Broncos Charities Fund and in that capacity has donated nearly $7 million to charitable organizations in the Denver area.

Bowlen has served as the Honorary Chairman of the Colorado Special Olympics for 14 years, and was that organization's Outstanding Celebrity in 1993. Bowlen has served as the Honorary Chairman of the Colorado Family Classic to benefit St. Joseph's Hospital for 15 years and this is his fourth year as Chairman of the Capuchin Friars fund-raising dinner. He also chaired the 1989 Centennial Scholarship rally at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley and was Co-Chairman of the Rose Medical Center Critical Care Campaign from 1986-89.

In addition, Bowlen was elected to the University of Denver Board of Trustees in 1987, and is active on several committees. He chairs the Athletic Affairs Committee and plays a role in the Capital Campaign for major athletic gifts, while also serving on the Buildings and Grounds Committee. His previous DU committee memberships include the Institutional Advancement Committee and Institutional Advancement/University Relations subcommittee. He was also named to the Colorado Academy Board of Trustees in 1991.

He also serves on the Board of Trustees of the Hawaii Maritime Center and was the 1992 honoree at the American Ireland Fund dinner.

Bowlen is a member of several clubs and societies, including the Chief Executive's Organization, the Canadian and Edmonton Bar Associations, and the Law Society of Alberta. Bowlen is also a past member of the Young President's Organization.

He also is Chairman of the Board and Director of Hambledon Estates Limited, and Northern Development Company Limited of Edmonton.

Bowlen maintains an active lifestyle and exercises extensively as part of his daily regimen. He has competed in the Ironman Triathlon — an event in which one must swim 2.4 miles, ride 112 miles on a bicycle, and run 26.2 miles, all consecutively — as well as in other triathlon races and several marathons.

FOOTBALL OPERATIONS

Mike Shanahan is one of just five head coaches in the history of the NFL to have won back-to-back Super Bowls with Denver's victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, followed by its defeat of Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII last January. Shanahan has the best winning percentage (.734) of any head coach in club history, and has compiled a 30-2 home record at Mile High Stadium, including three straight undefeated campaigns.

Mike Shanahan has accomplished more in four years as the Denver Broncos head coach than most coaches do in an entire career, but complacency and satisfaction are qualities completely foreign to the Broncos' driven leader.

The back-to-back World Champion Denver Broncos stand as the perfect symbol of a team manifesting the personality of its head coach — maintaining discipline, focus, preparation, mental toughness, and physical effort — all qualities indelibly stamped onto the franchise by Head Coach/Vice President of Football Operations Mike Shanahan, whose superb guidance directed the Broncos to victory in Super Bowls XXXII and XXXIII.

Shanahan has taken his career and the Broncos to new levels in 1997 and 1998 as the intense and personable Denver Broncos head coach became one of just five active National Football League mentors with Super Bowl victories (joining, alphabetically, Mike Ditka, Mike Holmgren, Jimmy Johnson, and Bill Parcells).

His stunning record as the Broncos' mentor also places him in the legendary class of Vince Lombardi, Don Shula, Chuck Noll, and Jimmy Johnson as the only coaches with back-to-back Super Bowl championships. The three retired members of that illustrious group already have been inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Following his magnificent 1998 season, the Broncos' mentor was named AFC Coach of the Year by the Kansas City 101 Club and by the Touchdown Club of Columbus (his second time to be honored by each organization).

Under Shanahan's brilliant guidance, Denver has:

- posted the most wins in pro football history in a two-year period (33 in 1997-98).
- posted the most wins in pro football history in a three-year period (46 in 1996-98).
- won the most postseason games ever in a two-year period (seven).
- won 18 straight games over 1997-98 to tie the all-time NFL record for consecutive wins.
- been undefeated for three straight regular seasons at home, just the second team ever to do so.
- posted a 22-2 record in its last 24 games.

He is the first coach in history to win two Super Bowl titles in his first four years coaching a team, and he is the only coach to have directed two different teams to a 500-point season (last year the Broncos scored 501 points, and Shanahan's 1994 San Francisco offense scored 505). The 500-point mark has only been reached six times overall in pro football history.

His winning percentage is the best by any coach in Denver history, and in 1998 he reached his 40th win faster than any coach in franchise history.

While his seal of leadership already had been permanently ingrained into the entire Broncos organization, Shanahan took his first steps in the direction of legend when he joined Tom Flores in 1997 as the only two coaches in pro football history to post four wins in one postseason.

In his third and fourth seasons at the helm of the Denver Broncos, Mike Shanahan not only led the Broncos to their first Super Bowl victories, but in 1998 he became the winningest active coach in postseason play in the process (7-1), with that won-lost record trailing only the legendary Vince Lombardi's 9-1 mark.

Mike Shanahan now has that glittering postseason record of 7-1 — the best postseason record among active coaches — which added to a regular season mark of 47-17 give the him a combined record of 54-18 (an exceptional .698 percentage) in four years as head coach of the Broncos. Not only is that record the best among all coaches in Denver history, but his home record at Mile High Stadium is a staggering 30-2 (.937) in regular season play.

Since Shanahan took over the Broncos' coaching reins in 1995, Denver has scored 30 or more points 22 times (twice in postseason) at Mile High Stadium and 20 or more points 31 times (four times in playoff action) at Mile High Stadium in 32 regular season and four postseason games. They have scored 30 or more points 33 times (including three times in the playoffs) and 20 or more points 53 times in the 64 regular season games and seven postseason games under him. Denver's record in the 33 games in which it has scored 30 or more points under Shanahan is an amazing 32-1 (which includes 3-0 in postseason), including a 22-0 mark (which includes 2-0 playoff record) at Mile High Stadium.

Over the last seven years (four in Denver and the previous three in San Francisco) Mike Shanahan's offenses have finished number one in the NFL four times, second once, and third twice; in two of those campaigns Denver was just 17 yards and 83 yards short of the number one spot.

Since 1995, his first year in Denver as head coach of the Broncos, Denver has more rushing yards (9,002) and total yards (23,795) than any team in the NFL.

The defending world champions stormed to their second straight title with an offense that scored 501 points and finished third in the NFL in total yards, while the defense had another spectacular postseason, allowing just 25 points and two touchdowns while sparking a remarkable 13-1 turnover ratio in the playoffs.

The 1998 Broncos set team records with 14 regular season and 17 overall wins, starting off with a stunning 13-0 record and marking Denver as a team that went an entire calendar year without a loss.

Ten Broncos were named to the Pro Bowl following that magnificent season, but throughout it all Shanahan's inspired direction was nationally recognized as the driving force behind the back-to-back World Champion Broncos.

In 1997 he directed a Denver offense that scored a total of 583 points (29.2 per game) during the entire 1997 season, the fifth highest total in NFL history and the second highest total in AFC history for a combined regular and postseason. Of course, last year Shanahan's Broncos topped that mark by producing 596 regular and postseason points. The all-time high of 636 points came from the 1994 World Champion San Francisco 49ers, for whom Shanahan was the offensive coordinator.

He led his team to a 12-4 regular season record in 1997, marking the first time in franchise history that the team won 12 or more games in back-to-back seasons.

His high-powered offense reached 30 points a franchise record nine times during the 1997 regular season and twice in the postseason. Denver also broke the franchise record for most points in a season (previously 391 in 1996) in just their 13th game of 1997 and broke the record for most touchdowns in a season (previously 47 in 1996) in just their 14th game.

The Broncos stormed through 1997 postseason play to their eventual World Championship with a home win over Jacksonville and subsequent road victories at Kansas City and Pittsburgh, defeating those Super Bowl contenders in their home parks on back-to-back weeks, answering any lingering questions about the status of Denver as the best team in the American Football Conference.

It has been widely documented that the Broncos posted one of the greatest upsets in Super Bowl history, played in perhaps the best Super Bowl game ever, and ended the National Football Conference's 13-year domination in the NFL's Championship Game.

The Broncos posted their win — in fact, their four wins — in convincing style.

Under Mike Shanahan's steady control and forceful leadership, the Broncos had no question that they were the best team in football, and their postseason performance reflected that belief every step of the way.

In 1997 postseason play, Denver scored nine touchdowns in nine goal-to-go situations, including four-of-four in Super Bowl XXXII.

Conversely, opponents started six drives in Denver territory in the postseason, netting just six points (two field goals).

Denver scored 13 touchdowns in 16 red zone opportunities in postseason and of the Broncos' 46 postseason possessions, Denver scored 16 times (14 touchdowns and two field goals), accomplishing that feat against teams with a combined record of 51-16 at the time of each game.

The Broncos had posted the biggest win by a sports team in Colorado history, and one of the most significant in NFL history, all with Shanahan pointing the way. The Broncos had entered the playoffs as a wild card, but their head coach never let the team's compass waver even slightly from the only goal he had ever set.

NOTING SHANAHAN'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Broncos' Record From 1996-98 Tops in Franchise History — The Denver Broncos, under the direction of Head Coach Mike Shanahan, have amassed a 39-9 mark over the last three regular seasons, the best winning percentage and the most victories over a three-year stretch in the 39-year history of the franchise.

Shanahan in the Postseason — The 1998 season was capped by Shanahan's ninth venture into the post-season, and his third as a head coach, having previously gone to the postseason as an assistant in 1984, 1986-87, 1989, 1991 (all with Denver) and 1992-94 (San Francisco) and as a head coach in 1996 and '97 (Denver). He has coached in six Super Bowls and has earned three Super Bowl rings (1994 with San Francisco; 1997 and '98 as head coach with Denver). Shanahan has coached in nine conference championship games, having won six of them (two as a head coach) and five of those six with Denver. His post-season record as a head coach is 7-1, tops among active coaches and second-best all-time, behind only Vince Lombardi (9-1). He was 12-7 in the postseason as an assistant, including a 7-5 mark with the Broncos. Shanahan's postseason mark of 7-1 (.875) ranks No. 1 in terms of winning percentage amongst Broncos' head coaches.

Overall the club has scored 30 or more points 34 times (four in postseason) and 20 or more points 54 times (seven in postseason) in the 64 regular season games and eight postseason games that Shanahan has been the head coach. Denver's record in the 34 games in which they have scored 30 or more points under Shanahan is an amazing 33-1 (includes 4-0 in postseason), including a 22-0 (includes 2-0 in postseason) mark at Mile High Stadium. They reached 30 points a franchise-record 10 times during the 1998 regular season and twice in the postseason. Denver also broke the franchise record for most points in a season (472 in 1997) in their 15th game in 1998 and broke the record for most touchdowns in a season (55 in 1997) in just their 13th game. The team scored 596 total points in 19 games (31.4 per game) to rank fifth all-time (second in AFC) for points scored in a regular and postseason combined. Not surprisingly, the team to score the most points in an entire season was the 1994 World Champion San Francisco 49ers, for whom Shanahan was the offensive coordinator.

GENERAL MANAGER

NEAL DAHLEN

Neal Dahlen was promoted to the position of General Manager during the offseason, a tribute to his outstanding work in player evaluation, negotiation and acquisition, with that personnel work proving to be an integral factor in the Denver Broncos' back-to-back world championships.

Dahlen comes into 1999 in his fourth season with the Broncos, having been the club's Director of Player Personnel until his recent promotion.

Nineteen ninety-nine is Neal Dahlen's 36th year overall in football, and he is involved in all aspects of player acquisition for the Broncos, working very closely with Head Coach Mike Shanahan in building the team that represents Denver on the field and in the community. In addition, his new role encompasses a variety of administrative responsibilities relative to the organization's direction.

Dahlen is unique in professional football as the only individual — including players, coaches, and administrators — to have played a key role on seven world championship teams. Dahlen obviously has had a major role on the Broncos' Super Bowl championships in 1997 and 1998 (XXXII in San Diego and XXXIII in Atlanta), but in addition he was a vital cog in the player personnel department of the San Francisco 49ers during all five of their Super Bowl championship seasons (XVI in 1981 at Detroit, XXIV in 1984 at Palo Alto, XXIII in 1988 at Miami, XXIV in 1989 at New Orleans, and XXIX in 1994 at Miami).

He joined the Broncos on March 4, 1996, renewing his association with Mike Shanahan, with whom he had worked while Shanahan was the San Francisco 49ers' offensive coordinator from 1992-94.

Dahlen spent 17 years with the 49ers organization, beginning in 1979 as a part-time assistant to the coaching staff. In 1984 he took on full-time duties as director of research and development, and later served as the team's coordinator of football operations.

During his final three years in San Francisco Dahlen held the title of coaching administrator/financial liaison, a role that saw him work directly with 49ers head coach George Seifert on player personnel and management matters. He was primarily involved with monitoring financial affairs relating to player personnel, acting as the coaching staff liaison with the administrative staff, and was responsible for the acquisition of free agent players, negotiating player contracts, and developing game plan scouting reports for the defensive coaching staff.

A physical education major at San Jose State, Dahlen played quarterback for the Spartans and graduated in 1963, also earning his master's degree from the school in '64.

In June of 1999 Neal Dahlen was inducted into the San Mateo County Sports Hall of Fame for his athletic accomplishments as a player, coach and administrator. He resided in San Mateo County for more than 40 years, and, in addition to being a star high school and college athlete, Neal had a number of championship teams in football and baseball as a high school coach prior to joining the 49ers.

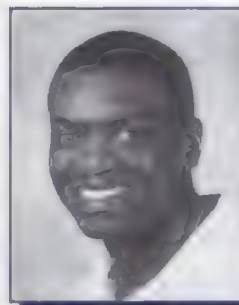

He coached football at the College of San Mateo for three years before beginning his 19-year career as a prep coach and administrator.

Born in Spokane, Wash., April 13, 1940, Neal and his wife, Nancy, make their home in Aurora, Colo. They have four grown children: Laurie, Sherri, Christy and Tim.

ASSISTANT COACHES

FRANK BUSH • LINEBACKERS

NFL Season: 8th (5th year with Broncos)

Frank Bush is in his fifth season as linebackers coach for the Denver Broncos, a position in which he has overseen considerable progress each year, bolstering the overall play of the Broncos' defense.

Bush's linebacking corps has played a pivotal role in the Broncos' back-to-back World Championships, producing the club's top three tacklers in 1998 and its top two in '97.

Last year, John Mobley (132), Glenn Cadrez (105) and Bill Romanowski (95) contributed nearly one-third of the Broncos' total tackles, as Romanowski was voted to his second Pro Bowl in three years at strongside linebacker, and Denver ranked No. 3 in the NFL against the rush. Bush also successfully implemented Cadrez into the starting position at middle linebacker in 1998, while continuing to mold Mobley into one of the game's brightest young defensive stars at the weakside position.

With Mobley blossoming into one of the game's brightest young defensive stars, Romanowski continuing to play at an elite level and Cadrez in the prime of his career, Bush will again be armed with a talented assortment of youth and veteran leadership at the linebacker position in 1999.

Bush's troops produced the team's No. 1 and No. 2 tacklers in 1997 — Mobley (162) and Romanowski (117) — as Denver won its first-ever Super Bowl. Mobley was named first-team All-Pro by the Associated Press, leading a defensive unit that raised its level of play over the latter part of the season and was crucial to the club's title run.

The linebacking corps was much improved in 1996, following the addition of Romanowski through free agency and Mobley through the draft. They joined Allen Aldridge to form an outstanding starting group that played a major role in the Broncos' improvement to the No. 4 defensive ranking in the NFL, including a No. 1 ranking against the rush. Romanowski's impact was immediate as he earned his first Pro Bowl invitation in nine NFL seasons.

In his first year in Denver, 1995, Bush's linebackers were part of a defensive unit that improved its league ranking by 13 places to figure 15th overall in the NFL.

Bush joined the Broncos staff in 1995 after spending the previous 10 years with the Houston Oilers as a player, scout and assistant coach. He began his coaching career in 1992, when he coached the Oilers linebackers. Under Bush's tutelage, several members of the linebacking corps earned postseason honors as Houston boasted one of the most aggressive defenses in the NFL.

Before his coaching tenure with Houston, Bush was a college scout for the Oilers from 1987-92. During that period Bush was the primary college scout in the Western states, helping to bring in some of the players who made the Oilers a very successful team during his tenure.

Bush, 36, was considered one of the most talented young players during his two years in the NFL until a spinal injury prematurely ended his career. In 1985, he played in all 16 games with 11 starts and contributed 114 tackles and four sacks (including two of John Elway). For his efforts, he was selected to UPI's first-team All-NFL rookie squad.

Bush was a fifth-round draft choice of the Oilers in 1985 out of North Carolina State. As a three-year starter for the Wolfpack he recorded 247 tackles, 15 sacks and four interceptions. He majored in communications while at N.C. State.

A native of Athens, Ga., Bush starred at Clarke Central High School in his hometown. While at Clarke, Bush was recruited to play football at North Carolina State by current Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson. Bush was born Jan. 10, 1963.

Frank and his wife, Stephanie, reside in Aurora, Colo.

BARNEY CHAVOUS • ASST. OFF. LINE/ASST. STRENGTH & COND.

NFL Season: 11th (all with Broncos)

Barney Chavous is in his 11th season with the Broncos' coaching staff, assisting Alex Gibbs with the offensive line and Rich Tuten with the strength and conditioning program for the fourth straight year. He joined the coaching staff in 1988 as a coaching intern.

During his 10-year coaching career, Chavous has coached with such defensive greats as Earl Leggett (most recently with New York Giants) and Pro Football Hall of Famer Ernie Stautner.

Over the past four seasons, the Broncos' offensive line has established itself as the most productive unit in the league under the tutelage of Gibbs and Chavous, culminating in back-to-back World Championships. The 1998 unit allowed just 25 sacks, the lowest total in franchise history for a 16-game season.

Over the two-year span from 1995-96, the Broncos' offensive line allowed just 57 sacks, sixth-fewest in the NFL, third-fewest in the AFC and the lowest two-year total in franchise history.

Chavous, 48, was a standout defensive end for the Broncos from 1973-85 and currently ranks third on the Broncos' all-time sacks list with 75. He is one of only seven former Broncos to play 13 or more years with the club, and also started at defensive end for the Broncos in Super Bowl XII as part of the famed "Orange Crush" defense. He finished his career having played in 182 games in a Bronco uniform (fifth all-time), including 177 starts (tied for third all-time). In 1973, Chavous was named NFLPA Rookie of the Year and made the UPI and AP All-Rookie teams. He was also named the Pittsburgh Courier's NFL Defensive Lineman of the Year in 1978 after being a second-round draft pick of the Broncos in 1973.

Chavous was an all-conference selection at South Carolina State, where he was a three-year starter, and was named the team's most valuable player as well as earning Associated Press All-America honors as a senior.

Chavous has been inducted into the Mid-Eastern Atlantic Conference Hall of Fame, the Aiken County Hall of Fame (1987), the South Carolina Sports Hall of Fame (1992) and the South Carolina State University Athletic Hall of Fame (1998).

A native of Aiken, S.C. (3/22/51), Chavous and his wife Odessa reside in Englewood with their four children: sons Shedric and Barney Amon, and daughters Jasmine and Nikeya Monique.

RICK DENNISON • SPECIAL TEAMS

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Rick Dennison is in his fifth season on the Broncos' coaching staff and his third as special teams coach.

The play of his special teams units has been instrumental in the success of the team over the past two seasons, as Denver has won back-to-back World Championships. Kicker Jason Elam enjoyed the finest season of his six-year NFL career in 1998, earning his second Pro Bowl invitation by setting a franchise record for PATs in a season (58 for 58) and converting 85% (23 of 27) of his field goal attempts. Elam also tied Tom Dempsey's 28-year old NFL record for longest field goal, with a 63-yarder vs. Jacksonville, Oct. 25.

Punter Tom Rouen also turned in his most outstanding season to date, ranking second in the NFL with a 46.9-yard punting average, while Dennison's kick-return unit ranked sixth in the NFL, staking the Broncos to an average drive start of their opponents' 28-yard line.

Under his guidance in 1997 the Broncos' special teams played an integral role in leading the franchise to its first World Championship. Darrien Gordon tied for the NFL lead with three touchdowns on punt returns and ranked second in the NFL in punt return average (13.6), while Vaughn Hebron ranked sixth in the AFC (23.5) in kickoff return average, Jason Elam ranked second in the AFC (4th NFL) in scoring (124) and Tom Rouen ranked fourth in the AFC (5th NFL) in net punting average.

As a unit, Denver's kickoff and kick coverage teams ranked among the league leaders, as the Broncos recorded an average drive start of 28.6 (2nd AFC/4th NFL), while forcing their opponents to an average drive start of 24.4 (4th AFC/9th NFL). Denver also led the NFL in punt return average (13.5).

A former standout linebacker for the club, Dennison joined the coaching staff in 1995 after spending the previous three years coaching at Suffield Academy in Connecticut. He served for two years in Denver as an offensive assistant, providing quality control work and assistance of all types to the offensive coaching staff before being promoted to his current post Feb. 12, 1997.

In Dennison's two years on the offensive staff the Broncos' offense posted the most prolific two-year total offense numbers in franchise history, including a No. 1 NFL ranking in total offense for 1996, and a bevy of franchise offensive records set in both seasons.

Dennison, 41, played inside linebacker for the Broncos from 1982-90, playing in 128 games, including 52 starts and three Super Bowls. In 1989, he received the Ed Block Memorial Award for Courage. Dennison ranked second on the team in tackles in 1988 with 133 and led the team with three fumble recoveries.

Perhaps the best performance of his career came in a 1987 playoff game against Houston when he registered eight tackles and a quarterback pressure. He also had an excellent season in 1984 when he had 164 stops and a career-high three sacks in his first full season as a starter. Dennison was a free agent acquisition by the Broncos in 1982.

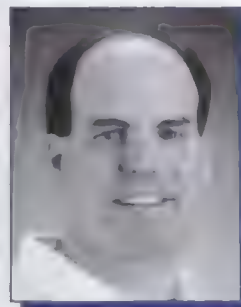

Dennison joined the Broncos in 1982 after a fine college career at Colorado State where he was a second-team Academic All-American as a senior and earned three varsity letters. In 1979, Dennison received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering from CSU, followed by a master's degree in the same field from CSU in 1982.

Dennison, born in Kalispell, Mont., on June 22, 1958, attended Rocky Mountain High School in Fort Collins where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. His father, George, is president of the University of Montana.

Rick and his sons, Joseph and Steven, reside in Englewood, Colo.

ED DONATELL • DEFENSIVE BACKS

NFL Season: 10th (5th with Broncos)

Ed Donatell is in his fifth season as defensive backs coach for the Broncos after spending the previous five seasons in the same capacity with the New York Jets.

Donatell and Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson brought to Denver in 1995 a new, more aggressive style of defense that has dramatically improved the Broncos' standing in the league total defense rankings. The defense jumped from 28th in 1994 — the year prior to their arrival — to No. 4 in just two seasons, and has continued to post strong rankings over the past two years.

In particular, Donatell's defensive backs have boosted the unit's ranking against the pass at a steady progression, improving an inherited No. 28 ranking to No. 9 in 1995, then No. 10 in 1996 and up to a high of No. 5 in 1997 as the franchise claimed its first World Championship.

Donatell's defensive backfield was challenged often in 1998, as teams routinely took to the air to combat early deficits. His group met the challenge, playing an integral role in leading Denver to its second consecutive World Championship, as the Broncos intercepted seven passes in the three postseason games. Veteran Ray Crockett turned in another outstanding season, and will be paired in 1999 with four-time Pro Bowl cornerback Dale Carter, signed through free agency in the offseason. With Tyrone Braxton returning, and a host of talented young corners and safeties to groom, Donatell has a full complement of talent, youth and depth to keep the unit performing at a high level for years to come.

Donatell has seen several of his players go on to receive postseason honors in his career, most recently safety Steve Atwater who earned his eighth Pro Bowl invitation in 1998, and Braxton, who was selected to his first in 1996. Donatell has not only worked with future Hall of Famers such as Atwater and Ronnie Lott, but has also been instrumental in the development of such NFL standouts as James Hasty and Aaron Glenn in their early years in New York.

Donatelli, 42, joined the Jets in 1990 after prior coaching stints on the collegiate level at Cal State Fullerton (1989), Idaho (1986-88), Pacific (1983-85), Washington (1981-82) and Kent State (1979-80).

A native of Akron, Ohio, Donatelli attended Glenville State in West Virginia where he was team captain, a four-year letterman and was named all-conference as a defensive back. He earned his bachelor's degree in physical education and then went on to earn his master's from Kent State in administration.

Donatelli (2/4/57), his wife Shari, daughter Brenna (12) and sons Thomas (10) and Steven (5) reside in Lone Tree, Colo.

GEORGE DYER • DEFENSIVE LINE

NFL Season: 18th (5th year with Broncos)

George Dyer is in his 18th season coaching in the NFL and his fifth with the Broncos as defensive line coach. He came to Denver in 1995 following a three-year stint in Los Angeles where he was the Rams' defensive coordinator and defensive line coach (1992-94). Dyer joined the Rams staff after nine years with the Seattle Seahawks (1983-91) where he was also in charge of the defensive line, and one year with the Buffalo Bills (1982).

Dyer's defensive line unit in 1998 featured the team's individual sack leaders in Trevor Pryce (8.5) and Maa Tanuvasa (8.5), who led a defensive unit that posted the highest sack total (47) for a Denver club since 1992. The line was equally proficient against the run in 1998, allowing just 1,287 yards, the second-lowest total in franchise history, behind only the nine-game total of 935 yards allowed during the strike-shortened 1982 season.

Eight players who saw action on the defensive line in '98 return in 1999, and will be complemented by a host of young, aspiring players, including second-round draft choice Montae Reagor. Pryce blossomed in his second season under Dyer's tutelage, and shows promise for an extraordinary future in the NFL. He teams with Keith Traylor to give Denver as imposing a pair of defensive tackles as any team in the league.

Dyer's 1997 unit boasted three players with at least eight sacks — Tanuvasa and defensive ends Neil Smith and Alfred Williams, each with 8.5 — spearheading a defensive group that posted 44 for the season, the highest Denver total since 1993. Tanuvasa, a Dyer pupil on the Rams' practice squad in '93, showed considerable growth in his third season, and Smith was voted to his sixth Pro Bowl.

In his first two seasons in Denver, Dyer's defensive line helped the entire defensive unit improve its league ranking from 28th in 1994 to fourth in '96 — including a No. 1 ranking against the rush.

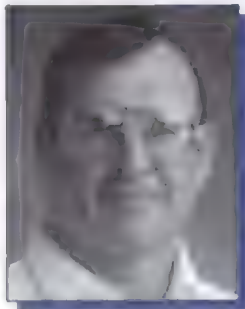

During his tenure in the NFL, Dyer has coached All-Pro linemen wherever he has been, including six-time Pro Bowler Fred Smerlas and Ben Williams in Buffalo; Jacob Green, Cortez Kennedy and Joe Nash in Seattle and Sean Gilbert in Los Angeles. While in Denver he has tutored Pro Bowl players in Alfred Williams (1996) and Neil Smith (1997). Dyer's 1994 Rams defense ranked seventh in the NFC and 12th in the league against the pass and their defensive line gave up an average of just 3.6 net yards per rush, which tied them for third in the NFC and sixth in the NFL.

In 1983, Dyer's defensive line in Seattle averaged 2.7 sacks per game, as the Seahawks advanced to the AFC Championship Game for the only time in their history. Prior to joining the Bills, Dyer served as defensive coordinator at Arizona State (1980-81) and at Michigan State (1977-79). He also coached for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League from 1974-76 and had stints with San Jose State (1973) and Idaho (1972).

Dyer, 58, started his coaching career at Humboldt State (1964-66) before becoming head coach at Coalinga Junior College in Central California, in 1967. He was the defensive coordinator at Portland State from 1968-71.

As a player, Dyer was a center and linebacker at UC Santa Barbara from 1961-63. He attended San Gabriel High School in San Gabriel, Calif.

Dyer (5/4/40), born in Alhambra, California, makes his home in Aurora, Colo., with his wife Marjorie. They have five children: sons George and Doak, and daughters Tami, Darci, and Marni.

ALEX GIBBS • ASST. HEAD COACH / OFFENSIVE LINE

NFL Season: 16th (5th year with Broncos)

Alex Gibbs is in the fifth year of his second tour of duty with the Broncos in 1999, and his 36th year overall in coaching. He returned to Denver in 1995 to assume the role of assistant head coach/offensive line coach under Mike Shanahan, and has further enhanced his reputation as an elite coach in the National Football League.

Gibbs, who coached in Denver from 1984-87, has coached for every franchise in the AFC West except Seattle, spending time with the Raiders (1988-89), Chargers (1990-91) and Chiefs (1993-94) in addition to two tenures in Denver.

His offensive line unit has played an integral role in Denver's back-to-back World Championships, paving the way for a punishing ground game and providing superior pass protection. In seven playoff games over the past two seasons, Denver has averaged 185 rushing yards per game, while allowing just 1.4 sacks per game. The Broncos ranked No. 1 in the NFL in rushing in 1996, No. 5 in '97 and No. 3 in '98, while the offense overall led the NFL in 1996 and '97, and ranked third in '98.

Overall, the Denver offense set six franchise records in 1998, and that all began up front where Gibbs' troops served as the catalyst for such tremendous output. Those records included total offense (6,092), first downs (347), points scored (501), rushing yards (2,468), rushing touchdowns (32) and total touchdowns (62). In addition, the 1998 unit allowed just 25 sacks, the lowest total in franchise history for a 16-game season. Individually, tackle Tony Jones, center Tom Nalen and guard Mark Schlereth were each named to the Pro Bowl, due in large part to the performance they turned in blocking for NFL Most Valuable Player Terrell Davis, who gained over 2,000 yards to win the rushing title. Davis now has posted four straight 1,000-yard seasons and been named to three consecutive Pro Bowls.

Gibbs' line gained broad recognition for its contribution to Denver's first title run in 1997, clearing the way for an astonishing rushing average of 187 yards-per-game in the playoffs. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay, the line bullied the opposition for 179 rushing yards — 100 of which came in the second half when the Broncos controlled the clock and the line of scrimmage en route to the historic win. In all, Denver running backs recorded a total of 15 100-yard games over the course of the 20-game regular season and postseason slate, including Davis' 157-yard, MVP effort in the Super Bowl.

The 1997 team also led the NFL in scoring (472) and touchdowns (55), setting franchise records in each category. The offensive line received a rare group award following Denver's '97 Wild Card win over Jacksonville, as the entire unit was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week, marking just the second time in NFL history such an award has been bestowed to an offensive line.

While the strength of the offensive line has been its ability to function as a unit, Gibbs' linemen have been singled out with Pro Bowl invitations in each of the four seasons since his return to Denver. In addition to the selections of Jones, Nalen and Schlereth last year, left tackle Gary Zimmerman was voted to the Pro Bowl in 1995 and '96, while Nalen made his first trip to Honolulu following the '97 season.

It has been Gibbs' ability to mold that unit into the league's best that has allowed the Broncos' offense to put up the most prolific four-year totals in franchise history over the 1995-98 seasons. He had worked the same magic in Kansas City, dropping the Chiefs' sack total from 48 in 1992 to 19 in '94. Under his guidance, tackle John Alt and guard Will Shields earned Pro Bowl and consensus all-rookie honors, respectively, in 1993, as the Chiefs advanced to the AFC Championship Game.

In the first two years after his return Denver (1995-96), Gibbs succeeded at the very task that had formed the basis for his glowing reputation in the NFL: protecting the quarterback. Gibbs' offensive line allowed just 57 sacks over the those two seasons — a dramatic reduction from the total of 55 allowed in 1994 alone, prior to Gibbs' return. The 57 sacks (26 in '95 / 31 in '96) were the sixth-fewest in the NFL over that two-year period (third in the AFC) and the lowest two-year total in franchise history.

In 1992, Gibbs was the offensive line coach for the Indianapolis Colts, whose sack total dropped by 13 in the one season he was there. Prior to that, he spent the 1990-91 seasons in San Diego, where he helped put together a line that propelled the Chargers to the second-best rushing offense in the league in 1991 with an average output of 140.5 yards per game. The Chargers were the league's third-most potent rushing offense in 1990, averaging 141.1 yards per game.

Gibbs spent the 1988-89 seasons with the Los Angeles Raiders, where he coached with current Bronco head coach, and then-Raiders head coach Mike Shanahan. While at Los Angeles, he helped to groom the talents of guard Steve Wisniewski, who has been an All-Pro selection seven times in his career.

Gibbs had first become an NFL assistant in 1984 with the Broncos, serving as the club's offensive line coach for four seasons. He was part of a staff that saw Denver earn trips to two straight Super Bowls (XXI and XXII). Under Gibbs' guidance, guard Keith Bishop earned All-Pro and Pro Bowl honors in 1986 and '87.

Gibbs coached at the collegiate level for 13 seasons before entering the pro ranks. He worked at Duke (1969-70) and Kentucky (1971-72) before moving to West Virginia (1973-74), where he worked under head coach Bobby Bowden. He then became the offensive coordinator/line coach at Ohio State (1975-78) where his line troops opened up the holes that enabled Archie Griffin to claim back-to-back Heisman Trophy awards. In 1979, Gibbs became offensive coordinator at Auburn, a position he held for three seasons. He then coached the offensive line at Georgia from 1982-83. Gibbs also spent three years at Mount Airy (N.C.) High School where he won a pair of state championships.

Gibbs, 58, is a native of Morganton, N.C., where he was a running back and defensive back at Davidson College. He studied pre-law and then earned his master's degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in European history, and later received his doctorate in education from Auburn.

Gibbs is not the only athlete in his family. His son David was a defensive back on Colorado's 1990 National Championship team, where his teammates included current Broncos Alfred Williams and Tom Rouen. Gibbs' son Mark played at UCLA, and his son Chuck played for Army. David is currently the defensive coordinator/secondary coach at Minnesota.

Alex (2/22/41) resides in Englewood, Colo. He is the father of five children: sons Steve, David, Chuck and Mark, and daughter Sandy.

MIKE HEIMERDINGER • WIDE RECEIVERS

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Mike Heimerdinger is in his fifth year coaching the Broncos' wide receivers, coming off four highly successful seasons in which his receiving corps has helped propel the Broncos' offense to its most prolific statistical showing ever, culminating in back-to-back World Championships.

Heimerdinger has not only enhanced the performance of veteran receivers like Ed McCaffrey, but has also been influential in the development of young receivers such as Rod Smith, who has flourished over the past two seasons under Heimerdinger's tutelage.

Smith in 1998 exceeded his breakout year of '97 by catching 86 passes for 1,222 yards to rank among the top four in the NFL in both categories. His yardage mark ranks third in team history, giving him the Nos. 3 and 4 marks on the list now. Not to be outdone, Heimerdinger's other starting receiver, McCaffrey, earned the first

Pro Bowl invitation of his eight-year NFL career in 1998 and was named second-team All-NFL by the Associated Press. McCaffrey caught 64 passes for 1,053 yards with a career-high 10 touchdowns (11st AFC) to give Denver two 1,000-yard pass-catchers in the season for just the third time in franchise history — and the first time with two wide receivers.

Both Smith and McCaffrey return in 1999, along with former No. 1 draft choice Marcus Nash, who looks to step up and seize a more active role in his second season. Reinforcements have also arrived via the draft, in which the Broncos chose three receivers.

McCaffrey and Smith formed a solid receiving duo in 1997, as McCaffrey set a new career high with eight touchdown receptions (5th AFC), while Smith established himself as a big-play threat with then-career highs in receptions (70), yards (1,180) and touchdowns (12), ranking among the league leaders in all three categories.

Heimerdinger came to Denver in 1995 from Duke University where he was the offensive coordinator and offensive backs coach in 1994. In his one season at Duke he directed an offense that finished 15th in the country in scoring (32.7 per game), putting up over 40 points on five occasions. The Blue Devils enjoyed one of the finest seasons in school history in 1994, finishing with an 8-3 regular season record and earning a bid to the Hall of Fame Bowl, only their second bowl appearance in 35 years.

Heimerdinger also helped to develop the skills of running back Robert Baldwin, who led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing with 1,187 yards and also had 12 touchdowns.

The 46-year old Heimerdinger has a history of running successful offensive units. While coaching at Rice from 1989-93, he ran an attack that produced 1991 Doak Walker Award winner Trevor Cobb and quarterbacks Donald Hollas and Bert Emmanuel. The Owls pulled off a rare feat during Heimerdinger's tenure, as they produced the school's first back-to-back winning seasons since 1960-61.

Prior to his stay with Rice, Heimerdinger was the offensive coordinator at Cal State Fullerton in 1988. Among the offensive records recorded by his unit that season was a new standard for points in a game (58).

Heimerdinger began his coaching career in 1975 as head coach at Johnsbrough High School in McHenry, Ill., where he remained for five years before accepting a graduate assistant position at Florida in 1980. One-year stints at Air Force (1981) and as quarterbacks coach at North Texas (1982) followed, before Heimerdinger returned to Florida (1983-87). Two years at Florida (1980, '83) came while his former college teammate Mike Shanahan was the Gators' offensive coordinator, also coinciding with Broncos strength coach Rich Tuten's tenure in Gainesville (1980-88). With Shanahan as offensive coordinator and Heimerdinger as receivers coach in 1983, the Gators ranked among the nation's top passing teams. They also enjoyed bowl success during Heimerdinger's tenure, playing in the 1983 Gator Bowl and 1987 Aloha Bowl, while also posting identical 9-1-1 records in both 1984 and 1985.

Heimerdinger earned his bachelor's degree in history from Eastern Illinois in 1975, and his master's in administration from Northern Illinois. He played wide receiver at Eastern from 1970-71, and also played for the Panther's baseball team as a centerfielder, participating in the Division II College World Series in 1974.

Heimerdinger was born in Dekalb, Ill., Oct. 13, 1952. He and his wife Kathie live in Highlands Ranch, Colo., with their daughter, Alicia, and son, Brian.

GARY KUBIAK • OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR/QUARTERBACKS

NFL Season: 6th (5th year with Broncos)

Gary Kubiak is in his fifth season as Denver's offensive coordinator in 1999, coming off four highly successful seasons in which the offensive unit has produced numbers unparalleled in the history of the organization, culminating in back-to-back World Championships.

Kubiak, who now owns three Super Bowl rings, is one of just eight NFL coaches to win a Super Bowl with two different franchises (San Francisco, 1994) and one of just five to win a title with a team from each conference.

He returned to the Broncos organization in 1995 with head coach Mike Shanahan, after the pair coached together in 1994 in San Francisco, where Shanahan was offensive coordinator, Kubiak was quarterbacks coach and fellow Broncos assistant coach Brian Pariani (tight ends) was an offensive assistant.

Kubiak's return to Denver — where he played quarterback behind All-Pro John Elway from 1983-91 — has been marked by extraordinary success. The Broncos have produced the National Football League's No. 1 offense twice during Kubiak's tenure (1996-97) — a first in franchise history — and the third-ranked unit in his other two campaigns (1995, 1998). The total offensive numbers produced in Kubiak's first four years at the controls mark the most prolific four-year totals in club annals.

The Broncos have set new single-season standards for touchdowns and points scored in each of the past three years, and have posted a new record for yards per rush in each of the past two seasons, while also scoring 30 or more points in a game 36 times (including four times in post-season) in the 72 regular and postseason games since Kubiak's hire. In the four years that Kubiak has been at the controls of the Denver offense, Denver has accumulated more rushing yards (9,002) and total yards (23,795) than any team in the NFL.

Denver has had 18 Pro Bowl selections from the offensive side of the football in Kubiak's four seasons as offensive coordinator, and is the only team in NFL history to produce a 3,000-yard passer (John Elway), a 1,500-yard rusher (Terrell Davis) and a 1,000-yard receiver (Shannon Sharpe; and Rod Smith in '97) two years in a row, doing so in 1996 and '97.

Denver set six offensive franchise records in 1998, establishing new marks for total yards (6,092), rushing yards (2,468) touchdowns (62), rushing touchdowns (32) points (501) and first downs (347), as the Broncos scored 30 or more points in 12 of their 19 games. Davis was the NFL rushing champion, gaining a franchise-record 2,008 yards to become just the fourth NFL player ever to top 2,000. Davis, named the league's Most Valuable Player, was joined by John Elway, Tony Jones, Ed McCaffrey, Tom Nalen, Mark Schlereth and Shannon Sharpe to give Denver an unprecedented seven offensive players voted into the Pro Bowl, and Elway closed his Hall of Fame career as Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXIII.

Davis won the AFC rushing title (2nd NFL) with 1,750 yards in 1997, and went on to win Super Bowl Most Valuable Player honors en route to an all-time NFL record for rushing attempts and yards in a combined regular and postseason. Elway, Davis, Sharpe and center Tom Nalen earned Pro Bowl berths in '97, while the offense set club records for points (472; 1st in NFL), touchdowns (55; 1st in NFL) and yards per rush (4.6), and led the league in total offense for the second straight year. The rushing total of 2,378 yards was the highest since the team record of 2,451 was set in 1978.

The Broncos led the NFL in total offense for the first time in 1996 after figuring third (1st AFC) in '95 with a franchise-record 377.5 yards-per-game average. The '96 club set a new team record for total points (391) and tied the record for highest average gain per rush (4.5) which was set a year prior, in Kubiak's first season. Davis led the AFC in rushing (2nd NFL), broke five team records, was named AFC Offensive Player of the Year and was selected to his first Pro Bowl.

Davis and Elway joined tight end Shannon Sharpe and tackle Gary Zimmerman to give Denver four offensive players in the Pro Bowl. The 1996 Broncos offense, under Kubiak's direction, became just the fifth in NFL history — and first in Broncos history — to produce a 3,000-yard passer (Elway — 3,328), 1,500-yard rusher (Davis — 1,538) and 1,000-yard receiver (Sharpe — 1,062) in the same season.

Kubiak wasted no time making an impact in his first season as offensive coordinator, as the 1995 Broncos broke team records for points scored (388), total yards (6,040), passing yards (4,260), first downs passing (205) and highest average gain per play (5.7; tops in the AFC). Individually, wide receiver Anthony Miller topped the 1,000-yard mark (1,079) and set a franchise record for touchdown receptions (14), while Davis topped the 1,000-yard rushing mark (1,117) and finished second in the NFL Rookie of the Year balloting. Overall, three members of the Broncos' offensive unit — Miller, Sharpe and Zimmerman — were chosen to play in the Pro Bowl.

During the 1994 season, Kubiak coached the league's most dominating quarterback, Steve Young, in San Francisco. Young not only led the 49ers to a victory in Super Bowl XXIX, but he also earned Super Bowl MVP honors, as well as the NFL's Most Valuable Player award, besides setting numerous passing records during the campaign. He also became the NFL's all-time passer-rating leader and the first quarterback to lead the league in passing four years in a row.

Prior to his year in San Francisco, Kubiak coached the running backs at his alma mater, Texas A&M, from 1992-93. During his two seasons the Aggies posted a record of 22-3 and played in back-to-back Cotton Bowls. His star pupil at A&M was Greg Hill, a first-round pick by Kansas City in 1994. Hill was second-team All-America as a junior (The Sporting News) and first-team All-Southwest Conference, as well as an All-SWC pick as a senior by the Dallas Morning News, despite missing four games. He rushed for 2,046 yards and 21 touchdowns in Kubiak's two years at College Station. Also in Kubiak's backfield were current Broncos Detron Smith and Leeland McElroy.

Before embarking on his coaching career, Kubiak played nine seasons (1983-91) as a quarterback for the Broncos. During that time he was a member of three Super Bowl teams and appeared in 11 of the 14 playoff games played by the Broncos during his tenure. He played in 119 games for Denver (second all-time among quarterbacks behind John Elway), with five starts over that period (4-1 record). Kubiak completed 173 passes in 298 attempts for 2,020 yards, with 16 interceptions and 14 touchdowns. He also rushed for 238 yards and two touchdowns, and his completion percentage of .581 is the second-best mark in team history. Kubiak also holds the Broncos' single-season record for interception avoidance with a mark of .013 (one interception in 75 attempts), set in 1984.

Kubiak's finest moment as a Bronco was probably his final performance in a Denver uniform, when he relieved an injured John Elway in the 1992 AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/12/92) and completed 11-of-12 passes for 102 yards and added 22 yards rushing, though the Broncos fell to the Bills 10-7. He entered the game in the fourth quarter and drove the Broncos into Buffalo territory three times, including an 85-yard touchdown drive that cut Denver's deficit to three points. Kubiak was an eighth-round draft pick of the Broncos in 1983.

As a player at Texas A&M, Kubiak made the Player's All-SWC team in 1982 and earned appearances in the Blue-Gray and Hula Bowl all-star games. In 1982 he led the SWC in attempts (324), completions (181), percentage (55.9), yardage (1,948), touchdowns (19) and total offense (1,885). As a junior he set conference records for touchdown passes in a game (six against Rice) and percentage in a game (19-21 for 90.5% against Arkansas), and ranked second in the SWC in passing (1,908) and total offense (1,986). He has a degree from A&M in physical education.

While at St. Pius High School in his native Houston, Gary made all-state, all-district, and All-America and set the state passing record with 6,190 yards. He lettered four years in football, basketball and baseball, and made all-state in all three sports in both his junior and senior years. He was also all-state twice in track.

Kubiak was recognized for his outstanding accomplishments with induction into the prestigious Texas High School Sports Hall of Fame in March 1999.

Gary (8/15/61) and his wife, Rhonda, reside in Greenwood Village, Colo., with their three sons, Klint, Klay and Klein.

PAT MCPHERSON • OFFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 2nd (2nd with Broncos)

Pat McPherson, in his second year on the Broncos' coaching staff, moves into his new role as an offensive assistant, after breaking in last year as a defensive assistant. In his new role he will handle a variety of quality control duties on the offensive side of the ball.

Working with the defensive staff in 1998, McPherson played a role in tutoring a defense that ranked third in the NFL against the run, and 11th in the overall defensive rankings.

McPherson was hired by the club April 7, 1998 following a four-year coaching stint at his high school alma mater, Bellarmine College Prep in San Jose, Calif. In addition to coordinating the defense and coaching the inside linebackers, McPherson's duties also included teaching English, algebra and physical fitness. During his tenure at Bellarmine, the football team compiled a record of 35-11, won three consecutive league titles and made one section championship appearance as well as two semifinal appearances. He also gained valuable coaching experience volunteering with the San Francisco 49ers in 1996, in a defensive quality control capacity.

McPherson holds a bachelor's degree in English and an M.B.A. from Santa Clara, where he captained the football team and was voted Most Inspirational Player as an inside linebacker during his senior season of 1992. He began his collegiate career at UCLA in 1987, where he received the Charles Pike Award in recognition of the school's outstanding freshman football player. McPherson signed with the 49ers as a rookie free agent in 1993 and participated in three preseason games, including one versus the Broncos at Mile High Stadium.

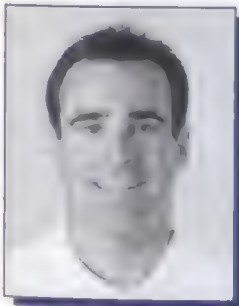

A native of San Jose, Calif., McPherson was an all-state and All-America inside linebacker at Bellarmine College Prep, where he earned Scholar-Athlete of the Year honors as a senior. He was voted captain of the North team in California's North-South Shrine Game played at the Rose Bowl.

McPherson, 30, worked with the National Multiple Sclerosis Society in Santa Clara, Calif., in 1994, organizing and implementing the chapter's largest fund-raising event, the 1994 MS Walk. His father, Bill McPherson, has 21 years of NFL coaching experience, and is currently with the 49ers.

Pat was born April 15, 1969 in Santa Clara, Calif. He is single and resides in Littleton, Colo.

BRIAN PARIANI • TIGHT ENDS

NFL Season: 10th (5th year with Broncos)

Brian Pariani is in his fifth year coaching the Broncos' tight ends, a group that has played an integral role in the club's offensive success in recent seasons, culminating in back-to-back World Championships. Pariani came to the Broncos in 1995 after spending the previous five seasons (1990-94) with the San Francisco 49ers, coaching alongside Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak.

With Denver's win in Super Bowl XXXII, Pariani joined a list of just eight NFL coaches who have won World Championships with two different organizations, and one of just five to win a title with a team from each conference. The Broncos' triumph in Super Bowl XXXIII now makes Pariani a three-time Super Bowl winner.

Upon his arrival in 1995 Pariani inherited the league's top tight end in Shannon Sharpe, who has since gone on to earn four more consecutive Pro Bowl appearances, bringing his career total to seven. Even more impressive, however, has been the development of Sharpe's backups, Dwayne Carswell and Byron Chamberlain, under Pariani's tutelage. The pair has played a vital role in the Denver offense, and along with Sharpe, formed a three-man unit that has remained intact throughout Pariani's four years in Denver.

Last year Sharpe led all NFL tight ends in receiving yards (768), while ranking third among his peers in receptions (64) and tying for the AFC lead in receiving touchdowns (10). He was a unanimous All NFL selection for the seventh straight year, and became the first tight end in league history to post seven straight 50-catch seasons. The Broncos' depth at tight end was never more evident than in their Super Bowl XXXIII win over Atlanta, when Sharpe left the game in the first quarter with a knee injury. Carswell and Chamberlain performed admirably with Chamberlain catching three passes for 29 yards and recovering two Atlanta on-side kicks.

In 1997 Sharpe led the club in receptions (72) for the sixth straight year, and led all NFL tight ends in receptions and receiving yards (1,107) for the second straight year. Sharpe's 1,107 yards represented a career high, and marked his third 1,000-yard season, tying him with Todd Christensen and Kellen Winslow for most 1,000-yard seasons by a tight end in NFL history.

In 1996 Sharpe set career highs for receiving yardage (1,062) and touchdowns (10), while posting his second-most receptions (80) to lead all NFL tight ends in each category, en route to All-NFL honors.

Overall, Pariani's tight ends have caught more passes (343) for more yards (4,279) over the last four seasons than any other group of tight ends in the NFL. That productivity has helped propel the Broncos' offense to the most prolific four-year totals in franchise history, highlighted by a No. 1 NFL total offense ranking in 1996 and '97. The 1998 team set franchise records for touchdowns (82), points (501), total offense (6,092) and first downs (347).

Pariani started his NFL coaching career in 1990 as a scouting assistant with the 49ers. He then became the team's offensive coaches' assistant for the next four seasons, working directly with the offensive coaches and quarterbacks, assisting with daily practices and game plans. The 49ers' offense led the league in total yards in 1992 and '93, and scored a team-record 505 points and 62 touchdowns in '94 en route to a Super Bowl title.

After earning his political science degree from UCLA in 1989, Pariani served as a graduate assistant with the Bruins, helping head coach Terry Donahue's offense during the 1989 season.

Pariani attended Marin (Calif.) Catholic High School where he played football, baseball and basketball. He is a native of San Francisco, Calif. (7/2/65). He, his wife, Stephanie, and daughter, Jessica, reside in Castle Pines, Colo.

RICKY PORTER • ASST. STRENGTH & COND.

NFL Season: 4th (3rd year with Broncos)

Ricky Porter is in his third year on the Denver Broncos' coaching staff, expanding his role in 1999 to include responsibilities with the strength and conditioning program, as well as quality control duties with the offensive coaching staff. Porter began with the Broncos in 1997 as an offensive assistant, after spending the 1996 season in the same capacity with Tampa Bay.

Porter has spent the past two seasons working with an offensive unit that has ranked among the best in the NFL, and produced numerous franchise records, en route to back-to-back World Championships. The 1997 team led the NFL in total yardage (5,872) for the second year in a row, while the '98 club topped that mark (6,092), along with four other franchise records. Offensive highlights also came from NFL Most Valuable Player Terrell Davis, who became just the fourth player in league history to rush for over 2,000 yards in a single season, en route to the NFL rushing title.

Prior to his stint with the Buccaneers, Porter worked as a scout for National Football Scouting in 1995, where his primary responsibility was assessing talent in the Ohio Valley region.

Porter has had previous NFL coaching experience with Buffalo (1991), New Orleans (1993) and Detroit (1994) through the league's Minority Coaching Fellowship Program. His first full-time experience came at his alma mater, Slippery Rock State, where he coached the running backs and special teams in 1990-91 before moving on to handle the same responsibilities at Kent State from 1992-93.

The 39-year-old Porter played five years in the NFL with Detroit (1982), Baltimore (1983) and Buffalo (1987-89). He also played for the USFL's Memphis Showboats in 1985 and the CFL's Montreal Alouettes from 1986 until the club folded during the 1987 season. The Alouettes' director of football operations at that time was Marv Levy who was later responsible for bringing Porter to Buffalo.

A member of the Slippery Rock Sports Hall of Fame, Porter was the first player ever drafted from the Division II school, chosen by Detroit in 1982 after rushing for 3,124 yards over his four-year career. A three-time all-conference, two-time All-America and two-time team MVP, Porter led the nation in rushing as a senior in 1981, and also starred for the Rockets' baseball and track teams. In 1990 he put his baseball skills to use as a member of the Baltimore Orioles' AAA Rochester Red Wings. Porter holds a bachelor's degree in communications from Slippery Rock and a master's degree in athletic administration from Kent State.

A native of Sylacauga, Ala. (1/14/60), Porter grew up in Baltimore, Md., where he was a three-sport star at Milford Mills High School. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and while at Slippery Rock in 1982 was named ESPN's Amateur Athlete of the Week. Ricky and his wife, Carla, reside in Highlands Ranch, Colo., with their sons, Armani Vaniko (11/3/95) and Otavio Vantaj (6/3/98).

GREG ROBINSON • DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

NFL Season: 10th (5th year with Broncos)

Greg Robinson is in his fifth season as the Broncos' defensive coordinator in 1999, a position in which he has guided steady and dramatic improvement, and crafted the Denver defense into one of the best in the NFL. Over the past two seasons, the Broncos' defense has been a dominant force in the postseason, and played a crucial role in the club winning back-to-back World Championships.

Robinson had spent the previous five seasons with the New York Jets, serving as defensive coordinator in 1994 after four years coaching the team's defensive line. While there he worked with Broncos defensive backs coach Ed Donatell (1990-94) and Director of Pro Scouting Jack Elway (1990).

The performance of Robinson's defense throughout the 1998 playoffs was paramount to Denver's quest for a second straight title.

Denver allowed its opponents just 53 rushing yards per game in the postseason, and forced an unbelievable 13 turnovers in just three games, giving Denver a +12 turnover ratio. Add that to an impressive +10 ratio for the regular season, and Denver boasted a +22 ratio for all of 1998. In each of the Broncos' first two postseason games, the defense allowed a franchise-low 14 rushing yards, and in the entire postseason allowed just 25 points and two touchdowns.

The Broncos ranked third in the NFL in rushing defense last season, allowing just 80.4 yards per game, the lowest in franchise history. The top two full-season rushing defense figures in franchise history have now come during Robinson's tenure (1st-1998, 2nd-1996). Over the final 11 games of the season (including postseason), Denver allowed just 56.6 rushing yards per game, and for the season, allowed just two individuals to rush for more than 100 yards. Additionally, the Broncos allowed fewer than 20 points in 11 of their 19 regular or postseason games in 1998.

The Broncos' defense was equally impressive in 1997 when Denver won its first World Championship. Robinson carried out a brilliant game-plan in Super Bowl XXXII to control the explosive Green Bay offense, resulting in a 31-24 win. Robinson's defensive unit rose to the occasion when most challenged, limiting the Packers to an 0-of-7 showing on third-down attempts in the second half, and 0-of-1 on fourth down. Out of six occasions during the entire playoffs in which opponents began a drive in Denver territory, just two netted points, and both were field goals. During the regular season, opponents were shut out once and held to three points on three other occasions.

Under Robinson's direction, nine Pro Bowl selections have been bestowed upon Broncos defensive players in the past four years, including linebacker Bill Romanowski and safety Steve Atwater in 1998. In addition to those nine, linebacker John Mobley was recognized with Associated Press All-NFL honors in '97, in just his second NFL season.

The 1996 defensive unit featured five players who would earn Pro Bowl honors — safeties Atwater and Tyrone Braxton, defensive tackle Michael Dean Perry, Romanowski and defensive end Alfred Williams.

In his first two years as defensive coordinator, Robinson guided an improvement in overall league rank from 28th the year prior to his arrival ('94) to fourth in '96, and has kept his unit among the league's best in the two years since.

The 1996 ranking was buoyed by a No. 1 standing against the rush for only the second time in franchise history, paving the way for the lowest yardage total allowed (4,470) by a Broncos team since 1978. The defense set franchise records for fewest rushing yards allowed in a 16-game/non-strike season and fewest rushing first downs in a 16-game season, while allowing just two opponent backs to rush for 100 yards.

Robinson set out to upgrade the defense immediately upon his arrival in 1995, improving the Broncos' total defense ranking 13 places to 15th. His defense posted one shutout during the season (27-0 over Oakland on Monday Night Football, Oct. 16) and held opponents under 10 points on three other occasions. Atwater represented the Broncos' defense in Honolulu with his sixth straight invitation to the Pro Bowl.

During his last four years with New York, Robinson's defense forced 151 turnovers, most in the AFC and second-most in the NFL during that span (Philadelphia was first with 155). They also improved from 27th in the league in total defense in 1989 (374.6 yards per game) to eighth in 1993 (294.5 yards per game). As the defensive coordinator in 1994, his defense tied with Kansas City for second in the AFC and the NFL in takeaways (38), two behind New England. They finished the season with 29 sacks and gave up just 20 points per game, 6th best in the AFC.

The Jets' defensive line also saw dramatic improvement under Robinson's tutelage. They were fifth in the NFL in rush defense in 1993 (92.1 yards per game — down from 133.5 in 1989) and improved to 17th in the NFL in pass defense (202.4 yards per game), while 18 of the defense's 32 sacks were produced by the line. The defense also ranked No. 1 in the AFC against the run in 1991 (90.1 yards per game — a 36-yard improvement over 1990) and recorded 35 sacks.

Robinson has also been instrumental in the development of many young players, including defensive linemen Jeff Lageman, former Bronco Marvin Washington and linebacker Mo Lewis while with the Jets. Lageman and Washington combined for 54.5 sacks from 1990-94, with Lageman leading the team with 6.5 in 1994, 8.5 in '93 and '91, and Washington leading the way with 8.5 in 1992. Lewis led the team in tackles in 1994 with 155, had four interceptions, six sacks and five forced fumbles.

Prior to his stay in New York, Robinson coached for eight years at UCLA (1982-89) under head coach Terry Donahue, primarily as a defensive assistant but also as an offensive coordinator in 1989. He had been promoted to assistant head coach for the 1990 season, but opted to join the Jets instead.

While at UCLA, Robinson coached the defensive line for the Bruins from 1982-88. Many of his former pupils have moved on to the NFL, including current Bronco Mike Lodish, former Washington Redskin Jim Wahler and new Broncos defensive assistant coach Terry Tumeay, a three-time All-Pac-10 performer. His run defense ranked in the Top 10 in the nation in 1987 and '88, allowing just 95 yards per game over two seasons. In 1985, the Bruins led the nation in defense against the run at 70.3 yards per game. Their defense also averaged over 40 sacks a year from 1985-88.

During his one season on the offensive side of the ball, Robinson helped groom the talents of several future NFL players, including former Broncos quarterback Tommy Maddox, former Dolphins wide receiver Scott Miller and former Chiefs wide receiver Sean LaChapelle. The Bruins' 1989 offense also produced two All-Americans in center Frank Cornish (Charger, Cowboys, Jaguars, Eagles) and tight end Charles Arbuckle (Saints, Chargers, Colts).

Robinson coached at North Carolina State from 1980-81 where he helped recruit former Wolfpack linebacker and current Broncos linebackers coach Frank Bush. He coached at Cal State Fullerton from 1977-79 and at the University of the Pacific from 1975-76, where he worked with the wide receivers as a graduate assistant, and later the defensive line.

A native of Los Angeles, Robinson began his collegiate playing career as a linebacker at Bakersfield Community College from 1970-71, playing on a team that was ranked No. 1 in the nation. He then went on to play linebacker, center and tight end at the University of the Pacific from 1972-74. He earned his bachelor's degree in political science from Pacific in 1975. Robinson is a graduate of Garces High School in Bakersfield, Calif.

Robinson, 47 (10/9/51), lives in Aurora with his wife Laura and his son Dominic, and daughters Lindsay and Leslie Ann.

GREG SAPORTA • ASST. STRENGTH & COND.

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Greg Saporta is in his fifth season as an assistant in the strength and conditioning department for the Broncos. He assists Head Strength Coach Rich Tuten in coordinating the year-round strength and conditioning program for the Broncos' players.

Saporta came to the Broncos in 1995 from the University of Florida where he spent two separate stints as an assistant strength coach under Tuten. He originally began as a student assistant at Florida in 1981, and became assistant strength coach in 1985. Saporta held that position until 1988, when he went to the University of North Carolina to assume the same position from 1988-92, once again working with Tuten, who had been named Strength Director. Saporta then returned to Florida in 1992 to resume his position as assistant strength coach, which he held until April 1995 when he joined the Broncos' staff. He also coached with Broncos head coach

During his time at both Florida and North Carolina, Saporta worked with many athletes who went on to enjoy success in the NFL, including former Broncos players Ray Jacobs and Rondell Jones (North Carolina), as well as 1996 Broncos draftee Mark Campbell (Florida).

Saporta, 42, received his bachelor's degree in physical education with a concentration in exercise physiology from Florida in 1985. He previously had attended Buffalo State University in New York, where he lettered for two years in football and rugby, as well as participating in track. Greg has also worked in the past with Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

Saporta, born Feb. 18, 1957, is originally from Manhattan, N.Y. He resides in Denver, Colo.

RICK SMITH • DEFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 4th (all with Broncos)

Rick Smith is in his fourth year on the Broncos' coaching staff, assisting the Broncos' defensive coaches in all aspects of game preparation and practice regimen.

During Smith's first three years the Broncos' defense has consistently ranked among the NFL's best, with rankings of No. 4 in 1996 and No. 5 in 1997, and has played an integral role in Denver securing back-to-back World Championships.

The Broncos' defensive secondary accounted for six of the club's astonishing total of seven interceptions in the three postseason games last year.

Denver's pass defense in 1997 posted a No. 5 ranking in the NFL, and limited four of the 16 regular season opponents to 3 points or fewer, including one shutout.

In his first year, Smith helped coach a defensive unit that improved from No. 15 to No. 4 in the NFL — including a No. 1 ranking against the run for just the second time in franchise history. The defense set or tied three different franchise records in 1996.

Smith, 30, was hired April 3, 1996, following a two-year stint as defensive backs coach at his alma mater Purdue. He had left Purdue in February to accept a coaching position at Texas Christian, but spent just one month there before being hired by the Broncos.

A 1992 Purdue graduate, Smith began his coaching career with the Boilermakers shortly after his graduation, serving as the school's assistant strength and conditioning coordinator. In that role, Smith worked exclusively with football, volleyball and wrestling before being promoted to the role of interim strength and conditioning coordinator during the summer of 1993. While coaching at Purdue, Smith began graduate studies in educational administration, and received his master's degree in the summer of 1995.

Smith was a starter at strong safety and defensive captain for Purdue as a senior in 1991.

A native of Petersburg, Va. (9/3/69), Smith attended Meadowdale High School in Dayton, Ohio. Smith, a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, is single and makes his home in Parker, Colo.

JOHN TEERLINCK • PASS RUSH SPECIALIST

NFL Season: 11th (3rd with Broncos)

John Teerlinck is in his third year as pass-rush specialist on the Broncos' staff, hired in February 1997 to that newly-created position. Teerlinck has established himself as one of the NFL's best in that area in his 10 seasons in the league, and is largely responsible for the development of several of the league's most dominant pass rushers.

The increased emphasis on the pass rush, and the resulting pressure on opposing quarterbacks, has been the starting point for a defensive effort that has helped lead Denver to back-to-back World Championships. For the second consecutive year, defensive linemen tied for the team lead in sacks in 1998, as Trevor Pryce and Maa Tanuvasa each posted 8.5. The team total of 47 was the highest by a Denver club since 1992, and the second-highest in the AFC. The line also played an integral role in Denver posting a No. 3 ranking against the rush last year, and allowing just two opposing running backs to top the 100-yard mark.

With all four starters returning in 1998, in addition to a strong mix of veterans and promising young players vying for time in the defensive line rotation, the unit appears poised to put even greater pressure on opposing quarterbacks.

The performance of the defensive line in 1997 was crucial to the Broncos' successful navigation through a four-game postseason slate, which included 11 sacks, and culminated with the first World Championship in franchise history.

The line boasted three players with at least eight sacks — defensive ends Neil Smith and Alfred Williams, and Tanuvasa each with 8.5 — spearheading a defensive group that posted 44 for the season, the highest Denver total since 1993. Especially promising was the development of Tanuvasa, who had entered the year with five career sacks over his first two seasons.

Teerlinck came to Denver from Detroit where he had spent two seasons as the Lions' Assistant Head Coach/Defense. While there he dramatically improved the club's sack totals, posting an average of 37 per season, up from a total of 28 the year prior to his arrival. His 1995 squad registered 42 sacks for an NFC-high 317 yards lost. Individually, Henry Thomas posted a career-high 10.5 sacks under Teerlinck's guidance in 1995 — the most by a Lion since 1988 — and in '96 Robert Porcher notched a career-high 10 to lead the team.

Prior to his two-year stint in Detroit, Teerlinck spent three years as the defensive line coach for the Minnesota Vikings. Under his tutelage, the Vikings' defensive line was known for its dominating play and relentless pursuit of opposing quarterbacks. Three of the four linemen he coached in Minnesota were named All-Pro. The Vikings led the league in rushing defense each of his last two seasons (the Vikings limited their opponents to 68.1 yards per game in 1994, the fourth-fewest in NFL history) as Minnesota led the league in total defense in 1993 and finished fifth in 1994.

In 1993, the Vikings led the NFC in defense against the run and finished third in the league in sacks-per-pass-play. Also in 1993, the Vikings' front four totaled 41 sacks, the most by any defensive line in the league and more than 16 other entire teams in the league. The Vikings' 51 sacks in 1992 were the second-most in team history and Chris Doleman was named the NFC's Defensive Player of the Year. Teerlinck has the distinction of tutoring two conference defensive players of the year, former Bronco Michael Dean Perry in 1989 while the two were with the Cleveland Browns, and John Randle in Minnesota, whom Teerlinck groomed from an undrafted rookie to a consensus All-Pro in 1993-94.

Teerlinck spent one season with the Los Angeles Rams (1991) before joining the Vikings staff, and prior to that spent two seasons with Cleveland (1989-90) where the Browns set a franchise record in 1989 with 45 sacks. He began his pro coaching career in 1983 under the late George Allen with the USFL's Chicago Blitz, who would later become the Arizona Wranglers. The team led the USFL in defense and sacks in each of his three seasons. Teerlinck's players also held nine of the 12 All-USFL defensive line spots available during the league's three-year existence.

Teerlinck spent three years (1980-82) at the University of Illinois under Mike White before moving into the pro ranks. During Teerlinck's tenure, the Fighting Illini had back-to-back winning seasons (1981-82) and played in their first bowl game since the early 1960s. Teerlinck spent two years (1978-79) as the defensive coordinator at Eastern Illinois, along with Broncos Head Coach Mike Shanahan, prior to joining the Fighting Illini staff. In 1978, the Panthers won the NCAA Division II national title with Teerlinck and Shanahan on the coaching staff. His first coaching job was at Iowa Lakes Junior College in 1977 after being released from the San Diego Chargers' roster in late August.

A fifth-round draft choice by San Diego in 1974, Teerlinck started two games at defensive end his rookie season. He started five of the first six games at defensive tackle in 1975 before suffering a knee injury, which ended his career two years later.

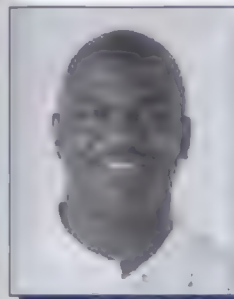

Teerlinck earned Little All-America honors and was co-captain as a senior at Western Illinois. He was the team's defensive MVP after posting 122 tackles and 14 sacks in 1973. He still holds a share of the school's single-game record with four sacks in a 1973 contest.

A 48-year old native of Rochester, N.Y. (4/9/51), Teerlinck was named All-Chicago Catholic League at Fenwick High School. He holds a bachelor's degree in physical education from Western Illinois and earned a master's degree in education from Eastern Illinois. In 1986 he opened a highly successful brokerage business in Phoenix, Ariz.

John and his wife, Sue, have five children: Ann, Bill, Mark, Molly and Mary.

TERRY TUMEY • DEFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 1st (1st with Broncos)

Terry Tumey is in his first season with the Broncos, working with the defensive coaching staff in the role of defensive assistant. He has previous experience with the Broncos, assisting the coaching staff during the 1998 training camp as a Coaching Fellow.

Tumey joins the staff after four seasons as the defensive line coach at his alma mater, UCLA, where he also handled the PAT and field-goal block units. Tumey molded the Bruins' defensive line into a formidable unit that ranked among the best in the nation at stopping the run.

Prior to joining the UCLA coaching staff on a full-time basis in 1995, Tumey served as a graduate assistant for the Bruins in 1992.

A three-time All-Pac-10 first-team choice as a nose guard at UCLA (1985-87), Tumey still ranks second on the Bruins' all-time list with 39 tackles for loss and third on the quarterback sack list with 25.

He is one of just six UCLA players in the last 32 years to earn first-team all-conference honors three times, and was a driving force behind a club that compiled a 27-7-2 record over his final three years. Overall, Tumey played on four winning bowl teams at UCLA, during which time the team went 36-10-2 and was ranked in the final top 10 nationally three times.

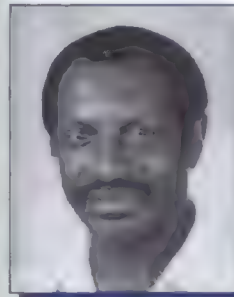

Tumey earned his bachelor's degree in political science from UCLA in 1988, and a master's in business administration in 1993. He was a teammate of Broncos defensive tackle Mike Lodish.

A native of Tulsa, Okla., Tumey starred at Booker T. Washington High School where he earned all-state honors in football and track and field (shot put), and lettered in wrestling. He was also a member of the National Honor Society.

Terry and his wife, Candace, have a two-year-old daughter, Cameron, and the family makes its home in Parker, Colo.

BOBBY TURNER • RUNNING BACKS

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Bobby Turner is in his fifth season as the Broncos' running backs coach, a position he took over in 1995 and has since raised to a level unmatched in franchise history. The productivity of Denver's running game and the play of Turner's star pupil Terrell Davis has been at the core of the Broncos' drive to back-to-back World Championships.

Since Turner's hire, the Broncos have produced more rushing yards (9,002) and total yards (23,795) than any team in the NFL, largely due to the emergence of Davis as the premier running back in the league, and perhaps the game's most outstanding player overall.

Denver set six franchise records on offense in 1998, including rushing yards (2,468), rushing touchdowns (32) and fewest fumbles lost in a season. The Broncos have ranked in the league's top 5 in rushing every season under Turner, including a No. 1 ranking in 1996 and a No. 2 standing in '98.

Turner has achieved great success in his first four years in Denver grooming Davis, who has rushed for over 1,000-yards in all four of his NFL seasons — including a club-record 2,008 in 1998 that ranked as the third-best season in league history and propelled Davis to NFL Most Valuable Player honors. In so doing, Davis became just the second Bronco ever to win the league rushing title (Otis Armstrong, 1974), and also became the Broncos' all-time leading rusher with 6,413 yards in just four seasons. He capped his brilliant year with 102 yards in Super Bowl XXXIII as Denver captured its second straight World Championship.

Fullback Howard Griffith has also been outstanding, giving Turner arguably the finest backfield duo in the entire league. In addition to his stellar blocking for Davis, Griffith scored three touchdowns in the 1998 postseason, including two rushing scores in the Super Bowl win over Atlanta, and a receiving touchdown in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets. The latter ignited a 20-point Denver scoring barrage in the third quarter to erase a 10-0 deficit.

Davis closed the 1997 campaign as Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXII, as the proficiency of the running game was instrumental in Denver securing the first World Championship in the 38-year history of the franchise. The Broncos' 2,378 rushing yards for the season were, at the time, the second-most by a Broncos team, trailing only the 1978 total of 2,451.

The Broncos rushed for 179 yards in the Super Bowl win, including 100 in the second half when Denver began to take control of the game. The team averaged an astonishing 187 yards per game on the ground during the playoffs, and Davis came up just 20 yards shy of setting an all-time NFL record for rushing yards in single postseason (581).

Among the club records set by the Broncos in 1997 was a new standard for average yards per rush (4.6), topping the previous record of 4.5 set in Turner's first year, 1995, and matched a year later. The Broncos boasted an individual 100-yard rushing performer in 15 of the 20 regular and postseason games in 1997, including two (Davis and Derek Loville) in the Broncos' Wild Card win over Jacksonville, just the third time in NFL postseason history that feat has been accomplished. In that contest Denver rushed for 310 yards, the fifth-highest postseason figure in NFL history.

The Broncos led the league in rushing in 1996 for the first time in franchise history, and Davis set five club rushing records under Turner's guidance, blossoming into one of the league's finest running backs. The '96 Broncos' league-leading total of 2,362 rushing yards was the second-highest single-season mark in franchise history at that time.

Turner wasted no time in 1995 making his mark in Denver, leading the running game to its highest yardage total since 1991 with 1,995 yards on the ground. Davis, then a rookie, topped the 1,000-yard plateau (1,117) and went on to finish second in the Associated Press Rookie of the Year balloting. Overall, the Denver offense posted the most prolific numbers in franchise history in 1995, thanks in part to a balanced rushing and passing game.

Prior to his arrival in Denver, Turner was assistant head coach, offensive coordinator and running backs coach at Purdue. During his tenure the Boilermakers' running game and entire offense improved each season, going from 106th in the nation in 1990 to 12th in '94, a season in which it set numerous school records and ranked nationally in many categories, including rushing touchdowns (36) and average per carry (5.01). The offense produced 336 points, the highest Purdue total since 1969. Turner's backfield also produced the school's first 1,000-yard rusher in 18 years in All-Big 10 second-teamer, and current Tampa Bay Buccaneer, Mike Alstott (1,188 yards and 14 TDs).

Seven different Boilermakers rushed for more than 100 yards in a game in 1992, and in 1991 Turner coached the Big Ten Freshman of the Year in running back Corey Rodgers, as well as former Cincinnati Bengal Jeff Hill.

Turner served in the same capacity at Ohio State from 1989-90, during which time the Buckeyes went to two bowl games and had one of the best running games in the Big Ten. His 1990 backfield of former Bronco Butler By'not'e, Minnesota's Robert Smith, former Bengals Scottie Graham and Jeff Cothran, and former Bear Raymont Harris was rated No. 1 in the nation by The Sporting News, producing a 1,000-yard rusher in Smith. He finished the season with 1,126 yards and eight touchdowns, and was named Big Ten and National Freshman of the Year.

In 1989 the Buckeyes ranked No. 1 in Big Ten rushing at 241 yards per game, as well as No. 1 in total offense and scoring, coming within 16 yards of having two 1,000 yard rushers (Carlos Snow, 1,031 yards, Graham, 984). On the day of his first game at OSU, Turner's daughter Kiaana was born at the university hospital just 500 yards away from Ohio Stadium.

Prior to his stint at Ohio State Turner coached the running backs at Fresno State (1983-88) and at his alma mater, Indiana State (1975-82). At Fresno he coached future pros Lavale Thomas (Packers), Anthony Mosely (Bears, Raiders) and Aaron Craver (Dolphins, Broncos, Chargers, Saints). He accepted a position as running backs coach at ISU in 1975 and spent three of his eight seasons there (1976, '77, '82) as the defensive backs coach in addition to five years as special teams coordinator (1978-82). At ISU, Turner recruited and coached two All-Americans: Wayne Davis (Chargers, Redskins) and Vencie Glenn (Chargers, Vikings, Giants).

Turner also had an opportunity to be an assistant coach on ISU's 1979 Larry Bird-led Final Four basketball team but turned down the offer to concentrate on coaching football. He began his coaching career at Haworth High School in Kokomo, Ind., as an assistant with the football and basketball teams.

A native of East Chicago, Ind. (5/6/49), Turner enjoyed a fine career as an all-conference defensive back at Indiana State, where he played both football and basketball. He set the school record as a sophomore with nine of his 16 career interceptions, including two returned for touchdowns. He earned his bachelor's degree in health and physical education in 1972 and his master's from ISU in education/administration in 1976.

Turner, 50, attended East Chicago Washington High School where he was one of only two athletes in the school's history to play four sports (football, basketball, baseball, and track). He was inducted in 1993 into the Indiana High School Basketball Hall of Fame, and was honored again this past spring with induction into the East Chicago, Ind., Sports Hall of Fame.

Bobby and his wife, Kimberly, have three daughters, Nacole, Krishana and Kiaana, and make their home in Aurora, Colo.

RICH TUTEN • STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

NFL Season: 5th (all with Broncos)

Rich Tuten is in his fifth season as the Broncos' strength and conditioning coach. He coordinates the organization's year-round strength and conditioning program with assistance from Greg Saporta and Barney Chavous.

Under Tuten's guidance during the Mike Shanahan regime, the Broncos' offseason strength and conditioning program has become a model among NFL franchises. It has been overwhelmingly successful, not only in terms of attendance by Broncos players, but in their performance on the field, as Denver has captured back-to-back World Championships.

Tuten came to the Broncos in 1995 from the University of Florida, where he was the Director of Strength and Conditioning from 1980-88, and also from 1993-94. He was the Athletic Strength Director at the University of North Carolina from 1989-92.

While at both schools, Tuten supervised the strength and conditioning programs for every sport. With UF he also served as the head strength and conditioning coach for the nationally ranked Gator football team, and played a key role in the design of Florida's current strength and conditioning complex.

At North Carolina Tuten helped the Tar Heels make major advancements in their strength and conditioning program, helping them to be able to compete with the top collegiate programs in the country. Besides his work at collegiate institutions, Tuten is also a member of the National Strength and Conditioning Association.

Tuten has worked with many athletes who have gone on to enjoy success in the NFL, including Emmitt Smith (Cowboys), Neal Anderson (former Bear), Ricky Nattiel (former Bronco), John L. Williams (former Seahawk and Steeler), Errict Rhett (Buccaneers, Ravens) and Godfrey Myles (former Cowboy) at Florida, as well as former Bronco Rondell Jones (Ravens) at North Carolina.

Tuten, 45, has also coached with three current members of the Broncos coaching staff. He coached with Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and wide receivers coach Mike Heimerdinger at Florida from 1980-83, and with his assistant Greg Saporta at both Florida and North Carolina over the last 19 years.

A 1979 Clemson University graduate, Tuten was a three-year letterman and starting nose guard for the Tigers. He was named to the All-America Strength team in 1978 and was part of the 1978 Atlantic Coast Conference champion Tiger squad. Tuten registered nine tackles and three sacks against Maryland that season to help clinch the conference title. He was named ACC Defensive Player of the Week for his efforts. He received his degree in therapeutic recreation from Clemson in 1978.

Tuten, born Dec. 30, 1953, attended Wakefield High School in Arlington, Va., where he participated in football, wrestling and track. He is a native of Columbia, S.C.

PLAYER PERSONNEL

JACK ELWAY

DIRECTOR OF PRO SCOUTING

Jack Elway is in his seventh year with the Broncos' scouting department and his fifth as Director of Pro Scouting. Elway began his association with the Broncos organization in 1993 as a pro scout, a position he held for two seasons before being promoted to his current post in the 1995 offseason.

Prior to coming to the Broncos, Elway was head coach of the Frankfurt Galaxy in the World League (1991-1992) and scouted for the New York Jets (1990). He has also enjoyed an outstanding career as a college head coach at Cal State Northridge (1976-78), San Jose State (1979-83) and Stanford (1984-88).

Elway was recognized for his outstanding tenure at San Jose State by being inducted into the school's Ring of Honor in 1998, joining, among others, Dick Vermeil, Bill Walsh and Steve DeBerg. He was also inducted into the Cal State Northridge Athletic Hall of Fame in 1997.

Elway also was head coach at Port Angeles (Wash.) High School and Grays Harbor (Wash.) Community College (1961-66), and served in assistant roles at Montana (1967-71) and Washington State (1972-75). He posted a .650 winning percentage as a head coach and assistant coach on the high school, community college, Division I and Division II levels during his 34 seasons before moving into the pros. Always noted for creative, multi-dimensional offenses, Elway also has been chosen as head coach in the Blue-Gray Game and East-West Shrine Game.

Elway, 67, a native of Hoquiam, Wash., played quarterback at Washington State, where he earned both bachelor's and master's degrees.

Jack and his wife Jan have three children, Lee Ann, John Jr., and Jana. John Jr. was the No. 1 pick in the 1983 NFL draft and led the Broncos to five Super Bowl appearances — including back-to-back World Championship in 1997 and '98 — before retiring in May 1999.

TED SUNDQUIST

DIRECTOR OF COLLEGE SCOUTING

Ted Sundquist is in his eighth season with the Broncos organization and his fourth in the capacity of Director of College Scouting. He spent the 1995 season apprenticing under former college scouting director Jerry Frei before being promoted to his current post following the 1996 draft. Sundquist was a college scout in 1993-94.

His current duties include overseeing the Broncos' entire college scouting process, in particular, managing the scouting department's budget, division of territory and travel itinerary. Sundquist also evaluates the top collegiate players to supplement reports gathered by the club's area scouts, and assists General Manager Neal Dahlen with the negotiation of contracts for drafted players.

As testament to his prominence within the league's scouting profession, Sundquist was selected in 1997 to sit on the five-member Executive Committee of National Football Scouting, Inc., and is a member of the selection committee for the annual National Invitational Camp.

Sundquist spent his first three years with the Broncos in the Player Personnel department as a player personnel assistant, working closely with Jack Elway in opponent scouting, veteran player evaluation, development of computer scouting analysis systems and scouting the Western region.

Sundquist, 37, played collegiately at the Air Force Academy before graduating into the coaching ranks. He joined the Air Force coaching staff for the 1984 season, and returned for the 1988-91 seasons. Between those two stints, Sundquist served as an Air Force Intelligence Officer in Berlin, Germany from 1986-88.

Along with his coaching duties Sundquist was also the head coach for the USAFA Preparatory School (1990-91) and took an active part in scouting for the Falcons.

Sundquist has also had considerable athletic experience outside of football, having been a member of the U.S. National Bobsled Team from 1984-88, and competing in the Olympic Trials in that sport in '88.

A Houston, Texas, native, Sundquist earned his master's degree in public administration from the University of Colorado in 1992.

Ted was born May 1, 1962 in Houston, where he attended Spring Woods High School. He and his wife, Amy, make their home in Aurora, Colo.

JERRY FREI

COLLEGE SCOUTING CONSULTANT

Jerry Frei, in his 23rd year with the Denver Broncos — and his 48th as either a coach or scout in professional or college football — began a new role in 1996 as a college scouting consultant.

After spending the 1994 and '95 seasons as Director of College Scouting, Frei scaled back his duties as Ted Sundquist assumed the director's role. Frei is still involved in the Broncos' college scouting process, but, at his request, has assumed a lighter workload since Sundquist's appointment.

Frei's history with the Broncos includes time as both a scout and assistant coach. He coached for the Broncos from 1972-75, and again from 1981-82, before moving into the scouting department the following season. Frei has been an area scout and has performed a variety of administrative roles within the scouting department for the Broncos organization.

Frei's initial tenure as the Broncos' offensive line coach from 1972-75 was his first in professional football, and was followed by a two-year stint in the same capacity with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (1976-77) and a three-year stint with the Chicago Bears (1978-80), prior to his return to the Mile High City in 1981.

His professional coaching career was preceded by a long and successful assistant and head coaching career in the collegiate ranks at the University of Oregon. Frei joined the Ducks' coaching staff as an assistant in 1955 and served in that role through the 1966 season before succeeding Len Casanova as head coach in 1967. Oregon compiled a 22-29-2 record during his five years as head coach, including a 1970 record of 6-4-1 that was good enough for second place in the Pacific-8 Conference. His 1970 and '71 teams featured two future NFL stars: Dan Fouts at quarterback and Bobby Moore (now Ahmad Rashad) at running back.

Frei, 74, is a University of Wisconsin graduate, and was an offensive lineman on the standout Badger teams of 1942, '46 and '47. His collegiate career was interrupted by service in the U.S. Military in World War II, during which he flew 67 Pacific missions in a P-38 for the U.S. Army Air Corps.

His first collegiate coaching experience came from 1952-54 at Willamette University in Salem, Ore.

DAVE BLANDODIRECTOR OF SALARY CAP AND FOOTBALL FINANCE ADMINISTRATION

Dave Blando is in his third year with the Broncos organization as Director of Salary Cap and Football Finance Administration. He was hired in that newly-created role March 10, 1997.

Blando is responsible for managing the Broncos' salary cap and developing contract proposals and parameters for review with General Manager Neal Dahlen. He assists Dahlen in negotiations and has continued to increase the number of contracts the he individually negotiates. In addition, he uses his relational database skills to follow the existing market and make future salary cap projections. Blando also serves as liaison to the NFL Management Council and Player Personnel on rules, procedures and various submittals, and works with Head Coach Mike Shanahan on various administrative tasks.

Blando came to the Broncos from the Miami Dolphins, where he held the position of Salary Cap and Information Management consultant. He worked with the Dolphins for five months, implementing various methods for analyzing the salary cap and player information. Blando also assisted in the management of the salary cap and future projections.

Prior to his stint with the Dolphins, Blando spent three years with the National Football League's main office in New York City as Manager of Player Information and Research for the NFL Management Council. He played an integral role in such areas as Daily Salary Cap Reconciliation, Rookie Pool, Free Agent Analysis and Market Valuation. He is responsible for the introduction of widespread use of relational databases for salary cap analysis.

Before working for the NFL, Blando worked for the Boeing Company in Seattle, Wash., as a financial analyst. His main areas of specialization there included the responsibility for estimating revenue and expenditures.

Blando, 37, received his degree in business administration in 1984 from Northern State University in his hometown of Aberdeen, S.D. He is single and makes his home in Denver.

BOB BEERS
COLLEGE SCOUT

Bob Beers is in his fifth season with the Broncos' scouting staff, joining the organization in June 1995 after a very successful season on the coaching staff of the World League's Amsterdam Admirals. He is responsible for scouting the Western United States.

With Beers as offensive coordinator in 1995, the Admirals compiled a 9-1 regular season record and advanced to the World Bowl. Amsterdam's regular season record equaled that of the 1991 London Monarchs, tying the club for the best record in WLAF history.

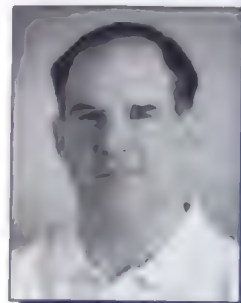

Prior to his stint with the Admirals, Beers served two seasons as head coach at Western Montana where he guided the program to Frontier Conference titles and earned Coach of the Year honors both seasons. His 1994 team claimed the conference title and garnered the school's first ever berth in the NAIA national playoffs, advancing to the Final Four and finishing with an 8-3 record. The Bulldogs finished second in the nation in passing (3,535 yards) and total offense (5,000), and 10 Bulldogs earned All-America honors, including two first-teamers.

In 1993, the Western offense set 23 school records, led the nation in passing (3,069 yards) and finished second in total offense (4,206).

Beers began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at the University of Montana before moving on to Montana Tech where he served as defensive coordinator from 1972-74. He then spent 10 years in the prep ranks of Montana and Oregon before returning to Montana as offensive line coach under Don Read. He entered the professional ranks in 1990 as offensive coordinator for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League before returning to the collegiate ranks to begin his two-year stint as head coach at Western Montana.

A 1965 graduate of Sunset High School in Beaverton, Ore., Beers earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Montana where he was an All-America linebacker as a junior and senior. Bob and his wife Janelle have three children: son Bobby (26), who was an All-America wide receiver for Western Montana, and is now an assistant football coach at Montana State, daughter Carrie (25), a Western graduate who now teaches high school English; and daughter Joey (8). The family resides in Redmond, Ore.

SCOTT DiSTEFANO
COLLEGE SCOUT

Scott DiStefano is in his 17th year with the Broncos' personnel department, continuing to scout the Midwestern region.

He began his career with the Broncos scouting the Rocky Mountain and Southwest regions, before shifting his focus to the Midwest in 1990.

DiStefano, 42, was a quarterback at Colorado State from 1976-80. Following his playing career he joined the coaching staff at CSU as a graduate assistant, a role in which he served for two seasons (1980-81) before coming to the Broncos.

A native of Alliance, Ohio, DiStefano was an all-conference quarterback in 1975 at Alliance High School, the same school that produced Pro Football Hall of Fame quarterback Len Dawson. Among the honors bestowed upon him was the 1974 Massillon (Ohio) JayCee's conference sportsmanship award, a prestigious honor from such a football-rich region of Ohio.

Scott makes his home in Chicago.

JIM GOODMAN
COLLEGE SCOUT

Jim Goodman is in his second year with the Broncos, scouting the South region.

He was hired in May 1998 after four successful seasons on the coaching staff at Rice University, where his duties also included coordinating the program's recruiting efforts. Goodman coached the receivers in 1997 after three seasons in charge of the tight ends and special teams, during an era in which the Owls were Southwest Conference co-champions in 1994 and produced three of the best special teams seasons.

Goodman was Associate Athletic Director in charge of football recruiting at Clemson from 1991-93, earning consideration among the nation's top-10 recruiting coordinators by the Chicago Sun-Times, was assistant AD in charge of recruiting and high school relations at Florida from 1989-90 and recruiting coordinator at Arkansas from 1986-88, where he also coached the receivers in '86.

Goodman began his coaching career at Vanguard High School in Ocala, Fla. (1974-75), then moved into the collegiate ranks with positions at North Alabama (1976-78), Marion (Ala.) Institute (1979-80) — where his teams ranked in the top 15 in the national junior college polls both seasons, and he also coached the baseball team — and the U.S. Air Force Academy (1981), where he coached the linebackers under Ken Hatfield. His first head coaching position came at Valdosta (Ga.) State from 1982-84, where he also served as associate AD, before accepting the full-time athletic director's position in 1985. As coach he started a program from scratch and fashioned a 15-16-1 record over three years with a squad that included Atlanta Falcons All-Pro linebacker Jesse Tuggle.

Goodman, 47, holds an associates degree from Chipola Junior College (1972), a bachelor of science in physical education from Florida (1974) and a master's in education administration from University of North Alabama (1977). A native of Blountstown, Fla., where he attended Blountstown High School, Jim and his wife, Jennie, have three children, Jeff (21), Nancy (18) and Tyler (14). The family resides in Bonifay, Fla.

CORNELL GREEN COLLEGE SCOUT

Cornell Green is in his 20th year scouting in the NFL and his 13th year doing so for the Broncos' organization.

Green is responsible for scouting the Southwest region, after having scouted the South, East and Midwest regions earlier in his career with the Broncos.

Prior to his involvement with the Broncos organization, Cornell scouted for the Dallas Cowboys during and after his illustrious playing career. Green began scouting for the Cowboys in 1970 while still an active player, and continued scouting through 1979, at which time he entered private business until coming to the Broncos in 1987.

Green, 59, was signed by the Cowboys as a free agent and went on to play for Dallas from 1962-75, at cornerback for 10 years before moving over to safety for his last four seasons.

Green earned Pro Bowl honors seven times, winning that honor at both cornerback and safety.

He did not play college football but was a two-time All-America basketball player (1959-60 and 1961-62) at Utah State, where he averaged 23 points per game at forward for the Aggies from 1959-62.

A native of Boley, Okla., Cornell and his wife, Betty, have two children, Randy and Ronney, and make their home in Dallas.

GREG MILLER COLLEGE SCOUT

Greg Miller is in his second year with the Broncos, serving as a scout at-large for National Football Scouting, of which Denver is a member.

Miller spent the previous four years as a regional scout for NFS, scouting prospective NFL talent from colleges and universities in nine upper-Midwest states. His duties included performing the first line of evaluation, rating and computer-generated reporting on hundreds of college players for 14 NFL clubs, as well as assisting in the planning and execution of the National Invitational Camp, or combine.

A 44-year old native of Mitchell, S.D., Miller was an all-state defensive tackle, team MVP and team captain at Mitchell Senior High School, where he also participated in baseball, basketball and track. He earned a football scholarship to Iowa State in 1973 and transferred to South Dakota State in 1974, where he was a three-year starter at offensive tackle and team captain, as well as a two-time honorable mention All-North Central Conference selection.

Prior to his stint with NFS, Miller worked 16 years for International Multifoods, ascending from District Sales Coordinator to Director of Operations for the entire West region by 1994.

Greg, his wife, Jane, and their children, Adrienne (18), Mike (16) and Nolan (13) make their home in Grand Island, Neb.

DAN RAMBO COLLEGE SCOUT

Dan Rambo is in the second year of his second stint with the Broncos, rejoining the club in May 1998 to scout the Northeast region. He scouted the same region for the Broncos in 1993.

Rambo came to the Broncos from the Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Canadian Football League where he served as Director of Player Personnel in 1997 after a three-year tenure as Director of Football Operations. He was also with the Roughriders from 1983-90, holding various positions, including director of scouting, Director of Player Personnel and Assistant General Manager.

Rambo accepted a position in Dallas, Texas, with the World League of American Football in 1990. During the offseason he was the Director of College Scouting, and during the season was Director of European Football operations, working out of Barcelona, Spain.

Rambo, 47, returned to the CFL in 1992 as General Manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders, as the team posted nine wins to craft its best record in 10 years. During his first stint with Saskatchewan, he recruited most of the players that helped lead the Roughriders to the Grey Cup Championship in 1989. In his one season as a scout with Denver, the Broncos made a Wild Card playoff appearance.

Rambo is a graduate of Carroll College in Helena, Mont., where his mother, Viola, and sisters, Kathleen and Patty, still reside. He led the nation in rushing in 1974 with an average of 152.1 yards per game, and had eight tryouts in the CFL, WFL and the NFL, including one with the Broncos in 1977.

Dan and his wife, Kathy, have two children, daughter Teeghan and son Arthur. The family makes its home in Blackburn Hamlet, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.

DALE STRAHM COLLEGE SCOUT

Dale Strahm is in his second season on the Denver Broncos' scouting staff, responsible for scouting the Southeast region.

A veteran of 29 collegiate football seasons in the coaching ranks, Strahm came to the Broncos from Temple University where he spent four years (1994-97) as defensive coordinator and linebackers coach. In Strahm's first season with the Owls, their defense went from last to first in the Big East Conference in turnover/takeaway margin, tying for 20th nationally with a plus .82 margin per game. They also made great strides in total defense after beginning his career ranked last in the conference. A motivational speaker for a variety of corporations, Strahm also taught leadership classes at Temple.

Strahm was head coach at Western Carolina from 1989-90, and has experience as a defensive coordinator at Duke (1990-93), Georgia (1981-88), Navy (1977-80) and Bowling Green (1971-76). He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Bowling Green in 1968. He has also spent six years coaching at the high school level. During Strahm's tenure at Georgia, the Bulldogs won SEC Championships in 1981 and 1982 and participated in eight straight bowl games. In all, he has coached in 11 major bowl games.

Strahm, 55, is a 1965 graduate of Ohio Northern University, where he played four years of football and ran four years of track, earning six varsity letters in the process. He earned his master's degree at Bowling Green in 1968.

A native of Toledo, Ohio, Strahm is a graduate of E.D. Libbey High School, where he was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 1997. He and his wife, Diane, have three sons, Brian, Bradley and Brett. The Strahm family resides in Charlotte, N.C.

Broncos Super Bowl XXXIII Victory Parade and Rally at Denver's Civic Center Park, February 1, 1999

VICE PRESIDENT OF BUSINESS OPERATIONS

JOE ELLIS

Joe Ellis is in his second season as Vice President of Business Operations for the Denver Broncos, having rejoined the club from the National Football League office, where he had been Vice President of Club Administration and Stadium Management.

Ellis had his first stint with the Broncos as Director of Marketing from 1983-85.

He left the Broncos following the 1985 season to obtain his master's degree from the J. L. Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University. He graduated from Northwestern in 1988 and joined the NFL in 1990.

Ellis' major project is representing the Broncos in the creation of Denver's new football stadium. Ellis has an extremely active role in all aspects of the new stadium, and in this capacity works very closely with important members of the political, business, and civic communities that comprise the cultural fabric of Denver.

He is responsible for business and financial management, marketing and sales functions, media relations, ticket operations, and facilities and administrative operations for the National Football League team.

Ellis came to his new position with comprehensive expertise in the areas of stadium operations, fiscal planning, personnel management, marketing, media and community relations.

Denver Broncos President Pat Bowlen has said, "We are very pleased to have Joe back. I have tracked his career since he left the Broncos for graduate school, and of course we have worked closely with him in his time at the NFL. He is highly regarded throughout the league, and we are very pleased that he is back with us. Joe has brought considerable expertise to the organization, particularly in the area of stadium development."

While with the NFL, Ellis was involved in several aspects of league operations, with a strong focus on new stadium development. Most recently, Ellis was especially involved in the league's oversight of the Cleveland Browns' reentry into the NFL this year. Specifically, Ellis played a critical role in the process of designing, constructing and marketing the new 70,000-seat football stadium in Cleveland.

Ellis represents the Broncos on numerous boards and civic organizations in the metropolitan area, and is a 1980 graduate of Colorado College.

JOHN BEAKE

John Beake moves into his new position as Vice President of Administration for the Denver Broncos in 1999, after having spent 14 years as the team's general manager. John's tenure as general manager was the longest in franchise history, and his new position is a reflection of current duties in the ever-broadening administrative world that reflects both the National Football League and NFL Europe.

John works closely with team owner Pat Bowlen on a wide range of National Football League administrative matters, and sits on the board of directors of NFL Europe, the most successful venture ever operated by an American sports league outside the United States.

Nineteen ninety-nine is John Beake's 31st year in professional football, his 22nd with the Broncos, and his 40th overall season working in the sport. His career as an administrator and coach is highlighted by great degrees of both versatility and success, with his clubs having posted 344 wins on the professional, collegiate and high school level, a total unmatched by any other current NFL administrator. He has had a key role with teams or schools that have reached postseason play in 19 of those campaigns.

The only upper-level administrator in the National Football League to be on a World Championship club in both coaching and the front office — John was on the Kansas City coaching staff for their victory in Super Bowl IV — his 14 years as the Broncos general manager included five Super Bowl appearances, six division titles, eight playoff appearances and a continuing string of sellouts at Mile High Stadium.

In addition to being on three Super Bowl championship teams, John Beake has the unique distinction of being the only individual in NFL history to be a member of world championship clubs 28 years apart (winning at Super Bowl IV with the Chiefs, and Super Bowls XXXII and XXXIII with the Broncos).

The Denver Broncos have earned international recognition as a model sports franchise that has developed a pattern of the highest success on and off the field, and John has played an integral role in the creation and continuance of this tradition.

John Beake's prominence in the Broncos' hierarchy is paralleled by continuing respect within the NFL. Active in the NFL's international development, his involvement is one of the keys to the Broncos being among just two teams (along with San Francisco) to have been selected for American Bowl games in London, Tokyo (twice), Berlin, Barcelona and Mexico City. The Broncos' game this year in Sydney, Australia, is Denver's seventh American Bowl game, with the 49ers being the only other team to have played that many. In addition, he played an integral role in Denver being the only American Football Conference club to win three conference crowns and thus make three Super Bowl appearances (XXI, XXII, and XXIV) in the 1980s.

In 1991 John was named to the Board of Directors of the World League of American Football, now NFL Europe. Now in his ninth year working with the board, he spends a considerable portion of time lending administrative guidance to the NFL Europe offices in New York. John was instrumental in determining the methodology by which NFL players are provided to the European league, beginning with the 1992 campaign.

In the 1993-94 seasons the World League was put on hold and John Beake played a major role in helping to restructure the league to the format in which it exists today: six teams playing American Football in Europe. The commitment to take our game of football globally was maintained, and the resulting format provides solid structure, organization and the chance to give the NFL a grass-roots presence in Europe.

The NFL has had ever-increasing support of its European league, as 30 NFL players participated in the WL in 1995, with that number increasing to 69 for the 1996 campaign and almost doubling to 110 — representing all 30 teams — for the 1997 season. For the 1998 campaign NFL clubs allocated 97 players, all of whom came from either the 53-man rosters or the practice squads. In 1999, 153 NFL players were allocated, representing 29 of the 31 clubs, a contribution which has led to this group being called the best assembly of players ever in NFL Europe. By steadily increasing the number of NFL players as reflected by the above totals, the skill level of the European league has jumped dramatically and the commitment of all 31 NFL teams is strongly demonstrated — NFL Europe is the only sports league outside America with the financial support of a United States league — a tribute to the vision and dedication which John Beake has contributed.

Along with his continuing commitment to NFL Europe, John serves as chairman of the NFL International Working Group, which is primarily comprised of other NFL general managers and player personnel directors. He is also a member of the NFL College Relations Committee.

A member of six Super Bowl teams during his pro football career, he represents the Broncos and the Mile High City in the most successful and positive manner. John embodies the philosophy that one should combine performance with community involvement. He personally directs the Broncos' contractual relationships with local radio and television entities, and is in charge of all Bronco-related operations at Mile High Stadium.

John has perhaps the broadest range of experience of any NFL administrator, the only one in the league who has coached championship teams on the pro, college and high school levels, as well as having served in a wide variety of administrative roles.

He has been a vital cog in a Denver club that has dominated the American Football Conference Western Division, winning more division titles (seven) than any other AFC West team.

One of his most visible Bronco accomplishments has been to provide a key leadership role in the construction of and move into the team's training facility, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 60,000-square foot state-of-the-art complex in Arapahoe County. This project, several years in the planning stages, was the fulfillment of one of John's key goals as the Broncos' general manager.

A prime area of interest for John is working closely with city and state representatives on a variety of community concerns. For the past 10 years, John has served as the chairman of the Red Ribbon Campaign, a strong educational anti-drug, chemical and substance abuse association that works in conjunction with the Colorado Federation of Parents.

An avid skier, he is on the Board of Directors of the National Sports Center for the Disabled at Winter Park, Colo., Ski Resort. The NSCD is heavily supported by the Denver Broncos Charities Fund. John is an annual participant in the Winter Park Pro-Am race to benefit the disabled skiers program. He is also involved with the Cancer League of Colorado, the Western Fantasy (Volunteers of America), is a member of the St. Joseph's Foundation Board, and also sits on the board of 9 Who Cares.

As part of the continuing plan to broaden the team's community role and strengthen a family spirit within the club, John is very supportive of the Performing Arts Center.

John served as assistant General Manager in 1984 and was the Broncos' Director of Football Operations the previous year, so his position is the culmination of a steady rise within the organization.

He joined the Broncos in 1979 as the Director of Pro Personnel and became Director of Player Personnel in 1981, having concentrated on the coaching aspects of the game prior to coming to Denver.

As assistant coach for the Kansas City Chiefs from 1968 through 1974, John was the offensive backfield coach for the Chiefs when they defeated the Minnesota Vikings to win Super Bowl IV in New Orleans. He also coached the running backs at New Orleans in 1976-77. On the college level, he coached at Penn State in 1961-62 and was the offensive coordinator at Colorado State University in 1975.

Upon receiving his master's degree from Penn State in 1962, John coached for six years at the high school level, where his teams lost just four games and won two championships at Nyack High School. He has a bachelor's degree from The College of New Jersey, in addition to his graduate degree from Penn State. On May 14 of this year, he was the commencement speaker at the College of New Jersey.

John was inducted into the College of New Jersey Hall of Fame in 1981, and in 1998 was inducted into the Long Branch High School Hall of Fame, in Long Branch, N.J.

John and his wife, Marcia, have three children, Jerilyn, Chip, and Chris.

DENVER'S WINNING TRADITION

Denver Broncos football enters its 40th season in 1999, fresh off the two most successful seasons in franchise history, in which the team won back-to-back Super Bowls with wins over Green Bay and Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXII and Super Bowl XXXIII, respectively. The 1999 Broncos will defend those titles by playing before sellout crowds at Mile High Stadium for the 30th consecutive campaign. The team has sold out 219 consecutive regular season non-strike games, and 232 straight including playoff games. Broncos fans have watched their team amass one of the NFL's finest records since the club's first winning season in 1973, enduring just four losing seasons — second-fewest in the NFL — as shown in the list below.

This season also marks Pat Bowlen's 16th as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Broncos. During that time, Denver has enjoyed a virtually unmatched level of success in the context of the entire NFL and within the American Football Conference Western Division.

More than 650,000 people descended on downtown Denver January 27, 1998 to salute the World Champion Broncos two days after their defeat of Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXIII in San Diego. A parade through the streets of the city culminated in a rally at Civic Center Park, where Colorado Governor Roy Romer and Denver Mayor Wellington Webb officially welcomed the Super Bowl champions home. A similar gathering was held a year later, February 1, 1999, when the Broncos returned home from Miami after defeating Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII. Governor-elect Bill Owens and Mayor Webb joined the festivities to salute the back-to-back World Champs.

DENVER LEADS THE AFC IN SUPER BOWL APPEARANCES — The Broncos made their sixth Super Bowl appearance against Atlanta last January, the most by any current American Football Conference franchise, and second-most in the NFL, behind Dallas (8). By winning the last two Super Bowls the Denver Broncos became one of just six franchises to "repeat," marking the seventh time the feat has been accomplished.

COMING BACK STRONGER — Since the Super Bowl was first played after the 1966 season, only three teams have won the game and gone on to post a better record the following season, including the 1997-98 Broncos teams. All three teams not only improved their record, but repeated as Super Bowl champions.

THE BRONCOS' STREAKS — The Broncos' undefeated home finish in 1998 was the club's third in a row, making them only the fourth franchise in NFL history to complete three straight regular seasons at home without losing a game, and only the third to win every home game for three straight years. Furthermore, they are the only team to accomplish this feat since the 16-game schedule was implemented in 1978. That adds up to a 24-game win streak at Mile High Stadium for the Broncos, the third-longest home winning streak in NFL history. Denver enters the 1999 season needing to win four straight to eclipse Miami's record of 27 straight (1971-74). Overall, the 1998 Broncos began the season by reeling off 13 straight wins, the second-best start in NFL history, contributing to an NFL-record-tying 18-game winning streak (regular and postseason combined).

WHAT TO LOOK FOR FROM THE BRONCOS IN 1999

- The Broncos seek to become the first team in NFL history to claim three consecutive Super Bowl Championships. They would be the third team in NFL history to win three straight NFL Championships, but the first since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970 to accomplish this feat. The Green Bay Packers won three straight titles from 1929-31 and from 1965-67.
- The Broncos seek their fourth consecutive regular season with 12 or more wins, a feat that has only been accomplished once in the 79-year history of the NFL (Dallas, 1992-95). Denver is currently one of only four teams in league annals to have three straight 12-win regular seasons (Raiders, 1967-69, Cowboys, 1993-95 and 49ers, 1996-98).
- The Broncos seek to compile a fourth consecutive double-digit win total in the regular season for only the second time in franchise history. The other streak was from 1984-87, when they won 13, 11, 11 and 10 games, respectively.
- The Broncos seek to further improve their NFL-best home record of 158-47-1 (147-45-1 in regular season) since 1974. Both the regular season and overall win totals are the most over that period.
- If Denver wins its first four regular season home games in 1999, the Broncos will move into first place on the NFL's all-time list for consecutive regular season home victories, with 28. The NFL record is 27, held by Miami (1971-74). Denver has won 24 straight regular season home games, a team record. Wins in their first two home games will move them past Green Bay (1995-98) into second place.
- The Broncos need five regular season wins to reach the 300-regular season win plateau for the organization. Denver has won 295 regular season games and 16 postseason games in the franchise's 39-year history. Denver would become the 17th team to win 300 games and only the sixth current AFC team to do so. Of the five AFC teams to do so, only Kansas City, Miami and Oakland were original AFL franchises. The other two (Cleveland and Pittsburgh) began play in the NFL before joining the AFC after the AFL-NFL merger in 1970.

TYRONE BRAXTON

- Needs seven interceptions to pass Billy Thompson (40) for third place, 10 to pass Goose Gonsoulin (43) for second place, and 11 to pass Steve Foley (44) for first place on Denver's all-time INT list. Braxton has 36 career interceptions, but only 34 as a Bronco. Two came while he was in Miami in 1994.
- Needs three interception-return yards to pass Steve Foley (622) for third place and 24 to pass Mike Harden (643) for second place on Denver's all-time list. Braxton is currently at 620.

TERRELL DAVIS

- Can become the fourth player in NFL history (Barry Sanders, Eric Dickerson and Tony Dorsett) to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first five NFL seasons.
- Needs 1,291 total yards from scrimmage to pass Floyd Little (8,741) for first place all-time in total yards from scrimmage by a Bronco. He also needs 2,631 yards to pass Rick Upchurch (10,081) for second place all-time in combined yardage (rushing/receiving/returns) by a Bronco.
- Needs 25 yards of total offense to pass Steve Ramsey (6,537) for fifth place, 843 yards to pass Charley Johnson (7,255) for fourth place and 1,239 yards to pass Frank Tripucka (7,851) for third place on Denver's all-time total offense (passing and rushing yards) list.
- Needs 151 rushing attempts to pass Sammy Winder (1,493) for second place and 299 attempts to pass Floyd Little for first place all-time in rushing attempts by a Bronco.
- Needs to be involved in two plays to pass Sammy Winder (1,496) for fourth place, 156 to pass Floyd Little (1,650) for second place and 199 to pass Craig Morton (1,693) for second place all-time in total offensive plays for a Bronco.

JASON ELAM

- Needs to connect on his first 16 point-after attempts in 1999 to move past Eddie Murray (250) for second place all-time for consecutive points after touchdown in NFL history. If he connects on his first 42 point-after attempts, he'll pass Norm Johnson for first place all-time, provided Johnson does not add to his current NFL record streak of 276. Elam's streak is currently at 235, a franchise record.
- Needs 13 points to pass Jim Turner (742) for first place on the Broncos' all-time scoring list. Elam is currently at 730 points.
- Needs 45 point-after attempts to pass Jim Turner (304) for first place on Denver's all-time list. He is currently at 260 attempts.
- Needs 25 point-after conversions to pass Jim Turner (283) for first place on Denver's all-time list. Elam is currently at 259.
- Needs 33 field goal attempts to pass Jim Turner (233) for first place on Denver's all-time list. He is currently at 201.
- Needs to score in his first five games of the 1999 season to reach 100 consecutive games with at least one point. He already holds the franchise record at 96 games.

SHANNON SHARPE

- Needs 13 catches to pass Kellen Winslow (541) for second place all-time in receptions by a tight end.
- Needs 15 receptions to pass Lionel Taylor (543) for first place on Denver's all-time receiving list. Sharpe is currently at 529 receptions.
- Needs 114 receiving yards to pass Lionel Taylor (6,872) for first place all-time in receiving yards by a Bronco. Sharpe is currently at 6,759 yards.
- Needs 241 receiving yards to reach 7,000 for his career, becoming only the third Bronco to accomplish this feat.
- Needs two receiving touchdowns to pass Kellen Winslow (45) for first place all-time in receiving touchdowns by a tight end.
- Needs one receiving touchdown to move into first place all-time in receiving touchdowns by a Bronco. He would break a tie for first with Haven Moses (44) and Lionel Taylor (44).
- Needs one touchdown of any kind to pass Riley Odoms (44) and Lionel Taylor (44) for fifth and sixth place; two to pass Haven Moses (45) for fourth place, five to pass Sammy Winder (48) for third place and 11 to pass Floyd Little (54) for second place on Denver's all-time touchdown list. Sharpe is currently at 44. He would trail only Terrell Davis (61).
- Needs to catch a pass in each of the first seven games in which he plays in 1999 to move into first place all-time on the Broncos' list for consecutive games with at least one reception. He would pass Lionel Taylor (62). Sharpe's streak is currently at 56 games.
- Needs 57 yards to pass Lionel Taylor (6,824) for third place in total yards from scrimmage and fifth place in combined yardage. Sharpe currently sits at 6,768 yards. He would also need 562 combined yards to pass Vance Johnson (7,329) for fourth place.

NEIL SMITH

- Needs two sacks to become the 17th player in NFL history to record 100 regular season sacks for a career. He has 98 in the regular season and 9.5 in the postseason.

ALFRED WILLIAMS

- Needs six multi-sack games to move into fifth place on the Broncos' all-time list for multi-sack games. He would pass (in order from 9th to 5th) Tom Jackson (8), Dave Costa (9), Rich Jackson (10), Karl Mecklenberg (11) and Rulon Jones (11). Williams currently has six multi-sack games as a Bronco.

Chris Banks made the jump to the Broncos' active roster in 1998, and looks to build on that progress in 1999. A former seventh-round draft pick of the club in 1996 (226th overall), Banks spent the 1997 season on the Broncos' practice squad before seeing his first NFL action in 1998. He has appeared in four games, primarily on special teams.

1998: Banks saw action in four games in his first NFL season (vs. New England, 9/7; at Washington, 9/27; vs. Philadelphia, 10/4 and at Seattle, 10/11), primarily on special teams. He saw his first professional action on offense vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he replaced Mark Schlereth in the fourth quarter of a 41-16 win. He was active but did not play vs. Dallas (9/13) and at Oakland (9/20), and was inactive (Fri.) for the final 10 games, as well as all three postseason games. In the preseason Banks played in all four games and started vs. New Orleans (8/14) in place of Schlereth, who had undergone surgery to remove bone chips from his elbow. Banks signed a free agent contract with the Broncos Jan. 30, 1998, after his practice squad contract had expired at the conclusion of the '97 season.

1997: Banks was a member of the Broncos' practice squad for the entire season. He had spent the spring of 1997 with the Barcelona Dragons of the former World League (now NFL Europe), and went through training camp with the Broncos before being waived Aug. 24. He was re-signed to the practice squad Aug. 25. 1996: Banks was released at the end training camp by the Broncos, first being placed on injured reserve with a knee injury, and then being waived outright. He was drafted in the seventh round (226th overall).

COLLEGE: Banks played in 33 games (16 starts) at Kansas, where he earned first-team All-Big Eight and third-team All-America honors as a senior. A National Honor Society member, Banks was a sports management major at Kansas.

PERSONAL: Banks is a graduate of Lexington High School in Lexington, Mo., where he was all-state and all-conference on the offensive and defensive lines. He was born April 4, 1973 in Lexington, Mo. Banks resides in Lone Tree, Colo.

Tony Berti comes to the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from division-rival Seattle, and is expected to battle for the vacant right tackle position. His signing marks a homecoming for Berti, a native of Thornton, Colo., who played his collegiate ball at the University of Colorado. Berti played 3-1/2 seasons with the Chargers, playing in 33 games and starting 30, mostly at tackle.

1998: Berti was placed on injured reserve by San Diego before the start of the 1998 season (Aug. 25) because of a knee injury, and released by the Chargers Nov. 25. He was signed by Seattle as a free agent Nov. 27, 1998, and was inactive for each of the Seahawks' final five games.

1997: Berti started all 16 games at right tackle for the Chargers, one of just five offensive players to do so. He had opened training camp that year at left tackle, but was switched back before the start of the regular season. 1996: Berti started 14 of 16 regular season contests, making his first NFL start on opening day vs. Seattle. He did not start the next two games before taking over the starting duties at right tackle for the rest of the season. 1995: Berti played in only one game for the Chargers, on Dec. 9 vs. Arizona. He was originally chosen by San Diego in the sixth round of the 1995 draft (200th overall).

Perhaps no Broncos player other than John Elway has symbolized the perseverance — nor enjoyed the rewards — that go with Denver's back-to-back Super Bowl wins more than Tyrone Braxton. The 12-year veteran, and former 12th-round draft choice, has played a vital role on the Broncos' two World Championship clubs, by continuing to prove skeptics wrong, displaying an uncanny knack for making the big play. Braxton, who had played in two previous Super Bowls with the Broncos, produced a key interception in the first quarter of Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, and recovered a fumble in the fourth quarter of the 34-19 defeat of Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII. Braxton regained his starting strong safety role in the 11th game of the 1998 season, and finished the year with 57 tackles (43 solo), one interception, six passes defensed, one forced fumble and a special teams tackle. Braxton has one Pro Bowl appearance in his career, coming in 1996, along with first-team All-NFL honors from Football News and second-team All-AFC from UPI. He also received the Mackey Award that year for leading the league in interceptions with a career-high 9, and was named the Broncos' NFL/True Value Man of the Year in 1997 for his charitable contributions in the Rocky Mountain Region. Braxton has appeared in 165 games with 117 starts, totaling 844 tackles (591 solo), 116 pass breakups and 36 interceptions (34 with Denver) for 623 return yards and four touchdowns, including one in 1997 (vs. Carolina, 11/9; 27 yds.). His others have come in 1989 (vs. Kansas City, 9/10; 52 yds.), 1991 (vs. Cincinnati, 9/1; 34 yds.) and 1996 (vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15; 69 yds.). Braxton also has played in 19 postseason games (17 with Denver) with 77 stops (63 solo), 10 pass breakups and three interceptions. His 17 postseason appearances rank second in club history, while his 13 postseason starts tie for third. Braxton ranks fourth on the Broncos' all-time interceptions list, and stands third in interception return yards, while also tying for second in postseason interceptions with three. He also owns the team record for most consecutive games with an interception with his four in games 12-15 of the 1996 season, and posted the longest non-scoring interception return in club history with his 72-yarder in 1998 (vs. Oakland, 11/22), the fourth-longest overall by a Bronco. The big-play maker, and former 12th-round draft pick (334th overall, 1987), has now been responsible for 52 takeaways as a Bronco.

1998: Braxton saw significant action at strong safety in all 16 games, including six starts (at Seattle, 10/11; vs. Oakland, 11/22; at San Diego, 11/29; vs. Kansas City, 12/6; at N.Y. Giants, 12/13 and vs. Seattle, 12/27), and recorded 57 tackles (43 solo) with one forced fumble, six passes defended and one interception, while adding one tackle on special teams (vs. Oak., 11/22). His season high of 8 tackles (6 solo) came at Washington (9/27), along with a pass defended. His start at Seattle came when the Broncos opened in a nickel defense, and his starts in games 11-14 came in place of an injured Eric Brown (groin). He started the season-finales vs. Seattle (12/27), despite a sore shoulder, because the Seahawks opened the game in a three-receiver formation. In the Oakland contest (11/22), Braxton intercepted his only pass of the year to raise his Broncos' career total to 34, moving past Mike Harden (33) for fourth place on the franchise's all-time list. Braxton's return of 72 yards on the play was the longest of his career, the longest non-scoring interception return in franchise history and the fourth-longest overall. Braxton forced a fumble in the 4th qtr. at the Giants (12/13), leading to a recovery by Bill Romanowski to give Denver the ball back with 3:36 remaining and a 16-13 lead. Postseason. Braxton played in all three postseason games and started two at strong safety, making 10 tackles (8 solo) with one pass defended and two fumble recoveries. He was not credited with a start in the AFC Championship Game as the Broncos opened the game in a nickel package with Darrius Johnson replacing Braxton. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) Braxton was the second-leading tackler on the team with seven (6 solo). He added one more solo tackle in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), and recovered a fumble that was forced by Alfred Williams on Curtis Martin in the 1st qtr. Braxton made it two games in a row with a fumble recovery by scooping up a Jamal Anderson fumble in the 4th qtr. of Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). He also posted two tackles (1 solo) and a pass defended in the game.

1997: Braxton started all 16 games at strong safety and ranked third on the team with 90 tackles (74 solo), including a half a sack (0.5), while also adding four interceptions (tied for team lead and eighth in the AFC), nine passes defended, a forced fumble and three fumble recoveries. Off the field in 1997, Braxton was honored in early November for his generous charitable contributions in the Denver area by being named the Denver Broncos NFL/True Value Man of the Year. Braxton's first interception came in the season-opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) when he thwarted a second-half Chiefs scoring opportunity and returned the interception 43 yards. He also had five tackles (four solo) and one pass breakup in the game. His second interception came in the second quarter at Buffalo (10/26) and was returned 23 yards to set up a Broncos field goal in a 23-20 overtime victory. He also had eight tackles (five solo) in the contest. Against Seattle on Nov. 2, he had half a sack and six tackles (five solo) in Denver's 30-27 win over the Seahawks. The sack, which he shared with Trevor Pryce, forced Warren Moon to fumble and set up a Broncos' field goal. Braxton's third interception of the season, vs. Carolina (11/9), was returned 27 yards for a fourth-quarter touchdown, the fourth time that Braxton has taken an interception back for a score in his 11-year career. He also had four tackles and two pass breakups during the game. On Nov. 24 vs. Oakland, he had seven tackles (all solos) and recovered a fumble that was forced by Ray Crockett and returned it eight yards to set up Denver's first touchdown of the evening in a 31-3 victory. He added his fourth pickoff at San Diego (11/30) and returned it 20 yards and also had four solo stops and three pass breakups in Denver's 38-28 win. The interception was the 35th of Braxton's career and his 33rd as a Bronco, moving him into a tie with Mike Harden for fourth place in franchise history. Braxton recovered his third fumble of the season at Pittsburgh (12/7) to set up Denver's first touchdown of the day in a 35-24 defeat. In the postseason, Braxton started all four games at strong safety and recorded 22 tackles (15 solo) with two interceptions and four passes defended. The two interceptions gave Braxton three in his postseason career, which, at the time, tied for first on the Broncos' all-time postseason interception list with Bob Swenson. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98) he came up with numerous big plays, tallying eight tackles (3 solo), three passes defended and his second career postseason interception, helping lead Denver back to the Super Bowl with a 24-21 victory. He picked off a Kordell Stewart bomb on the final play of the first half and returned it six yards. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) he led the team with seven tackles (6 solo) and a pass defended, while also plucking his third career postseason interception, and second of the 1997 playoffs. The interception, which ended the Packers' second possession of the game, set up a Denver touchdown for a 14-7 lead. 1996: Braxton made big-play after big-play to earn his first Pro Bowl berth, as well as first-team Football News All-NFL and second-team UPI All-AFC honors. He finished fourth on the team with 102 tackles (78 solo), knocked down 19 passes, forced one fumble, recovered another and snared a team-leading nine interceptions, tying him with St. Louis' Keith Lyle for most in the NFL. The nine interceptions also exceeded his previous career high for a season (6 in 1989) and tied for the second-highest single-season total in franchise history (Willie Brown, 1964), two behind Goose Gonsoulin's club record of 11 (1960). For his efforts he received the Mackey Award for leading the league in interceptions. Braxton's first pick of the year (vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15) was returned 69 yards for a Broncos touchdown. The return for a touchdown was the third of his career, and his longest, as well as being the fourth-longest scoring interception return in franchise history and fifth-longest overall. His second interception thwarted a Cincinnati (9/29) scoring drive in the back of the end zone. The third ended any last threat that Baltimore might have had in the Broncos' 45-34 win Oct. 20. Always possessing a knack for the big play, Braxton's fourth interception was an end-zone drive-killer vs. Kansas City (10/27) with the Chiefs trailing just 17-7 in the second quarter. On 11/10 vs. Chicago, Braxton started at strong safety and played as big a roll in the Broncos' narrow 17-12 victory as any other defensive player. He finished with eight tackles (6 solo), recovered a fumble and returned it 20 yards, knocked down four passes and registered his fifth interception of the season. On the last play of the game, he knocked away a pass in the endzone that was intended for Curtis Conway, to preserve the victory. Two weeks later at Minnesota (11/24) Braxton turned in another big-play performance, posting eight tackles (5 solo), knocking down two passes and intercepting his sixth of the year, matching his previous best season (1989). The following week vs. Seattle (12/1) he finished with a team-high 12 tackles (7 solo), knocked down two passes and snagged his career-high seventh interception of the season. At Green Bay (12/8) he posted five tackles to go along with his team-leading eighth interception of the year, which he returned 14 yards. The following week vs. Oakland (12/15) he posted six solo tackles with one pass defended, as well as his ninth interception of the season. The pickoff ended the Raiders' first drive of the game, and set the tone for the afternoon. It was also his fourth consecutive game with a pick, a new team record. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Braxton led the team with 11 tackles (10 solo). 1995: Braxton started all 16 games at strong safety and finished tied for second on the team with 110 tackles (74 solo), 10 passes defended and two interceptions in his first season back in Denver after spending a year in Miami. He posted a season-high 10 tackles (7 solo) at Dallas (9/10), and turned in a fine all-around performance against Kansas City (10/22), breaking up three passes and making a touchdown-saving tackle, one of his seven (4 solo) on the day. Braxton had eight tackles (5 solo) vs. Arizona (11/5), including a first-quarter touchdown-saving solo tackle of Garrison Hearst at the Broncos' 5-yard line after a 39-yard pass play. The Cardinals were held to a field goal, and did not get into the end zone all day in Denver's 38-6 victory. Braxton matched his season high of 10 tackles (9 solo) at Philadelphia (11/12), and recorded his first interception of the year against Jacksonville (12/3) along with 7 tackles (4 solo) on the day. His second interception came just a week later against Seattle (12/10), and was returned 36 yards. 1994: Braxton played in all 16 games for a Miami team that advanced to the AFC Divisional Playoff before falling to San Diego. He recorded six tackles and two interceptions during the season, playing in nickel situations and on special teams. He played in both postseason games and recorded four solo tackles. Braxton was signed by the Dolphins as an unrestricted free agent from Denver May 13, 1994. 1993: Braxton started all 16 games for the Broncos, his fifth straight season as the team's starting left cornerback. He finished second on the team in total tackles with 111 (79 solo), intercepted three passes for 37 yards in returns, had a team-high 19 passes defended, recovered two fumbles and forced two as well. 1992: Braxton started all 16 games at left corner and led the team with 16 passes defended, 99 tackles (56 solo) and two interceptions. He played well in week two against San Diego (9/13), notching 11 tackles and four passes defended. 1991: Braxton made a successful comeback from a knee injury that caused him to miss most of the 1990 campaign. He started at left corner and marked his return by intercepting a pass for a touchdown in the season-opener vs. Cincinnati (9/1). Braxton recorded 92 total tackles (57 solo), 12 passes defended, four interceptions, a sack, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery in regular season play. He had a big game against New England (12/1), posting six tackles, three passes defended and a sack. In postseason play, Braxton had 14 tackles (7 solo) and intercepted a pass in the AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/12). 1990: Braxton tore the medial collateral ligament in his right knee in the third game of the season and underwent surgery, thus ending his season. Up to that point he had registered 17 total tackles, an interception and two passes defended. 1989: Braxton had a tremendous campaign in his third NFL season, playing cornerback for the first time in his career. He started every game for the Broncos and ranked sixth in the AFC with a team-leading six interceptions, while also pacing Denver's defense with 14 passes defended. In regular season play Braxton posted 111 total tackles (77 solo), two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. He helped set the tone for the Broncos' defensive resurgence that season when on opening day vs. Kansas City (9/10) he intercepted a pass on the Chiefs' first play from scrimmage and returned it 34 yards for a touchdown. Braxton also set up a Denver touchdown with a 35-yard fumble return against Washington (11/20), and racked up 12 tackles and an interception at Seattle (10/22). 1988: Braxton had a good season as one of the leaders on Denver's special teams and as a reserve defensive back. He closed that campaign with a total of 49 tackles (38 solo), five passes defended, two interceptions, a fumble recovery and a quarterback sack. 1987: Braxton played in the final two regular season games and all three postseason contests, spending the first 13 weeks of the season on injured reserve with a shoulder injury suffered in the preseason. He played primarily on special teams in the regular season, then posted five total tackles (3 solo) in the postseason. The rookie was named Denver's special teams most valuable player for his performance in the divisional playoff game vs. Houston (1/10). Braxton was Denver's 12th-round draft pick in 1987, the second-to-last player taken (334th overall).

COLLEGE Braxton was a defensive back and punt return specialist at North Dakota State, earning all-conference honors as a senior after posting 128 tackles, an interception, and two fumble recoveries. As a junior he led the conference with five interceptions and a punt return average of 15.0, earning him second-team all-conference honors. Braxton was a member of the North Central Conference champion outdoor 400-meter relay squad that competed in the national championship.

PERSONAL: A native of Madison, Wisc., Braxton attended James Madison Memorial High School, where he was named all-conference in football as a senior. He lettered twice each in football and basketball and once in track. Tyrone majored in physical education, enjoys fishing in his spare time and once had a job as a gravedigger. He and his wife, Elizabeth, have a daughter, Chloe (12/29/93), and a son, Tyrone Jr., or "T.J." (1/22/99). The family makes its home in Denver. Braxton was chosen as the Broncos' 1996 Unsung Hero by the NFL Players Association, and was named the Broncos' 1997 NFL True Value Man of the Year. He is a relative of the late Jim Braxton, a former fullback for the Buffalo Bills. Tyrone Scott Braxton was born Dec. 17, 1964 in Madison.

ELITE COMPANY

The Broncos are one of only five franchises in professional sports to boast a season-ticket base greater than 70,000. The other four franchises are the Jacksonville Jaguars, Kansas City Chiefs, New York Giants and New York Jets. The Giants (24 years) and Broncos (23) have surpassed the 70,000 mark for the most consecutive seasons.

Bubba Brister enters his 13th NFL season in 1999 with increased confidence and motivation, and will do so under a much brighter spotlight. As the first quarterback other than John Elway to enter a season as the Broncos starter since 1982, Brister becomes the answer to a question that has preoccupied many in Denver for years. But at no point in the course of Elway's long career have the Broncos been better equipped to absorb his loss than they are now, with Brister taking the reins. A 12-year veteran, Brister played in seven games for the club in 1998, and started four, completing 60% of his passes (78-131) for 986 yards and 10 touchdowns, with three interceptions. The Broncos were 4-0 in his starts, and did not skip a beat under his leadership, en route to a second straight World Championship. In his NFL career, Brister has played in 95 games (75 starts) and completed 54.6% of his passes (1,185-2,172) for 14,276 yards and 84 touchdowns, with 71 interceptions. He has been sacked 192 times (-1,619 yards), and rushed 184 times for 509 yards (2.8) with a long of 38 (TD) and eight touchdowns, compiling a record of 37-38 as a starter. Brister has also participated in five postseason games (two starts), throwing for 356 yards and one score, while completing 54.8% of his passes (34-62). He played for the Steelers from 1986-92, Philadelphia from 1993-94 and the Jets in 1995. Brister returned to action in 1997 after a year off from pro football, signing with the Broncos as a free agent during the offseason. His career highs in passing yards (353) and his longest touchdown pass (90) both came against the Broncos in 1990. He was drafted in the third round (67th overall) by Pittsburgh in 1986 out of Northeast Louisiana.

1998: Brister played in seven games and started four (at Washington, 9/27; vs. Philadelphia, 10/4; vs. San Diego, 11/8 and at Kansas City, 11/16) in place of John Elway, completing 78 of 131 (59.5%) passes for 986 yards and 10 touchdowns, with three interceptions and a long of 48. He also rushed 19 times for 102 yds (5.4) and one touchdown (career-best 38-yd run at K.C., 11/16) and was sacked seven times for 49 yds. Brister did not have enough pass attempts to qualify for the league rankings, but his career-best passer rating of 99.0 would have ranked second in the AFC (5th NFL). In his first start as a Bronco (at Was., 9/27) — and first since 1995 (Wk. 10) — Brister led Denver to a 38-16 win by completing 16 of 24 (66.7%) passes for 180 yds and two touchdowns with a long of 41. Brister connected with Ed McCaffrey for a 19-yd. score in the 1st quarter, and later found Howard Griffith for a 14-yarder in the 3rd quarter. Brister's winning performance in a starting role was the first by a Broncos quarterback other than John Elway since Nov. 20, 1989, when current offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak led Denver to a 14-10 win in relief, also at Washington. Brister started again the next week vs. Philadelphia (10/4) and tied a career high with four touchdown passes. Overall he completed 16 of 29 (55.2%) passes for 203 yds. and was intercepted once, while being sacked twice for 13 yds. and rushing once for 11 yds. His first two touchdowns came in the first quarter, covering 8 yds. to Rod Smith and 9 yds. to Shannon Sharpe, followed by a 12-yarder to McCaffrey in the second quarter, a 31-yarder to Smith in the third. Brister's third start came vs. San Diego (11/8) when Elway was suffering from strained rib muscles. He completed 20 of 33 for 229 yds. and two touchdowns with one interception in a 27-10 Broncos win. He played all but one series, the second of the game when Elway entered the game for what would be his only series due to his ailing ribs. Brister's two touchdown passes went 4 yds. to Terrell Davis in the first qtr. and 7 yds. to McCaffrey in the third. He also rushed twice for -2 yds. Brister's fourth start of the season came at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football, as he led Denver to a 30-7 win by completing 13 of 23 passes (56.5%) for 180 yds., with a long of 31. He also rushed 5 times for 53 yds. (10.6) including the longest run of his career, which went for 38 yds. and a TD in the 1st qtr. to put Denver ahead 7-0. Brister's first significant action of the season came in Week 3 when he replaced Elway (hamstring) midway through the second quarter at Oakland (9/20) and led the Broncos to a win by completing 10 of 17 passes (58.8%) for 140 yards and 2 TDs with one INT. while being sacked once for 9 yds. His longest completion went for 36 yds. to Rod Smith, and he rushed five times for 38 yds. (7.6) with a long of 15. Brister's first touchdown went 3 yds. to Griffith with 35 seconds left in the first half, and was his first scoring toss since Oct. 29, 1995, as a member of the N.Y. Jets, playing at Indianapolis. His second covered 13

yds. to McCaffrey midway through the 3rd qtr. to give Denver a 24-10 lead en route to a 34-17 win. He saw his first action of the season in Week 2 vs. Dallas (9/13), completing his only pass for 36 yards to McCaffrey, while rushing once for 2 yards. His next relief appearance came at Miami (12/21) when he replaced Elway in the 4th qtr. and completed 2 of 4 for 16 yds. with one sack (-6). He also connected with McCaffrey on a 2-pt. conversion attempt to pull Denver to within a touchdown at 28-21. Postseason: Brister played in two of the three postseason games (7 carries, -3 yds.), seeing action in relief of John Elway in the 4th qtr. of both the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) and Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). He was credited with six rushing attempts for -2 yds. (-0.3) with a long of 2 vs. Miami, the last three of which were kneel-downs to run out the clock. Brister was active but did not play in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) and then was inserted for the final play in the Super Bowl, taking a knee for a 1-yd. loss.

1997: Brister signed with the Broncos in the offseason after a year away from football and began the season as the third quarterback. He was promoted to the backup position after the 13th game, and spent the final three games of the regular season in that role. Brister's only action of the season came in the season-finale vs. San Diego (12/21) when he replaced John Elway in the third quarter. His totals for the day — and the season — included six completions in nine attempts for 48 yards with a long of 15. He also rushed four times for 2 yards with a long of 2. In the postseason Brister made one appearance, finishing the Wild Card game vs. Jacksonville (12/27) for John Elway and piloting the Broncos on their final scoring drive, capped by a Vaughn Hebron 6-yard touchdown run. He served as the backup quarterback for the rest of Denver's playoff run. 1996: Brister was out of football. 1995: Brister played nine games for the Jets and started four (games 7-10), completing 93 of 170 passes (54.7%) for 726 yards, four touchdowns and eight interceptions. He was also sacked 16 times (-122). In the season opener at Miami, Brister spelled Boomer Esiason and went 5-8 for 37 yards and one interception. In Week Two vs. Indianapolis he played but did not throw a pass. Brister completed 13 of 23 passes for 112 yards, one touchdown and one interception at Buffalo (10/8). The next week at Carolina he completed 17 of 41 passes for 143 yards with 3 interceptions. A week later against Miami (10/22) he was 15-26 for 152 yards with two touchdowns and one interception in New York's 17-16. He followed that at Indianapolis (10/29) by completing 19 of 31 for 154 yards, one touchdown and one interception. Brister signed with the Jets as an unrestricted free agent Mar. 1, 1995. 1994: Brister played in seven games (two starts) for Philadelphia as the backup to Randall Cunningham. He was also the holder on field goals and PATs in Games 1-5. Brister started the final two games of the year, eclipsing the 300-yard passing mark for the fifth time in his career with a 26-of-37, 325-yard, one-touchdown performance in the season finale at Cincinnati. 1993: Brister started eight games with Philadelphia and finished fourth in the NFC (7th NFL) with an 89.4 passer rating. He led Philly to a 4-2 record over the final six games, completing 141 of 236 passes for 1,479 yards, 11 touchdowns and three interceptions. He threw for three touchdowns and 350 yards and led a 68-yard overtime drive that set up the game-winning field goal in the season finale at San Francisco on Monday Night Football. He also threw for three scores the previous week at New Orleans. Brister set career-highs for attempts (45) and completions (27) at Dallas (12/6), then topped that performance a week later with 28 completions on 48 attempts for 299 yards and a score vs. Buffalo. He led a 75-yard game-winning drive at Washington (11/28) that culminated with a two-yard pass to James Joseph with 46 seconds remaining in regulation to give the Eagles a 17-14 victory. He took over for Cunningham in Game Four against the Jets and started two games before missing the next five with neck and ankle injuries. 1992: Brister played in six games for Pittsburgh, starting the last four in place of injured Neil O'Donnell. He led the team to two comeback victories, including a 23-13 win over Cleveland that clinched a home playoff game for the Steelers. 1991: Brister started Games 1-5 for Pittsburgh before a sprained knee in Game Five forced him out of the next eight contests. Cyron Brown made great strides during his rookie season of 1998 after joining the Broncos as an undrafted free agent out of Western Illinois. After bulking up considerably from a collegiate playing weight of 241 pounds, Brown hopes to maintain all the speed and athleticism on his 275-pound frame to make a big impact in his second NFL season. He played in four games last season, both on defense and special teams.

1998: Brown played in four games (vs. Dal., 9/13; at Oak., 9/20; at Miami, 12/21 and vs. Sea., 12/27) as a rookie, both on defense and special teams, and was inactive for the other 12. His appearance as a reserve defensive end vs. Dallas was the first of his NFL career. He saw his next action the following week at Oakland (9/20), and did not play again until Dec. 21 at Miami. Brown was declared inactive for all three postseason games. In the preseason Brown played in all four games and posted six tackles (4 solo), including one sack (-5), to go along with one pass defended, to win a roster spot as an undrafted free agent.

COLLEGE: Brown played just one season at Western Illinois (1997) after transferring from Illinois, but had a memorable year, finishing second on the team with 107 tackles (52 solo), including no fewer than six in every game. He played in 12 of the Leathernecks' 13 games and recorded 14 sacks, 39 tackles for loss (-183), seven pass breakups, two fumble recoveries, two forced fumbles and a blocked punt that was recovered for a touchdown. Brown, who had a sack in every game but one, recorded 28% of his tackles behind the line of scrimmage, and had a career-high three sacks in his collegiate finale vs. Div I-AA runner-up McNeese State (12/6) in a second-round playoff game. He was a Buck Buchanan Award Candidate. At Illinois (1993-96), Brown redshirted in 1993, then went on to record 61 stops (39 solo) — including six tackles for loss and four sacks — as a defensive lineman and linebacker during his Fighting Illini career. He was named the Bresee Award winner in 1994 for being the most improved defensive player during spring practice.

PERSONAL: A native of Chicago, Ill., Brown was all-state and team MVP in football, as well as all-city in basketball, at Lane Tech. He has a 5-year-old son, Darius DeAndre. Cyron DeAndre Brown was born June 28, 1975 in Chicago. He is single and makes his home in Lone Tree, Colo.

Eric Brown stands poised in 1999 to regain the starting position in the Denver secondary that he relinquished over the latter part of 1998 because of a nagging groin injury. As a rookie, Brown played in 11 games and started 10, making 43 tackles (29 solo) and knocking down three passes. He earned All-Rookie acclaim from Football

News, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, after being selected by Denver in the second round (61st overall) of the 1998 draft.

1998: Brown — named to the all-rookie teams of Football News, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly — started 10 games and played in 11 at strong safety, recording 43 tackles (29 solo), as well as three passes defended and a fumble recovery in his rookie season. He also had eight tackles on special teams, including a season-high 2 vs. Jacksonville (10/25). Brown played but did not start at Seattle (10/11), being replaced in the starting lineup by Tyrone Braxton as the Seahawks opened in a three-wide receiver set, and was then inactive for games 11-14 and 16 because of a groin injury suffered in practice 11/19. He returned to action at Miami (12/21), starting at strong safety, but came out in the second quarter when the injury flared up again, and was back on the inactive list (Fri.) for the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27). Brown's Week 1 start vs. New England (9/7) was the first of his NFL career, as he became the second rookie defensive back to start for a defending Super Bowl champion, following Washington's Darrell Green, who did so in 1983. He recovered his first NFL fumble at Washington (9/27) in the fourth quarter to set up Denver's final touchdown in a 38-16 win. Brown turned in the high-tackle performance of his young career at Cincinnati (11/1), posting 10 (9 solo) to rank second on the team. Brown was declared inactive for all three postseason contests because of a groin injury that kept him out of five of the final six regular season games. In the preseason Brown played in all four games and started two (at St. Louis, 8/8, and at Tennessee, 8/29) at strong safety. He was inserted into the starting lineup on a full-time basis the week of the Tennessee game. Brown was impressive in compiling 16 tackles (15 solo), second-most on the team, and also recovered a fumble in the opener at St. Louis (8/8), as well as contributing a tackle on special teams.

COLLEGE: Brown was a two-year starter at Mississippi State, where he was named All-American by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft and earned All-Southeastern Conference second-team honors as a senior in 1997. For his career he made 102 tackles (77 solo), including six sacks (-50), and posted three interceptions (33 yds. in returns, 1 TD), eight passes defended, two forced fumbles and four fumble recoveries. Brown was a business information systems major at Mississippi State. He began his college career at Blinn College in Brenham, Texas, where he lettered twice as a strong safety and was the top-ranked junior college defensive back in the country.

PERSONAL: Brown was a standout defensive back at Converse-Judson High School in San Antonio, Texas, where he also lettered in track with a high-jump best of 7 feet, a long-jump best of 24 feet and triple-jump best of 50 feet. He was born Eric Jon Brown on March 20, 1975 in San Antonio, Texas. Eric and his wife, Donecia, make their home in Denver.

Glenn Cadrez's career took a significant step forward in 1998 when he won the starting middle linebacker position in training camp and went on to finish second on the team in tackles. His play gave the Denver defense a spark as it successfully defended its World Championship and won its second straight Super Bowl, with Cadrez leading all Broncos defenders in the win over Atlanta with eight tackles (4 solo). A seven-year veteran, Cadrez has now played in 107 career games (22 starts) and made 180 tackles (118 solo), including six sacks (-23), as well as two passes defended, three forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He came to the Broncos Sept. 27, 1995 after playing in the season-opener for the Jets. He had played under Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson during his three-year stay in New York. Cadrez was originally a sixth-round pick (154th overall) by the Jets in 1992.

1998: Cadrez started at his new position of middle linebacker in 15 of the 16 games and ranked second on the team with a career-high 105 tackles (76 solo), including a career-high four sacks (-20), to go along with two passes defended, the first two interceptions of his career, three forced fumbles and four special teams tackles (high of 2 vs. K.C., 12/6). He did not start vs. Seattle in the season-finale (nickel package). His first sack since 1995 came at Washington (9/27) when he dropped Trent Green for an 8-yd. loss in the 4th qtr., which was followed the next week by a 2-yd. sack of Philadelphia's Bobby Hoyer. After posting the first two sacks of his career on back-to-back plays in a 1995 game vs. Jacksonville, (12/3) Cadrez went 38 games without a sack before posting two in a two-game span. He added his third sack vs. Jacksonville (10/25) with an 8-yd. sack of Mark Brunell in the 2nd qtr., and his fourth at San Diego (11/29) on Craig Whelihan (-2). Cadrez's first career interception came at Seattle in Week 6, when he plucked a John Friesz pass to halt a potential go-ahead drive by the Seahawks in the fourth quarter. Denver led 21-16 and Seattle had driven to the Broncos' 28-yd. line before Cadrez came up with the interception, which he returned 6 yds., to go along with a then-career-high 10 tackles (9 solo) to lead the team. He topped that effort with a team-leading 11 tackles (7 solo) three weeks later at Cincinnati (11/1), and then established a new career best by leading the club with 12 tackles (7 solo) in a 30-7 Broncos win at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football. Cadrez victimized Seattle again for his second career interception, snaring a Jon Kitna pass just before halftime in the season-finale (12/27). Postseason: Cadrez started at middle linebacker in all three contests and tied for fourth on the team with 14 tackles (7 solo). He made his first career postseason start in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) and posted two tackles (1 solo) with one pass defended, and then contributed four tackles (2 solo) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Cadrez was Denver's leading tackler in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), posting eight (4 solo).

1997: Cadrez contributed at linebacker in all 16 games, making eight tackles (7 solo), and on special teams where he added six more and a forced fumble. His forced fumble came on the opening kickoff of the second half vs. Seattle (11/2), and was scooped up and returned six yards for a touchdown by Darrius Johnson. At Atlanta (9/28) he recorded one assisted tackle and one special teams stop in Denver's 29-21 victory. He also had two solo stops and a special teams tackle at Oakland (10/19) and followed that up with two solo tackles the next week at Buffalo. In the season-finale vs. San Diego (12/21) he made one solo tackle, and played on special teams. In the postseason Cadrez saw action at linebacker in all four games, making three tackles (2 solo), and also contributed on special teams. He had one assisted tackle at Pittsburgh and served as the "spy" on Steelers quarterback Kordell Stewart for most of the day, as Stewart only ran for 11 yards on two carries after his 33-yard touchdown in the first quarter. In Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card Playoff win over Jacksonville (12/21/97) Cadrez made two solo tackles and participated on special teams. 1996: Cadrez saw action in all 16 regular season games, both as a linebacker and on special teams. He made 15 tackles (7 solo), including half a sack, on defense and six tackles on special teams. His most extensive action of the season came vs. San Diego (10/6) when he replaced an injured John Mobley and played nearly half the game at weakside linebacker. He also replaced Mobley for a significant portion of the game at Oakland (11/4) on Monday Night Football, making two tackles (one solo). He participated on special teams in Denver's lone postseason contest. 1995: Cadrez, who had played in the season opener as a member of the New York Jets before being released Sept. 19, made his first professional start at left linebacker at New England (10/8) as a replacement for the injured Elijah Alexander. He took over that role full-time when Alexander was placed on injured reserve (11/22). Cadrez finished the season with 44 tackles (22 solo), two sacks and one fumble recovery on defense, and contributed two more tackles on special teams. Cadrez made his first appearance as a Bronco at Seattle (10/1), and started the following week at New England (10/8). He tore cartilage in his right knee during the latter contest, and underwent arthroscopic surgery Tuesday, Oct. 10. He was expected to miss two weeks, but did not return to action until Nov. 5 when the Broncos faced the Cardinals. Cadrez registered the first two sacks of his career on consecutive plays — third and fourth down — to thwart a late Jacksonville rally Dec. 3 in the Broncos' 31-23 win. He also made a key play in the fourth quarter of the Broncos' come-from-behind victory at Oakland in the season finale (12/24), recovering a fumble at Denver's 28-yard line with 3:52 remaining in the game and the score tied at 28-28. The recovery stalled the Raiders' potential game-winning drive, and set up the Broncos' own game-winning drive that culminated with a Jason Elam 37-yard field goal. 1994: As a member of the New York Jets, Cadrez played in all 16 games, primarily on special teams, recording 11 special teams stops. 1993: Cadrez played in all 16 games, recording 11 special teams tackles and six tackles as a backup linebacker. 1992: As a rookie, Cadrez played in all 16 games, registering eight special teams tackles on the season. He was a sixth-round pick (154th overall) by the Jets in 1992.

COLLEGE: Cadrez played collegiately at the University of Houston from 1990-91, where he earned All-Southwest Conference honors as a senior in 1991 when he led the Cougars with 12 sacks as a defensive end. For the season he recorded 63 tackles, one forced fumble and 14 tackles for loss. Cadrez transferred to Houston from Chaffey Junior College, where he led the team in tackles and sacks both seasons he was there.

PERSONAL: Cadrez is a native of El Centro, Calif., where he attended Central Union High School and was an all-league selection in football. He and his wife, Betsy, and their two daughters, make their home in El Centro. Cadrez opened a restaurant in his hometown last year. Glenn E. Cadrez was born January 2, 1970.

Carswell started as the second tight end for Denver against the Chargers on Oct. 6, as the Broncos opened the game in a two-tight end set. He caught a three-yard pass and made one special teams tackle. He also saw plenty of action at tight end in Denver's regular season opener against the Jets, as Shannon Sharpe was nursing a slightly sprained ankle. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville, Carswell saw action as the backup tight end, catching two passes for 18 yards with a long of 10, and also contributed on special teams in his first career postseason game. 1995 Carswell was declared inactive for seven of the Broncos' first 13 games, before making his first career start against Seattle Dec. 10. He replaced the injured Shannon Sharpe (eye) and Jerry Evans (knee) in the starting lineup, and did so again the following week at Kansas City (12/17) when he caught two passes for 32 yards, including a career-best 23-yarder. He sprained his ankle on the second play of the game, but played through it. For the year, Carswell caught three passes for 37 yards and made two special teams tackles. His first action of the season came at Seattle (10/1) when he played on special teams, and he made his first appearance on offense versus Arizona (11/5). Carswell's first career start came Dec. 10 against Seattle when he caught his first career pass, a five-yarder from John Elway in the second quarter. He was inactive for the first four games of the season. 1994 Carswell spent the first 11 weeks of the season on the practice squad before being moved to the active roster during the week of the Cincinnati game (11/27). He played on special teams during that game, and then saw his first duty at tight end the following week at Kansas City (12/4). Carswell again saw action in the following two games, recovering a fumble against the Raiders (12/11), but was inactive in the season finale against New Orleans (12/24).

COLLEGE: Carswell finished his career at Liberty with 65 receptions for 511 yards and two touchdowns, and posted senior-year totals of 32 receptions for 259 yards in 1993. He also played in the Flames' offensive backfield for two seasons, finishing 1991 with 435 yards rushing and five touchdowns. Carswell was coached at Liberty by former Cleveland Browns' head coach Sam Rutigliano.

PERSONAL: Carswell, a native of Jacksonville, Fla., earned all-state honors as a junior and senior at Temple and University Christian High Schools. He was named second-team all-state as a sophomore at Temple, and also earned all-conference, all-district and all-county honors during his high school career as a safety, running back and wide receiver. He and his wife Tamara make their home in Aurora, Colo., with their daughters, Ashley and Aaron.

The addition of Dale Carter to the Broncos' secondary in 1999 gives Denver a tremendous 1-2 punch at the cornerback position along with Ray Crockett, and solidifies the Broncos' standing among the top defensive units in the NFL. Carter's aggressive style of play and outstanding speed have given him the reputation of being one of the top cornerbacks in pro football today. Carter has played in 104 regular season games (88 starts), all with Kansas City, and recorded 21 interceptions (one touchdown), 473 tackles (330 solo), five forced fumbles, two fumble recoveries and 97 passes defended. He has participated in four postseason games. Carter is one of only two active players (Deion Sanders) to score touchdowns on a punt return, interception return and as a wide receiver during his career. He was Kansas City's first-round draft choice (20th overall) in 1992 and played seven seasons with the Chiefs.

1998: Carter played in 11 games (nine starts) at left cornerback for the Kansas City Chiefs, producing 54 tackles (34 solo) and two interceptions (23 return yds.). He registered a team-high 10 tackles (eight solo) and one pass defended vs. Oakland (9/6). He did not start the following week at Jacksonville (9/13) because of a foot injury, but recorded two tackles (one solo). Carter picked off a Ryan Leaf pass (23 yd. return) vs. San Diego (9/20), in addition to tallying one quarterback pressure and six tackles (two solo). His other interception came vs. Seattle (John Friesz) Oct. 4, along with a forced fumble, four tackles (two solo) and one pass defended. Carter suffered a right knee sprain at New England (10/11) and left the game after making three solo tackles. He started at left cornerback vs. the N.Y. Jets (11/1), but suffered an injury to his left forearm in the first quarter and did not return. Carter was listed as inactive with a left forearm injury at Seattle (11/8), vs. Denver (11/16) and at San Diego (11/22), then returned to action in a reserve role vs. Arizona (11/29) and totaled five tackles (four solo) with one pass breakup. At Denver (12/6) he started at left cornerback for the first time since the Jets game and racked up six tackles (five solo). Carter closed the season on the inactive list (forearm) for the final two games, at the N.Y. Giants (12/20) and at Oakland (12/26).

1997: Carter started in 15 of 16 games for the Chiefs, registering 77 tackles (55 solo), two interceptions (9 yards) and nine passes defended. He earned Pro Bowl honors for the fourth consecutive season — his third straight trip as a starter — and received first-team All-AFC accolades from Pro Football Weekly and Football News. In the postseason, Carter started and tallied four tackles against Denver (1/4/98) in an AFC Divisional game. 1996: Carter earned a Pro Bowl nod for the third straight season, starting 14 of 16 games. He missed the season's final two games with a left knee sprain, but still paced the club with a career-high 21 passes defended and added three interceptions (17 yards), as well as two forced fumbles and a fumble recovery. He ranked fifth on the team with 65 tackles (55 solo). Carter was an All-Pro pick by The Sporting News, a second-team All-Pro selection by AP and a first-team All-AFC selection by UPI. He also merited a spot on the All-AFC team of Football News. Carter had the second rushing attempt of his career against Minnesota (11/3). 1995: Carter played in all 16 games, starting 14, and was selected to the AFC Pro Bowl squad for the second straight year, his first as a starter. He was a first-team All-NFL choice by USA Today, received second-team All-NFL honors from AP and College & Pro Football Newsweekly and was named first-team All-AFC by Pro Football Weekly. Carter led the team with four interceptions (134 yards) and posted 16 passes defended to top the club for the fourth straight year. He posted 70 tackles (54 solo) and had nine stops on punt returns. Carter did not start in the season-opener at Seattle (9/3). He recorded all four of his interceptions in a three-game stretch from Oct. 15-Nov. 5 (one vs. New England, two vs. Denver, one vs. Washington). Carter started the club's lone playoff contest vs. Indianapolis (1/7/96) and had one tackle and a pass deflection. 1994. Carter started all 16 games and earned his first Pro Bowl trip after another stellar season, finishing third on the team with 94 tackles. He picked off two passes, deflected 15 others and returned 16 punts for a 7.8 avg., including a 42-yarder vs. Seattle (11/27). Carter's interceptions came against Cleveland (11/20) and Atlanta (9/18), the latter of which broke Jeff George's streak of 279 passes without an interception. 1993. Carter played in 15 games (11 starts) and finished eighth on the club with 58 tackles (43 solo) while also posting 12 pass deflections (second on team), one interception (against Buffalo, 11/28) and a forced fumble. He also returned 27 punts for a 9.1 avg. (sixth in AFC), blocked a PAT and made 10 coverage tackles (fourth on team). He missed the season finale and all three playoff games after suffering a broken forearm at Minnesota (12/26). Carter moved to right cornerback after starting the first three games at left corner for Albert Lewis, who was also out with a broken forearm. Carter was a backup in games 4-7. He had his first pro carry on a reverse against Buffalo. 1992. Carter played in all 16 games (nine starts) and won the Bert Bell trophy as the NFL Rookie of the Year. He was also named NFL Rookie of the Year by the Pro Football Writers of America and earned NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year honors from AP, Pro Football Weekly and College & Pro Football Newsweekly (co-winner). UPI named him their top rookie choice, and he was a consensus member of the various all-rookie teams. Carter was also a first-team selection as a punt returner by UPI. He scored a touchdown the very first time he touched a ball in an NFL game by scoring on a 46-yard punt return against San Diego (9/6). Carter also had a career-high 86-yard punt return for a score against Seattle (11/22), the second-longest in team history. His seven picks (tied for third in NFL) were the second-most ever by a Chiefs rookie, topped only by Bobby Hunt's eight in 1962. Carter was a first round (20th overall) selection by the Chiefs out of Tennessee.

COLLEGE: Carter was a standout free safety and return man at Tennessee, earning first-team All-America honors as a senior. He played just two seasons of major college ball after transferring from Ellsworth Community College in Iowa Falls, Iowa. As a two-year starter for the Vols, Carter posted 108 tackles (84 solo), nine interceptions and 10 pass deflections, while averaging 27.7 yards on 44 kick returns and 9.9 yards on 53 punt returns. He scored a touchdown on a kick return and an interception return. As a senior, Carter was an honorable mention All-America choice by AP, Football Writers Association, Football News and Walter Camp, and was a consensus All-SEC pick as well as a finalist for the Thorpe award, given to the nation's finest defensive back. He led the Vols secondary with 50 tackles (41 solo) and four interceptions. In his junior year, Carter was a first-team All-America choice by The Sporting News and second-team by AP as a kick returner, leading the nation with a 29.8 average (17 returns for 507 yards). He also averaged 13.1 yards per punt return (29 punts for 381 yards) and recorded 58 tackles (43 solo) and five interceptions (second in SEC). Byron Chamberlain continued to grow in his backup tight end position in 1998, and with Shannon Sharpe and Dwayne Carswell gives Denver the strongest and deepest tight end corps in the NFL. That depth has kept Chamberlain from posting big numbers, but his contributions to Denver's offense and special teams have played an integral role in the club's back-to-back Super Bowl wins. That was never more evident than in Super Bowl XXXIII last January, when he helped pick up the slack after Sharpe left the game with an injury, catching three passes for 29 yards and recovering two Atlanta on-side kicks. Now in his fifth year, Chamberlain has played in 42 games and caught 18 passes for 193 yards (10.7) with a long of 17. He has also appeared in seven postseason games and caught five passes for 55 yards (11.0) with a long of 16. Chamberlain was drafted by the Broncos in the seventh round (222nd overall) in 1995 out of Wayne State, and is in his fifth year with the club. He spent the 1996 World League season with the Rhein Fire, and led the league with 58 receptions for 685 yards (11.8) and a league-leading eight touchdowns.

1998: Chamberlain saw action at tight end and on special teams in all 16 games and caught three passes for 35 yards (11.7) with a long of 16, while making five special teams tackles. He caught a pass in each of the first two games, for 7 yds. vs. New England (9/7) and 12 yds. vs. Dallas (9/13), and waited until the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27) to add another, for a season-long 16 yds. Postseason: Chamberlain played in all three games and caught five passes for 55 yards (11.0) with a long of 16. His first two postseason receptions (for 26 yds.) came in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/31), including the aforementioned 16-yarder. Chamberlain stepped in for an injured Shannon Sharpe (knee) in the second quarter of Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31) and came through with three receptions for 29 yds. and a long of 13. He also recovered two Atlanta on-side kicks in the 4th qtr. to help seal Denver's 34-19 win.

1997: Chamberlain saw action in 10 of the 16 games as a reserve tight end and special teams performer, and caught two passes for 18 yards (9.0), with a long of 9, both coming against St. Louis on Sept. 14 in a 35-14 Broncos victory. He also returned one kickoff for 13 yards (at Kansas City, 11/16). Chamberlain was inactive at Atlanta (9/28), vs. New England (10/6), vs. Seattle (11/2), at San Francisco (12/15) and vs. San Diego (12/21), and was active but did not play at Pittsburgh (12/7). He returned a kickoff for 13 yards at Kansas City (11/16/97). His fumble at the end of the return was recovered by teammate Vaughn Hebron. In the postseason Chamberlain appeared in three of the four games at tight end and on special teams (exception was Super Bowl XXXII). 1996:

Chamberlain saw action in 11 regular season games on special teams and at tight end, and caught 12 passes for 129 yards (10.8). He also returned three kickoffs for 49 (16.3) yards and made one special teams tackle. Chamberlain was inactive for the first three games while recovering from a ruptured tendon in his left ring finger. He returned to practice Sept. 18 after missing six weeks, then saw his first game action of the season at Kansas City (9/22). On Oct. 6 vs. San Diego, Chamberlain established a new career high with two receptions for 18 yards, including his first of the year — a 12-yarder on which he put a nice spin move on two San Diego defenders to gain several extra yards. His longest career reception was a 17-yarder vs. Seattle (12/1). Chamberlain set career highs in both receptions (5) and receiving yards (61) vs. Oakland (12/15). On Dec. 22 at San Diego, Chamberlain saw action at tight end, making three catches for 22 yards. In the AFC Divisional Playoffs vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97), he saw action on offense and also contributed on special teams, returning one kickoff for 15 yards. 1995: Chamberlain was signed to the active roster Nov. 24 after spending the first 11 games of the season on the practice squad. His first professional game came at Houston (11/26). Chamberlain was elevated to the second-string tight end position for the final three games of the season while Shannon Sharpe was out with an eye injury and Jerry Evans was placed on injured reserve with a knee injury. For the season, Chamberlain caught one pass for 11 yards (at Oak., 12/24) and had two special teams tackles. The reception, from John Elway, came during Denver's game-tying drive in the fourth quarter, as the Broncos went on to win 31-28.

COLLEGE: Chamberlain set a school record for receptions at Wayne State with 161, and ranks third on the all-time list for receiving yards with 1,941. He began his college career at Missouri, where he was an All-Big Eight Conference honorable mention selection in 1991. Chamberlain started all 10 games as a senior at Wayne State in 1994, registering a school-record 83 catches for 926 yards (11.2 avg.), and seven touchdowns. He also rushed seven times for 100 yards (14.3) and one touchdown. Chamberlain was a Division II first-team All-America choice by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. Chamberlain sat out the 1992 season following his transfer from Missouri where he had spent three seasons. He played in every game as a freshman in 1989, catching three balls for 92 yards (30.7) and one touchdown, before redshirting in 1990 and then returning for his sophomore season in 1991 when he earned All-Big Eight honorable mention. Chamberlain was a sports management major at Wayne State.

PERSONAL: Chamberlain was a third-team all-state selection as a wide receiver at Eastern Hills High School in Fort Worth, Texas. He was also an all-district and All-Tarrant County first-team choice. He caught 34 passes for 645 yards (19.0 avg.) and seven touchdowns, adding 216 yards rushing with a pair of scores on 13 carries as a senior. He had 70 receptions for 1,390 yards (19.9) and 15 touchdowns during his career. Byron also lettered twice in track and three times in baseball. His sister Dhana, was the district champ in the triple jump at Eastern Hills in 1987. Chamberlain was born Oct. 17, 1971 in Honolulu, Hawaii. He makes his home in Englewood, Colo.

He earned the distinction of becoming the first player in Jaguars franchise history to score a rushing touchdown with his one-yard plunge in a 17-16 win over Houston (Oct. 1), the franchise's first ever regular season victory. He converted four of his eight third-down opportunities on the season, and also tied for third on the team with 11 special teams tackles. He was the team's leading scorer in the preseason with 18 points. Christopherson was selected along with WR Curtis Marsh on choices obtained from Philadelphia in exchange for the Jaguars' sixth (208th overall) and two seventh-round (210 and 248 overall) selections. George Coghill is poised for a breakout year in 1999 after showing considerable progress last year in his first full NFL season. He looks to add depth at the safety position in a strong Broncos secondary after playing in nine games in 1998. In those nine career games, Coghill has made 12 tackles (9 solo), intercepted one pass and knocked down another, while also adding nine special teams tackles and returning three punts for 20 yards (6.7). Coghill joined the Broncos as a free agent July 16, 1997 and showed steady improvement in his game during a season on the practice squad. He entered the league in 1993 as a rookie free agent with New Orleans, but spent the year on injured reserve, and was out of football in 1994. Coghill then played in the World League (now NFL Europe) from 1995-97 with the Scottish Claymores before signing with Denver.

1998: Coghill saw action in nine games (at Sea., 10/11; at Cin., 11/1 and each of the final seven games of the year) and was declared inactive for the other seven (3 Fri./4 Sun.) in his first season of NFL play. He posted 12 tackles (9 solo) and one pass defended, as well as his first career interception (at San Diego, 11/29), which he returned 20 yds. On special teams Coghill made nine tackles and returned three punts for 20 yds (6.7) with two fair catches and a long of 8 (twice). Coghill saw his first professional action at Seattle (10/11) in a special teams capacity. He made his first two career special teams stops in his next appearance, at Cin. (11/1), and added two more in his third game, at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football. Coghill saw his initial action on defense in the latter contest, and posted the first two tackles of his career. He saw action on defense in each of the final seven games. He snared his first career interception at San Diego (11/29), picking off a Craig Whelihan pass with 46 seconds left in the game, to go along with a career-high four tackles (3 solo). Postseason: Coghill saw action at safety and on special teams in all three games. He made one solo tackle and forced a fumble in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), stripping Jamal Anderson of the ball in the 4th qtr., leading to a recovery by Tyrone Braxton. He also added two special teams tackles in the game, and had one in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17).

1997: Coghill played in the World League with the Scottish Claymores before signing with the Broncos just prior to the start of training camp (7/16). He spent the entire season on the Broncos' practice squad, earning his first Super Bowl ring. Coghill was waived Aug. 24, 1997, but was re-signed to the practice squad Aug. 25.

1996: Coghill played in the World League with the Scottish Claymores. 1995: Coghill played in the World League with the Scottish Claymores. 1994: Coghill was in training camp with New Orleans but was released Aug. 22. 1993: Coghill was signed by New Orleans as a rookie free agent April 27, 1993. He sustained a knee injury in the preseason opener, vs. Philadelphia in Tokyo (7/31), and was placed on injured reserve Aug. 12.

COLLEGE: Coghill was a four-year starter at Wake Forest, where he also played for the school's baseball and track teams.

PERSONAL: A native of Fredericksburg, Va., Coghill attended James Monroe High School. He was born George Webster Coghill, March 30, 1970 in Fredericksburg, Va. Ray Crockett continues to play at the top of his game, distinguishing himself as one of the finest cornerbacks in the NFL. His play at the left cornerback position has been key to Denver's back-to-back World Championship run, and is paired with Pro Bowl right corner Dale Carter in 1999 to give the Broncos arguably the top cornerback tandem in the league. Crockett was rewarded with a five-year, $15 million contract during the 1998 offseason, putting him among the highest paid defensive backs in the NFL. Now in his sixth year in Denver and 11th year in the NFL, Crockett has played in 156 games and started 130, and made 678 tackles (554 solo), including 11.5 sacks (-104.5), in addition to 27 interceptions (407 return yards/2 TDs), 132 passes defended, 12 forced fumbles and seven fumble recoveries. He has also scored twice on fumble returns, giving him four touchdowns in his career. Crockett has also played in 10 postseason games (all starts), and posted 44 tackles (39 solo), including one sack, as well as one interception and seven passes defended. He has been named Conference Defensive Player of the Week three times in his career (NFC: Wk. 9 of 1991 and Wk. 18 of 1993 with Detroit / AFC: Wk. 3 of 1998 with Denver) and NFC Defensive Player of the Month once (Nov. 1991 with Detroit). Signed by the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent in 1994, Crockett was originally drafted by the Detroit Lions in the fourth round of the 1989 NFL Draft, 86th overall.

1998: Crockett started at left cornerback in all 16 games and ranked sixth on the team with 68 tackles (61 solo) as well as a team-leading 15 passes defended, one forced fumble and three interceptions (all vs. Oakland). He was also credited with half a sack (-2.5), combining with Bill Romanowski to wrap up Jacksonville's Mark Brunell in Week Eight (10/25). He posted his then-season-high of eight solo tackles in Week 2 vs. Dallas (9/13), and then turned in a spectacular performance the next week at Oakland (9/20) to earn AFC Defensive Player of the Week honors for the third time in his career (Wk. 9 of 1991 and Wk. 18 of 1993). Crockett intercepted two passes — one of which he returned 80 yds. for his fourth career touchdown — and deflected two others, while posting five solo tackles. His 80-yr. return for a touchdown (the second-longest in franchise history) came with 4:29 remaining in the game and helped seal the 34-17 victory. It was Crockett's second career multi-interception game, and his second career interception return for a TD, to go along with two fumble returns. Crockett missed most of the second-half at Seattle (10/11) because of an ankle injury. He recorded his third interception of the year when Oakland visited Denver Nov. 22, picking off a Donald Hollas pass in the 4th qtr. to set up a Broncos TD that gave the club a 26-14 lead. Crockett posted his season high of nine tackles (8 solo) in a 35-31 win vs. Kansas City (12/6), and his season high of four passes defended at Miami (12/21). Postseason: Crockett started at left cornerback in all three contests and ranked third on the team with 15 tackles (11 solo), to go along with two passes defended and two special teams tackles. He posted four tackles (2 solo), one pass defended and two special teams tackles in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) and added six stops (4 solo) and another pass defended in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Crockett was Denver's third-leading tackler in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), posting five solos and displaying stellar pass coverage in the secondary.

Raiders (11/24) was recovered by Tyrone Braxton and returned 8 yards to set up the Broncos' first touchdown. Crockett was also among Denver's leaders in tackles during the season, racking up at least four tackles in all but two games (two stops vs. New England, 10/6, and two stops vs. San Diego, 12/21). He had a season-high nine stops (seven solo) vs. Seattle on Nov. 2 and matched those numbers at Pittsburgh on Dec. 7. He also had seven stops (four solo) at Seattle (9/7) and at San Diego (six solo, 11/30). He closed out the regular season with a two-tackle (both solo), three pass breakup effort against the Chargers (12/21). In the postseason Crockett started at left cornerback in all four games and elevated his performance to match the occasion, making 19 solo tackles (third on the team), including a sack (-1), with an interception and three passes defended. He also recovered a fumble on special teams (at Pittsburgh, 1/11). After starting the postseason slowly with only one tackle against Jacksonville in an AFC Wild Card Game (12/27), Crockett had a four-tackle effort at Kansas City on Jan. 4 in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win. Crockett was given the responsibility of covering Andre Rison, the Chiefs best receiver, for most of the day, a task he would have to take the following week in Pittsburgh against Yancey Thigpen in the AFC Championship Game. He proved he was up to the task, holding Thigpen to six receptions for the game and no touchdowns (Thigpen scored three on Denver in December). He also added a sack of Kordell Stewart, two passes defended and a team-leading eight tackles (all solo) in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) he tied for second on the team with six solo tackles and a pass defended, as the Broncos defense forced three-time MVP Brett Favre into two critical turnovers during the game to lead to Denver's 31-24 victory. 1996: Crockett started 15 games at left cornerback, missing only the regular season finale (at S.D., 12/22) with a knee injury. He was solid all season and came up with numerous big plays in the Denver secondary, while putting up outstanding numbers with 68 tackles (56 solo), a career-best four sacks (-29), three forced fumbles, 15 passes defended and two interceptions (34 yards). He also added five special teams tackles. At Seattle (9/8) Crockett made five tackles (3 solo), including a sack of Rick Mirer for a seven-yard loss. He forced a fumble on the play, recovered by Bill Romanowski. It was Crockett's second straight game with a sack, following his eight-yarder against the Jets in Week One. At Kansas City (9/22) Crockett made seven tackles (6 solo), including a sack of Steve Bono for a four-yard loss. The following week at Cincinnati (9/29), he made two solo tackles while breaking up two passes. His second was perhaps the most important defensive play of the day, as he reached with his left hand to tip away a 60-yard bomb from Jeff Blake, intended for Darnay Scott, at the Broncos' 10-yard line with just under two minutes remaining and the Broncos leading 14-10. He capped a brilliant three-week performance against San Diego (10/6) by registering six solo tackles and forcing two fumbles in Denver's 28-17 come-from-behind victory. Crockett had another big day vs. Kansas City (10/27), making four tackles (2 solo), knocking down three passes and plucking his first interception of the season. He had tipped an earlier ball that was intercepted in the end zone by Tyrone Braxton, then ended a Kansas City scoring threat in the fourth quarter with his own end zone interception. At Oakland (11/4) Crockett made three tackles (2 solo), including his fourth sack of the season (-10) to establish a new career high in Denver's thrilling 22-21 Monday Night victory. He also added two special teams stops on the evening. His second interception of the year came vs. Oakland (12/15) and ended the Raiders' final threat, preserving Denver's 24-19 win. He suffered a knee injury at the end of the 34-yard return, but an MRI the following day proved negative. He was declared inactive for the San Diego game (12/22) because of the injury. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97), Crockett made two solo tackles with one pass defended. 1995: Crockett started all 16 games at left cornerback and made 78 tackles (61 solo), with 16 passes defended and three sacks. He also made two special teams tackles. Crockett recorded sacks in consecutive games vs. Arizona (11/5) and at Philadelphia (11/12), to account for two of his three on the year. He sprained his right knee in the first quarter vs. San Diego (11/19), and had to leave the game for several series, but came back to play the rest of the game after having it wrapped in the locker room. Crockett scored his third career touchdown at Kansas City (12/17) after stripping the ball from Chiefs quarterback Steve Bono on a sack, and racing 50 yards for the score. On the day he had seven tackles (6 solo), one pass defended and the aforementioned sack for -13 yards. 1994: Crockett joined the Broncos during the offseason as an unrestricted free agent from the Detroit Lions and immediately stepped in as a starter at right cornerback. He started all 14 games in which he played at that position, missing two games with a sprained ankle (at Seattle 10/9 and vs. Kansas City 10/17) suffered in the Broncos' 27-20 loss at Buffalo (9/26). He finished the season with 70 tackles (48 solo), tied for the team lead in interceptions with two (6 yards in returns), led the team in passes defended with 20 and scooped up two fumbles. He posted his season high in tackles with 10 (6 solo) in the Broncos' 20-17 overtime win at Kansas City (12/4). Crockett pulled down his first interception in a Denver uniform at San Diego (10/23) and recorded his second against Cincinnati (11/27) to set up a Broncos' score. Among his other highlights was a fumble recovery against the Raiders (9/18) that he returned 43 yards before being tackled inside the Raiders' 10-yard line, setting up a Denver score. 1993: Crockett started all 16 games for the Detroit Lions and finished the season with 68 tackles (57 solo), two interceptions, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery. In Crockett's five seasons in the NFC he earned the reputation as one of the game's most physical cornerbacks. He was named NFC Defensive Player of the Week for Week 18. 1992: Crockett was slowed early in the season by injuries, but had a good outing versus Minnesota (9/13). He finished the game with a pass interception and four tackles (three solo). Two weeks later vs. Tampa Bay he picked off his second pass of the season, and was credited with four tackles. His best all-around performance came versus Chicago, where he recorded a sack, intercepted a pass, and made five solo tackles. He ended the season with 52 tackles (41 solo), four interceptions, one forced and one recovered fumble. 1991: Crockett tied for the NFC lead and finished second in the NFL in interceptions with six. His interception return of 96 yards was the NFL's longest of the season. Crockett's 141 return yards were the most by a Lion since 1967. He was named Defensive Player of the Week for Week 9 after recording a team-high eight tackles and the 96-yard interception return vs. Dallas (10/27), and went on to earn NFC Defensive Player of the Month honors for November. Crockett finished the year with 86 tackles (74 solo), six interceptions and one forced fumble. 1990: Crockett finished second on the team in interceptions with three. He played primarily in nickel situations, earning his first start against the Broncos on Thanksgiving Day (11/22). Crockett finished the game with five solo tackles and an interception. His best game came at Green Bay (12/22), finishing with eight tackles, one interception, and a 22-yard fumble return for a touchdown to tie the score at 17-17. For the season Crockett's numbers were 59 tackles (53 solo), three interceptions, two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. 1989: Crockett played as a nickel back in all 16 contests, finishing the season with 46 tackles (34 solo), one interception and one forced fumble. He was drafted by Detroit in the fourth round of the 1989 NFL draft, 86th overall.

COLLEGE: Crockett finished his four-year career at Baylor with 169 tackles (120 solo), five interceptions and seven tackles for loss. He also returned five punts as a junior for 30 yards and earned first-team All-Southwest Conference honors with 62 tackles on the year and 13 passes defended. He also lettered in track. Crockett received his B.A. degree in computer science in May, 1992.

Terrell Davis was voted the National Football League's Most Valuable Player in 1998 by the Associated Press, climbing further into the upper echelon of running backs in pro football history. He is on a path that has him poised to make a run at every significant rushing record in the game, all the while maintaining an active role in the Denver community, and a nationwide effort to improve the lives of America's youth through his support of Pop Warner football.

Davis turned in a performance in 1998 that ranked among the greatest of all-time by a running back, claiming — in addition to NFL MVP honors — Offensive Player of the Year by AP, as well as consensus first-team All-NFL consideration and a starting berth in his third straight Pro Bowl as the only unanimous selection on all three ballots. The NFL's rushing and touchdown-scoring champion also picked up NFL MVP accolades from Pro Football Weekly and the Professional Football Writers of America, as well as Player of the Year honors from The Sporting News and Football Digest; Offensive Player of the Year from College & Pro Football Newsweekly and AFC Player of the Year from Football News. He capped his glorious run by picking up AFC Offensive Player of the Year honors from the Kansas City 101 Club, Professional Star of the Year acclaim for the second year in a row from the San Diego Hall of Champions and an ESPY Award for Pro Football Performer of the Year after becoming just the fourth player in league history to top the 2,000-yard rushing mark in a season. In the postseason he extended his NFL-record streak of 100-yard rushing performances to seven, in leading Denver to its second straight World Championship. Davis owns the best per-game rushing average in NFL history (105.1) for the regular season, and both the per-rush (5.6) and per-game (142.5) averages for the postseason, as well.

Davis has led the AFC in rushing each of the past three seasons and won his first NFL rushing title in 1998 after finishing second behind Detroit's Barry Sanders for two years prior. He set the all-time NFL record for most rushing yards gained (2,476) in a regular and postseason combined in 1998, after setting the mark for attempts (495) in 1997. Here is a look at some of Davis' more prominent career statistical notes after four seasons:

- After only four seasons in the league (61 games, 61 starts) Terrell Davis already ranks first on the Broncos' all-time rushing yardage list (6,413), third in rushing attempts (1,343), first in rushing touchdowns (56), first in total touchdowns (61) and first in career rushing average (4.8).
- Davis has 152 receptions for 1,181 yards (7.8 avg.) and five TD receptions.
- He also has 7,594 total yards from scrimmage (2nd) and 7,594 combined yards (3rd).
- Davis already holds or shares 59 team records (21 in the postseason), including most points scored in a season (138 in 1998), most total yards from scrimmage in a season (2,225 in 1998), most rushing yards in a season (2,008 in 1998), most rushing touchdowns in a season (21 in 1998), most touchdowns in a season (23 in 1998), most rushing attempts (31) and rushing yards (184) in a postseason game, and most rushing and total touchdowns (3) in a postseason game.
- Davis also has the most rushing yards in postseason play by a Bronco (871) and the most rushing and total touchdowns in postseason play by a Bronco (11).
- In 1998, Davis earned the Associated Press NFL Most Valuable Player Award, only the second Bronco (John Elway in 1987) to do so.
- Davis reached the 6,000-yard rushing plateau faster than any player in Broncos' history, and third-fastest in NFL history. He also reached 7,000 total yards from scrimmage mark faster than any other Denver player, and second-fastest in NFL history.
- Davis ranks No. 1 all-time in 100-yard rushing games in the regular season by a Bronco (31), recording his 30th in just his 59th NFL contest (12/13/98) and after notching his 25th in just his 50th NFL contest (10/11/98). Only three running backs in NFL history reached 30 100-yard rushing games quicker than Davis.

1998 NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Terrell Davis was voted the National Football League's 1998 Most Valuable Player by the Associated Press, becoming the second Broncos player ever to win the award. John Elway was MVP in 1987. Davis earned the award by posting just the fourth 2,000-yard season in NFL history, with a franchise-record 2,008 and 23 total touchdowns. He is the 13th running back to claim the award and only the fourth running back in the last 13 years to earn the most coveted individual award in professional football.

- Davis is one of only three players to rush for 6,000 yards in his first four seasons and ranks third in all-time rushing yards in the first four seasons of an NFL career.
- Davis is one of only six players to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first four NFL seasons, and in 1998 became only the second player in NFL history with three straight 1,500-yard rushing seasons, as well as the second player to ever have three such seasons in his first four years in the NFL.
- One of Davis' most notable accomplishments was becoming the lowest drafted player to rush for 1,000 yards in his first season, doing so with his 1,117-yard performance in 1995.

In just three years of postseason play, Davis has already re-written the Broncos postseason record book, laying claim to 21 postseason franchise records (59 overall). Here is a look at Davis' postseason franchise records:

- Most rushing attempts (32) and yards (199) in a game; most rushing TDs and total TDs in a game (3); longest run from scrimmage (62); most rushing and total TDs for a career (12); most total yards from scrimmage in a game (206); most total yards from scrimmage in a career (1,271); most points scored in a single postseason (48); most points scored in a career (74); most rushing yards in a postseason (581); most rushing yards in a career (1,140); most 100-yard rushing games (7); most consecutive 100-yard rushing games (7); most consecutive games scoring a touchdown (7); most consecutive 20-carry performances (7); most two-point conversions in a single postseason (1); and most two point conversions in a career (1).

What is most amazing is that it took him only four games to pass Sammy Winders' 461 rushing yards (11 games). Also, Davis became the first AFC rushing leader in the 32-year history of the Super Bowl to be on the winning side in Super Bowl XXXII, and duplicated that feat in XXXIII. A conference leader has only made it to the Super Bowl nine times, with Emmitt Smith (Dallas in 1992, '93 and '95) and Davis being the only leaders to win the game. Larry Brown (Washington in 1972), Thurman Thomas (Buffalo in 1990, '91 and '93) and Jamal Anderson (1998) are the only other conference rushing champions to make it to the Super Bowl. Davis was drafted by Denver 196th overall in the sixth round of the 1995 NFL Draft.

1998: Davis started at halfback in all 16 games and won his first NFL rushing title with 2,008 yards and 21 touchdowns on 392 carries (5.1), with a long of 70 (at Sea., 10/11), to become just the fourth player in league history to top the 2,000-yard rushing mark in a single season. His total

Terrell Davis' 1998 season will be one to remember for a long time in Denver, as he produced more total yards from scrimmage, rushing yards, attempts and touchdowns than any player in a season in franchise history. His rushing total of 2,008 yards ranks No. 3 all-time in a single season by any back, and No. 1 all-time by an AFC back.

DAVIS' PER-GAME AVERAGE CURRENTLY BEST OF ALL-TIME

Terrell Davis' career rushing average of 105.1 yards-per-game ranks No. 1 in NFL history, ahead of Hall-of-Famer Jim Brown and future Hall-of-Famer Barry Sanders. Here's a look at the top three:

TOP THREE ALL-TIME PER-GAME RUSHING AVERAGES

PLAYER	Yds./Gm.	YEARS PLAYED
1. Terrell Davis	105.1	1995-present
2. Jim Brown	104.3	1957-65
3. Barry Sanders	98.8	1989-present

ranked third-best all-time behind Hall-of-Famer Eric Dickerson's 2,105 (1984) and Barry Sanders' 2,053 (1997), and helped Davis become the Broncos' all-time career rushing leader with 6,413 yards, passing Floyd Little (6,323; 1967-75). He amassed his total in just 61 career games, giving him the best per-game rushing average in NFL history at 105.1 yards per game at the end of '98, just ahead of the only other player to average more than 100 yds. per game: Jim Brown (104.3). Davis also caught 25 passes for 217 yards (8.7) and two touchdowns in '98 to account for 2,225 total yards from scrimmage (2nd in NFL). Davis finished his fourth season with a whopping 7,594 total yards in his career, second-most ever in the first four years of a career, trailing only Dickerson (7,842). Davis' 23 total TDs were the most by a Bronco in a single season, and tied for third-most in NFL history (Jerry Rice, 1987 and O.J. Simpson, 1975) behind Emmitt Smith's 25 (1995) and John Riggins' 24 (1983). He shattered his previous club record of 15 set in 1996 (13 rush./2 rec.) and '97 (15 rush.), and his 21 rushing TDs also represent a team record, six better than the 15 he scored last year. In all for 1998, Davis set franchise single-season records for attempts (392), yards (2,008), rushing TDs (21), total TDs (23), total yards from scrimmage (2,225), total combined yards (also 2,225—that total includes returns), scoring (138) and 100-yd. games (11), conquering several more new categories in the Broncos' record book. Davis finished the season with 61 total touchdowns for his career (in 61 games), more than any other Bronco in history (Floyd Little, 54, 1967-75), and has scored more touchdowns in the first four years of an NFL career than any other player (Marcus Allen—58). He also has scored more rushing touchdowns per game (.918; 56 in 61 gms.) for his career than any other player in history. Davis became just the third player in NFL history to reach the 1,000-yd. plateau in the first seven games (1,001) of a season, matching Hall of Famers Jim Brown (Cleve., 1958) and O.J. Simpson (1973 and '75), and is the second back in NFL history to string together three straight 1,500-yd. rushing seasons (Barry Sanders, 1994-97). He recorded his third 1,500-yd. season in just his fourth year, tying Dickerson for fastest in league history to post such a total. In games 2-8 he put together a franchise-record streak of seven 100-yd. rushing performances. Davis in 1998 led the NFL in rushing yards, touchdowns, rushing touchdowns, first downs (112) and points (138), and ranked second in total yards from scrimmage (2,225). He was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for September (94-489-5.2-63t-6 in four games) and October (81-512-6.3-70-6), the third and fourth such awards of his career (Sept. 1996 and '97), and earned four AFC Offensive Player of the Week awards (Wks. 2, 5, 8 and 17; 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th of his career), while also garnering a Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honor (Week 2). Davis was outstanding in Week 2 vs. Dallas, rushing for 191 yards and three touchdowns on 23 carries (8.3), including touchdown runs of 59 and 63 yds. to earn both AFC Offensive Player of the Week and Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors. The 191-yard rushing total ranked sixth on his personal single-game ledger, and the two long runs — which came on successive plays — stand as the fourth-longest (63) and sixth-longest (59) of his career (7 of his top 9 have gone for touchdowns), and made him just the third player in NFL history to post two scoring runs of 50 yards or longer in the same quarter (Cliff Battles, Wash. vs. Pitt., 10/17/37, 60 & 72 yds. in 4th qtr.; LeShon Johnson, Anz. vs. N.O., 9/22/96, 56 & 70 yds. in 4th qtr.). Davis' 138 yards in the first quarter (best one-quarter total of his career) vs. Dallas (9/13) gave him his second career 100-yd. quarter, en route to his seventh career 100-yd. half (154). His three rushing touchdowns tied the franchise record and moved him past Sammy Winder (39) into second place on the Broncos all-time rushing touchdowns list. He set a franchise record vs. Dallas by scoring a rushing touchdown for the sixth straight game, besting the previous record of five that he shared with Winder (Davis—'97, Winder—'85). Davis' first two touchdowns of the season came in the season-opener vs. New England (9/7) on a 9-yard run in the second quarter that gave Denver a 17-0 lead, and a 1-yard run in the fourth quarter for a 27-14 margin. In that game he passed Otis Armstrong (4,453 yds.) to move into third place on Denver's all-time rushing list. He went over 100 yds. again at Oakland (9/20) with 28 carries for 104 yds (3.7), and moved past Otis Armstrong (1,023) for third on the Broncos' all-time list for rushing attempts. His 195-yard total offense performance in the season-finales vs. Seattle, Dec. 27, pushed him past his previous franchise record for total yards from scrimmage in a season, finishing at 2,225.

He added a 207-yard effort at Buffalo on Oct. 26, 1997, and three more high games in 1998, and now owns the top five — and 9 of the top 11 — single-game marks in franchise history. DAVIS AMONG 100-YARD GAME LEADERS

With his 147-yard effort at the New York Giants Dec. 13, 1998, Terrell Davis recorded his 30th career 100-yard rushing game in just his 59th regular season contest, making him the fourth-fastest to reach that plateau among all-time NFL running backs. Here is a look at the top five.

Davis has rushed for 100 or more yards 31 times in his career, and the Broncos have posted a 27-4 record in those contests. Denver is a perfect 7-0 in the postseason when Davis rushes for 100 yards.

century mark again the next week at Washington (9/27) with 119 on 21 carries (5.7), including a 42-yd. touchdown run that ranked at the time as his seventh-longest rush from scrimmage. The score came in the third quarter to give Denver a 24-0 lead. Davis was spectacular again vs. Philadelphia (10/4), posting his 24th career 100-yd. game with 168 yards and two touchdowns on 20 carries — all in the first half — to earn AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the fifth time in his career. He did not play in the second half with the game comfortably in hand. Davis gained 120 yards and scored both touchdowns (20- and 1-yd. runs) in the first quarter — his third career 100-yd. qtr. — and had reached 168 yds. by halftime to post a new career high for a half before resting for the remainder of the contest. Davis' two rushing touchdowns moved him into a tie with Floyd Little (43) for the franchise career record, and gave him 45 total touchdowns to move ahead of Riley Odoms (44) and Lionel Taylor (44) for fourth on Denver's all-time list. In the Philadelphia contest he also became just the seventh player in NFL history to amass more than 5,000 rushing yards in the first four years of a career, and did so in his 50th NFL game to become the fourth-fastest to accomplish the feat (Eric Dickerson-45 gms., Earl Campbell-46, Jim Brown-48). He also became just the sixth Bronco ever to amass 6,000 total yards from scrimmage, doing so faster than any of the others (50 gms.). Davis posted the second-highest rushing total of his career — and the second-highest in the NFL in 1998 — at Seattle in Week 6 with 208 yds. and a touchdown on 30 carries, giving him a franchise-record fifth-straight 100-yd. rushing performance. His 70-yd. scamper in the 4th qtr. was the longest non-scoring rush of his career, and his second-longest overall, helping him to his fourth career 100-yd. qtr. (122; 4th) and his ninth career 100-yd. half (135; 2nd). With one touchdown in the Seattle contest, Davis became the Broncos' all-time leader in rushing touchdowns, topping the previous record held by Little (43 from 1965-77). He kept his record-breaking form intact in his next outing vs. Jacksonville (10/25), racking up 136 yds. and a franchise-record-tying 3 TDs (3rd time with 3 rushing; 5th time with 3 total TDs) on 31 carries (4.4), as well as a career-high 76 yards on 5 receptions to record 212 total yds. from scrimmage and earn his third AFC Offensive Player of the Week award of '98 (6th of career) and seal his second straight AFC Offensive Player of the Month award (4th of career). Davis finished the day at 1,001 rushing yds. in the first 7 games of the season, tying him with Jim Brown (Cleve., 1958) and O.J. Simpson (1973 and '75) as the fastest to reach 1,000 yds. in a season. His three touchdowns also moved him past Sammy Winder (48) for second place on the Broncos' all-time career touchdown list. In the game he also passed Walter Payton to claim the fifth-highest rushing total in the first four years of an NFL career, and extended his franchise-record streak of 100-

Terrell Davis' 149-yard rushing performance at Cincinnati, Nov. 1, 1998, extended his own team record for consecutive 100-yard games to seven. Separately, he has an NFL-record seven-game streak of 100-yard performances in the postseason.

DIALING LONG DISTANCE FOR SIX

On Sept. 13, 1998, Terrell Davis had 59- and 63-yard touchdown runs on consecutive carries in the first quarter. It marked just the third time in NFL history that a player has posted two scoring runs of 50 yards or longer in the same quarter:

yd. games to six. Davis climbed to new heights at Cincinnati (11/1) with 149 yds. and 2 TDs on 27 carries (5.5) to move past Sammy Winder (5.428) into second place on the Broncos' all-time rushing list. He also caught one pass for 3 yds. It was Davis' seventh straight 100-yd. game, to extend his franchise-record streak, and the 27th of his career. His streak would end a week later vs. San Diego (11/8) when he tallied 69 yds. on 20 carries and 19 more on two receptions, but he still managed to make history with his two touchdowns. After a 4 yd. TD reception from Bobby Brister in the first qtr. for his first receiving TD of the year, Davis scored on a 24-yd. run in the second qtr. — his longest carry of the day — to notch his franchise-record 16th TD of the season. In Game 10 at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football, Davis carried 18 times for 111 yds. (6.2) and scored his 16th rushing touchdown of the season on his longest rush of the day (41 yds.) to set a new franchise single-season mark (15 by Davis in '97). It was also his 55th career TD (51 rush / 4 rec.), making him the Broncos' all-time leader, and established a franchise record by scoring a rushing touchdown for the seventh consecutive game (previous best was Davis, 6 straight, 1997-98), despite sitting out the 4th qtr. with a mild concussion. Davis provided the spark the Broncos needed vs. Oakland (11/22), muscling his way to 162 yds. on 31 carries, including a 1-yd. TD run in the 2nd qtr., to go along with 26 yds. on three pass receptions. In the game he moved from sixth to second place on the NFL's all-time list for total yards from scrimmage in the first four years of a career (passing Thurman Thomas, Emmitt Smith, Marcus Allen and Barry Sanders), finishing the day at 7,007 (Eric Dickerson—7,428). With 110 yds. in the 1st half, Davis notched his 10th career 100-yd. half (4 of which have come in one qtr.), and with his rushing touchdown extended his franchise-record streak to eight straight games with such a score (12 rushing TDs in the 8 yrs. of the streak). Davis was held to 74 yds. on 24 carries at San Diego (11/29), but went over the 1,500-yd. rushing mark for the season, giving him three straight seasons over 1,500, a feat achieved previously by just one man, Detroit's Barry Sanders (1994-97). Davis was held under 100 yds. for just

1,500-1,500-1,500

On Nov. 28, 1998 at San Diego, Terrell Davis surpassed the 1,500-yard rushing mark for the season, reaching that plateau for the third consecutive season — a feat previously accomplished by only Barry Sanders. By doing so in his fourth year, Davis tied Eric Dickerson as the only players in league history to rush for 1,500 or more yards three times in the first four seasons of a career.

the third time all season, and the second time by San Diego. He tied the franchise record for touchdowns in a game for the sixth time in his career vs. Kansas City (12/6), scoring three and rushing for 88 yds. on 24 carries, while also catching five passes (ties season high) for 45 yds. He scored on runs of 1-yd. each in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd qtrs., the latter of which was the 59th of his career, giving him more total TDs in the first four years of a career than any other player in history (Marcus Allen, 58). In the K.C. game, Davis fumbled for the first time in the regular season since Nov. 2, 1997 vs. Seattle, a span of 443 carries and 477 total touches. It was, however, the first time he had lost a fumble since Nov. 24, 1996, at Minnesota, a span of 767 carries and 836 total touches. At the Giants (12/13), Davis logged his 10th 100-yd. game of the season to tie his franchise record from 1997, and the 30th of his career, with 147 yds. on 28 carries (5.3). In so doing, Davis eclipsed his franchise record for rushing yards in a season (1,750) set the year before, finishing the day at 1,801 with two games remaining. His 27-yd. TD with 4:08 remaining in the game gave Denver a 16-13 lead, and was his 56th career rushing TD to pass Earl Campbell and Eric Dickerson for most in the first four years of a career. In the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27), Davis needed 170 yards to become just the fourth player in NFL history to rush for 2,000 or more yards in a single season — and delivered, with 178 yds. on 29 carries (6.1) to finish at 2,008 yds., third-best all-time (Dickerson-2,105 in 1984; Sanders-2,053 in 1997), and claim his first NFL rushing title. Davis is the second Bronco to do so, joining Otis Armstrong, who led the league with 1,407 yds. in 1974. He gained 54 yds. in the 1st qtr., 28 in the 2nd, 51 in the 3rd and 45 in the 4th, with the final, history-making yardage coming on a 15-yd. run on 2nd-and-6 from the Seahawks' 48-yd. line with 8:52 remaining in the game. Along the way he also became the Broncos' all-time leading rusher, topping Floyd Little's previous record of 6,323 yds. in the 3rd qtr. It was his franchise-record 11th 100-yd. game of the season, and tied for the fifth-highest single-game rushing total in franchise history (tied for his own fourth-highest), and earned him AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the fourth time in 1998. 1998 Postseason: Davis started at halfback in all three postseason contests and rushed for 468 yards on 78 carries (6.0) to run his combined season rushing total (regular and postseason combined) to an NFL-record 2,476 yds., topping his own previous league standard of 2,331 set one year earlier. He also caught four passes for 69 yds. (17.3) with a long of 39, which came in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). During the 1998 postseason Davis moved up to sixth in NFL all-time postseason rushing yardage with 1,140 yards, passing Larry Csonka (891) and John Riggins (996) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Davis' 468 rushing yards in the 1998 playoffs represent the third-highest rushing total in one postseason (John Riggins, 610 yards in 1982; Davis, 581 in 1997), and the highest for a three-game postseason. His career postseason rushing averages of 142.5 yds.-per-game and 5.6 yds.-per-attempt stood as the best in NFL history after 1998, and Davis finished the season with the record for most consecutive 100-yard rushing games in the postseason with seven, a figure that also ties

Terrell Davis' three-game total of 512 rushing yards from Oct. 4-Oct. 25, 1998 is the best put forth in any three week stretch by an NFL player in the 1990s. Davis also holds the No. 7 spot on that list with his 465 rushing yards from Sept. 21-Oct. 6, 1997:

DAVIS' POSTSEASON AVERAGES BEST ALL-TIME

Terrell Davis' 5.6 yards-per-carry career average in postseason play (1,140 yards on 204 carries) ranks first all-time among NFL running backs. He also possesses the NFL's best yards-per-game average in the postseason, at 142.5 (1,140 in eight games).

him with Dallas' Emmitt Smith most total 100-yard games in the postseason. Davis now holds every major franchise postseason rushing record, and also became the all-time leader in touchdowns (12) and points scored (74). In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he set a Broncos postseason record with 199 rushing yards — the fourth-highest single-game total in NFL postseason history — on 21 carries (9.5; also a franchise record), with two touchdowns. Davis, who also caught one pass for 7 yards, was scintillating as he temporarily moved into eighth place on the NFL's career postseason rushing list, finishing the day at 871 yards to pass Chuck Foreman (860), Roger Craig (841) and Earnest Byner (839). Both touchdowns came in the 1st qtr. on runs of 1 and 20 yards to give Denver a 14-0 lead, and his 62-yard run on the first play of the second half was the longest postseason run in franchise history, topping his 59-yard burst in the 1997 Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). His 21 carries made him the Broncos' all-time postseason leader in that category, finishing the day at 147 to pass Sammy Winder (144), and he had his first postseason 100-yd. half (129; 1st half). He followed that performance with 167 yards on a franchise postseason-record 32 carries (5.2) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), including a 31-yd. touchdown run in the 3rd qtr. that was his longest carry of the day. He also caught one pass for 12 yds. Davis' TD gave the Broncos a 20-10 lead en route to a 23-10 win and a repeat appearance in the Super Bowl. It also gave him a rushing TD in seven consecutive postseason games, tied for the third-longest streak in NFL history. Davis capped his brilliant season with 102 yards on 25 carries (4.1) in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). His longest rush went for 15 yards, and he added two catches for 50 yards, including a 39-yarder, the longest reception of his career. The 100-yd. performance was Davis' seventh in a row in the postseason, an NFL record, and his 14th in 1998 (regular and postseason combined) to tie himself and Barry Sanders (both 1997) for the NFL record. With the win, Davis also became the second player in NFL history to win the NFL rushing title and the Super Bowl in the same season (Dallas' Emmitt Smith has done it three times: 1992, 1993 and 1995).

1997: Davis took many huge steps towards being touted as the best running back the sport has seen in many years, putting up numbers never before reached by a Broncos running back — not even himself a year earlier. Among the franchise records set by Davis in 1997 were new standards for rushing yards in a season (1,750), most rushing touchdowns in a season (15), most rushing attempts in a season (369), 100-yard performances in a season (10) and total yards from scrim-

DAVIS' 1997 AND 1998 POSTSEASONS RANK AMONG BEST ALL-TIME

With his 30-carry, 157-yard performance against Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, Terrell Davis finished the 1997 postseason with 581 yards on 112 carries in four games. His attempts and rushing yardage both rank second in NFL history for a single postseason, and he scored an NFL postseason record eight touchdowns, surpassing by two the mark of six held by six other players. Davis added his name again to the list in 1998, posting the third-highest yardage total, and the No. 1 total for a three-game postseason:

DAVIS RE-WITES BRONCOS' POSTSEASON RECORD BOOK

In just three journeys into the postseason, Terrell Davis has been so spectacular that his name dominates every category of the Broncos' postseason record book. He has played just eight postseason games, and owns seven of the top nine single-game performances in both rushing attempts and rushing yards. Davis' ledger includes the entire top four in attempts and the top five in yardage.

mage in a season (2,037). He also tied the NFL record for most two-point conversions in a year with three, a feat that had been accomplished seven times prior. His postseason effort was also one to remember, as he posted four consecutive 100-yard games and scored an NFL-record eight touchdowns (all on the ground) to lead Denver to its first ever World Championship. Davis also added his second Pro Bowl appearance to his resumé as well as earning numerous individual awards, including Super Bowl XXXII Most Valuable Player honors. Among Davis' awards for his performance during the 1997 season were AFC Player of the Year by the KC 101 Club and Football News as well as first-team AFL-Pro honors from the Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, Pro Football Weekly, College and Pro Football Weekly, The Sporting News, Football News, Football Digest and USA Today. He was also given the Mackey Award by the NFL Players Association as the AFC's best running back. Davis, who started the first 15 games of the year, finished his third season in the NFL with 1,750 yards on 369 carries (4.7 avg.) and 15 rushing touchdowns, to go along with 42 receptions for 287 yards (6.8 avg.). All rushing numbers were career highs and franchise highs. He won the AFC rushing crown and finished second in the NFL, each for the second straight year, and was also second in the AFC and in the NFL in both rushing attempts and touchdowns scored, first in the AFC (2nd NFL) in total yards from scrimmage (2,037) and first in the NFL in rushing first downs and total first downs. Davis tied for first in the NFL in scoring by a non-kicker (96), and tied the NFL record for two-point conversions scored in a single season, recording three to match the effort of seven previous players. In the season-opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) Davis recorded the 11th 100-yard rushing performance of his brief NFL career, totaling 101 yards on 26 carries and one TD in Denver's 19-3 win. In that game he passed Bobby Humphrey (593) for sixth place in all-time rushing attempts by a Bronco. At Seattle (9/7) Davis rushed for 108 yards on 21 carries and one TD as the Broncos beat the Seahawks 35-14, and Davis notched his second straight 100-yard effort to mark the first time in his career he had back-to-back 100-yard games to start a season. Davis also tied Jon Keyworth for fifth place on the Broncos' list for rushing touchdowns with his 22nd. A week later vs. St. Louis Davis made it three straight 100-yard outputs by rushing for 103 yards on 21 carries in Denver's 35-14 victory, and he tied the franchise record for the second time in his career the following week by posting his fourth straight 100-yard effort. This was no ordinary effort, however, as Davis rushed 27 times for a franchise record 215 yards and one TD in Denver's 38-20 victory over the Bengals (9/21). He totaled a team-record 228 yards from scrimmage and topped the 3,000-yard rushing plateau in just his 34th game to establish another team record, and moved into third place in rushing touchdowns with his 23rd, passing Jon Keyworth. He also passed teammate John Elway for fourth place all-time in rushing yards, moving to 3,181. His efforts against the Bengals earned him AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors as well as Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors. A week later at Atlanta (9/28) Davis was held below 100 yards (23-79-1TD) for the first time all season in Denver's 29-21 victory but still managed to pass Keyworth (699) for fifth place all-time in career rushing attempts by a Bronco. His explosive start to the season earned him AFC Offensive Player of the Month honors for September, the second time he has won such an award (also in September of 1996). Davis stole the Monday Night spotlight in Week Six vs. New England (10/6), as he continued his mastery of the New England Patriots with a 32-carry, 171-yard, two-touchdown performance in Denver's 34-13 victory. During the contest, Davis became the fastest Bronco in franchise history to reach 4,000 total yards from scrimmage, moved into fourth place all-time in rushing attempts by a Bronco, rushed for 100 yards for the 15th time, tying the franchise record, and moved into fourth place all-time in rushing touchdowns by a Bronco. His efforts earned him Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors for the second time in three weeks. It also upped his rushing total in three career games against the Patriots to 422 yards. Two weeks later, after the bye, at Oakland (10/19) he rushed for 85 yards on 23 carries (two touchdowns) and added seven receptions for 70 yards in Denver's first loss of the season. During the contest, Davis became the ninth player in NFL history to rush for 3,500 yards in his first three seasons. He also reached the 100-reception plateau for his career, equaling his career high with seven catches, and set a career high with 70 receiving yards. Davis also tallied his third two-point conversion of the season, tying a single-season NFL record shared by seven other players. Davis broke new ground again at Buffalo (10/26) when he rushed for 207 yards on a franchise-record 42 carries and one touchdown in Denver's 23-20 overtime victory over the Bills. He also had five receptions for 29 yards, giving him 236 total yards from scrimmage, another franchise record. Also during the contest, Davis set franchise records for most 100-yard rushing games in a career (his 16th), most carries in a game (42, breaking Bobby Humphrey's record of 34 set in 1990 and the 4th-highest total in NFL history) and fewest games needed to reach 1,000 rushing yards in a season (eight, breaking his own record of 10 set in 1996). He handled the ball 47 times during the contest, one off the NFL record, and also passed William Andrews for the eighth-most rushing yards in the first three years of a career. Davis also became the eighth back in NFL history to rush for 1,000 in each of his first three seasons in the league (the first Bronco to ever do so) and the first Bronco to have three 1,000-yard rushing seasons in his career. The next week vs. Seattle (11/2) Davis reached the 100-yard plateau once again (21-101) to tie his own team record (1996: also Bobby Humphrey, 1990; Otis Armstrong, 1974) for 100-yard games in a season, as Denver won 30-27. It enabled Davis — in just the ninth game of the year — to pass his rookie rushing total of 1,117 yards, accomplished in 14 games. Davis also had six receptions for 17 yards in the game, making him the team's leading receiver for the second straight week, and passed Marcus Allen for the 10th-most total yards from scrimmage over the first three years of an NFL career, as well as passing Jim Brown for the sev-

Terrell Davis enters the 1999 season riding an NFL-record streak of seven straight 100-yard rushing performances in postseason play:

DAVIS POSTS FOURTH-BEST POSTSEASON RUSHING GAME

With a 199-yard outburst vs. Miami in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game, Jan. 9, 1999, Terrell Davis etched his name further into the NFL record book. His performance — while also representing a Broncos postseason record — ranked fourth on the NFL's all-time postseason single-game list:

MOST CONSECUTIVE 1,000-YARD SEASONS TO BEGIN A CAREER

With his 136-yard performance against Jacksonville Oct. 25, 1997, Terrell Davis reached the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the fourth consecutive season, making him the fifth player in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first four years in the league. Here is a look at the exclusive company joined by Davis in 1998:

enth-most rushing yards in the first three years of a career. A week later Davis established a new franchise record with his eighth 100-yard game of the season, tallying 104 yards on 21 carries, and passed Walter Payton for the sixth-most rushing yards in the first three years of an NFL career. A week later at Kansas City (11/16) Davis ran his streak of 100-yard games to four as he tied Otis Armstrong's and Bobby Humphrey's franchise record for the third time in his young career. He also became the fourth-quickest player in NFL history (and the quickest in franchise history) to rush for 4,000 yards (41 games), and also passed Billy Sims and Thurman Thomas for eighth place in most total yards from scrimmage over the first three years of a career. He was held under 100 yards for just the second time all season vs. Oakland Nov. 24 on Monday Night Football, but tied his own franchise record with three touchdowns, and set a new standard with all three coming via the ground. Davis had twice previously posted two rushing and one receiving touchdown in the same game, but never three rushing. It marked the 19th time in franchise history that a player had scored three touchdowns in a game and the fifth time that all three scores were rushing touchdowns. During the contest, Davis also went over the 5,000-yard mark in total yards from scrimmage in his career faster than any player in franchise history (42 games). He also became just the eighth player in league history to accomplish this feat in the first three years of his career. Davis continued his assault on the record books the following week in his hometown of San Diego (11/30), rushing for more than 150 yards for the fourth time this season — and more than 100 yards for the 10th time — by totaling 178 yards on 26 carries and one TD in Denver's 38-28 victory over the Chargers. This was Davis' 20th 100-yard game in just his 43rd NFL contest, making him the fifth fastest player to reach 20 100-yard performances. He also set new single-season marks in rushing and total yards from scrimmage, surpassing his own team marks set in 1996 (1,538 rushing / 1,848 total). He also passed teammate John Elway (32) for third place in career TD runs, passed Emmitt Smith, William Andrews and Herschel Walker for seventh, sixth and fifth place, respectively in total yards from scrimmage during the first three years of a career, and passed Smith for fifth place all-time in rushing yards in the first three years of a career. His rushing touchdown was his 13th, tying his own team record (1996). Davis moved into third place all-time in rushing yards during the first three years of a career (4,333) with his 75-yard output at Pittsburgh (12/7), passing Barry Sanders and Otis Anderson, and also went over the 2,000-yard mark in single-season total yards from scrimmage (26th time in NFL history), broke his own team

FEWEST GAMES NEEDED TO REACH 1,000 YARDS IN A SINGLE SEASON

With his 136-yard rushing performance against Jacksonville Oct. 25, 1998, Terrell Davis became just the third player in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards in seven games, joining the likes of Hall of Famers Jim Brown and O.J. Simpson. This feat has now been accomplished four times, twice by Simpson.

SUPER BOWL XXXII MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Terrell Davis, a native of San Diego, made history in winning the Pete Rozelle Award as Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXII. He not only became the first player to be named Super Bowl MVP for a game played in his hometown, but also became the sixth-lowest drafted player to receive this honor. The other players who were drafted even later than Davis (6th round, 196th selection in 1995) were Richard Dent (Chicago 8th round, MVP in 1986), Jake Scott (Miami, 7th round, MVP in 1973), Roger Staubach (Dallas, 10th round, MVP in 1972), Larry Brown (Dallas, 12th round, MVP in 1996) and Bart Starr (Green Bay, 17th round, MVP in 1967 and '68). Davis and Marcus Allen (MVP 1984) have made Lincoln High School in San Diego the only high school ever to produce two Super Bowl MVPs. Davis' jersey No. 7 was retired at the high school in a special ceremony held Tues., Jan. 20, 1998 during Super Bowl week.

mark for rushing touchdowns in a season with his 14th, and broke his own team record for rushing attempts in a season (345). It was only the fourth of five times in 1997 that he would fail to reach 100 rushing yards in a game. This was also Davis' 14th consecutive game with at least 20 carries, breaking the NFL record previously held by Terry Allen (1995-96). At San Francisco (12/15) on Monday Night Football Davis rushed for just 28 yards on 10 carries and caught two passes for zero yards in just over a quarter of Denver's 34-17 loss to San Francisco. He left the game in the second quarter due to a mild anterior cruciate sprain to his right shoulder, but not before registering his 15th rushing touchdown of the season, tying his own franchise record for total touchdowns in a season (13 rush./2 rec., 1996). The injury forced him to be deactivated for the Broncos' regular season finale against San Diego. It was only the third game of his career that he had missed, including the two to end the 1995 regular season. In the preseason Davis looked sensational in limited duty, starting all five games at halfback and rushing 34 times for a team-leading 211 yards (6.2) with a long of 37 and two touchdowns. He also caught three passes for 46 yards (15.3) with a long of 20. Both rushing TDs came in the finale against San Francisco (8/23) on runs of 6 and 11 yards. 1997 Postseason: In Davis' short NFL career, he has put up some astounding postseason numbers — most of them in 1997. He finished the 1997 postseason with 112 carries for 581 yards (5.2 avg.) and eight touchdowns in four games — all Broncos wins en route to the World Championship. Davis also had eight catches for 38 yards (4.8 avg.) in the postseason, bning his career postseason numbers (5 games) to 126 carries for 672 yards (5.3 avg.) and nine touchdowns, plus 15 receptions for 62 yards. In Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card Playoff Game victory over Jacksonville (12/27/97) Davis had the longest run in a postseason game by a Bronco (59 yards), and also logged the most carries (31), rushing yards (184), rushing touchdowns (2) and total touchdowns (2) of any Broncos postseason performer ever. His 5.9 yards-per-rush average against the Jaguars was topped only in team postseason annals by teammate Derek Loville's 9.4-yard average in the same game (11-103) and his own 6.5 average in the 1996 play-off game against the Jaguars. During the contest, he also moved into third place all-time in both carries and rushing yards in the postseason by a Bronco, passing Gaston Green (36) and Bobby Humphrey (38) in attempts and Gene Lang (138) and Humphrey (169) in yards. In Denver's 14-10 Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), Davis rushed for 101 yards and two touchdowns on 25 carries (third-most ever in a postseason game by a Bronco), and added one reception for 17 yards, his longest postseason reception to date. This was Davis' second career postseason 100-yard game (second in a row), setting a new franchise record for postseason 100-yard games.

DAVIS AMONG SUPER BOWL RECORD-HOLDERS AFTER MVP PERFORMANCE

Terrell Davis returned to his hometown of San Diego for Super Bowl XXXII in January 1998 and rushed for 157 yards on 30 carries and scored three touchdowns, as Denver defeated Green Bay 31-24. He was named the game's Most Valuable Player, and set or tied three records, as detailed below:

DAVIS ONE OF FASTEST IN NFL HISTORY TO REACH 6,000 CAREER RUSHING YARDS

In just his 58th NFL game, Dec. 6, 1998, vs. Kansas City, Terrell Davis reached the 6,000-yard rushing mark, and did so faster than all but three other backs in league history (Eric Dickerson — 53 games; Earl Campbell — 56; and Jim Brown — 58). He is third all time in rushing yards in the first four years of a career.

He also set the franchise record for most rushing and total touchdowns by a Bronco in the post-season with five. For the second consecutive week he tied the team record for most rushing and total touchdowns in a postseason game with two. Davis showed his mettle again the following week in Denver's 24-21 AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), rushing for 139 yards on 26 carries, and added his fifth postseason touchdown of 1997. It was his third consecutive 100-yard game in the postseason, tying four other NFL players for third place all-time in consecutive postseason 100-yard rushing games. He also passed Freeman McNeil (349 in 1982), Natrone Means (358 in 1996) and Thurman Thomas (390 in 1990) for fifth, fourth and third place respectively in most rushing yards in a single postseason. Teamwise, Davis surpassed David Treadwell (32) for the second-most points scored in franchise postseason history (38), passed his teammate John Elway (80) for second place in postseason rushing attempts (96), and passed Elway (410) and Sammy Winder (461) to move into first place in postseason rushing yards by a Bronco. Lastly, Davis' 26 carries equaled the second-most carries in a postseason contest by a Bronco, tying Sammy Winder and remaining eight carries behind his own record he set in the Wild Card Game against Jacksonville (12/27/97). The 141 total yards represented his second-highest total in the postseason (195 vs. Jax., 12/27/97) and placed him second all-time in postseason total yards from scrimmage by a Bronco to earn NFL Offensive Player of the Week honors. Davis then capped one of the most memorable individual seasons in NFL history by rushing for 157 yards on 30 carries and scoring three touchdowns to earn Most Valuable Player honors in Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, in his hometown of San Diego (1/25/98). Davis also had two receptions for eight yards during the contest. The three TDs (all on the ground) tied a Super Bowl record for most points scored and most touchdowns scored in a single game, and he also set a Super Bowl record with three rushing touchdowns in a single game. The 157 yards ranks fifth all-time in a Super Bowl and the 30 carries ties for fourth all-time in a Super Bowl. Even more remarkable is the fact that Davis missed the entire second quarter while trying to fight off the onset of a migraine headache. He returned to start the second half and helped Denver control the ball and clock the rest of the way. Davis recorded his fourth consecutive 100-yard rushing game in postseason play, tying Thurman Thomas for the second-longest postseason 100-yard game streak in NFL history, and notched his 24th career 100-yard rushing game (fourth in the postseason), with Denver posting a 21-3 mark in those games (4-0 in postseason). It was also Davis' 14th 100-yard performance of the entire season, tying Barry Sanders (14 in 1997) for the NFL record. Davis also set the single-season record for most postseason touchdowns (8) and most postseason rushing touchdowns (8), and passed Marcus Allen (466 in 1983) for second place all-time in rushing yards in one postseason with 581 (John Riggins, 610, 1982). His 56 points scored moved him past Rich Karlis (55) into first on the Broncos' all-time postseason scoring list. He also passed Sammy Winder and Vance Johnson to move into first place all-time in postseason yards from scrimmage by a Bronco (734 yards in five games; avg. of 146.7 per game), and passed Eric Dickerson and Riggins to move into first place all-time in rushing yards (2,331) and rushing attempts (495) for an entire season (regular and postseason). His regular and postseason total of 23 touchdowns (all on the ground) rank tied for fourth all-time. Davis, who had his high school jersey retired the Tuesday prior to the game became the second player from San Diego's Lincoln High School to receive Super Bowl MVP honors (Allen in January, 1984), making him the sixth-lowest drafted player to win the MVP award (sixth round in 1995). He also became the first player in the 32-year history of the game to earn this award while playing the game in his hometown.

With his 188-yard total offense output against Oakland Nov. 22, 1998, Terrell Davis, in just his 56th NFL game, became the fastest Broncos player ever to reach 7,000 total yards from scrimmage. He also became just the second player in NFL history to reach 7,000 total yards in his first four NFL seasons, and now boasts the NFL's second-highest total yardage figure after the first four years of a career.

1996: Davis' list of 1996 honors included Associated Press NFL Offensive Player of the Year, Sports Illustrated and UPI NFL Player of the Year, his first Pro Bowl selection. All-Pro selections from the Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News, USA Today, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, All-AFC nods from UPI and Football News and a third-place showing in the AP NFL Most Valuable Player voting. Davis led the AFC and was second in the NFL in both rushing yards (1,538 yards on 345 carries; 4.5) and total yards from scrimmage (1,848), and led the NFL in first downs earned (108). He was second in the AFC (3rd NFL) in both rushing touchdowns (13) and total touchdowns (15), and set franchise records in both categories. He also set franchise single-season records in rushing attempts, rushing yards and total yards, topping previous standards held by Sammy Winder (296 carries in 1984) and Otis Armstrong (1,407 rushing yards and 1,812 total yards in 1974). With 15 total touchdowns, Davis broke the franchise single-season record of 14 held by Sammy Winder (1986) and Anthony Miller (1995), and joined tight end Shannon Sharpe (10 TDs) to give the Broncos two players with double-figure touchdowns in the same season for the first time in franchise history. Davis teamed with QB John Elway and TE Shannon Sharpe to make the Broncos only the sixth team in NFL history to have a trio that had a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher, and 1,000-yard receiver. The trio along with WR Rod Smith, duplicated the feat in 1997, becoming the first team to do this in back-to-back seasons and only the third team to have two 1,000-yard receivers as part of the group. Davis got off to a quick start in '96, putting together a string of five 100-yard games over a six-game span — including four in a row — beginning with Week Two at Seattle when he tallied 111 yards on 28 carries in Denver's 30-20 victory. A week later vs. Tampa Bay (9/15) he posted the second-highest rushing total of his young career with 137 yards on 22 carries (6.2) despite missing more than a quarter due to symptoms of a migraine headache. He also finished with 23 receiving yards on four catches (5-8). Davis left the game late in the first quarter when his vision became blurred and he felt nauseous, but he returned to start the second half and carried the entire offense to the come-from-behind win. He rushed eight times for 39 yards on the Broncos' 14-play, 80-yard game-winning drive that consumed 8:11 in the fourth quarter. He capped the drive with a three-yard touchdown run to give Denver the 27-23 win. The following week at Kansas City (9/22) he put together his third straight 100-yard game, rushing for 141 yards (second-highest in his career at the time) and two touchdowns on 19 carries (7.4). He scored from six yards out in the first quarter, then topped that with a then-career-best 65-yard scoring run in the second. He had already tallied 130 yards on 14 carries by halftime. The following week at Cincinnati (9/29) he notched his fourth straight 100-yard game with 112 yards on 24 carries (4.7). His long carry was a 19-yarder. His fourth straight game over the century mark tied a Broncos record set by Bobby Humphrey in 1990 and Otis Armstrong in 1974. On Oct. 6 vs. San Diego he rushed 17 times for 50 yards, while suffering the effects of a migraine headache that kept him out of the game for much of the second quarter. The Broncos used primarily a one-back offense during the game due to a knee injury suffered by starting fullback Aaron Craver the week before at Cincinnati. He also caught a season-high six passes for 42 yards after not catching a pass in the previous two games. Davis had the best day of his young career on Oct. 20 vs. Baltimore, setting a franchise record with 194 yards on 28 carries (6.9), including a career-best 71-yard touchdown run in the first quarter of Denver's 45-34 victory. The run was the fourth-longest ever by a Bronco, and the longest since 1973 (Joe Dawkins at K.C., 10/7). He also scored later from four yards out, and caught three passes for 19 yards (6.3). His 213 total yards also were a career high. Davis' reached the 2,000-yard rushing mark for his career with his 77-yard effort vs. Kansas City (10/27), making him the fastest to reach that milestone in Broncos history. It was his 22nd game, four earlier than Bobby Humphrey who reached the mark in his 26th game. Versus Chicago (11/10) Davis' 25-yard run in the second quarter pushed him over the 1,000-yard mark for the season, the earliest a Bronco has ever done so (game 10; Otis Armstrong topped 1,000 in the 12th game of the '74 season). Nov. 17 at New England he tallied his sixth 100-yard game of 1996, rushing for 154 yards on a career-high 32 carries, and adding 56 yards on four catches for 210 total yards in Denver's 34-8 victory. The performance earned him not only AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the second in 1996 (also Week Eight), but also the Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week award. His total yardage figure was second-best in his career, trailing only his 213-yard effort vs. Baltimore (10/20). He also tied his own (and several others') Broncos record with three touchdowns, rushing for two and catching another, matching his effort vs. Washington last year (9/17). Davis' 68 yards at Minnesota (11/24) allowed him to move past Bobby Humphrey (2,386 yards) on the franchise's all-

Terrell Davis' touchdown against Seattle in the 1998 season-finale (Dec. 27), was his 21st rushing and 23rd total for the season, a franchise record, and among the most ever scored by an individual in a single NFL season. He led the league in scoring by a non-kicker in 1998, with a franchise-record 138 points:

With his three touchdown runs vs. Kansas City Dec. 6, 1998, Terrell Davis passed Marcus Allen and moved into first place for most total touchdowns scored in the first four years of a career. Davis also passes Barry Sanders, Eric Dickerson and Chuck Foreman on the historic day.

T.D.'s 50-YARD TDs

Terrell Davis' 59- and 63-yard touchdown runs against Dallas Sept. 13, 1998 were the fifth and sixth scoring runs of 50 yards or more in his four-year career, ranking him among the NFL's active leaders in touchdown runs of 50 or more yards:

time rushing list. Davis' touchdowns in the game came on a one-yard run and a one-yard pass reception, giving him five scores over a two-game stretch. On Dec. 1 vs. Seattle Davis tallied his seventh 100-yard game of the 1996 season, tying Otis Armstrong's franchise record set in 1974, during Denver's 34-7 division-clinching victory. Davis carried the ball 26 times for 106 yards and one touchdown, and caught two passes for 15 yards. The following week at Green Bay (12/8) he rushed for 54 yards on 14 carries to establish franchise single-season records in both categories, topping the previous highs of 1,407 yards (Otis Armstrong, 1974) and 296 carries (Sammy Winder, 1984). Davis' five-yard carry to end the first half was the run that put him over Armstrong's yardage record. Against the Raiders (12/15) Davis carried the ball 27 times for 80 yards with a long of 12 and one touchdown, to set a new Broncos single-season record for total yards in a season in Denver's 24-19 win. He topped the previous standard of 1,812 yards set by Otis Armstrong in 1974. His three-yard touchdown run in the first quarter staked Denver to an early 7-0 lead, and was his 14th of the season, tying a franchise record. At San Diego (12/22) he started at tailback but played only into the second quarter. He carried nine times for 21 yards and a touchdown, and caught one pass for nine yards. His one-yard touchdown run in the first quarter put Denver ahead 10-0. In the game Davis surpassed Jon Keyworth (2,653 yards) for fifth place on the Broncos' career rushing list, and registered his 15th touchdown (13 rushing, two receiving) to establish a new franchise record. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Davis started at tailback and rushed 14 times for 91 yards (6.5) with a long of 47 yards and one touchdown, while catching a game-high seven passes for 24 yards with a long of 6. His 47-yard run in the first quarter was the longest ever by a Bronco in the postseason, and set up Denver's first touchdown. Davis' 91 rushing yards were the second-most by Bronco in the postseason, trailing only Sammy Winder's 102-yard effort vs. New England, Jan. 4, 1987, and his seven receptions tied for third-most in a postseason game with Vance Johnson (1/14/90 and 1/12/92), Steve Sewell (1/12/92) and Jesse Myles (12/24/83). Davis scored on a two-yard run with 7:37 remaining in the game to pull Denver within 23-20, and added the two-point conversion himself. Davis mildly sprained the medial collateral ligament in his right knee in the first quarter, and left the game for several plays before returning.

1995: Davis started 14 of the Broncos' 16 games, missing the final two (at Kansas City, 12/17 and at Oakland, 12/24) with a hamstring tear suffered in the first quarter vs. Seattle (12/10). For the season he led the team with 1,117 rushing yards on 237 carries (4.7) with seven touchdowns and a long of 60 yards (at Houston, 11/26) that went for a touchdown. Through the air, Davis caught 49 passes for 367 yards (7.5) with one touchdown and a long reception of 31. He was voted by his teammates as the club's Offensive MVP for '95, and finished second in the voting for NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year by a nationwide media panel. He garnered 16 votes, trailing only New England's Curtis Martin, who tallied 57, but was selected by Football Digest as its NFL Rookie of the Year. Davis was also voted to All-Rookie teams published by Pro Football Weekly and Football News, and was selected as a Pro Bowl alternate at running back. In 1995 Davis became the first Bronco to rush for 1,000 yards in a season since Gaston Green tallied 1,037 in 1991, and the first Broncos rookie to do so since Bobby Humphrey racked up 1,151 in 1989. He is also the lowest-drafted player in National Football League history to rush for 1,000 yards in his rookie season. The Chargers' Don Woods, who rushed for more than 1,000 in 1974, was also a sixth-round pick (by the Packers), but was selected earlier overall in the draft than Davis, the 196th pick in the 1995 draft. His season total of 1,484 total yards from scrimmage ranked fifth in the AFC and 16th in the NFL — despite missing two games — and were the most ever by a Broncos rookie. He finished third in the AFC in rushing (1,117 yards; 9th NFL) and fourth in total first downs (76; tied for 18th NFL). In the season opener vs. Buffalo, Davis started at tailback in his first professional game, carrying the ball a team-leading 20 times for 70 yards (3.5) with a long of 17, and catching two passes for nine yards (4.5) with a long of seven. He scored his first professional touchdown on a three-yard run with 3:22 remaining in the game to cap the Broncos scoring. Davis became the sixth Broncos rookie to start at tailback in a season-opener, and the first since Jeff Alexander in 1989. His statistics were the best of any of the six previous opening-day starters. Against Washington (9/17), Davis tied a Broncos' record with three touchdowns (2 rushing, 1 receiving) in a 13-carry, 68-yard performance, and caught a team-leading seven passes for 61 yards. Davis registered his first 100-yard performance in his ninth professional game, rambling for 135 on 22 carries against Arizona (11/5), including a 34-yarder. Davis' 135 yards against Arizona were the most by a Broncos running back at Mile High Stadium since Dec. 8, 1974 (Otis Armstrong, 183 yards against Houston), and the most by a Bronco in any game since Sept. 29, 1991 (Gaston Green, 158 yards at Minnesota), as well as the highest single-game total by a rookie in Broncos franchise history. His 34-yard run on the second play from scrimmage was the longest of his career up to that point, and highlighted an opening drive on which he carried the ball six times for 60 yards, capped by a 5-yard TD run that put the Broncos ahead 7-0. He also caught three passes for 25 yards, with a long of 18, to give him a then-career-best 160 total yards from scrimmage. He topped that effort in Game 11 vs. San Diego (11/19) when he powered his way to 176 yards on 30 carries — the third-best rushing performance in club history at the time. It was the most yards by a Bronco since Bobby Humphrey gained 177 on 34 carries at Buffalo Sept. 30, 1990, and the most by a Bronco at Mile High, again, since Armstrong's aforementioned effort in 1974. He gained 98 yards in the first half, and also finished strong, carrying the ball six times for 53 yards on the Broncos' final drive, which was capped by a 32-yard game-winning field goal from Jason Elam with 0:02 remaining. Davis surpassed the 1,000-yard mark against Jacksonville (12/3) on his first carry of the day, a 13-yarder around left end, en route to a 21-carry, 84-yard performance. Davis strung together three 100-yard games in four outings late in the season, going for 135 vs. Arizona (11/5), 176 vs. San Diego (11/19) and 110 at Houston (11/26). His 60-yard scoring jaunt in the second quarter of the Houston game was the longest of his career, and the longest by a Bronco since 1992. He also caught a career-best seven passes for 30 yards. With his 140 total yards from scrimmage, Davis improved his season total to 1,348, surpassing Bobby

Humphrey for the most total yards in a season by a Broncos rookie (Humphrey had 1,307 in 1989). Davis began training camp behind several players on the Broncos' depth chart at running back, but worked his way into the starting lineup by the final preseason game at Jacksonville (8/25/95).

COLLEGE Davis continued a strong tradition of standout tailbacks from Georgia throughout the '80s and '90s — following in the footsteps of Herschel Walker, Rodney Hampton, Garrison Hearst and Tim Worley — after transferring from Long Beach State. He spent his first collegiate season playing under George Allen for the 49ers, until the program was eliminated following the 1991 season, in which Davis rushed for 262 yards and two touchdowns on 55 carries (4.8). He transferred to Georgia where he played three seasons — the first behind Garrison Hearst, who finished third in the Heisman Trophy voting in 1992. He finished his career at Georgia with 1,657 yards on 317 carries (5.2) and 15 touchdowns. Davis also caught 46 passes for 529 yards (11.5) and four touchdowns. As a senior in 1994 Davis played in eight games as a scatback and started seven. He missed three contests due to a groin injury, but still managed to lead the team with 445 yards and seven touchdowns on 97 carries (4.6 average), in addition to 31 receptions for 330 yards (10.7). He had his finest campaign as a junior when he played in all 11 games and started six at scatback, leading the team with 824 yards on 167 carries (4.9) and five touchdowns, along with 12 receptions for 161 (13.4) and three scores. Davis played behind Garrison Hearst as a sophomore in his first year at Georgia in '92, seeing action in 10 games, and finished the season with 388 yards on 53 carries (7.3) and three touchdowns, plus three receptions for 38 yards (12.7) and one score. He was a consumer economics major at Georgia.

PERSONAL: Davis was an All-CIF second-team all-league first-team selection as a senior at Lincoln Prep in San Diego, Calif., where he played six different positions, including nose guard, and also lettered in track. His No. 7 was retired by the school Tues., Jan. 20, 1998 in a ceremony attended by Davis during preparations for Super Bowl XXXII in San Diego. He is an avid Sega video game player who particularly enjoys playing Madden Football '99. Davis was presented with a 1997 ESPY Award for Best Performance Under Pressure, in recognition of his record-breaking exploits in Super Bowl XXXII, and a 1998 ESPY for Pro Football Performer of the Year. During the past two seasons he has made appearances on The Late Show with David Letterman, The Tonight Show with Jay Leno, Live with Regis and Kathy Lee, the WB network sitcom Sister, Sister and Sesame Street. In January, 1998, Davis — a life-long sufferer of migraine headaches — signed an agreement with New York-based Novartis Pharmaceuticals Corp. to endorse the company's Migranal nasal spray, which he used during the Super Bowl to combat the onset of a migraine. Part of the deal also calls for the establishment of the Terrell Davis Foundation for Migraine Education and Treatment. Davis traveled to Washington, D.C., April 20, 1999 to testify before the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources about the urgent need for more urban parks and open space. An avid supporter of Pop Warner football, Davis was invited by Jon Butler, executive director of Pop Warner Little Scholars, to testify in favor of a bill that would appropriate a portion of some oil and gas revenues for parks and open space. Davis makes his home in Aurora, Colo. He was born Oct. 28 1972, in San Diego, Calif.

David Diaz-Infante epitomizes resiliency in pro football. After spending the first nine seasons of his career establishing himself with stints in the NFL, the World League and the Canadian Football League, Diaz-Infante finally got a chance for some valuable playing time over the past three seasons, and showed that some players bloom later than others. His progress was slowed in 1998 as he missed the first six weeks of the season with a right knee injury, then contributed primarily on special teams for the remainder of the year. Diaz-Infante, believed to be the oldest player to ever make his first NFL start (32 years of age at Minnesota, 11/24/96), has now played in 38 NFL games (nine starts). He has the Broncos' key backup at the interior offensive line positions for the past two seasons, and has handled the snapping on all field goal and extra point attempts. Diaz-Infante's only prior playing experience in the NFL before joining the Broncos in 1995 was a three-game replacement stint with the San Diego Chargers during the 1987 players strike. From 1993-94 he played in the Canadian Football League with the Sacramento Gold Miners after having spent two seasons (1991-92) in the World League with the Frankfurt Galaxy.

1998. Diaz-Infante played in 10 games on special teams, handling the long-snapping for field goals and PATs, after being inactive (Fri.) for the first six games of the season because of a knee injury suffered during the preseason. He returned to practice in Week Four, prior to the Washington game (9/27), and played in his first game vs. Jacksonville (10/25). The injury — a tear of the anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee — occurred in practice Aug. 19, and surgery was performed Aug. 25. Postseason Diaz-Infante saw action on special teams in all three contests, handling the long-snapping duties for field goals and PATs.

1997. Diaz-Infante saw action in all 16 games and started seven. He took over for Mark Schlereth at left guard for the final five games of the season while Schlereth recovered from back surgery, after having started two earlier games at right guard in place of the injured Brian Habib (vs. Seattle, 11/2; vs. Carolina, 11/9). His other action came primarily on special teams and as a reserve on the offensive line. Diaz-Infante's most extensive action prior to his first start came at Buffalo (10/26) when he replaced Habib at right guard for more than three quarters after Habib left the game with back spasms. Diaz-Infante also handled the long-snapping duties on field goals and PATs throughout the season. In the postseason, Diaz-Infante saw action on special teams in all four games as the long snapper for field goals and PATs. He also saw action on the offensive line in Denver's 42-17 Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). 1996: Diaz-Infante played in nine games and started two (at Minnesota, 11/24 and at San Diego, 12/22) at left guard in place of Mark Schlereth (knee). His start at Minnesota was the first of his NFL career, possibly making him the oldest first-time starter in modern NFL history, at age 33. He was active but did not play in the other seven games. Prior to his first start, Diaz-Infante's most extensive action of the season came at Cincinnati (9/29) when he replaced an injured Schlereth at left guard early in the first quarter. He also took Schlereth's place for the second half at New England (11/17). In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Jacksonville Diaz-Infante was active but did not play. 1995: Diaz-Infante spent the season on the Broncos' practice squad after being signed by the club March 30. 1994: Diaz-Infante was nominated for CFL Offensive Lineman of the Year while playing for Sacramento. 1993: Diaz-Infante started the season in the San Francisco 49ers training camp, but was released before the season. He then signed with Sacramento of the CFL where he played the entire season. 1992: Diaz-Infante played for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League. 1991: Diaz-Infante played for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League. 1990: Diaz-Infante was not with any team. 1989: Diaz-Infante began the season in the Los Angeles Rams' training camp but was injured and released. 1988: Diaz-Infante was in camp with the Rams but was released during the last week of preseason camp. 1987: Diaz-Infante made his NFL debut by playing in all three replacement games for the San Diego Chargers.

COLLEGE: Diaz-Infante played his college ball at San Jose State, where he was an honorable mention Associated Press, All-American, a first-team all-conference pick (UPI and PCAA) and a four-year letterwinner. He was a social science major at SJSU.

PERSONAL: David and his wife, Audra, have a son, Dante Antonio (10/3/97), and make their home in Parker, Colo. Diaz-Infante joined Broncos offensive linemen Tony Jones and Mark Schlereth on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien show in late January 1998, days after the Broncos' Super Bowl win over Green Bay. David attended San Jose's Bellarmine Prep where he was the conference Lineman of the Year in 1981. He was born March 31, 1964 in San Jose, Calif.

KICKER

5-11 • 200 • 7TH YR. • HAWAII

BORN: March 8, 1970 in Ft. Walton Beach, Fla.
HIGH SCHOOL: Brookwood High School, Snellville, Ga.

Broncos kicker Jason Elam continues to be one of the team's steadiest offensive forces after posting his finest NFL season in 1998. He took a step toward football immortality in October when he tied the NFL record for longest field, converting a 63-yard attempt vs. Jacksonville (10/25/98), which served as the high point in a season filled with success for the former third-round pick from Hawaii, who earned his second Pro Bowl invitation in 1998. Elam tied for third in the AFC in scoring, and set new franchise records for PATs (58) and field-goal percentage (.852) in a single season. He has firmly established himself as one of the top kickers in the league, having led the NFL in total points scored over the past six seasons (730 points) and ranking second in field goals (131) made since 1994. Elam enters 1999 needing

ELAM TIES ONE OF FOOTBALL'S LONGEST-STANDING RECORDS

On Oct. 25, 1998, Jason Elam tied a 28-year old NFL record by kicking a 63-yard field goal against the Jacksonville Jaguars at the end of the first half. He equaled Tom Dempsey's record set Nov. 8, 1970 as a member of the New Orleans Saints against Detroit (a game-winner).

LONGEST FIELD GOALS IN NFL HISTORY

PLAYER	TEAM	OPPONENT (DATE)	DISTANCE
1. Jason Elam	Denver	vs. Jacksonville (10/25/98)	63
Tom Dempsey	New Orleans	vs. Detroit (11/8/70)	63
3. Morten Andersen	New Orleans	vs. Chicago (10/27/91)	60

to score just 13 points to overtake Jim Turner (742) for the franchise scoring record. Elam remains the NFL's fifth-most accurate kicker on field goal attempts from inside 40 yards (111/120; .925) and ranks No. 1 on the Broncos' all-time field goal percentage list (.781), just ahead of David Treadwell (.780). He has also made 259 of 260 (.996) point-after attempts, the best career percentage in NFL history. Elam has made his last 235 regular season point-after attempts, also a franchise record. He made the first 24 of his career before his only regular season miss, a block by Minnesota's Tim Irwin, Nov. 12, 1993. Elam became the third Bronco to surpass the 500-point plateau for his career with his last point-after attempt at Seattle in 1997 (9/7), and reached that milestone in the fewest games (66). His 51-yard field goal in Super Bowl XXXII was the second-longest in Super Bowl history (54 yds., Steve Christie, Buff., SB XXVIII), as well as the longest in Broncos postseason history, and his 6-for-6 output on point-after attempts in the AFC Wild Card Game vs. Jacksonville (12/27/97) also set a Broncos postseason record. Elam now ranks second in all-time postseason scoring by a Bronco (57 points), and has made more point-after attempts (30) in the postseason than any other player in franchise history. Elam also ranks second in field goals made (9) in the postseason by a Bronco, and his 11 attempts tie for second all-time. In the regular season Elam is 17-28 (.607) for his career on field goal attempts of 50 yards or more, including a 3-4 mark in 1998. He is 16-26 (.615) from 50-59, and 1-2 in the 60+ range, missing from 66 yds. vs. Seattle in 1995 (Dec. 10). His streak of three straight games with a field goal of 50 or more yards (last game of 1996 through second game of 1997) tied Elam with three other NFL players (Horst Muhlmann, 1970; Tom Dempsey, 1971, and Chris Bahr, 1981) for the longest such streak since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970. Elam was honored in October 1996 as one of the Broncos' three nominees for the True Value/NFL Man of the Year Award. He was selected by the Broncos in the third round of the 1993 NFL Draft out of Hawaii.

1998: Elam turned in the finest all-around performance of his six-year NFL career, being selected to his second Pro Bowl, named second-team All-NFL by the Associated Press, College & Pro Football Newsweekly and All-AFC by Pro Football Weekly and Football News. He carved out his place in NFL history Oct. 25 vs. Jacksonville when he tied the pro football record for the longest field goal, clearing the crossbar from 63 yds. away as time expired in the first half to match the 28-year old standard set by New Orleans' Tom Dempsey (vs. Detroit, Nov. 8, 1970). The kick shattered the previous club record of 57 yds. by Fred Steinfort (vs. Wash., 10/13/80) and the previous Mile High Stadium record of 58 yds. by Cleveland's Steve Cox (12/4/83), and earned Elam AFC Special Teams Player of the Week and Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors for the first time in his career. It was the fourth field goal of 60-or-more yards in NFL history, with Cox (60 yds. vs. Cin., 10/21/84) and Morten Andersen (N.O., 60 yds. vs. Chi., 10/27/91) joining Elam and Dempsey in the 60+ club. Elam enjoyed his finest season statistically in 1998, converting 23 of his 27 field goal attempts for a career-best and franchise-record percentage of .852, and all 58 point-after attempts for 127 total points, while also making one tackle on a kickoff return. Elam tied for third in the AFC (T5th NFL) in scoring among kickers, and his 58 PAT conversions ranked second-most in the NFL, while also representing a team record for a single season (previous: 46 by Elam, 1996).

ELAM ETCHES NAME IN SUPER BOWL RECORD BOOK

Jason Elam's second-quarter 51-yard field goal in Super Bowl XXXII not only gave Denver a 17-7 lead at the time, it was the second longest field goal in Super Bowl history, trailing only a 54-yarder by Steve Christie in Super Bowl XXVIII.

'97). He strained his right hamstring in the second quarter vs. Philadelphia (10/4) and was unable to play in the second half. Elam practiced sparingly the following week, but was able to play at Seattle (10/11), converting all three point-after attempts. His successful boot from 53 yards in Week 1 vs. New England (9/7), his NFL-record-tying 63-yarder vs. Jacksonville, his 52-yarder at Miami (12/21) and his miss from 55 yds. vs. Seattle (12/27) raised his career accuracy on kicks of 50 yards or longer to 17 for 28 (60.7%). The 53-yarder had been his longest field goal since converting from the same distance in the 1997 season-opener vs. Kansas City (8/31/97). Versus Dallas (9/13) he tied a franchise record that he already shared with four other players by converting six point-after attempts. A week later at Oakland (9/20) his two field goals moved him past Rich Karlis (137) for second place on Denver's all-time field goal list, and he became the Broncos' all-time field goal leader at San Diego, with his 152nd (Jim Turner, 151). Elam's 13 pts. vs. Jacksonville (10/25) moved him past Karlis (655) for second on the all-time franchise scoring list, finishing the year with 730 points. Elam set a franchise record for consecutive field goals made in Game 10 at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football, converting his 14th in a row to top Rich Karlis' previous standard of 13 (1984-85), and ran his streak to 19 straight before having a 37-yd. attempt vs. Kansas City (12/6) blocked. His four PATs at San Diego (11/29) pushed his total to 47, besting his own previous franchise record of 46, achieved in 1996 and '97, and he finished the year with 58. Postseason: Elam made six of eight field goal attempts and all 11 point-after attempts for a team-leading 29 points in three postseason contests to move into second place in all-time postseason scoring by a Bronco. He also moved into the club postseason lead in point-after attempts (30) and second place in field goals made (9) and attempted (11). He made his only field goal attempt (32 yds.) and all five point-after attempts to account for eight points in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9). That effort, however, was overshadowed by what he did a week later in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), tying a franchise record with three field goals (also accomplished by David Treadwell, vs. Cleve., 1/14/90 and Rich Karlis, at Cleve., 1/11/87) and drilling both point-after attempts for 11 points on the day. Elam's 48-yarder ties for the third-longest in franchise playoff history, matching Rich Karlis' vs. the Giants in Super Bowl XXI (1/25/87). Elam had a busy day in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), converting two of four field goal attempts and all four point-after attempts for 10 points in the Broncos' 34-19 win. He was successful from 26 and 37 yards in the 2nd and 4th qtrs., respectively, and missed from 38 and 48 yards in the 3rd, the first two postseason misses of his career.

1997: Elam converted 26 of his 36 field goal attempts — including three from beyond 50 yards (50, 51 and 53) — and tied his own franchise record (1996) for PATs in a season by going a perfect 46-46 in that department. His 124 total points on the season ranked second in the AFC (4th NFL), and his 46 PATs led the AFC (2nd NFL). Elam's three field goals from beyond 50 yards in 1997 gave him 14 for his career (23 att.), and a .609 percentage from that range. He also made one special teams tackle on the year. Elam surpassed the 500-point plateau with his final point-after attempt at Seattle (9/7), becoming only the third Bronco in history to do so, and the fastest in terms of games played (66). He had a streak of three straight games with a field goal of 50+ yards snapped vs. St. Louis (9/14), a streak that dated back to the '96 season finale when he converted a 51-yarder at San Diego (12/22/96). In so doing, Elam became just the fourth kicker since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger to connect on field goals of 50 or more yards in three consecutive games. The others were Horst Muhlman (1970), Tom Dempsey (1971) and Chris Bahr (1981). Elam was inactive for the New England game (10/6) because of groin and hip flexor injuries to his right leg, suffered the previous week at Atlanta (9/28). He missed most of that game after sustaining the injury on the kickoff following the Broncos' first touchdown. The New England game was the first missed by Elam in his five-year NFL career. With his first point-after at Oakland (10/19) Elam set a new Broncos record for consecutive games scoring at least one point (70), surpassing Rich Karlis' team record, set from 1984-88. He has now scored at least one point in the last 79 games in which he has played. He kicked the game-winning 33-yard field goal in overtime at Buffalo (10/26), the second time in his career that Elam has won a game for the Broncos in OT. The first was at Kansas City (20-17) Dec. 4, 1994. Elam tied his own franchise record with five field goals at Kansas City (11/16), matching the standard achieved previously by himself (vs. Buffalo, 9/3/95), Rich Karlis (vs. Seattle, 11/20/83) and Gene Mingo (vs. San Diego, 10/6/63). In that game he also tied his career high for field goal attempts in a game (6). In the postseason Elam was perfect, converting all 15 point-after attempts and both field goal attempts, of 43 and 51 yards. The 51-yard field goal in the Super Bowl was the second-longest in Super Bowl history (54 yds., Steve Christie, Buff., SB XXVIII), as well as the longest in Broncos postseason history, and his 6-for-6 output on point-after attempts vs. Jacksonville (12/27) also set a Broncos postseason record, topping the previous mark (5 of 5) held by Rich Karlis (vs. Cleveland, 1/17/88).

1996: Elam converted 21 of 28 field goal attempts and all 46 point-after attempts to lead the team with 109 points. A hip flexor injury he suffered at Seattle in Week Two (9/8) hindered his performance during the middle of the season. The injury occurred when he was hit in the leg while following through on a kick. Elam's 109 points figured eighth among AFC kickers, and made him the first player in Broncos history to achieve four seasons with 100 or more points, having done so in each of his four professional seasons. He was also credited with one special teams tackle on the season. Elam converted three field goals in a game on two separate occasions, doing so at Seattle (9/8) in a 30-20 Denver victory and at Oakland (11/4) in Denver's 22-21 Monday Night win over the Raiders, their third of four consecutive wins over their arch-rival. Elam also tied the team record for most extra points in a game with six against Baltimore (10/20) in a 45-34 Bronco triumph. He connected on his only 50+ yard field goal of the '96 season at San Diego (12/22) in the regular season finale. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville he did not attempt a field goal and was 1-2 on point-after attempts, having his first try of the day blocked by the Jaguars' Clyde Simmons. 1995: Elam finished tied for third in the NFL in scoring — tied for second among kick-

- Oct. 26, 1997: Kicked a 33-yard FG with 1:56 remaining in overtime to give Denver a 23-20 victory at Buffalo in one of the longest weekends of the franchise's history, as the team had to overcome a blizzard in Denver that almost prevented them from leaving town and a 20-0 fourth-quarter flurry by the Bills.

ers — with 132 points, and tied for second in field goals made with 31 as he was voted to his first Pro Bowl appearance. The 132 points are the second-most by a Bronco in a single season, and the 31 field goals broke Elam's own record of 30 set in '94. On the season he was 31-38 (.816) on field goal attempts and 39-39 on point-after attempts. His breakthrough season also included second-team All-Pro honors from both the Associated Press and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, as well as All-AFC honors from Pro Football Weekly. He also punted once for 17 yards and contributed two special teams tackles. Elam was 5-7 (.714) on field-goal attempts of 50 yards or longer — including one missed attempt of 66 yards versus Seattle (12/10) — to improve his career numbers from that distance to 10-16 (.625). His 66-yard attempt was the second-longest kick ever attempted by a Bronco, trailing only the 73-yard attempt (also missed) by Fred Steinfort at New England in 1980 (9/29), and was the longest ever attempted at Mile High Stadium. His five field goals of 50 yards or more tied a Broncos single-season record, originally held by Fred Steinfort (5-8 in 1980). Elam's 56-yarder at Houston (11/26) was the longest of his career, and the second-longest in franchise history, behind Steinfort's 57-yarder vs. Washington, Oct. 13, 1980. At Oakland on Christmas Eve Elam scored 11 points, including the game-winning 37-yard field goal with 48 seconds remaining, in Denver's 31-28 win. It was the second time in '95 that Elam had kicked a game-winning field goal in the final minute, following his 32-yard effort that beat San Diego with 0:02 remaining (11/19). The San Diego game-winner was the third of Elam's career, and his first in the final seconds of regulation. Elam made a franchise-record 13 straight field goals during the middle of the season, beginning with a 30-yarder at Seattle (10/1), and ending with a 35-yarder against San Diego (11/19). Elam set the tone for his stellar season in the opener against Buffalo (9/3), tying a Broncos single-game record with five successful field goals in six attempts (22, 52, 20, 38, 37; missed from 38). 1994: Elam matched his rookie total of 119 points scored (fourth on the Broncos' all-time single-season scoring list) and set a Broncos record for successful field goals in a season with 30 (37 attempts). He also was a perfect 29-for-29 on point-after attempts, giving him a two-year accuracy of .986 (70-of-71). His two-year field-goal percentage of .778 moved him into second on the Broncos' all-time career list, just behind David Treadwell (.779 from 1989-92). His accuracy on kicks inside 40 yards was impeccable in '94, as he converted 22-of-22 kicks within that distance. Elam tied his NFL long and the fourth-longest kick in Broncos history with a 54-yard field goal at San Diego (10/23). He accounted for nine of the Broncos 15 points in a 15-13 win over Cincinnati (11/27) by converting 3-of-5 attempts (34 yards, 33 and 37). He also connected for three field goals at New York (3-for-3) and at Seattle (3-for-4). Elam had just one field goal attempt blocked, a 50-yard attempt against Atlanta (11/20). 1993: Elam showed his leg strength on several long field goals during the 1993 season. His 119 points (fourth-highest figure in Bronco history) placed him fourth in the AFC and seventh in the NFL. Elam was successful on 4 of 6 field goal attempts longer than 50 yards. His 54-yarder in the week two game vs. San Diego (9/12) was the fourth-longest in team history. That came one week after he tied for the third-best single game performance at the New York Jets (9/5) in the season opener. In that game he went 4-4. For the year Elam made 26 field goals, tying for fourth-best in team history.

COLLEGE: Elam was a superb combination kicker in college, holding virtually every school and conference scoring record at the University of Hawaii. He finished his career with 79 field goals, just one shy of the NCAA record held by Jeff Jaeger (80). Elam holds the Western Athletic Conference scoring record with 395 points, and made 30 of 43 field goals of 40 yards or more. Elam finished his collegiate career with a .790 field goal percentage, connecting on 79 of 100 attempts, with his longest being a 56-yarder. He finished 157 of 160 in PATs for the Rainbows. As a senior Elam was selected first-team All-America (Kodak and The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft) and was first-team All-WAC. He made 16 of 25 field goals and 44 extra points, finishing with 92 points for the season. He also finished his collegiate career with a 43.5-yard average on 84 punts. Elam was a communication major.

WHERE DID THE NAME DENVER BRONCOS COME FROM?

The name "Denver Broncos" was chosen from 500 entries in a name-the-team contest in January, 1960. The name was suggested by Ward M. Vining of Lakewood. But the football team isn't the first Denver Broncos. Denver's 1921 entry in the Midwest Baseball League was also called the Broncos.

Brian Griese looks to step up in his second year as he will be called upon to share a great deal more responsibility at the quarterback position with the retirement of John Elway. Griese enters training camp as the backup to Bubba Brister, and seeks to implement all that he learned as a rookie a year ago. Griese has played in one NFL game and completed 1 of 3 passes for 2 yds. He was selected by the Broncos in the third round (No. 91 overall) of the 1998 NFL Draft, out of Michigan.

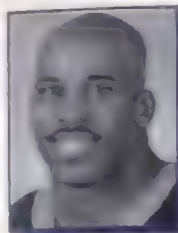

1998: Griese was designated the Broncos' third quarterback for 14 of the 16 games in his rookie season. He saw his first NFL action in Week Five vs. Philadelphia (10/4), replacing Bubba Brister in the fourth quarter. Griese completed 1 of 3 passes for 2 yds. with one interception, while also being credited with four rushing attempts for -4 yds. He completed his first NFL pass for a 2-yd. gain to Vaughn Hebrorn. Griese was active for the Broncos' Monday Night game at Kansas City (11/16), as the backup to starter Bubba Brister, with John Elway being designated Denver's third QB because of strained rib cartilage. In the preseason, Griese played in all four games and completed 27 of 50 passes (54.0) for 372 yards and two touchdowns with one interception. His longest completion, of 48 yards, went to Justin Armour for the game-winning touchdown vs. New Orleans. Griese, who also rushed 14 times for 32 yards (2.3) with a long of 8, directed game-winning fourth-quarter drives in each of his first three appearances. Postseason: Griese was designated the Broncos' third quarterback for all three contests. With Denver's 34-19 conquest of Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII (1/31), Griese, a rookie, completed his second straight championship season, after quarterbacking the University of Michigan to the collegiate national championship in 1997.

COLLEGE: Griese helped lead the Michigan Wolverines their first national championship in 49 years as a senior in 1997, earning first-team All-Big Ten Conference honors. Griese led the Wolverines to a 12-0 mark and a share of the national championship with Nebraska, defeating Washington State in the Rose Bowl with an MVP performance. He was a finalist for the Davey O'Brien Award and the recipient of the National Football Foundation & Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete Award. He completed 193 of 307 passes (62.9%) for 2,293 yards, 17 touchdowns and only six interceptions, breaking the previous school single-season records of 189 completions of 296 passes by Todd Collins in 1993. Only Collins (2,509 in 1993 and 2,518 in 1994) and Jim Harbaugh (2,729 in 1986) threw for more yards in a season for the Wolverines. Griese's interception percentage of 1.95% was the fourth-lowest in school annals. He was an Academic All-Big Ten Conference pick as a junior, playing mostly in a reserve role. Griese started the last nine games as a sophomore, completing 193 of 307 passes for 2,293 yards, 17 touchdowns and six interceptions. He saw action only as a holder for placements and field goals for the last nine games of his freshman season after redshirting in 1993. He was a philosophy major at Michigan.

PERSONAL: Griese was a Prep Football Report All-Southeast, Miami Herald all-city second-team and all-state third-team selection as a senior at Columbus High School in Miami, Fla., completing 101 of 183 passes for 1,387 yards and seven touchdowns in his final year. He hit on 194 of 335 attempts for 2,356 yards and 19 scores during his career. Griese also lettered in basketball, averaging 10 points per game, and added another letter in golf. His father, Bob, played 14 years with the Miami Dolphins and was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1990. Brian David Griese was born March 18, 1975 in Miami.

Among the most significant offseason acquisitions made by Broncos' head coach Mike Shanahan in 1997 was that of fullback Howard Griffith, who lived up to his reputation as being the best blocking fullback in pro football, while also showing that he is the best all-around fullback in the game. Griffith has paved the way for a Broncos running attack that has finished in the top four in the NFL each of the past two seasons, and produced the third-most prolific single-season rushing total by a player in pro football history in 1998, with Terrell Davis rushing for 2,008 yards. Griffith scored two touchdowns in Denver's 34-19 win over Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII, as the Broncos claimed their second straight World Championship. He scored three touchdowns in the 1998 postseason, and has scored four total in the past two postseasons, all of which have come in either the AFC Championship or Super Bowl. Griffith has now played in 91 NFL games (57 starts) and rushed for 281 yards on 99 carries (2.8) with two touchdowns. His receiving statistics include 80 catches for 557 yards (7.0) and six scores. Griffith has participated in nine postseason games (all starts) with 20 rushing yards and 114 receiving yards with five touchdowns (2 rushing, 3 receiving). The two touchdowns in Super Bowl XXXIII tied for the second-most in a Super Bowl game, and left Griffith tied for fifth in Super Bowl rushing TDs. Griffith is tied for fourth on the Broncos' all-time postseason rushing TD list, and is tied for third in total TDs (4—2 rush., 2 rec.) with Vance Johnson. A testament to his incredible blocking skills is the fact that Griffith has paved the way for 1,000-yard rushing seasons by three different backs in his career (Jerome Bettis with the Rams in '94, Anthony Johnson with the Panthers in '96 and Davis in '97 and '98). Originally drafted by Indianapolis in 1991 (237th overall), Griffith was waived after training camp and spent the '91 season on Buffalo's practice squad, followed by a stint on San Diego's practice squad in '92. He then played for the L.A. Rams (1993-94) and Carolina (1995-96) before signing with Denver as an unrestricted free agent Feb. 18, 1997.

1998: Griffith — named second-team All-NFL by Football Digest — started at fullback in 13 of the 16 games and played in 14, rushing four times for 13 yards (3.3) with a long of 16 (the longest rush of his career, @NYG, 12/13), while catching 15 passes for 97 yards (6.5) with a long of 15 (vs. N.E., 9/7) and three touchdowns. Griffith's three receiving TDs matched his entire career total prior to '98 (5 seasons), and were the most by a Broncos fullback in a single season since Bo Dickinson posted the franchise record of four in 1962. He played but did not start at Seattle (10/11) as the Broncos opened the game in a two-tight end alignment, and then missed the Cincinnati game (11/1) with a hamstring strain. Griffith returned to the starting lineup a week later vs. San Diego (11/8), but left the game during the first series because of a second-degree medial collateral tear in his left knee, and did not return. The injury also sidelined Griffith for the following week's game at Kansas City (11/16). Griffith's first scoring reception of the season came on a 3-yd. toss from Bubba Brister at Oakland (9/20), and his second came a week later on a 14-yarder at Washington (9/27), also from Brister. He missed most of the fourth quarter vs. Jacksonville (10/25) because of a right hamstring injury that forced him out of the next week's game at Cincinnati (11/1). Griffith returned to the starting lineup vs. Oakland (11/22) and caught two passes for 8 yds., including a 3-yd. scoring reception from Elway in the 4th qtr., his third of the year. Griffith had his most productive day of the season statistically at the Giants (12/13), rushing twice for 11 yds. (5.5) — including a career-best 16-yd. carry in the 3rd qtr. — and caught two passes for 11 yds. (5.5) with a long of 9. Griffith's primary contributions came as a blocking back in support of the Broncos' overall running game, which ranked second in the NFL with an average of 154.3 yards-per-game. Preseason: Griffith started all four games at fullback and caught one pass for one yard (1.0), while providing excellent lead blocking for the Broncos' running game. Postseason: Griffith started at fullback in two of the three games (Broncos opened in a two-tight end alignment in the AFC Championship Game) and rushed four times for nine yards (2.3) and two touchdowns, while catching three passes for 32 yards (10.7) and one touchdown. He also provided stellar lead-blocking for a dominant rushing attack that averaged 183 yds. per game in the postseason. Griffith caught one pass for 14 yds. while paving the way for Terrell Davis in his franchise postseason-record 199-yard rushing performance in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9), and caught another for an 11-yd. touchdown in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). The TD provided Denver's first points of the day, and began the Broncos' comeback from a 10-0 3rd-qr. deficit. It marked the third straight season in which Griffith caught a touchdown pass in a conference championship game (1996 NFC-Carolina at Green Bay, 1997 AFC-Denver at Pittsburgh). All four of Griffith's rushing attempts came in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), including two touchdowns on 1-yd. runs in the 1st and 4th qtrs. The first gave Denver a 7-3 lead, and the second increased the margin to 24-6. The two touchdowns tied for the second-most in a Super Bowl and left Griffith tied for fifth in career Super Bowl rushing TDs. He rushed for nine yards total in the game, and added one reception for seven yards. In the 1998 postseason Griffith touched the ball just seven times (4 rush. att., 3 rec.) and scored three touchdowns.

1997: Griffith played in 15 of the 16 games and made 13 starts at fullback in his first year in Denver, opening holes for Terrell Davis while also shouldering his share of the offensive load. For the year he rushed nine times for 34 yards (3.8) with a long of 9 yards (vs. K.C., 8/31), and caught 11 passes for 55 yards (5.0) with a long of 20 (at Oakland, 10/19). He had a season-high four receptions at Pittsburgh (12/7) for 18 yards. Griffith did not start vs. Oakland (11/24) and at Kansas City (11/16) because the Broncos opened both games in a two-tight end set (Dwayne Carswell), and he was inactive for the Buffalo game (10/26) because of soreness in his right knee resulting from a medial collateral injury originally suffered at Atlanta (9/28), which kept him out for most of that game. Griffith's injury was initially thought to be a second-degree tear that might keep him out for 3-5 weeks, but an MRI proved negative and he was back in the starting lineup a week later vs. New England (10/6). He re-injured the knee in the third quarter at Oakland (10/19) and missed the remainder of that game, as well. His best rushing performance of the season came against St. Louis (four carries) in Week Three and Kansas City (two carries) in Week One, gaining 13 yards on the ground in each game. He paved the way for a franchise record 10 100-yard rushing games by backfield mate Terrell Davis, including two 200-yard efforts (vs. Cinc., 9/21 and at Buff., 10/26). In the postseason Griffith started all four games at fullback and rushed five times for 11 yards (2.2) with a long of 4 yards, and caught five passes for 58 yards (11.6) with a long of 23 and one touchdown. He also earned recognition for the lead-blocking he provided for Super Bowl MVP Terrell Davis, who rushed for more than 100 yards in all four postseason games. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff win vs. Jacksonville (12/27) Griffith put forth a stellar effort, helping power Denver's running game to 310 yards on the day, courtesy of two 100-yard rushers, Terrell Davis (184) and Derek Loville (103). Griffith did not run the ball himself, but provided powerful lead-blocking, and caught two passes for 9 yards with a long of 8. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff victory at Kansas City (1/4/98) he rushed four times for nine yards (2.3), while providing exceptional lead-blocking for Terrell Davis, who finished the day with 101 yards. Griffith's touchdown reception in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98) put Denver ahead to stay at 17-14, and helped propel the Broncos to the Super Bowl. His other reception for 11 yards came earlier on the same drive. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25) Griffith rushed once for 2 yards and caught one pass for 23 yards, while paving the way for Super Bowl MVP Terrell Davis' 157-yard rushing effort. His 23-yard reception on the Broncos' game-winning drive in the Super Bowl gave Denver a first down at the Green Bay 8-yard line in the closing minutes. The play was identical to the one on which he scored his only touchdown of the season two weeks prior in Pittsburgh.

1996: Griffith started 14 of 16 games for Carolina, with his only two non-starts coming in games where the Panthers opened in a three-receiver formation (12/1 at San Francisco and 11/17 at St. Louis). For the season he rushed 12 times for seven yards (0.6) with one touchdown and set career highs for both receptions (27) and receiving yards (223) and scored one receiving touchdown. Perhaps his greatest contribution, however, was the devastating blocking he provided for tailback Anthony Johnson who logged 1,120 yards on the year. Griffith had 36 yards receiving on four catches vs. the NY Giants (11/10), including a touchdown reception, and added a touchdown run three weeks later vs. Tampa Bay (12/1) for his two scores on the year. He also had 24 receiving yards on five catches in the 1996 postseason, including Carolina's only touchdown of the NFC Championship Game at Green Bay (1/12/97) on a three-yard reception. On the day he had four catches for 23 yards against the Packers. The previous week against Dallas in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game he had one reception for one yard. 1995: Griffith set career highs in rushing yards and attempts with 197 yards on 65 carries while highlighting his ability as a blocker and serving as an important part of the Panthers offense. After serving as a reserve for the first five games of the year, Howard took over full-time starting duties vs. the Jets (10/15), gaining five yards on three carries and hauling in two catches for 14 yards. Versus New Orleans (10/22) Griffith became the first Panther to score two touchdowns in a game, scoring on a two-yard run and a one-yard reception from Kerry Collins. At New England (10/29) Griffith aided in Derrick Moore's 119-yard rushing day with key blocks while adding three carries for 11 yards and a reception for 15 yards. At the Rams (11/12) he led the team with 13 carries for 46 yards and two catches for five yards. Versus Arizona (11/19), in a start at RB, he had the best rushing performance of his career with a team-leading 88 yards on 25 carries and was part of a running game that amassed a team-high 180 yards rushing. At New Orleans (11/26), he started at running back before spraining his right ankle in the first quarter. After a week inactive vs. Indianapolis (12/3) he saw brief time vs. San Francisco (12/10) but did not record a carry. Griffith was the 16th player selected in the expansion draft from the Los Angeles Rams, February 15, 1995 (8th round). 1994: Griffith started 10 games at fullback for the Los Angeles Rams, where he helped clear the way for All-Pro Jerome Bettis, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards for the second consecutive season. A capable receiver, Howard caught 16 passes, including his first career touchdown in a game vs. the Denver Broncos (11/6), a three-yard pass from Chris Chandler that gave the Rams a 27-21 victory. His nine rushes for 30 yards were the first of his career. 1993: Griffith signed as a free agent with the Rams, for whom he contributed on special teams, returning eight kickoffs for 169 yards (21.1), second-best on the squad. 1992: Griffith signed on the Chargers practice squad October 23 where he remained for the rest of the season. 1991: Drafted by the Indianapolis Colts in the ninth round (237th overall), Griffith was waived in training camp and was signed to the Bills practice squad where he was a part of Buffalo's 1991 AFC Championship.

COLLEGE: Griffith finished his career at Illinois with school records for career touchdowns (33), touchdowns in a season (15) and single-game rushing yards (263), among others. During his senior season (1990) Howard set an NCAA record with eight touchdowns vs. Southern Illinois. As a junior (1989) he ranked second on the team with 39 catches for 287 yards and earned Sporting News All-America honorable mention.

PERSONAL: An all-conference running back at Percy Julian High School in Chicago, Ill., Griffith also lettered three years in baseball. He is an avid Sega video game player, particularly in Madden Football. Howard Thomas Griffith was born Nov. 17, 1967 in Chicago. He and his wife, Kim, have a son, Howard II (9/21/96), and the family makes its home in Littleton, Colo.

Harald Hasselbach continues to be one of the Broncos' most dependable and versatile defensive linemen, playing a number of positions along the line. He took over the starting left end position late in the 1998 season, and helped propel the Broncos to their second consecutive Super Bowl win. In his five years with the club he has played in 80 games (26 starts) and recorded 164 tackles (119 solo), including 12.5 sacks (-92.5), with six passes defended, three forced fumbles and four fumble recoveries. Hasselbach began his professional career in 1990 with the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League, for whom he played four seasons before signing with the Broncos in 1994.

1998: Hasselbach saw action along the defensive line in all 16 games and started three (at Seattle, 10/11; at Miami, 12/21 and vs. Seattle, 12/27) at left defensive end, recording 27 tackles (24 solo), including three sacks (-26). His first came vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he dropped Bobby Hoving on the Eagles' first series of the game, and his second came at Seattle (10/11) when he collared Warren Moon for a 9-yd. loss just before halftime. Hasselbach's third came in a crucial fourth-quarter situation against Jacksonville's Mark Brunell (10/25) for a 12-yd. loss. He suffered a sprained ankle in the 4th qtr. vs. Oakland (11/22), and did not return to the game, but was well enough the following week at San Diego (11/29) to play in his usual position. Hasselbach's starts in the final two games of the season came in place of Neil Smith (strained abdominal) at left defensive end. Postseason: Hasselbach started at left defensive end in all three games and posted five tackles (1 solo). He made his first start in six career postseason appearances in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) and made one assisted tackle, and added two more in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Hasselbach tallied two stops (1 solo) in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Hasselbach played in all 16 games and made strong contributions on the defensive line in a reserve role, recording 23 tackles (19 solo), including a 1.5 sacks (-14.5), and one pass breakup. He made three starts at left defensive end, replacing an injured Neil Smith (triceps) vs. Seattle (11/2), Carolina (11/9) and Oakland (11/24). In his first start, Hasselbach responded with his first solo sack of the season for a 10-yard loss, and then posted a season-high five solo tackles vs. Oakland. He also had three stops against Carolina (11/9) and two each against St. Louis (also half a sack, 9/14) and at Buffalo (10/26). In the postseason Hasselbach played in all four games as a reserve on the defensive line and recorded seven tackles (4 solo), including an assist in the Wild Card Game (12/27), two solos in the Divisional Playoff Game (1/4/98), three tackles (two solo) in the Championship Game, and one solo in Super Bowl XXXII. 1996: Hasselbach played in all 16 regular season games and started one at left defensive end (at Green Bay, 12/8). For the season he recorded 17 tackles (14 solo) — including two sacks (-20) — as well as two passes defended and two forced fumbles as a key contributor on Denver's defensive line rotation. On opening day vs. the Jets (9/1) Hasselbach had two solo tackles and one sack in Denver's 31-6 victory. He added another sack the following week in Denver's 30-20 win at Seattle (9/8). He had a season-high four tackles (two solo) in Denver's 34-7 victory vs. Kansas City (10/27), and added two tackles (one solo) at Green Bay (12/8) in his only start of the season. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Hasselbach saw action on the defensive line and made one solo tackle. 1995: Hasselbach saw action in all 16 games and made 10 starts in place of the injured Dan Williams (knee), finishing the season with 31 tackles (22 solo), four sacks, two passes defended and four fumble recoveries. He took over the starting left defensive end position at Seattle (10/1), and continued to start at New England (10/8), vs. Oakland (10/16) and vs. Kansas City (10/22). After returning to his backup role for two games, Hasselbach returned to the starting lineup against San Diego (11/19) when Williams suffered another knee injury. His four sacks on the season came at Seattle (10/1), vs. Kansas City (10/22), vs. San Diego (11/19) and at Oakland (12/24), a game in which he posted his highest tackle total of the year (6; 4 solo). 1994: Hasselbach turned some heads after spending the previous four seasons with the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League. He played in all 16 games for the Broncos, including the final nine in a starting role at defensive right tackle. For the season Hasselbach accounted for 86 total tackles (40 solo) — including two sacks (-13) — one pass defended and one forced fumble. He was given his first start against Cleveland (10/30) and responded with five total tackles (2 solo), then posted his best numbers of the season the following week with 10 tackles (3 solo) against the Rams (11/6). Hasselbach went on to start the final nine games of the season and recorded his first NFL sack against Cincinnati (11/27). His impressive play allowed the team to rest previous starter Dan Williams who was slowed by injury. Hasselbach was an instant hit in training camp then progressed slowly during the regular season before jumping into the starting lineup. 1990-93: Hasselbach spent four seasons with the Calgary Stampeders of the CFL, emerging as one of the league's top defensive stars. He posted four-year career totals of 72 tackles and 14 sacks, seven of which came in his final season, 1993.

COLLEGE: Hasselbach lettered one season (1989) at the University of Washington as a reserve defensive lineman for a Husky team that defeated Florida 34-7 in the 1989 Freedom Bowl. He made four solo tackles during his senior season (1989), his second consecutive as a backup to All-American and former San Francisco 49ers defensive end Dennis Brown. Hasselbach redshirted in 1985 and spent the next three seasons as a non-letterman squad member with great physical attributes and potential.

PERSONAL: A native of Amsterdam, Holland, Hasselbach has also lived in Suriname, Indonesia, Kenya and Canada. He is fluent in Dutch and has also spoken French, German, Japanese, Swahili and Indonesian. His father is a retired agronomist whose job took the family all around the world before settling in British Columbia. Hasselbach grew up playing soccer, cricket, rugby and field hockey as well swimming, and did not begin to play football until his final two years at South Delta High School in Tsawassen, B.C., where he was a two-year letterman offensive and defensive tackle. He was named to the Fraser Valley All-Star team and was an All-British Columbia choice. Harald, his wife Aundrea and their son, Terran, make their home in Aurora, Colo. Harald and Aundrea have been very active in the Denver community, hosting a Christmas party for disadvantaged youth in 1998, and along with Ray and April Crockett organizing a charity auction in May 1999 that raised $50,000 for victims of the Columbine High School shootings.

Tory James cleared a major hurdle in 1998 in his recovery from a devastating 1997 knee injury that wiped out his season. He played in every game for the Broncos last year as the club won its second straight World Championship, and regained a measure of confidence that he will carry into the 1999 season. James seeks to make a major impact in the Broncos secondary, still building upon a very successful 1996 rookie campaign in which he justified all the faith the Broncos showed in choosing him with the 44th pick of the 1996 NFL Draft. He entered '97 as the designated starter at right cornerback before injuring his knee in the first preseason game. James will challenge for the nickel back position in '99 and for serious playing time behind veteran starters Ray Crockett and Dale Carter.

1998 James played in all 16 games and contributed 12 tackles (10 solo) and two pass breakups on defense, as well as 12 stops and a fumble recovery on special teams. He posted three special teams stops in each of the first two games of the season, and his fumble recovery came vs. Philadelphia (10/4) after Derek Loville knocked the ball from Allen Rossum's hands on a first-quarter kickoff return. James' first defensive tackle came vs. Dallas (9/13), and he posted two more (1 solo) at Seattle (10/11). James saw significant action at cornerback in the third and fourth quarters vs. Jacksonville (10/25) because of injuries in the secondary, and responded with his best statistical performance of the season, posting five tackles (4 solo) and a pass defended. His appearance in the season-opener vs. New England (9/7) was his first regular-season game action since 1996, since suffering a torn patellar tendon in the first quarter of the 1997 preseason opener vs. Buffalo (7/26). Postseason James saw action in the secondary and on special teams in all three games and recorded two solo tackles with two passes defended. The two tackles came in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9), and the pass breakups came in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) and Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). James added a special teams tackle in the Super Bowl.

1997 James was placed on injured reserve Aug. 18 following surgery to repair a torn patellar tendon in his right knee. The injury occurred in the first quarter of the Broncos' initial preseason game of the year, July 26, vs. Buffalo at Mile High Stadium. 1996 James saw action in the secondary and on special teams in all 16 regular season games and made two starts (at New England, 11/17; at Minnesota, 11/24) at right cornerback in place of the injured Lionel Washington (knee) and Randy Hilliard (ribs). He had already taken over the nickel back duties vs. Kansas City (10/27), and when Washington was hurt in that game James continued as the nickel back while Hilliard started at Oakland (11/4) and vs. Chicago (11/10). Hilliard was then hurt in the Chicago game, opening the door for James to start at New England and Minnesota while Washington eased back into play. For the season James posted 22 tackles (17 solo) and seven passes defended, and proved to be a big-play guy, snagging two interceptions, forcing a fumble and recovering a fumble. The forced fumble, the recovery and the first of his two interceptions all came vs. Seattle (12/1) in the contest in which Denver clinched its first AFC West title since 1991. James also made nine special teams stops, according to unofficial press box statistics. Versus Kansas City (10/27) James saw action as the nickel back for the first time, making two solo tackles, and also contributed on special teams in Denver's 34-7 win. In Game 11 at New England (11/17) James made his first career start, taking over the right cornerback spot with Lionel Washington just coming back from a knee injury and Randy Hilliard out with injured ribs. He responded with two tackles (1 solo) and two pass breakups, and added another tackle on special teams. The following week at Minnesota (11/24) James started for the second straight week and made five solo tackles in Denver's 21-17 victory. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) James saw action in a reserve role in the secondary, making two solo tackles, and also contributed on special teams. James was the Broncos' second overall selection in the 1996 draft, from LSU, chosen in the second round (44th overall).

COLLEGE: In his four years at Louisiana State, James played in 39 games (started 29) and made 117 tackles (81 solo), recovered three fumbles, caused one fumble, intercepted 11 passes, broke up 20 more, made two sacks (-9) and added five other tackles-for-loss (14). He returned one interception for a touchdown, and also played wide receiver as a freshman in 1992, catching six passes for 78 yards (13.0) with a long of 35 yards and one touchdown. He earned first-team All-Southeastern Conference honors as a junior in '94, and closed his career by being named to the All-America Dream Team by the Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft.

PERSONAL: James was All-District 10-5A as a defensive back and kick returner in his senior year at Archbishop Shaw High School in Marrero, La. He also starred in track and basketball during his prep career. James was criminal justice major at LSU. Tory Steven James was born May 18, 1973 in New Orleans, La. James is single and makes his home in Highlands Ranch, Colo.

Darrius Johnson has progressed remarkably in each of his first three seasons in Denver, and will now likely make a move to the safety position for 1999, proving to be a vital cog in the Broncos' defensive future. He has shown that he can be depended upon to carry his weight in the defensive backfield, and will likely be utilized in a way that will allow the Broncos to put their best players on the field, regardless of their previous positions. Over the past two seasons Johnson has seen considerable action in the secondary after playing primarily on special teams as a rookie. Johnson has now played in 45 NFL games and has 65 tackles (60 solo), including one sack (-11), with two interceptions (79 yds.), 18 pass breakups and one forced fumble. He has also participated in eight postseason games with 18 tackles (14 solo), two interceptions (76 yds.), four passes defended and a forced fumble. Johnson is tied for fourth on the Broncos' postseason interceptions list (2) and ranks second in interception return yardage (76). His special teams play also continues to be stellar, as he finished fourth on the team in 1998 with 14 stops. For his career Johnson has 43 in the regular season and four more in the postseason. Johnson joined the Broncos in 1996 as a fourth-round (No. 122 overall) draft choice out of Oklahoma.

1998: Johnson saw action in all 16 games as the Broncos' nickel back, posting 39 tackles (35 solo), including his first career sack (-11), as well as nine passes defended and the first two interceptions of his career (79 yds. in returns). He was also a big contributor on special teams where he made 14 tackles and forced a fumble (at K.C., 11/16). Johnson's first career interception came vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he picked off a Bobby Hoving pass with 1:20 left in the 1st half and returned it 45 yds. to the Denver 12-yd. line, setting up Denver's fifth touchdown of the half. He posted a career-high 6 solo tackles in the Broncos' 21-16 win at Seattle in Week 6, as he started the game in response to the Seahawks' three-wide receiver alignment. He then played the entire second half in place of Ray Crockett (ankle) at left cornerback, and saw extensive action both cornerback positions in the second half vs. Jacksonville (10/25) because of injuries to Crockett and Darrien Gordon. Johnson's second pickoff came at San Diego (11/29), when he plucked a Craig Whelihan pass in the 2nd qtr. and returned it 34 yds. Johnson's first career sack came in the season-finale vs. Seattle (12/27) when he dropped Jon Kitna for an 11-yard loss late in the game. He had started at nickel back. Preseason: Johnson played in all four games and recorded 14 tackles (12 solo), including a sack (-3), as well as two interceptions (43 yds.), four passes defended and two forced fumbles. He also registered a tackle and fumble recovery on special teams. Postseason: Johnson saw action in the secondary and on special teams in all three games and started the AFC Divisional and Championship Games because the Broncos opened the contests defensively in a nickel package. He tied for fourth among all Broncos in postseason tackles with 14 (10 solo), to go along with three passes defended, two interceptions, a forced fumble and a special teams tackle. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he made his first postseason interception to go along with a team-leading nine tackles (7 solo). Johnson made the most of his first postseason start by adding a pass defended and a forced fumble. Johnson's interception of a Dan Marino pass came in the 4th qtr. and was returned 48 yds., the second-longest postseason interception return in franchise history at the time (now fourth). He later forced a fumble after a reception by Oronde Gadsden, which was recovered by Neil Smith and returned 79 yds. for a touchdown. Johnson came up big again with in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) with four tackles (2 solo), a pass defended and a special teams tackle. In Super Bowl XXXI-II vs. Atlanta (1/31) Johnson added his second postseason interception, to go along with one solo tackle and a pass defended. The interception came midway through the 3rd qtr. and was returned 28 yds. to the Atlanta 47-yd. line.

1997: Johnson provided youth and talent in the secondary, and also made strong contributions on special teams, playing in all 16 games. The only game in which he did not see any defensive action was at Oakland (10/19), Denver's first loss of the season. He took over the nickel back duties vs. Seattle (11/2), and finished the year with 17 solo tackles and seven passes defended, the first four of which came in the Seattle contest. Johnson ranked second on the team in special teams tackles (16), and also forced two fumbles, recovered a fumble and scored a touchdown. He recovered a fumbled kickoff return on the opening play of the second half vs. Seattle (11/2) when Glenn Cadrez knocked the ball away from Ronnie Harris, and dashed six yards into the end for his first professional score, giving Denver a 20-10 lead en route to a 30-27 victory. He finished the day with three solo tackles and four pass breakups on defense. Just one week earlier he had distinguished himself by forcing a fumble on a kickoff return, which was recovered by Dwayne Carswell to start the second half in Denver 23-20 overtime victory (10/26). His second forced fumble came vs. Carolina (11/9) when he stripped Winslow Oliver on a punt return in the third quarter. His high tackle game of the season came on Monday Night Football vs. Oakland (11/24) when he posted four solos. He also three stops (all solo) each vs. Seattle (11/2) and at San Diego (11/30). In the post-season Johnson contributed as the nickel back in all four games and made four solo tackles with one pass defended, as well three tackles on special teams. He had one pass breakup and two special teams stops vs. Jacksonville in Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card victory (12/27). In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), Johnson posted one tackle as the nickel back, and then added two stops (both solo) and a special teams tackle in the AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98). In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Johnson recorded one solo tackle as the nickel back in Denver's 31-24 victory. 1996: Johnson played in 13 regular season games, both on defense and special teams. He missed Weeks 2-4 (at Seattle, 9/8; vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15; and at Kansas City, 9/22) after suffering a knee injury in the season-opener vs. the Jets (9/1), but returned to action in Week Five at Cincinnati (9/29). Johnson began the year as the No. 1 kickoff returner but was set back by the injury and played behind Vaughn Hebron for that role throughout the rest of the regular season. For the season Johnson made nine tackles (8 solo), knocked down two passes and forced a fumble on defense, and added 13 special teams tackles according to unofficial press box statistics. Versus Kansas City (10/27) he made two solo tackles on defense and added two more on special teams. At Oakland (11/4), in his first Monday Night Football game, Johnson saw action on special teams and made two tackles. At New England (11/17) Johnson played in the defensive secondary where he made three solo tackles, knocked down two passes and caused a fumble, while also contributing two special teams tackles. He made three tackles (2 solo) at Green Bay (12/8) and added three more on special teams. Johnson also played in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97).

COLLEGE: Johnson was a three-year starter in the secondary at Oklahoma, was twice named All-Big Eight first team, and finished his career with 208 tackles (149 solo), 12 interceptions, 30 pass break-ups, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He played in two bowl games — John Hancock (after 1993) and Copper (after '94) — and figures seventh on the Sooners' all-time punt return list with 497 yards. Johnson also excelled in track and field, earning All-America honors in 1993 as a member of the Sooners' 1600-meter relay team. He ran the third leg on the relay squad that clocked a 39.03 at the NCAA Championships in New Orleans, La.

PERSONAL: Johnson was a Class 4A first-team all-state selection at Terrell High School in Terrell, Texas, where he lettered three times as a cornerback, running back and kickoff returner. He recorded 2,014 rushing yards in his career, and also excelled in track and field in the long jump (23'-2"), 100 meters (10.5) and 200 meters (21.5). An organizational communications major at Oklahoma, Johnson was born Sept. 17, 1972 in Terrell, Texas. He and his wife, Teniqua, make their home in Aurora, Colo.

K.C. Jones made great strides last year, in what was essentially his rookie season in the NFL. After missing the 1997 season with a torn pectoral muscle, Jones was able to more practically apply in practice situations all that he had learned, and he now looks to make an even greater contribution in 1999. Jones entered the NFL as a rookie free agent with the Broncos out of Miami (Fla.) in '97.

1998: Jones was active for four of the 16 games (vs. N.E., 9/7; at Oak., 9/20; at Wash., 9/27 and vs. Phil., 10/4), but did not play. He was declared inactive for the other 12 games. In the preseason Jones played in the opener at St. Louis (8/8), but suffered a right foot sprain during the contest and missed the final three games. He returned to practice the week of the regular-season opener. Jones was declared inactive for all three postseason games.

1997: Jones tore a pectoral muscle in Denver's first mini-camp in 1997 and missed the entire season. He was placed on injured reserve Aug. 18. Jones originally signed with Denver as a rookie free agent May 2.

COLLEGE: Jones was a four-year starter at center for the University of Miami, grading out at 93% as a blocker in his 41 career games. He was an All-Big East selection his last three years at UM, including 1995, when he only played in the first four games due to torn ligaments in his knee, forcing him to miss the rest of the season. Miami won or shared the Big East title four of the five years Jones was there, only missing out in 1993. Jones was also a freshman All-America choice by the Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. He was a physical therapy major at Miami.

PERSONAL: Jones was a three-year starter and all-state center at Robert E. Lee High School in Midland, Texas, where he was team captain and named team MVP in 1991. Jones was the 10th-ranked prospect in the state of Texas as a senior by SuperPrep. His mother, Nancy, resides in Denver. Kirk Cameron Jones was born March 28, 1974 in Midland, Texas. Jones resides in Denver.

Tony Jones has been one of the Broncos' most valuable acquisitions of in recent years — and the most versatile and unselfish, as well. He has played at an elite level, at right tackle in 1997 and left tackle in 1998, as Denver won back-to-back World Championships. His Pro Bowl invitation in 1998 — the first of his career — speaks volumes about the performance he has put forth since joining the Broncos in a Feb. 14, 1997 trade from Baltimore. The Broncos sent their second-round pick in the '97 Draft to Baltimore for the rights to Jones, who stepped right in and helped the Broncos form the most effective offensive line in the NFL. Jones has proven over his 11-year career to be one of the top offensive linemen in the game and also showed his versatility to the Broncos by starting the season at left tackle and then flipping with Gary Zimmerman after the Broncos' sixth game, moving to right tackle and not missing a beat. Jones has also shown tremendous durability throughout his career, starting 146 of the 155 regular season games in which he has played, including a string of 105 starts in a row between 1989 and '96. He has started all but one game since the latter part of the 1989 season, and has also played in 12 postseason games and started 11: four at right tackle, five at left tackle and two at right guard. Jones entered the NFL as an undrafted rookie free agent with the Cleveland Browns in 1988.

1998: Jones — selected to the Pro Bowl as a reserve for the first time in his 11-year career — started at left tackle in all 16 games, playing through a groin strain in the Dallas contest (9/13) and a sprained left ankle at Seattle (10/11). The latter injury forced him to miss most of the third quarter, but he returned to play the final period as Denver went on to win 21-16. He suffered a mild left knee sprain vs. K.C. (12/6), but remained in the game. Jones played an integral role on an outstanding offensive line that allowed just 25 sacks — the third-lowest total for a full season in franchise history, and the lowest since 1971 — while paving the way for only the fourth 2,000-yard rusher in NFL history (Terrell Davis-2,008) and the league's second-most productive rushing attack at 154.3 yards per game. Postseason: Jones started at left tackle in all three postseason contests and helped pave the way for a rushing attack that averaged 183 yds.-per-game in the postseason. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he left the game midway through the 2nd qtr. with a twisted right knee and did not return. Jones, however, returned to practice during the week and was back in the starting lineup for the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), playing the whole game. He started and played the entirety of Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Jones started all 16 games in his first year with the Broncos, after being acquired in a trade with the Ravens during the offseason (2/14/97). He helped the Broncos produce the NFL's 4th-ranked running game (3rd in AFC) and the top-rated offense in the NFL, averaging 367 yards per game. Denver also scored a league-high and franchise record 472 points on the season, as they claimed the first Super Bowl championship in the teams' 38-year history. He and the rest of the offensive line opened holes that enabled Pro Bowl running back Terrell Davis to rush for a franchise-record 1,750 yards and 15 touchdowns. That unit also allowed only 35 sacks on the season and helped QB John Elway set a franchise record with 27 touchdown passes. The offense ran for more than 100 yards in 14 of 16 games and broke the 400-yard total offense number three times. Jones started the first six games at left tackle before moving to right tackle prior to the Oakland game (10/19), where he started the final 10. He missed a portion of the San Francisco game (12/15) after suffering a bruised right knee in the fourth quarter. An MRI done the following day proved negative. In the postseason Jones started all four games at right tackle as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed the Broncos to control games with a powerful rushing attack that averaged 187 yards per game. The offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for the Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). They also enabled Denver to rush for more than 100 yards in all four postseason contests — including five individual 100-yard performances in four games — culminating with 179 in Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII (1/25/98). 1996: Jones played in and started 15 games for the Ravens, running his streak of consecutive starts to 105. Jones' streak was ironically snapped when he missed the Ravens' Oct. 20 matchup with the Broncos at Mile High Stadium due to a knee injury suffered the week before at Indianapolis (10/13). A sprained knee also had forced him to miss most of the second half against New England (10/6). The Ravens' offense, which ranked third in the AFC (357.7), accumulated over 450 yards of total offense twice (vs. Jacksonville, 11/24 and vs. the Rams, 10/29) during the '96 season thanks in part to Jones' play at left tackle. His 100th career start came against a team that he will now be seeing twice a season, the Oakland Raiders (9/1). 1995: Jones started all 16 games at left tackle for the Browns in their final season in Cleveland, before the franchise's move and transformation into the Baltimore Ravens in 1996. His 100th consecutive start (including postseason) came at San Diego (12/3). He played in his 100th NFL game and his 91st career start in a 29-26 overtime Browns win at Cincinnati (10/29). Jones extended his consecutive start streak to 86 in a game at Houston (9/17), despite a sore groin. 1994: Jones, who started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the fifth consecutive season, earned second-team All-Pro honors from the Associated Press, UPI (AFC), College & Pro Football Newsweekly and Tom Jackson's Pro Football Update. During that season the team set a franchise record by allowing just 14 sacks. He also started both playoff games at left tackle (vs. New England, 1/1/95, and at Pittsburgh, 1/8/95). 1993: Jones started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the fourth consecutive season, missing just two quarters the entire season. In a 19-16 win at the Raiders (9/19) Jones held AFC sack leader Anthony Smith sackless after Smith had racked up four the previous week against Seattle. 1992: Jones started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the third consecutive season, despite having to play through a bad ankle he suffered Nov. 8 in a 24-14 Cleveland victory over Houston. He held Richard Dent and William Perry to no sacks and four tackles combined in a 27-14 win vs. Chicago (11/29). Jones held Chris Doleman to no sacks at Minnesota (11/22). He played his 50th game vs. Green Bay Oct. 18. 1991: Jones was one of four Cleveland offensive linemen to start all 16 games, the second consecutive season he had done so. He held Kansas City's Derrick Thomas sackless Nov. 24. 1990: Jones started all 16 games at right tackle, taking over for Cody Risien who retired prior to the start of training camp. 1989: Jones played in eight games, starting the final three of the regular season and both playoff contests at right guard. He started his second NFL game at right guard vs. Minnesota (12/17), then switched to right tackle when Cody Risien left the game with an eye injury late in regulation. Jones was activated from injured reserve before the Seattle game (11/12) after spending seven weeks on IR nursing a toe injury suffered in a Week Two win over the Jets (9/17). 1988: Jones played in the final four games of the season and one playoff game. He had been placed on injured reserve Aug. 29, 1988 with a toe injury. Jones was activated Oct. 22 and played in his first NFL game at Phoenix Oct. 23. He also played in Cleveland's Wild Card Game vs. Houston (12/24). Jones was a rookie free agent pickup by Cleveland May 20, 1988.

COLLEGE: Jones was a four-year letterman at Western Carolina University, garnering Most Improved Lineman and second-team All-Conference honors as a senior. He also ran track for the Catamounts. Jones returned to Western Carolina during the 1989 offseason to finish requirements for his degree (B.S.) in management (May '89).

PERSONAL: Jones played football, softball, basketball and ran track at Franklin County High School in Royston, Ga., winning MVP honors in football and basketball. He hails from the same hometown as baseball immortal Ty Cobb, however Jones has a street named after him in Royston (Tony Jones St.) and Cobb does not. Tony is involved in many off-the-field projects, such as Concern II, a sports carnival to help fund cancer research for children. He has also participated in the Diabetes Association "Swim for Diabetes" event and the American Lung Association's Celebrity Waiters' Luncheon. He has also headed a drive to increase adoption of minority children. Jones was married to Kamilla Orr on Valentine's Day 1992. They own two huge Rottweiler dogs. The couple's first child, Tony, Jr., was born May 27, 1995, three days after Tony, Sr.'s 29th birthday. They also have twins born March 13, 1999: a son, Kameron Tonius, and daughter, Kamilla Tonique. Jones enjoys swimming, softball, tennis and basketball. He wants to own a restaurant and clothing store after his playing career is finished. Jones is renowned for being one of the sharpest dressers in the NFL. He earned his nickname "T-Bone" in college when he would steal steaks from the younger players on the team during Wednesday "steak nights." Jones joined Broncos offensive linemen David Diaz-Infante and Mark Schlereth for an appearance on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien show in late January 1998, days after the Broncos' Super Bowl victory over Green Bay. Anthony Edward Jones was born May 24, 1966 in Royston, Ga.

Matt Lepsis enters the 1999 season with a significant opportunity to challenge for the starting right tackle position vacated by the departure of Harry Swayne via free agency. Lepsis, in his third NFL season, saw his first professional play a year ago after missing his entire first year in the league due to injury, and showed he has great promise for the future. He honed his skills before the '98 season by playing in the NFL Europe League for the Barcelona Dragons during the spring. Injuries from his college career at Colorado relegated him to the reserve/non-football injury list in 1997. He had signed with the Broncos that year (4/29/97) as a rookie free agent from the University of Colorado.

1998: Lepsis saw action in all 16 games on special teams, and limited duty as a reserve tackle. He played in his first professional regular season game in the season-opener vs. New England (9/7), replacing Harry Swayne at right tackle early in the fourth quarter and playing the remainder of the game. At Washington (9/27) Lepsis lined up as an eligible receiver on the line in a goal-line situation. He also played the fourth quarter at right tackle vs. Philadelphia (10/4) and the third quarter at right tackle at Seattle (10/11). Postseason Lepsis played in all three postseason games, both on the offensive line and on special teams. He played the final 2-1/2 quarters at right tackle in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) after Tony Jones left the game with a knee injury. Regular right tackle Harry Swayne moved to Jones' left tackle position, while Lepsis — playing in his first-ever postseason game — filled in admirably for Swayne on the right side, as the offensive line gave up just one sack for the day and cleared the way for 250 rushing yards. Earlier in the game, Lepsis was in on several offensive snaps as an eligible receiver, while also seeing action on special teams throughout the contest. He played on offense and special teams again in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), seeing several offensive plays as an eligible receiver on the line. Lepsis also saw action in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Lepsis spent the season on the reserve/non-football injury list due to a college knee injury.

COLLEGE: Lepsis played in 36 games as a tight end for Colorado (including bowl games), with 16 starts. He caught 45 passes for 519 yards and 3 touchdowns, including a two-yard reception for a score in the 1996 Cotton Bowl win over Oregon, capping a junior season in which he earned second-team All-Big Eight honors. Lepsis graded out as a 90% blocker during his career at CU and added seven special teams tackles to his credit. He also lettered three times in track at CU and was a two-time All-American in the discus with a collegiate best of 196 feet. Lepsis was a history major.

PERSONAL: Lepsis was an All-Southwest selection at Frisco (Texas) High School, where he was the Class 3A Defensive Player of the Year and a two-time state discus champion. He had the second-best discus throw in the country in 1992 (204'-8") and was also a member of the National Honor Society. Lepsis also bench presses more than 400 pounds and squats more than 600 pounds. He and teammate K.C. Jones have a friendship that dates back to their high school years, though the two attended different colleges. Lepsis was born January 13, 1974 in Conroe, Texas. He resides in Parker, Colo.

BORN: Aug. 11, 1967 in Detroit, Mich.
HIGH SCHOOL: Brother Rice High School, Birmingham, Mich.
RESIDES: Birmingham, Mich.
ACQUIRED: Unrestricted Free Agent (Buffalo), 1995
PRO YEAR: 10th • YEAR WITH BRONCOS: 5th
NFL GAMES PLAYED/STARTED: 139/29 • POSTSEASON: 21/1

Mike Lodish returns for his fifth year in Denver — and his 10th in the NFL — as a strong, veteran force on the defensive line. Lodish has earned the distinction of being the only player in the history of the National Football League to appear in six Super Bowls, claiming his second World Championship ring with Denver's 34-19 win over Atlanta in Super Bowl XXXIII last January. For his career, Lodish has appeared in 139 regular season games (29 starts) and amassed 136 tackles (94 solo), including nine sacks (-59), with four passes defended and four fumble recoveries, one of which he returned for a touchdown. He has also appeared in 21 postseason games, and started one (with Denver, vs. Jacksonville, 1/4/97), recording 11 solo tackles. Lodish entered the NFL in 1990 as a 10th-round draft choice (No. 265 overall) of the Buffalo Bills, with whom he spent his first five NFL seasons. He played in four Super Bowls with the Bills (SBs XXVI, XXVII, XXVIII and XXIX), and has now played in the past two with Denver, winning both (SBs XXXII and XXXIII).

1998: Lodish saw action on the defensive line in 15 of the 16 games and posted 14 tackles (7 solo), including two sacks (-11). He made one start, at Oakland (9/20), in place of an injured Keith Traylor. Lodish's first sack came early in the fourth quarter vs. Philadelphia (Bobby Hoving), as part of a two-tackle performance, and his second came at Cincinnati (11/1) when he dropped Neil O'Donnell for a 4-yd loss in the 3rd qtr. Lodish was a game-day inactive at Miami (12/21).

Postseason: Lodish saw action on the defensive line in all three contests. By playing in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta, Lodish became the only player in NFL history to play in six Super Bowls (4 with Buffalo and 2 with Denver).

1997: Lodish re-signed with Denver Aug. 5 as an unrestricted free agent and played in all 16 games on the defensive line, making 14 tackles (9 solo), including one sack (-7.5), to go along with a fumble recovery. He was credited with a half a sack each vs. Carolina (11/9) and St. Louis (9/14). Lodish's fumble recovery came in the third quarter vs. Oakland (11/24) after John Mobley stripped the ball from Napoleon Kaufman, and set up a Broncos field goal. He had three tackles each against Carolina (11/9) and at Pittsburgh (12/7) with two solos in each game. He also had two solo stops in Denver's 34-13 Monday Night Football win over New England (10/6). In the post-season Lodish played in all four games as a reserve defensive tackle and recorded three solo tackles, including two in Super Bowl XXXII, as he tied an NFL record by becoming the ninth player in league history to play in five Super Bowl games. He was instrumental in the Broncos' AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), recovering a Steelers fumble after Neil Smith sacked quarterback Kordell Stewart on the last play of the third quarter, killing another Steelers' drive and helping the Broncos hold on for a 24-21 victory. His other solo tackle came in the AFC Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98). 1996: Lodish started all 16 games for the Broncos at left defensive tackle, making 30 tackles (19 solo), including 1.5 sacks (-8.5). His season high of five solo tackles came in the finale at San Diego (12/22). Lodish had half a sack each at Seattle (9/8), at Oakland (11/4) and vs. Seattle (12/1). He started in Denver's lone playoff contest, vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97). 1995: Lodish played in all 16 games, contributing four solo tackles, in his first year with the Broncos after signing in the offseason as an unrestricted free agent from Buffalo. At New England (10/8), Lodish saw action on the defensive line, and finished with two solo tackles. In the season finale at Oakland (12/24), Lodish saw action on the defensive line, making one solo tackle. 1994: Lodish played in all 16 of the Bills' games, starting five. He had 17 tackles (nine solo), three quarterback pressures, and one fumble recovery. He started the first five games of the season in place of an injured Jeff Wright. In Week Two vs. New England (9/11), Lodish recovered a fumble in the end zone for Buffalo's only second half touchdown (and the second of his career) against the Patriots in a 38-35 victory. Cornerback Mickey Washington and Bruce Smith forced the fumble by Drew Bledsoe. Lodish played in a reserve role for the remainder of the regular season. 1993: Lodish played in all 16 games, including one start, and registered seven stops (all solo), one half of a sack and two quarterback pressures. He also played in all three playoff games, registering two stops (both solo). On 10/11 he combined with Mickey Washington for a sack of Warren Moon in a 35-7 Monday night victory. On 11/1, he saw extensive action vs. Washington, recording one quarterback pressure in a 24-10 win. He recorded his second career fumble recovery at Miami

(12/19) as the Bills came from behind to beat the Dolphins 47-34. He had one unassisted stop in both the AFC Championship Game vs. Kansas City (1/23) and Super Bowl XXVIII vs. Dallas (1/30). 1992: Lodish played in all 16 games and in all four playoff games. He was part of a defensive line that helped the Bills finish tied for second in the NFL in defense against the run. He had seven stops on the year (five solo), one half of a sack, four quarterback pressures, one pass defended, and a fumble recovery on which he scored his first NFL touchdown. He scooped up a fumble by Hugh Millen and rumbled 18 yards for a score at New England (9/27) in a 41-7 victory. He also had a half a sack at New Orleans (12/20) in a 20-16 victory. 1991: Lodish played in all 16 games, starting six, and also played in all three playoff games. He finished the regular season with 37 tackles (28 solo), one and a half sacks, four quarterback pressures, two passes defended and one forced fumble. Lodish also added two stops in postseason play. He filled in admirably in the absence of both Bruce Smith and Jeff Wright during the season. Lodish received his first NFL start vs. Miami (9/1) in place of Smith, and then received another start the next week at nose tackle in place of Wright vs. Pittsburgh (9/8). He recorded his third career sack and his first career forced fumble at the Jets in a 23-20 win. He recorded two solo stops in Super Bowl XXVI vs. Washington (1/26). 1990: Lodish played in 12 games as a rookie, as well as all three playoff games. He registered six tackles (all solo), a career-high two sacks, two QB pressures and one pass defended in the regular season, and added two solo stops in three postseason games. Lodish was part of a defense that ranked eighth in the league in total defense in 1990. He recorded his first career sack against Randall Cunningham and the Eagles (12/2). His second career sack came against Dan Marino vs. Miami (12/23). Lodish also had two solo stops in Super Bowl XXV vs. the New York Giants (1/27). Lodish was Buffalo's 10th-round selection in the 1990 NFL Draft, the 265th player taken overall.

COLLEGE: Lodish was an All-Pac-10 performer at UCLA, where he and his Bruin teammates went to a bowl game in each of his first three seasons there (Freedom, Aloha and Cotton). In 1987, his Bruins tied for the Pac-10 Conference title with USC. Lodish was a candidate for the Outland Trophy and Lombardi Award as a senior when he earned second-team All-Pac-10 honors. Lodish was an extraordinarily strong athlete at Westwood, squatting over 650 pounds for the school record in that category. He recorded 193 tackles with 14 sacks and three interceptions in his Bruin career. In 1987 and '88 he was part of a defense that ranked in the Top 10 in the nation against the run, allowing just 95 yards per game over those two seasons. The defensive line coach at that time was current Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson, and one of his defensive linemen (1986-87) was new Broncos defensive assistant coach Terry Turney. Mike was a history major with a specialization in business administration.

PERSONAL: Lodish lettered three years in football at Brother Rice (Birmingham, Mich.) High School, where he led his team to the Michigan State Class A title in 1983. He also lettered in lacrosse and hockey. Lodish was named All-America by Adidas-Scholastic Coach. Lodish is single and makes his offseason home in Birmingham, Mich. Michael Timothy Lodish was born Aug. 11, 1967 in Detroit, Mich.

Derek Loville has proven to be a valuable asset to the Broncos' offense and special teams since his acquisition by the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent during the 1997 offseason. A hard runner who hits the hole quickly and uses his blockers well, while also excelling as a receiver out of the backfield, Loville has played in 101 career games (23 starts) with 1,417 yards rushing and 15 touchdowns. He has also caught 109 passes for 865 yards and five more scores, and can also be used as a kick returner when called upon, as his 61-yard kickoff return at San Francisco (12/15/97) and his 22.1-yard career average attest. Loville has also played in 13 postseason games (one start) and owns three Super Bowl rings, two with Denver (Super Bowl XXXII and XXXIII) and one with San Francisco (XXIX), placing him among an elite group of just 30 NFL players to win a ring with two different teams and one of only 13 to win one in each conference. In just two postseasons with the Broncos (seven games), Loville already ranks fifth on the club's postseason rushing list with 152 yards. Loville entered the NFL with Seattle in 1990 as a rookie free agent out of Oregon.

1998. Loville saw action on special teams and at halfback in all 16 games, carrying 53 times for 161 yards (3.0) with a long of 12 and two touchdowns, catching two passes for 29 yds. (14.5) with a long of 17 and returning six kickoffs for 105 yards (17.5) with a long of 25. His first TD came in the 4th qtr. at Washington (9/27) on a 1-yd. run to give Denver a 38-10 lead, and his second put the lid on a 30-7 Denver win at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football. That contest saw Loville post season-highs in both carries (10) and rushing yds. (40). Loville also posted 13 tackles (season-high 2 vs. Jax., 10/25 and at Oak., 9/20) and forced a fumble on special teams. The forced fumble came on a first-quarter kickoff return by Philadelphia's Allen Rossum in Week Five (10/4) and was recovered by Tory James to set up Denver's record-setting fourth touchdown of the quarter. Loville carried five times for 29 yds. vs. Oakland (11/22) and recorded his longest carry of the year (12 yds.) His one pass reception (12 yds.) came at Miami (12/21) from Bubby Brister in a game in which he also returned a kickoff 25 yds. for his longest return of the season. Preseason Loville played in all four games and carried the ball a team-high 40 times for 104 yards (2.6) with a long of 9 and one touchdown, while also catching six passes for 48 yards (8.0) with a long of 17. He also averaged 22.3 yards on four kickoff returns (89 yds.) with a long of 25, and made one special teams tackle. Postseason: Loville saw action on offense and special teams in all three games, rushing 12 times for 49 yds. (4.1) with a long of 11 yds. and one touchdown, which came in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9). In that game he carried eight times for 34 yds (4.3), and his 11-yd. TD dash came in the 2nd qtr. to give Denver a 21-3 lead. It was Loville's longest run of the day and moved him into third-place in postseason rushing touchdowns by a Bronco with three (Davis-12, Elway-6). Loville also made one tackle on special teams vs. Miami. He carried the ball twice for seven yds. (3.5) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) to move into fifth place on the Broncos' all-time postseason rushing list, passing Gene Lang (138). Loville carried twice for eight yards (4.0) and made one special teams tackle in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Loville played in all 16 games, contributing both on offense and special teams. He carried the ball 25 times for 124 yards (5.0) with a long of 17 and one touchdown, and caught two passes for 10 yards, while contributing five kickoff returns for 136 yards (27.2) — including a career-best long of 61 yards (12/15 at San Francisco) — and making one tackle. He had five carries for 22 yards (long of 9) in Denver's 35-14 victory over Seattle in Week Two (9/7), and did not have another carry until Nov. 24 against Oakland, when he had six for 36 (season-long of 17). His high rushing game of the season came in the finale vs. San Diego (12/21) when he led the team with 14 carries for 66 yards (4.7), and scored his only touchdown of the season on a 6-yard run in the fourth quarter. In the postseason Loville played in all four games and posted 13 carries for 103 yards (7.9) and two touchdowns with a long of 44 yards, and one reception for 10 yards. He was instrumental in securing Denver's Wild Card victory over Jacksonville (12/27/97) when he took over for an injured Terrell Davis (ribs) in the second half and went on to rush for a career-high 103

yards on 11 carries (9.4) and score two touchdowns, while also recording his one pass reception. The rushing total represented Loville's first career 100-yard rushing game, and, at the time, was one of three 100-yard games posted by a Bronco in the playoffs. It now ranks sixth on the Broncos' all-time postseason single-game rushing list, and his 9.4-yards per carry average in the game is the best by a Bronco in the postseason. With Loville's 103 yards and Davis' 184, the Broncos became just the third team in NFL playoff history to boast two 100-yard rushers in the same game. His 44-yard gallop in that game is the third-longest run from scrimmage by a Bronco in the postseason, and his career 7.9-yards per carry average as a Bronco in the postseason is the best in franchise history. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), Loville carried the ball twice for zero net yards and returned one kickoff 20 yards. He also had a special teams tackle in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) 1996: Loville played in 12 games with San Francisco, starting six at halfback. He also played in both postseason contests, returning four kicks for 86 yards and rushing twice for minus three yards. Loville finished the season with 229 rushing yards on 70 carries (3.3) and 138 more yards on 16 receptions (8.6), while also returning 10 kickoffs for 229 yards. Loville was inactive for four games (at St. Louis, at Washington, at Atlanta and vs. Carolina). In Week One at New Orleans (9/1) he was the team leader with 16 carries for 61 yards, including a four-yard touchdown, while also adding three receptions for 15 yards. Loville carried the ball 12 times for 49 yards, including a two-yard touchdown, and caught two passes for six yards vs. St. Louis (9/8). He caught six passes for 85 yards, including a 44-yard touchdown, and carried the ball seven times for 20 yards at Carolina (9/22). Loville started in place of Terry Kirby in the regular season finale vs. Detroit (12/23) on Monday Night Football and rushed for 66 yards on 14 carries. He also caught four passes on the night for 32 yards, including a one-yard score, and returned two kickoffs for 58 yards. 1995: Loville started all 16 games for San Francisco, winning a heated battle in training camp for the spot vacated by Ricky Watters who signed with Philadelphia. He led the team in rushing with career highs in yards (723) and attempts (218) while tying a team record with 10 rushing touchdowns. Loville ranked second on the team in receptions with 87 (662 yards, 3 touchdowns), the fifth-highest reception total by a running back in NFL history. He gained 49 yards on 14 carries and caught six passes for 37 yards at New Orleans (9/3) in the regular season opener. A week later he ran 14 times for 61 yards and scored his first touchdown of the year, while catching six passes for 50 yards. vs. Atlanta (9/10). Loville ran 15 times for 51 yards and added 78 yards on eight receptions at Miami the following week. Loville's most productive game of the season came against Buffalo when he touched the ball 34 times from scrimmage and racked up 174 total yards. Those numbers included career highs in carries (24), rushing yards (88), receptions (10) and receiving yards (86), with one touchdown on an eight-yard run. He had his second multiple-touchdown game at Carolina (12/10), scoring on runs of 1 and 7 yards. He had eight receptions for 70 yards in San Francisco's NFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Green Bay (1/6/96). 1994: Loville, who signed with the 49ers before the season, played in 14 games, totaling 31 carries for 99 yards and two receptions for 26 yards. He also returned two kicks for 34 yards and had eight special teams tackles. The 49ers went on to capture Super Bowl XXIX in Miami against San Diego (1/29/95). He was inactive for the season opener against the Raiders (9/5/94) and the season finale at Minnesota (12/26). Loville had a season-high nine rushing attempts for 20 yards at Atlanta (10/16) and gained 22 yards on five rushes while catching one pass for 19 yards vs. Denver (12/17). He also ran 22 times for 69 yards. 1990: Loville played in 11 games, including his first professional start in the regular season opener at Chicago (9/10) when he rushed seven times for 12 yards. He was signed by the Seahawks as a rookie free agent in 1990.

COLLEGE: Loville was a four-year letterman at Oregon, rushing for 3,214 yards and 45 touchdowns, both school records. He also scored 272 points in his career, another school mark. Loville broke all the records that were set by former Ducks standout Bobby Moore (Ahmad Rashad) from 1969-71. He was the team leader in rushing all four years, with a high of 1,202 yards during his junior year of 1988. His 45 touchdowns rank fourth all-time in the Pac-10 Conference.

PERSONAL: Loville played football and ran track at Archbishop Riordan High School in his hometown of San Francisco, Calif. Riordan is also the alma mater of former Broncos great Steve Sewell. Ed McCaffrey's career took a major turn in a positive direction in 1998, as he posted the best numbers of his eight NFL seasons and earned his first Pro Bowl berth. McCaffrey had been productive and consistent at the wide receiver position for the Broncos in each of his three years with the club, but 1998 proved to be a breakout year of sorts, as he posted career highs for receptions (64), yards (1,053), average (16.5) and touchdowns (10), tying for the AFC lead in the latter. The ninth-year pro, who signed with Denver as an unrestricted free agent in 1995, continues to be one of the most stable performers in the league at his position, showing an unerring ability to make the tough catch in clutch situations. McCaffrey, one of the best route-runners in the league, has played in 125 games (53 starts) over his eight-year career, catching 299 passes for 3,895 yards (13.0) and 36 touchdowns. He has also played in 13 postseason games (eight starts) and caught 34 passes for 479 yards (14.1) with a long of 47 and two touchdowns, winning World Championships with the Broncos (1997 and 1998) and 49ers (1994). McCaffrey is one of just 30 players in NFL history to win a Super Bowl with two different teams, and one of only 13 to win one in each conference. He entered the NFL in 1991 as a fourth-round draft choice of the New York Giants (No. 83 overall) out of Stanford.

1998: McCaffrey — selected to start in the Pro Bowl for the first time in his eight-year career; named second-team All-NFL by the Associated Press and All-AFC by Football News — started at wide receiver in 15 of the 16 games and enjoyed the finest statistical season of his career in all four receiving categories with 1,053 yds. on 64 receptions for an average of 16.5, with 10 touchdowns. He enjoyed an exemplary year off the field, as well, being named the "Sprint Broncos Man of the Year" for 1998. McCaffrey tied for the AFC lead in receiving TDs (T6th NFL), tied for sixth (T13th NFL) in total TDs, ranked sixth in the AFC (14th NFL) in receiving yards and tied for 15th in receptions, while his yards-per-catch avg. of 16.5 ranked sixth in the AFC (11th NFL). He posted a reception of 32 yds. or longer in 9 of the 15 games he played in '98 (32, 33, 37, 38, 41, 41, 44, 48, 48), finished the year having scored 13 TDs in his last 18 regular season games, dating back to the 1997 season. He turned in an outstanding '98 debut vs. New England (9/7), leading all receivers with seven catches for 97 yards (13.9), while also recovering a Patriots onside kick attempt in the final two minutes. His longest reception (44 yds.) came on the first play of the game and tied for the longest of his career. He followed that with a then-career-high 117 yards on five receptions vs. Dallas (9/13), including a 38-yard reception from backup QB Bubba Brister in the fourth quarter. His first two touchdowns of the season came in Week Three at Oakland (9/20), on a 1-yd. reception from John Elway and a 13-yd. grab from Brister, followed by a 19-yd. TD reception from Brister the next week at Washington (9/27). In Week 5 vs. Philadelphia (10/4) McCaffrey caught two passes for 60 yds., including a career-best 48-yarder from Brister on the first play from scrimmage, and his fourth touchdown of the year on a 12-yd. reception in the second quarter. He led all Denver receivers in yardage vs. Jacksonville (10/25) with 92 on three receptions, including a 41-yd. TD from Elway on the first play of the 2nd qtr., his fifth TD of the year. McCaffrey posted a new career high with 133 receiving yds. at Cincinnati (11/1) on seven receptions (19.0), including his sixth TD of the season. The score came on a 25-yd. pass from Elway in the 4th qtr. of a 33-26 come-from-behind win. He matched that career high, as well as his career-high for receptions, with a 9-133 performance vs. San Diego (11/8), which included a 7-yd. touchdown reception from Brister, his seventh of the year. It came early in the 3rd qtr. and gave Denver a 20-0 lead. McCaffrey posted back-to-back 100-yd. games for the first time in his career during the 1998 season (7-133 at Cin., 11/1 and 9-33 vs. S.D., 11/8), and recorded four of his six career 100-yd. games in 1998. Additionally, it marked just the sixth time in Broncos history that a player has posted receiving totals of 130 yds. or more in back-to-back games. McCaffrey caught one pass for 19 yds. at Kansas City (11/16) before leaving the game in the 1st qtr. with a hamstring strain. That injury also forced him to miss his first start of the season a week later vs. Oakland (11/22), as he was declared inactive the day of the game. McCaffrey bounced back a week later at San Diego (11/29), returning to the starting lineup and catching 5 passes for 74 yds. (14.8) and 2 TDs, both coming in the 1st qtr. on passes of 15 and 37 yds. from John Elway. The two scores gave him a career-high 9 for the season, and the five receptions allowed him to match his career high of 49. McCaffrey extended his career-high TD total to 10 vs. Kansas City (12/6), part of a 6-catch, 103-yd. performance that saw him break his previous single-season best of 49 catches, finishing the day at 55. It was McCaffrey's fourth 100-yd. game of the year, and the sixth of his career, and included a 48-yd. reception from Elway, tying the longest of McCaffrey's career. McCaffrey joined Rod Smith (165 yds.) to give Denver two 100-yd. receivers in the same game for the first time since Nov. 20, 1994 vs. Atlanta (Cedric Tillman—175, Anthony Miller—102). McCaffrey went over the 1,000-yd. receiving mark for the season with his 42 yds. at Miami (12/21), joining Rod Smith (1,222) to give Denver two 1,000-yd. receivers in the same season for the just the third time in franchise history (1994 and '97). McCaffrey suffered a tendon tear in his left ring finger in practice Aug. 11, and missed one preseason game (vs. New Orleans, 8/14). Postseason: McCaffrey started at wide receiver in all three postseason games and caught 11 passes for 190 yds. (17.3) with a long of 47, the longest postseason reception of his career (vs. the Jets, 1/17/99). In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he caught three passes for 52 yds. (17.3), and followed that up with three more catches for a team-high 66 yds. (22.0) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). He was superb again in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), catching five passes for 72 yds. with a long of 25, all in the second half. McCaffrey now ranks fourth on the Broncos' all-time postseason list for receptions (28), and ranks fifth in receiving yards (415).

1997: McCaffrey started 15 of the 16 games at wide receiver and ranked fourth on the team in receptions, with 45 for 590 yards (13.1), a long of 35 yards and a career-best eight touchdowns, tied for fifth-most receiving touchdowns in the AFC. McCaffrey missed his only game of the season in Week 15 at Pittsburgh (12/7) when he was declared inactive because of a strained hamstring. His first big performance of the 1997 season came at Seattle (9/7) in Week Two when he was matched up with rookie CB Shawn Springs and produced one of the biggest days of his career, catching eight passes for 93 yards and two touchdowns in Denver's 35-14 victory. Against St. Louis the next week (9/14) he had just one reception, but it was a 23-yard touchdown in the third quarter that put Denver ahead 35-7, en route to a 35-14 victory. The following week he caught his third touchdown of the season, a 32-yarder against Cincinnati (9/21) in Denver's 38-20 victory. He finished the day with four receptions for 62 yards. At Oakland (10/19) McCaffrey had three receptions for 61 yards and a 28-yard touchdown that brought Denver to within 28-25 in the fourth quarter, the score by which Denver would drop its first game of the season. In Denver's next matchup with the Raiders (11/24) he had four catches for 51 yards, including a diving 35-yard reception that set up Denver's first touchdown of the game en route to a 31-3 win on Monday Night Football. The next Sunday at San Diego, McCaffrey caught seven passes for a career-high 111 receiving yards (the second 100-yard game of his career) in Denver's 38-28 win. In that game he caught two touchdown passes (4 and 21 yards) to raise his total to seven, ending a five-game scoring drought since catching his fifth in the fourth quarter at Oakland (10/19). He closed the regular season with a four-catch, 32-yard performance that included his eighth touchdown of the year to set a new personal high. The touchdown came on a 1-yard reception from John Elway in the second quarter to put Denver ahead 21-3, en route to a 38-3 victory. In the postseason McCaffrey started at wide receiver in all four games and tied for the team lead in receptions (12) with Shannon Sharpe, covering 171 yards (14.3) with one touchdown, as he joined a list of just 30 players in NFL history to win a Super Bowl with more than one team (San Francisco, SB XXIX). In the Wild Card Game against Jacksonville (12/27) he caught two passes for 35 yards, including a 25-yarder on the Broncos' first possession on third-and-15 that kept the drive alive and set up their first score of the day in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98). McCaffrey caught three passes for 56 yards, including a 43-yarder on third-and-five early in the fourth quarter that set up Terrell Davis' game-winning touchdown with 12:32 remaining. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) he caught five passes for 37 yards, including a one-yard score right before the half to give Denver a 24-14 advantage. The Broncos held on to win 24-21 and advanced to their first Super Bowl in eight years. In Super Bowl XXXII against Green Bay, McCaffrey caught two passes for a team-high 45 yards, including a 36-yarder in the third quarter on Denver's 13-play, 92-yard drive (the longest of the game) that put them ahead 24-17. He also threw a crushing block on Packers' linebacker Brian Williams to free Howard Griffith for the bulk of his yardage on a 23-yard pass play from Elway that set up Denver's game-winning touchdown late in the fourth quarter. 1996: McCaffrey started 15 of the 16 regular season games at wide receiver opposite Anthony Miller and posted the second-best totals of his career with 48 receptions for 553 yards (11.5) and a long of 39 yards with a career-high seven touchdowns. He missed the Chicago game (11/10) when he was declared inactive because of a lower-back bruise. McCaffrey established a career high and tied a Broncos franchise record with three touchdown receptions against Baltimore (10/20). Easily his most dramatic touchdown catch of the year came at Minnesota (11/24) when he hauled in a five-yard John Elway pass that was tipped in the air three times by Vikings players, catching it at the one-yard line and diving backwards into the endzone for the score with 19 seconds left in the game. His longest reception of the year was a 39-yard touchdown from Elway in the season-opener against the Jets (9/1), and his most historic was his catch of Elway's 250th career touchdown pass in the second quarter vs. Seattle (12/1). McCaffrey sprained his ankle in practice Sept. 11 but was able to play four days later against Tampa Bay (9/15). In the season-opener vs. the Jets (9/1), McCaffrey started at wide receiver and caught a team-high four passes (tied with Shannon Sharpe) for 61 yards (15.3), including a 39-yard touchdown to put the Broncos ahead 14-0. In week five at Cincinnati (9/29) he caught five passes for 80 yards in a true iron-man performance. He was the victim of several vicious hits, but managed to return to the game each time, earning high praise from his teammates in the lockerroom after the Broncos' 14-10 victory. Versus San Diego (10/6) McCaffrey caught five passes for 58 yards with one touchdown (9 yards) and a long of 31 yards. His touchdown came with 8:22 remaining in the game, and put Denver ahead by the eventual final margin of 28-17. Two weeks later vs. Baltimore, McCaffrey tied a Broncos franchise record with three touchdown receptions, coming on passes of 4, 6 and 8 yards from Elway. In all he caught seven passes for 76 yards. His third TD of the day, a 6-yarder with 10:57 remaining, put the Broncos on top 38-34 en route to a 45-34 win. He had one of his best games of the year at Minnesota (11/24), catching six passes for a season-high 83 yards and one touchdown. His touchdown provided the winning points in Denver's 21-17 come-from-behind win, as he hauled in a thrice tipped five-yard pass from Elway with 19 seconds remaining in the game, and lunged backwards into the end zone for the score. It was his sixth touchdown of the year, surpassing his previous best of five as a New York Giant in 1992. Versus Seattle (12/1) he caught a team-high five passes for 43 yards with a long of 12 and one touchdown. His four-yard touchdown reception in the second quarter was the 250th touchdown pass of Elway's career, ninth-most in NFL history. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) McCaffrey started his first playoff game and caught five passes for 54 yards, including a long of 15 yards for his one touchdown on the day. His score came with 1:50 remaining in the game and pulled Denver to within 30-27. 1995: McCaffrey played in all 16 games and made four starts (vs. Buffalo 9/3, at San Diego 9/24, at Seattle 10/1 and vs. Kansas City 10/22). Quarterback Chris Miller comes to the Broncos in 1999 after spending the past three years out of football due to medical advice following several head concussions. Miller is a proven veteran who seeks to add experience and depth to the Broncos' quarterback situation after the retirement of John Elway. He has played in 95 NFL games (89 starts) and thrown for 18,793 yards and 121 touchdowns, with a career quarterback rating of 74.8. His regular season record as a starting QB is 32-57. Miller entered the NFL in 1987 as Atlanta's No. 1 draft choice (No. 13 overall) and played seven seasons with the Falcons. He signed with the Rams as an unrestricted free agent in 1994 and played two seasons with the club. Miller has posted nine 300-yard passing games in his career: 3 in 1989, 2 in '90, 2 in '91, 1 in '92, 1 in '94 and 2 in '95).

1996-98: Miller was out of football due to medical advice following several head concussions. 1995: Miller played for the Rams in their first year in St. Louis, starting the first 13 games of the season, throwing for 2,623 yards and 18 touchdowns with 15 interceptions. He also rushed for 67 yards on 22 carries. Miller was inactive for the Buffalo game (12/10) and was placed on injured reserve for the last two games of the season with a concussion. 1994: Miller played in 13 games (10 starts) in his first year with the Rams (their last year in L.A.), and threw for 2,104 yards and 16 touchdowns, while rushing for 100 yards on 20 carries. He relieved Chris Chandler (concussion) in the fourth quarter against the Broncos Nov. 6 and replaced Chandler in the second half the next week against the Raiders. Miller broke the 15,000-yard career passing mark in the fourth quarter of that game, and recorded the first 300-yard passing game of his Rams career, and his ninth overall, in the season finale against Washington (12/24). Miller signed with the Rams as an unrestricted free agent. 1993 Miller missed most of the season in his final year with the Falcons because of a knee injury. He played in three games and threw for 345 yards, one touchdown and three interceptions while rushing for 11 yards on two carries. Miller did not play in the team's lone playoff contest. 1992 Miller missed the last eight games of the season after suffering a knee injury against the Rams Nov. 1. Prior to the injury, Miller led the NFC in touchdowns and completions, and had the best TD-to-INT ratio in the league. He threw for 1,739 yards and 15 touchdowns on the year and rushed for 89 yards on 23 carries. Miller completed 30 of 48 passes for 351 yards and a career-high four touchdowns against Chicago (9/27), and threw for 366 yards against New Orleans (10/7). He threw for a career-high 366 yards against the Saints (10/7) and threw for 337 yards against the 49ers (9/22). 1989 Miller played in and started 15 games for the Falcons, throwing for a career-high 3,459 yards and 16 touchdowns, while rushing for 20 yards on 10 carries. He led the NFL in interceptions avoidance percentage (1.9) and recorded three 300-yard games (vs. Rams, 10/8; vs. Washington, 12/17 and Detroit, 12/24). Against the Lions he posted career highs in completions (37) and attempts (66). He also kicked a 25-yard field goal that season. (11/12 at San Francisco) 1988 Miller played in and started 13 games for the Falcons, throwing for 2,133 yards and 11 touchdowns, while also rushing for 138 yards on 31 carries. He had his first three-touchdown game that year against Philadelphia (10/30). 1987 Miller played in three games, starting two for the Falcons in his rookie season. He missed all of training camp in a contract dispute and eventually signed Oct. 30. His first professional action came against the Rams Dec. 13, and his first start came at San Francisco Dec. 20. He threw for 552 yards and one touchdown on the year, and ran for 21 yards on four carries. He was the Falcons first-round pick (13th overall) in the 1987 draft.

As a senior, he set school marks for passing yards (2,503), completions (216) completion percentage (60.7) and total offense (2,549), and became the first Pac-10 quarterback to earn back-to-back first-team all-conference honors since Jim Plunkett at Stanford in 1969-70. Miller finished his career with 6,681 yards passing, 18 200-yard games, 42 touchdowns and seven rushing scores. Among his teammates at Oregon was former Broncos great Gary Zimmerman.

A cornerstone of the Broncos' defense, John Mobley continues to quietly emerge as one of the finest all-around linebackers in the National Football League. He has an incredible knack for finding the football and is a devastating hitter once he does. Now in his fourth NFL season, Mobley has started 47 of the 48 games in which he has played and posted 387 tackles (284 solo), including 6.5 sacks (-32), with 25 passes defended, five forced fumbles, two fumble recoveries and three interceptions (19 yds.). Mobley has scored one

NFL touchdown, on a 13-yard interception return in 1997 (vs. N.E., 10/6), and earned his first All-NFL honors that season with selections by the Associated Press, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly. Mobley has one AFC Defensive Player of the Week award on his resumé, winning the honor for Week Six of the '97 season. He was named to the NCAA Division II Football Team of the Quarter Century (1973-1997) in 1998, joining the likes of Pro Football Hall of Famer Walter Payton and All-Pro performers Brent Jones, John Randle, Darrell Green and Greg Lloyd. Mobley entered the NFL in 1996 as the Broncos' first-round draft choice (No. 15 overall) out of Kutztown.

1998: Mobley started at weakside linebacker in 15 of the 16 games and led the team for the second straight year with 132 tackles (105 solo), including one sack (-7), two forced fumbles, one fumble recovery, one interception and a career-best 13 passes defended, third-most on the team. The sack came at Oakland (9/20) in the fourth quarter. He has also recorded six tackles on special teams (high of 2 at Miami, 12/21 and vs. Phila., 10/4). Mobley recorded double-figure tackle totals in back-to-back games early in the season (11 vs. Dallas, 9/13; and 10 at Oakland, 9/20), and strung together three more later in the season (12 vs. S.D., 11/8, 10 at K.C., 11/16 and 12 vs. Oak., 11/22). Overall he posted no fewer than five tackles in every game of the season. Mobley strained his right hamstring in practice Sept. 24, but was able to start at Washington three days later. His only non-start came at Seattle (10/11) when the Seahawks opened the game in a three-wide receiver alignment. Mobley recorded seven tackles (5 solo) at Cincinnati (11/1) to go along with a forced fumble and a career-high four passes defended. He stepped up big and stripped Bengals RB Corey Dillon of the ball at the Broncos' 3-yd. line late in the 1st qtr., as Bill Romanowski fell on the fumble to squelch a potential Cincinnati scoring drive. Mobley posted a season-high 12 tackles the next week vs. San Diego (11/8), including 10 solo stops, and tied his season-high vs. Oakland (11/22), including 9 solo stops. His third career interception came at San Diego (11/29), on an errant Craig Whelihan pass late in the first half. Mobley's fumble recovery came at the Giants (12/13) in the 4th qtr. after WR Ike Hilliard lost control of the football. He missed the preseason finale (at Tenn., 8/29) to rest a hyperextended left knee, injured vs. Green Bay (8/24). Postseason: Mobley started at weakside linebacker in all three games and tied for fourth on the team with 14 tackles (10 solo), including one sack (-6), as well as two passes defended and a fumble recovery. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he made two solo tackles with one pass defended. He contributed nine tackles (7 solo) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), along with a pass defended and his one fumble recovery, which came after Bill Romanowski knocked the ball out of Keith Byars' hands at the Broncos' 13-yd. line. Mobley's first career post-season sack came in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta, among three total tackles (1 solo). The sack of Chris Chandler came midway through the 3rd qtr. for a 6-yd. loss.

1997: Mobley — named first-team All-NFL by the Associated Press, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly and Football Digest, and second-team by College & Pro Football Newsweekly — started all 16 games at weakside linebacker and continued to blossom in his second NFL season, putting together a performance as outstanding as that of any other linebacker in the NFL. He led the team with 162 tackles (113 solo) including four sacks (-23), one interception which he returned for a touchdown (13 yds.), three forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and eight pass breakups, while also adding seven tackles on special teams. He posted double-figures in tackles a remarkable nine times in 16 games. In the regular season opener vs. Kansas City Mobley led the team with nine tackles (6 solo) in Denver's 19-3 victory. The game held extra significance for Mobley, as his father, Lee, watched him play in person for the first time since his sophomore year in high school (1990). Lee has been in a nursing home for seven years since suffering a stroke. The following week at Seattle (9/7) he made five tackles (3 solo) and one pass defended in Denver's 35-14 win. The next week vs. St. Louis (9/14) he recorded his first sack of the year (-4), among seven tackles (5 solo) he made on the day. In Week Three vs. Cincinnati (9/21) Mobley registered a career-high 15 tackles (11 solo) in an outstanding performance that included his second sack of the season (-3) and a pass breakup. On Monday Night Football vs. New England (10/6) he had the best all-around game of his young career, tying a personal best with 15 tackles (12 solo; career high), snaring his second career interception and returning it 13 yards for a touchdown for a 14-0 lead, causing a fumble, breaking up a pass and making a tackle on special teams in Denver's 34-13 victory. His efforts were recognized with AFC Defensive Player of the Week honors from the NFL. He wasted no time making an impact on the game, ending the Patriots game-opening drive at the Broncos' 28-yard line when he knocked the ball loose from Terry Glenn after a 19-yard reception, setting up the Broncos first touchdown. He then scored the second himself when he picked off a Drew Bledsoe pass and waltzed 13 yards into the end zone for his first professional touchdown, igniting a fired-up Mile High Stadium crowd of 75,821. On Nov. 2 vs. Seattle he posted a team-high 13 tackles (11 solo), while also adding another on special teams in Denver's 30-27 victory. On Nov. 9 vs. Carolina he had another fine all-around day with seven tackles (3 solo), including a sack (-12), and the first fumble recovery of his career. His sack of Kerry Collins came in the first quarter, and early in the second quarter he pounced on a fumble caused by Allen Aldridge, halting a Panthers scoring threat at the Denver 10-yard line. The next Sunday at Kansas City (11/16) he posted his fifth double-figure tackle total of the season, recording 10, including a team-high eight solos in Denver's 24-22 loss. Against Oakland on Monday Night Football (11/24), Mobley had another outstanding performance in prime time, posting 10 tackles (8 solo), including his fourth sack of the year (-4), to go along with two pass breakups. He also forced a fumble by Napoleon Kaufman early in the third quarter after he chased down the speedy Kaufman from behind in the backfield, setting up a recovery by Mike Lodish at the Raiders 28. The Broncos responded with a field goal to up their lead to 24-3. The next Sunday at San Diego (11/30) he tied for the team-lead with nine tackles (6 solo), while adding a forced fumble and a pass breakup. He posted a team-high 12 tackles (5 solo) with one pass defended at Pittsburgh (12/7), and led the team again the following week at San Francisco on Monday Night Football (12/15) with 10 tackles (8 solo), while also adding one more on special teams. He closed out the regular season vs. San Diego (12/21) by posting a team-high 12 tackles (8 solo), while also adding one more on special teams. In the postseason Mobley started all four games at weakside linebacker and led the team with 24 tackles (21 solo), in addition to two passes defended and one special teams tackle. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27) Mobley started at weakside linebacker and led the team with six tackles (4 solo). In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98), he led the team with seven solo tackles. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) he posted five tackles (4 solo) with one pass defended, and also added one tackle on special teams in Denver's 24-21 victory. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25) Mobley posted six solo tackles with one very huge pass defended in Denver's 31-24 victory. The pass breakup occurred on fourth-and-six from Denver's 31-yard line with 32 seconds remaining. Mobley stepped in front of Brett Favre's aerial that was intended for Mark Chmura and knocked it to the ground to seal Denver's first ever world championship. 1996: Mobley turned in an outstanding rookie season, starting all 16 regular season games and the Broncos' one playoff contest at weakside linebacker. He was named to NFL All-Rookie teams selected by Pro Football Weekly, Football News and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, finishing fifth on the team with 93 tackles (67 solo) and 1.5 sacks (-2). Mobley also broke up four passes, intercepted another (at Minnesota, 11/24) and added four tackles on special teams. He registered a season-high 12 tackles (9 solo) at Cincinnati (9/29), including his first career sack as he dropped Bengals quarterback Jeff Blake. He also came up big at New England (11/17), leading the team with eight solo tackles to spearhead a defensive effort that limited the Patriots' rushing attack to 17 yards in a 34-8 win. At Green Bay (12/8), Mobley made seven tackles (3 solo), knocked down two passes and combined with Michael Dean Perry for the Broncos' only sack of Brett Favre. Mobley remained injury-free much of the season, missing significant time only during the San Diego game (10/6) when he strained a groin muscle in the first half. He started his first postseason game against Jacksonville (1/4/97) and came up with eight tackles (6 solo) and one pass defended. Mobley entered training camp second on the depth chart at weakside linebacker, but quickly cemented a starting position after producing a 14-tackle performance (12 solo) in the preseason opener at San Francisco (8/3). In that game, Mobley was all over the field in the second half and delivered a hit on Gino Torretta that knocked the 49ers' signal-caller out of the game. He finished the preseason with 19 tackles (16 solo), one interception and three pass break-ups.

COLLEGE: Mobley was a two-time Division II All-American (first-team 1995, second-team 1994), and was named Division II Player of the Year as a senior at Kutztown in 1995 by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. Tom Nalen solidified his place among the best centers in the National Football League in 1998, earning his second straight Pro Bowl berth and All-NFL honors from USA Today. He has been a consistent force and an anchor on a Broncos offensive line that has been at the forefront of Denver's run to back-to-back World Championships. In addition, the line helped pave the way for NFL MVP Terrell Davis, who rushed for 2,008 yards in 1998, the third-highest single-season total in league history. He has started 64 of the 70 games in which he has played — including 63 straight — and has started eight postseason contests. Nalen entered the NFL in 1994 as the Broncos' third choice in the seventh round (No. 218 overall) of the draft.

1998: Nalen — selected All-NFL by USA Today — started at center in all 16 games and was selected to play in the Pro Bowl for the second-straight season. He played an integral role on an outstanding offensive line that allowed just 25 sacks — the third-lowest total for a full season in franchise history, and the lowest since 1971 — while paving the way for the only fourth 2,000-yard rusher in NFL history (Terrell Davis-2,008) and the league's second-ranked rushing attack at 154.3 yards per game. Postseason: Nalen started at center in all three games and helped pave the way for a rushing attack that averaged 183 yds.-per-game as Denver won Super Bowl XXXIII.

1997: Nalen started all 16 games at center and had a breakout season, being selected to his first Pro Bowl and earning second-team All-NFL honors from College & Pro Football Newsweekly. He provided not only youth, but also tremendous talent, to a veteran offensive line regarded among the league's best. He made his first career pass reception at Oakland (10/19), catching a John Elway pass for -1 yard after it was batted at the line of scrimmage by the Raiders' Chester McGlockton. The Broncos' offense set a team record by scoring 472 points in one season and led the NFL in total offense (367 yards per game) for the second straight year, leading the AFC for the third straight year. Nalen was part of a unit that powered Broncos running backs to 15 individual 100-yard performances over the 20-game regular and postseason slate. In the postseason Nalen started at center in all four games as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed Denver to control games with its rushing attack. The Broncos averaged 187 rushing yards per game in the postseason, and the offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for Denver's Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). Nalen, starting at center, playing an integral role in the offensive unit piling up club postseason records of 511 total yards and 42 points in Denver's 42-17 win over the Jaguars. The line played a key role in running back Terrell Davis earning MVP honors in the Super Bowl with 157 rushing yards and three rushing touchdowns. 1996: Nalen started all 16 regular season games at center, playing a key role on a unit that cleared the way for AFC rushing leader Terrell Davis (1,538 yards) and allowed just 31 sacks. He suffered a partial tear to his medial collateral ligament early in the Minnesota game (11/24) and was listed as questionable for the Seattle game (12/1) but did start. He also started Denver's lone playoff contest. The Broncos rushed for over 100 yards in a game on 10 occasions during the 1996 season, and topped the 200-yard mark on four of those occasions. Overall, the Broncos' offense was the most productive in football in 1996, averaging 361.9 yards per game. 1995: Nalen started 15 of the Broncos' 16 games, missing only the Week Four matchup at San Diego (9/24) while recovering from arthroscopic surgery to repair a lateral meniscus tear in his left knee suffered in the Washington game (9/17). He underwent arthroscopic surgery at the Steadman-Hawkins Clinic in Vail, Colo., Sept. 18, and was expected to miss three to four weeks, but returned to his starting position at Seattle (10/1). Behind the blocking of Nalen and the rest of the offensive line, Denver was able to rush for over 100 yards in a game 11 out of 16 times during the 1995 season, and produce a 1,000-yard rusher in rookie Terrell Davis (1,117). 1994: Nalen played in seven games for the Broncos, including a start at left guard in his first NFL appearance against the Rams (11/6). Nalen continued to make appearances on the offensive line over the remainder of the season. Nalen entered camp in July as a rookie draft choice out of Boston College, was waived just prior to the start of the regular season and then re-signed to the practice squad Sept. 6. He was signed to the active roster the week of the Rams game to start in place of an injured Jon Melander.

COLLEGE: Nalen was a three-year starter in his five seasons at Boston College, earning numerous honors that included third-team Associated Press All-America, second-team All-Big East, and first-team ECAC citations. He closed out his outstanding college career with appearances in the East-West Shrine and Senior Bowl games. In 1993 Nalen was an honorable mention All-American and All-Big East second-team pick by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft, starting all year and leading the way as the Eagles ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (506.4 yards per game). Nalen's blocking was a key factor in the Boston College upset win over Notre Dame in South Bend. Nalen started every game from 1991-93 after serving as the deep-snapper, backup center and then starting center for the last three games in 1990. He redshirted in '89.

PERSONAL: A native of Foxboro, Mass., Nalen lettered three times each in football and basketball and twice in track at Foxboro (Mass.) High School. He was All-Hockamack League and an all-state selection by the Boston Globe, Boston Herald, Sun Chronicle and Patriot Ledger, adding state Lineman of the Year honors as a senior. Tom led the team to a pair of Division III titles and played in the Shrine All-Star Game, serving as team captain in both football and basketball. An all-conference and team MVP in basketball, he was named to the Academic All-State team by the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association. Tom has his degree in accounting from Boston College and would like ultimately to become a certified public accountant. Tom likes golf, basketball and video games. He and his wife, Denise, have a daughter, Delaney, and a son, Kyle, and make their home in Wrentham, Mass. Thomas Andrew Nalen was born May 13, 1971 in Foxboro, Mass.

Marcus Nash enters his second NFL season looking to build upon a rookie campaign that was largely a learning experience for the former No. 1 draft choice (No. 31 overall) out of Tennessee. Nash played in eight games and caught four passes for 76 yards (19.0) while enjoying the luxury of learning from veteran receivers Ed McCaffrey and Rod Smith. He will be looked upon to step up and seize the No. 3 receiver position and give the Broncos more productivity in that role.

1998: Nash played in eight games in his rookie season and caught four passes for 76 yards (19.0) with a long of 31. He saw his first NFL action vs. Dallas, (9/13), and then played again the following week at Oakland (9/20), before playing in six of the final eight games of the season. Nash was active but did not play at the Giants (12/13), and was declared inactive for the season's other seven games. Nash made his first NFL reception in a crucial situation in Week 3 at Oakland (9/20), hauling in a 30-yd. pass from John Elway on a 3rd-and-23 play midway through the second quarter. He caught a career-high two passes for 36 yds. on Monday Night Football at Kansas City (11/16), including the longest reception of his young career (31 yds.), as he saw increased playing time with Ed McCaffrey leaving the game early (hamstring). Nash added his fourth catch of the year (10 yds.) a week later vs. Oakland (11/22). Postseason: Nash saw action at wide receiver and on special teams in all three playoff games. The AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) was his first career postseason contest.

COLLEGE: Nash was a three-year starter at Tennessee, and ranks second on the school's career receptions (177) and touchdowns (20) lists behind Joey Kent, and third in career receiving yards (2,447) behind Kent and Peerless Price. As a senior in 1997 Nash was an All-America choice by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft and an All-Southeastern Conference first-team selection, leading the team with school-record setting totals of 77 receptions for 1,170 yards (15.4) and 13 touchdowns. He started every game at flanker as a junior, finishing second on the team with 53 catches for 688 yards (13.0 avg.) and three touchdowns. Nash moved into the starting lineup in the fourth game of his sophomore season and finished the year with 43 receptions for 512 yards (11.9) and four touchdowns, after a freshman campaign in which he played in every game and caught five passes for 77 yards (15.4). Nash played in four bowl games: the Orange Bowl, Citrus Bowl (twice) and Gator Bowl. He was an architecture major at Tennessee.

PERSONAL: A USA Today, Blue Chip Illustrated and Super Prep All-America choice at Edmond Memorial High School in Tulsa, Okla., Nash also earned Gatorade Circle of Champions Oklahoma Player of the Year honors. He was an all-state, all-city and City Player of the Year selection, catching 81 passes for 1,121 yards and 10 touchdowns as a senior. His 132 catches for 1,971 yards are both school career records. Marcus DeLando Nash was born February 1, 1976 in Tulsa, Okla. He and his wife, Lorie — also a Tennessee graduate — make their home in Parker, Colo.

Dan Neil had a breakthrough year in just his second NFL season in 1998, starting all 16 regular season and all three postseason games for the Broncos at right guard as Denver won its second straight World Championship. He seized the starting role in preseason and never relinquished it, giving the heralded Denver offensive line a much-needed infusion of young talent. Neil and his linemates played a key role in paving the way for NFL MVP Terrell Davis, who posted the third-highest single-season rushing total in league history. A young player with strong work ethic and tenacious blocking skill, Neil figures to be a fixture along the Denver offensive line for years to come. He has played in 19 career games and started 16. Neil was selected by the Broncos in the third round (No. 67 overall) of the 1997 NFL Draft with a pick obtained in a trade with the New York Jets that allowed Denver to move up 21 places for the opportunity to select him.

1998: Neil started all 16 games at right guard. He made his first professional start in the season-opener vs. New England (9/7). Neil played an integral role on an outstanding offensive line that allowed just 25 sacks — the third-lowest total for a full season in franchise history and the lowest since 1971 — while paving the way for only the fourth 2,000-yard rusher (Terrell Davis-2,008) in NFL history and the NFL's second-most productive rushing attack at 154.3 yards per game. Postseason: Neil started all three contests at right guard and helped pave the way for a rushing attack that averaged 183 yds.-per-game en route to the Broncos' second straight Super Bowl win. He made his first career postseason start in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9).

1997: Neil was declared inactive for 10 of the 16 games in his rookie season and played in three. He was active for the first time as a pro vs. Seattle (11/2), but did not play, and then saw his first NFL action vs. Oakland (11/24) on Monday Night Football. He played on special teams and as a reserve at guard in the fourth quarter. Neil was slowed at the start of the season by a groin injury that required surgery Aug. 27. His other game action came on special teams in both games against San Diego (11/30 and 12/21). In the postseason Neil was declared inactive for all four games. Neil was chosen by the Broncos in the third round with the 67th overall selection.

COLLEGE: One of the strongest players in school history at Texas, Neil was a consensus All-America and all-conference selection as both a junior and senior, and was a finalist for the Outland Trophy in 1996. He started every game for four years after redshirting as a freshman in '92, bringing his total to 48 straight, the school's longest streak at the time. Neil won the team Iron Man title every year he was at Texas, and in 1995 received the school's D. Harold Byrd Leadership Award. Neil was a sports management major at Texas, where he earned Athletic Director's Honor Roll accolades in 1993 and was very active in Longhorn Community Service efforts.

PERSONAL: Neil was a Parade All-America selection and earned Class 5A first-team all-state honors at Cypress Creek High School in Cypress Creek, Texas. He was rated as the state's best offensive line prospect by Max Emfinger's Blue Chip Illustrated and Tom Lemming's Prep Football Report, and one of the top line prospects in the nation by most recruiting lists. Neil was also twice named all-district and received honorable mention All-America consideration from USA Today. He married his high school sweetheart, Amylyn, after the 1996 Sugar Bowl on January 6, 1996. The couple has a daughter, Alexandra Lee (12/4/98), and makes its home in Lone Tree, Colo. Amylyn's uncle, Larry Cox, played defensive tackle for the Broncos from 1966-68. Daniel Neil was born October 21, 1973 in Houston, Texas.

Tito Paul is in his second season with the Broncos, looking to increase his contribution to Denver's defensive backfield. He was signed by the Broncos as a free agent during the offseason before the 1998 season and proved to be a capable backup and special teams player for a Denver squad that was victorious in Super Bowl XXXI. Paul, in his fifth NFL campaign, has played in 61 career games (12 starts) and made 108 total tackles (85 solo) and one interception with 13 passes defended and one fumble recovery. He entered the NFL in 1995 as a fifth-round draft choice (No. 167 overall) of the Arizona Cardinals.

1998 Paul saw action on special teams in all 16 games and posted 12 tackles, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery. The forced fumble came vs. Jacksonville (10/25), in a contest in which he posted a season-high two special teams stops, and his fumble recovery came vs. San Diego (11/8) just before halftime. He saw his first defensive action as a Bronco in the second half of the Jacksonville game and then played on defense in each of the next seven games, finishing the year with five solo tackles and two passes defended. Paul, seeing action on defense and special teams vs. Oakland (11/22), left the game just before halftime with a deep bruise to his right thigh. He was back in action the following week at San Diego (11/29), posting a tackle on both defense and special teams. Paul recorded his first pass breakup vs. Kansas City (12/6), and his high-tackle game of the year (2 solo) came at the Giants (12/13). Postseason Paul saw action on special teams in all three games and made three tackles. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he made one tackle, and added two more in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17).

1997: Paul played in 15 games (five starts) — one with Arizona and other 14 with Cincinnati. He played in the season-opener for the Cardinals at Cincinnati (8/31), recording two tackles (1 solo) and one special teams stop. He was then waived Sept. 2 and signed by the Bengals one week later (9/9). With the Bengals Paul tallied 48 tackles (42 solo), six pass breakups, three special teams stops and recovered one fumble. His fumble recovery came at the end of the Bengals' 31-26 win over Jacksonville (11/23), and helped to secure the victory. He led the team with seven tackles (six solo) vs. San Diego (11/2) and also had two passes defended. He had a season-high nine tackles (8 solo) at the Giants (10/26) and added eight stops (7 solo) at Indianapolis (11/9). He was released by the Bengals April 20, 1998. 1996 Paul played in every game for the Cardinals and made three starts, recording 31 tackles (18 solo) and four pass breakups, in addition to seven special teams stops. He posted seven tackles (3 solo) and a pass breakup at Philadelphia (12/22) and had a six-tackle, one-pass breakup effort in a victory over the Giants (11/17). 1995: Paul played in 14 games (four starts) as a rookie with the Cardinals, recording 22 tackles (13 solo), one pass breakup and one interception, as well as four special teams tackles. The pickoff came vs. Seattle (10/29) in a 20-14 overtime victory. He made his first NFL start against the Broncos at Mile High Stadium (11/5), replacing an injured Brent Alexander, and made six tackles in a 38-6 loss. Paul was a fifth-round pick (167th overall) of the Cardinals in 1995 out of Ohio State.

COLLEGE Paul played his college ball at Ohio State, where he earned a starting role as a senior in 1994 and responded with 56 tackles (four for loss), one sack and five pass breakups. He had 103 tackles, three blocked punts and recovered two others for scores in his career. Two of those blocks came in one game as a sophomore against Northwestern. He majored in economics.

PERSONAL: Paul was an all-state selection at Osceola High School in Kissimmee, Fla. His cousin, Markus, played football at Syracuse and in the NFL with Chicago and Tampa Bay. Paul was born May 24, 1972 in Kissimmee, Fla. He resides in Gilbert, Ariz.

Trevor Pryce came into his own with a breakout season in 1998, and seeks to further bolster his position as one of the game's most promising young defensive stars now in his third season. As a first-year starter last year, Pryce led all Denver defensive linemen in tackles (59) and tied for the team lead in sacks (8.5), pairing with Keith Traylor to give the Broncos as imposing a pair of defensive tackles as any team in the NFL. The Broncos' 1997 first-round draft choice (No. 15 overall), Pryce has now played 24 games (18 starts) and made 87 tackles (68 solo), including 10.5 sacks (-66), as well as one interception and a blocked field goal. He has also played in seven postseason games (2 starts) and added six tackles (2 solo), including one sack.

1998: Pryce started at right defensive tackle in 15 of the 16 games and ranked seventh on the team — No. 1 among defensive linemen — with 59 tackles (48 solo), including a career-high 8.5 sacks (-56.5) to tie for the team lead and tie for 10th in the AFC. He played but did not start at Seattle (10/11) because the Seahawks opened the game in a three-wide receiver alignment. Pryce's first sack came in Week 3 at Oakland (9/20) on the Raiders' Jeff George (-7), and his second came two weeks later vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he dropped Bobby Hoving for a 4-yd. loss. He posted his third (-7) a week later at Seattle (10/11) on John Friesz in the fourth quarter, and followed that with his first career two-sack game vs. Jacksonville (10/25), dropping Mark Brunell for 17 yds. in losses. He ran his sack total to six at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football, dropping Rich Gannon for a 10-yd. loss midway through the 4th qtr. on a 4th-and-9 play from the Broncos' 10-yd. line, and added his seventh the next week on Oakland's Donald Hollis (11/22). He combined with Maa Tanuvasa to sack Giants QB Kent Graham (-11) in the 2nd qtr. at New York (12/13) to raise his total to 7.5, and finished the year with a 4-yd. sack of Seattle's Jon Kitna in the season-finale (12/27). Pryce recorded his first career interception at Washington (9/27), picking off a Trent Green pass in Broncos territory to thwart a Redskins drive just before halftime. His first career blocked field goal came early in the second quarter of the season-opener vs. New England (9/7) when he penetrated the Patriots' line to thwart a 37-yd. attempt by Adam Vinatieri, making the recovery as well, to set up Denver for a drive that would result in a touchdown and a 17-0 lead. Pryce recorded a career-high eight tackles (6 solo) at Cincinnati. Preseason: Pryce started all four games at right defensive tackle and recorded eight tackles (5 solo), in his first preseason as a full-time starter. Postseason: Pryce saw action at defensive tackle in all three postseason games and started two, making four tackles (1 solo). In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he did not start as the Broncos opened the game in their nickel formation. He did see starter's playing time, however, and made two assisted tackles. He posted one solo tackle in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17) and added one assisted tackle in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31), starting both contests, as Denver repeated as Super Bowl champions.

1997: Pryce played in the final eight games of the season and started three (at San Diego, 11/30; at Pittsburgh, 12/7 and vs. San Diego, 12/21) at right defensive tackle in place of Maa Tanuvasa (ankle). He was declared inactive for the first eight games. For the season he posted 28 tackles (20 solo), including two sacks (-9.5), as he notched a half a sack in each of his first two NFL appearances (Seattle, 11/2 and Carolina, 11/9), and his first solo vs. San Diego (12/21). He split the two sacks with Tyrone Braxton and Mike Lodish, respectively. Pryce saw his first professional action vs. Seattle (11/2) and responded with two tackles, including half a sack (-0.5). He made his first NFL start at San Diego (11/30) and performed well with three solo tackles. Pryce started his second straight contest at Pittsburgh (12/7). His high-tackle games on the season came vs.

Oakland (11/24) and at San Francisco (12/15), posting seven stops (5 solo) in each. Bill Romanowski seems to get better with age, as he continues to play at the top of his game in his 12th NFL season. His stellar play in 1998 was a key ingredient in Denver winning its second straight World Championship, which marked the second time Romanowski had accomplished a repeat in his career. He was a member of San Francisco's victorious Super Bowl XXIII and XXIV teams, giving him four Super Bowl rings in his career. Romanowski is one of just three players to win back-to-back Super Bowls with two different organizations, joining Marv Fleming (Green Bay, SBI and SBII; Miami, SBVII and SBVIII) and Charles Haley (San Francisco, SBXXIII and SBXXIV; Dallas, SBXXVII and SBXXVIII), and one of just 20 to win back-to-back twice in their careers. Romanowski also holds the distinction of being one of only 30 players to win a Super Bowl ring with two different teams (also San Francisco, 1988-89), and is one of just 13 to win one in each conference. Romanowski is also one of the most durable athletes in the sport, having never missed a game due to injury during his 11 seasons in the league (176 games), which includes 64 consecutive starts (155 overall). He has compiled 1,009 tackles (746 solo), including 23 sacks (-159.5), with 12 interceptions (63 yds.), 51 passes defended, 13 forced fumbles and 15 fumble recoveries. He has played in 22 postseason games and started 16, including four Super Bowls (all victories) and seven conference championship games, among nine total playoff appearances. (6 NFC/3 AFC). His postseason numbers include 100 tackles (83 solo), including two sacks (-15), with two interceptions and seven passes defended. Romanowski was voted to his first Pro Bowl in 1996, and duplicated that feat in 1998. The consummate winner, Romanowski's teams have won 73% of their regular season games in his 11-year career, posting a record of 128-48 (72-24, 75%, with San Francisco; 17-15, 53%, with Philadelphia; and 39-9, 81% with Denver). In the postseason, his teams have won 77% of their games, with a 17-5 record (9-3, 75% with San Francisco; 1-1, 50% with Philadelphia; and 7-1, 88% with Denver). Romanowski was chosen in the third round (80th overall) of the 1988 draft by San Francisco, following an outstanding career at Boston College.

1998: Romanowski — selected to play in the Pro Bowl for the second time in his 11-year career — started at strongside linebacker in all 16 games and was outstanding, ranking third on the team with 95 tackles (71 solo), including a career-best 7.5 sacks (-56.5), as well as two interceptions, nine passes defended, three forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries. He had a fine outing in Week 1 vs. New England (9/7) with a season-high 12 tackles (9 solo), including a career-high two sacks (-22), as well as a forced fumble. His first sack came midway through the first quarter with the Patriots operating from their own 10-yard line, and the second came on the opening play of the fourth quarter. Romanowski followed that with a brilliant all-around performance at Oakland (9/20), which included his first interception of the season (and first since last year's game at Oakland, 10/19/97), as well as his third sack, which came on a 1st-and-goal play from the Broncos 10-yd line, disrupting a drive that eventually ended in a Raiders field goal. Romanowski's fourth sack came in Week Four at Washington (9/27), dropping Trent Green for a 2-yd. loss. He missed the second half vs. Philadelphia (10/4) because of a groin strain initially suffered a week earlier at Washington, and finished with just one assisted tackle. He reached 5.5 sacks for the year with 1.5 (-11.5) against Jacksonville QB Mark Brunell (10/25) in Week 8. The next week at Cincinnati (11/1), Romanowski pounced on a Corey Dillon fumble (forced by John Mobley) at the Broncos 3-yd line to squelch a potential Bengals scoring drive. A week later vs. San Diego (11/8) Romanowski again played a role in an opponent turnover near the goal line, this time forcing a Natrone Means fumble at the Denver 2-yd. line that was recovered by Maa Tanuvasa at the 3 late in the 4th qtr. Romanowski's next sack came vs. Oakland (11/22) when he pinned Donald Hollas for an 8-yd. loss midway through the 1st qtr., and he extended his career-high total to 75 vs. Kansas City (12/6) with a 2-yd. sack of the Chiefs' Rich Gannon. At New York (12/13) Romanowski recovered a fumble in the 4th qtr. forced by Tyrone Braxton, and a week later at Miami (12/21) added his third recovery of the year early in the 2nd qtr. to set up Denver's first TD drive of the night. Postseason. Romanowski started at strongside linebacker in all three contests and posted a team-leading 22 tackles (15 solo), including a sack (-7), as well two passes defended, an interception, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he posted six tackles (3 solo), as well as a pass defended and his second career postseason interception. Romanowski's pickoff of Dan Marino came in the 3rd qtr. and was his first in the postseason since his rookie year of 1988 with San Francisco. He added a team-leading 11 tackles (8 solo) in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), to go along with his first career postseason forced fumble and fumble recovery. He stripped the ball from Keith Byars in the early-going of the second quarter, leading to a recovery by John Mobley, and was the beneficiary of a forced fumble by Steve Atwater early in the 4th qtr. pouncing on the loose ball to halt a Jets drive at the Broncos' 28-yd. line. Romanowski had another solid game in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31) posting five tackles (4 solo), including a 7-yd. sack of Chris Chandler, and a pass defended as he earned his fourth Super Bowl ring (2 with San Fran., 2 with Denver) and became one of just three players in league history to enjoy repeat Super Bowl wins with two different organizations. The sack came in a crucial situation in the 1st qtr., as Atlanta faced a 3rd-and-goal at the Denver 8-yd. line on the opening drive of the game. The Falcons were forced to settle for a field goal and did not reach the end zone until the 4th qtr. when the game was virtually out of reach.

1997: Romanowski started all 16 games at strongside linebacker and ranked second on the team with 117 tackles (77 solo), including two sacks for 18 yards lost (at Atlanta, 9/28 and vs. Cincinnati 9/21), and also posted one interception, two passes defended and two forced fumbles. He posted his first of three double-figure tackle performances vs. St. Louis (9/21) with 12 stops (5 solo). His others came at Buffalo (10/26), with a season-high 15 (9 solo), and at San Francisco (12/15) with 15 again on Monday Night Football. His first sack of the season came vs. Cincinnati (9/14) in a 38-28 Broncos win, and his second came two weeks later at Atlanta (9/28). His interception came at Oakland (10/19). Romanowski was named a defensive team captain at mid-season, joining Steve Atwater. In the postseason Romanowski started all four games at strongside linebacker and joined a list of just 30 NFL players who have won a Super Bowl with more than one team (San Francisco, SB XXIII, SB XXIV), and one of just 13 to win one in each conference. In the postseason he recorded 18 tackles (15 solo) with one pass defended. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27) he posted four tackles (3 solo) and then the next week in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff Game at Kansas City (1/4/98) he posted five more solo tackles in Denver's 14-10 win. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) Romanowski posted four tackles (3 solo) in Denver's 24-21 triumph. He posted five tackles (4 solo) with one pass defended in Denver's 31-24 defeat of Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII (1/25/98). 1996: Romanowski started all 16 games at strongside linebacker and made a tremendous impact on the Broncos' defensive unit, earning his first trip to the Pro Bowl, second-team All-Pro honors from College & Pro Football Newsweekly and second-team All-AFC kudos from UPI. His veteran leadership elevated the play of the entire defense to reach a No. 4 ranking in the league, as he led the team with 128 tackles (94 solo), three sacks (-10), three interceptions, three fumble recoveries and 12 passes defended. Romanowski's three sacks tied his previous best ('93) while his three interceptions established a new career high. Romanowski had a sack in his debut in a Broncos uniform vs. the Jets (9/1), one of nine stops (8 solo) he made in Denver's 31-6 win. The first two of his three fumble recoveries on the season and his first interception all came at Seattle (9/8) in a 30-20 Broncos win. Two weeks later at Kansas City (9/22) he came up big again, snaring his second interception of the season, and eighth of his career, while also leading the team with 12 tackles (9 solo). Versus San Diego (10/6) he led the team with 11 tackles (9 solo) in a spirited performance that sparked the Broncos' defense to a second-half shutout en route to a 28-17 win. The following week vs. Baltimore (10/20) Romanowski made a team-high 10 tackles (8 solo), including a half a sack (-4) on which he combined with Jumpy Geathers to drop Ravens quarterback Vinny Testaverde in the fourth quarter. He followed that performance with 10 tackles (7 solo) and two passes defended in Denver's 34-7 rout of Kansas City (10/27), then made 11 tackles (8 solo), one sack (-5) and one pass defended at Oakland on Monday Night Football as the Broncos prevailed over the Raiders 22-21. Three weeks later at Minnesota (11/24) Romanowski finished with 10 tackles (9 solo) and one pass breakup in Denver's 21-17 win. His career-best third interception of the season came in the season-finale at San Diego (12/22). Romanowski started at strongside linebacker and made two solo tackles in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97). He signed with the Broncos Feb. 23, 1996, the first free agent signed by the franchise in '96. 1995: Romanowski started all 16 games at left linebacker for the Eagles, finishing second on the team in tackles with 127 (77 solo), and adding two interceptions and one sack. He put together three straight 10-tackle outings against the Giants, at Washington and at Seattle in Weeks 11-13. In Week 14 against Dallas, Romanowski had an outstanding afternoon, recording a season-high 15 tackles and one pass defended. He made the biggest play of the game when he put a huge hit on Cowboy's running back Emmitt Smith to stuff him at the line of scrimmage on the Cowboy's 29-yard line on a fourth-and-inches play with the game tied at 17. That stop allowed Gary Anderson to kick a 42-yard game-winning field goal and gave the Eagles a 20-17 victory. He recorded nine stops (six solo) and forced a critical fumble by Arizona's Garrison Hearst in Week 15. Romanowski had an amazing season-finale at Chicago, registering a mind-boggling 24 tackles (17 solo) and intercepting a pass as well as recovering a fumble. On Dec. 30 in an NFC Wild Card Game vs. Detroit, Romanowski had one tackle in Philadelphia's 58-37 victory. He did not see much action because the Eagles played primarily in a nickel defense with a substantial lead. The following week in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game at Dallas, Romanowski had 11 tackles (10 solo). 1994: Romanowski was acquired by the Eagles on draft day '94 from the 49ers when the Eagles traded their third- and sixth-round choices to San Francisco. He started 15 games at left linebacker, a spot that was previously occupied by perennial All-Pro Seth Joyner. "Romo" finished fifth on the team with 96 tackles, including 25 sacks. He started 72 consecutive regular season games until the Eagles started their Oct. 24 game against Houston with five defensive backs. He also had two interceptions on the season. 1993: Romanowski had his finest season as a pro, leading the 49ers in tackles for the third time in four years with a career-high 105 stops (82 solo) including three sacks. He led the team in tackles eight times, including 15 stops and a forced fumble against Cincinnati (12/5). In two playoff games he totalled 11 tackles (10 solo). 1992: Romanowski started all 16 games for San Francisco, leading the team in tackles with 80 (65 solo). He started 14 games at outside linebacker and two at inside linebacker. Romanowski also had three special teams tackles on the season. In two playoff games, he had seven tackles (six solo) and one sack. 1991: Romanowski started all 16 games and finished the year with 76 tackles (67 solo), one sack, one interception and two fumble recoveries. He posted a then-career-high 10 tackles at the L.A. Rams (11/25). 1990: Romanowski started all 16 games for San Francisco and finished as the team leader in tackles with 79 (68 solo), leading the team in tackles six times. In two playoff games he had 12 stops (11 solo) and three special teams tackles. He had his best game of the year in the NFC Championship Game vs. the New York Giants, when he registered a team-high eight stops. 1989: Romanowski played in all 16 games, and made four starts. He had 53 stops on the year (47 solo), two fumble recoveries and one interception. He also had eight special teams stops. In three playoff games he had 12 stops (ten solo) and six special teams tackles as the 49ers won their second consecutive Super Bowl title, this one over the Broncos 55-10. 1988: Romanowski played in all 16 games, starting eight of them, including his first professional game at New Orleans, in which he earned a game ball for his efforts. He finished the season with 53 tackles (38 solo), three forced fumbles and seven special teams tackles. In three playoff games he had four solo stops and one interception, which came in Super Bowl XXIII against Cincinnati off of Boomer Esiason, as the 49ers went on to defeat the Bengals 20-16. Romanowski was a third-round pick (80th overall) by the 49ers out of Boston College.

COLLEGE: Romanowski was among the finalists for the Butkus Award as a senior in 1987 at Boston College, given annually to the top linebacker in the nation, as he led the Golden Eagles with 156 tackles. He had at least seven tackles in every game of the 1986 season as a junior, and intercepted four passes for 44 yards. He also registered a team-high 150 tackles as a sophomore in 1985. Tom Rouen posted the best yards-per-punt average of his six-year career in 1998, with a franchise-record average of 46.9, playing a key role in Denver's repeat as Super Bowl champion. He has also been impeccable as Jason Elam's holder on field goals and extra point attempts for six seasons. Rouen has played in 96 career games since signing with the Broncos as a free agent in 1993 and ranks second on the Broncos all-time list for punts (386). He ranks third in career punting average (43.7) and owns the third-longest punt in team history (76 yds. at Oakland, 9/20/98). Rouen has also played in nine post-season games, and ranks second on that list, as well, with 36 career punts.

1998 Rouen averaged a career-best and franchise-record 46.9 yards on 66 punts (3,097 yds.) with a net average of 37.6, 10 touchbacks and 14 punts placed inside the 20-yd. line, and had one punt blocked (William Thomas, Phila., 10/4) for a safety. He also had one special teams tackle. Rouen ranked second in the NFL in punting average, and ranked fourth in the AFC (7th NFL) in net average. His longest punt (76 yds. at Oak. 9/20) established a new career best and ranked as the third-longest punt in Broncos history, while also standing as the longest in the NFL in 1998. He also had a 71-yarder vs. Phila. (10/4). In that contest vs. the Eagles, Rouen attempted an extra-point in the third quarter because on an injury to Jason Elam, but missed wide left. Rouen played a crucial role in a history-making play Oct. 25 at Mile High Stadium vs. Jacksonville, providing the placement for Jason Elam's NFL-record-tying 63-yd. field goal in the closing seconds of the first half. Postseason: Rouen averaged 44.9 yards on 10 punts (449 yds.) and had one attempt blocked for a net average of 34.1, playing all three postseason contests. He also bobbled one snap and fumbled the ball, falling on it for a rushing attempt of -9 yds. In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he averaged 48.5 yards on two punts (97 yds.) and posted a net average of

33. The 48.5 punting average represented a franchise single-game best for the postseason. A week later in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), Rouen tied a franchise postseason record with seven punts (Mike Horan vs. Wash., Super Bowl XXII, 1/31/88) and averaged 45.3 yds.-per-punt, but had one attempt blocked, lowering his net average to 34.3 for the game. Early in the 3rd qtr. New York's Blake Spence burst through the Denver line to block the punt and Fred Baxter recovered at the Broncos' 1-yd. line, placing the Jets in position for the touchdown that put them ahead 10-0. Rouen also recorded the longest punt of his postseason career during the Jets game, with a 59-yard boot, and posted a special teams tackle. Rouen's only punt in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31) went for 35 yds., and was downed inside the Falcons' 20-yd. line.

1997: Rouen averaged 43.3 yards on 60 punts with a net of 38.1, ranking fourth in the AFC (5th NFL). His 43.3-yard average ranked sixth in the AFC (10th NFL). Rouen placed 22 punts inside the 20-yard line and recorded just four touchbacks, with a long of 57 (at Pitt., 12/7). He tied a career-high with eight punts at Buffalo (10/26), matching his previous high set at the Raiders in 1994 (12/11). Rouen closed the regular season on a high note, averaging 48.5 yards (net of 43.8) on four punts with a long of 54 yards at San Francisco (12/15), including three placed inside the 20-yard line, and followed that with a 53-yard average on two punts vs. San Diego (12/21), with a long of 56. In the postseason Rouen averaged 36.4 yards with a long of 53 yards on 17 punts, and placed six punts inside the 20-yard line with just one touchback. He had one attempt blocked, and posted a net average of 31.4 yards. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27), Rouen averaged 49.5 yards on two punts with a long of 53 (his postseason best), and placed one punt inside the 20-yard line. His third punting attempt of the day was blocked by the Jaguars' Travis Davis and returned 29 yards for a touchdown to cut the Broncos' lead to 21-17 in the third quarter. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98) he averaged 36.2 yards on six punts with a long of 51. He placed two inside the 20-yard line and recorded one touchback, while posting a net average of 34.5. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11), he averaged 31.4 yards on five punts, and placed one inside the 20-yard line. He closed out the post-season in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) by averaging 36.5 yards with a long of 47 yards on four punts, and placed two punts inside the 20-yard line. 1996: Rouen averaged 41.8 yards on 65 punts with a net of 36.2 yards during the regular season, ranking among the top punters in the AFC in the latter category. He had five touchbacks and placed 16 punts inside the 20, with a long of 57 (vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15). Rouen had a 56-yarder against Chicago (11/10), and played a huge role in Denver's 28-17 win vs. San Diego (10/6). He placed two of his five punts inside the Charger 20-yard line to help the Broncos gain the vital field position they needed to overcome a 17-0 first-half deficit. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Rouen averaged 42.6 yards on five punts with a long of 52. He placed three punts inside the 20 and had one touchback. 1995: Rouen averaged 42.2 yards on 52 punts, with a net of 37.6. He placed 22 punts inside the opponent's 20-yard line with just three touchbacks, fewest in the NFL. His 42.2-yard average ranked eighth in the AFC (tied for 15th NFL), while his net average of 37.6 was third in the AFC (5th NFL). At San Diego (9/24), Rouen punted five times for 199 yards (39.8) and put three inside the 20-yard line with no touchbacks. Two weeks later at New England (10/8), Rouen placed four of his five punts inside the Patriots' 20-yard line, and followed that a week later vs. Oakland (10/16) with three punts for an average of 56.0, and placed two inside the Raiders' 20-yard line. His first punt — kicked from the back of his own end zone — travelled 61 yards, just shy of his career-best of 62 yards. 1994: Rouen enjoyed an outstanding season, leading the entire NFL in net punting average at 37.1 yards. His overall average of 42.9 yards-per-punt tied him for third in the AFC. Rouen had just one punt in the season-opener, but served notice of the type of year he would have by booming a season-best 59-yarder. He matched that effort again later in the year at San Diego (10/23). His best average per punt (excluding the one-punt, 59-yard effort in the opener) came at Buffalo (9/26) when he covered 100 yards with his two punts (52, 48) for a 50.0-yard average. He was busiest in the game at the L.A. Raiders (12/11) with eight punts for 337 yards (42.1 average). For the season Rouen placed 23 of his 76 punts inside the opponents' 20-yard line. 1993: Rouen punted exceptionally well after earning a roster spot in training camp and preseason. He finished second in the AFC and second in the NFL with a 45.0-yard punting average, fourth-best in Bronco history at the time, and a 37.1-yard net average. Rouen's best game came at San Diego where he averaged 50.5 yards on six punts. 1992: Rouen played for the World League of American Football's Ohio Glory, and participated in the training camp of the L.A. Rams. Rouen earned All-World League honors with a 41.5-yard punt average. 1991: Rouen was a free agent in the New York Giants' training camp.

COLLEGE: Rouen finished his collegiate career with a 42.8-yard average, playing for both Colorado (1988-90) and Colorado State (1987). As a junior, Rouen led the nation in punting with a 45.9-yard average, earning All-America honors.

PERSONAL: Tom is single and makes his home in Littleton, Colo., where he attended Heritage High School, playing both football and baseball. Tom is heavily active in the community, frequently speaking at schools and functions in the metro Denver area. Thomas Francis Rouen was born June 9, 1968 in Hinsdale, Ill.

Steve Russ was dealt some adversity in 1998 when he went down with a season-ending knee injury in the preseason opener at St. Louis (8/8). After two years on the Reserve/Military list, and then one season primarily as a special teams player, Russ was poised in 1998 to take a giant step forward in his career. He must now prove that he can come back from the devastating injury and attempt to find a place among the Denver linebacking corps, where he was the backup to Bill Romanowski at the strongside position entering 1998. A 1995 seventh-round pick by Denver (218th overall), Russ spent two years fulfilling his commitment to the United States Air Force before being cleared to join the Broncos full-time. Second Lt. Russ was stationed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, where he served as a program manager for the Aeronautical Systems Center Contracting Directorate. During both years he was able to accrue enough leave time to gain permission to participate in the Broncos' mini-camps and training camp, but was unable to stay for the regular season.

1998: Russ was placed on injured reserve Aug. 11 after clearing waivers. He was lost for the year in the third quarter of the preseason opener at St. Louis (8/8) when he broke his right tibia and fibula while blocking on a punt return.

1997: Russ saw action in 14 of the 16 games on special teams and made 11 tackles. He was declared inactive vs. Oakland (11/24) and at San Diego (11/30) because of a strained hamstring suffered at Kansas City (11/16). He recorded a season-high three special teams tackles at Oakland (10/19). Russ was declared inactive for all four postseason games. 1996: Russ participated in mini-camp and training camp — and played in two preseason games (Carolina and Dallas) — but returned to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in August to resume his commitment to the U.S. Air Force. He spent the season on "reserve/military" status. 1995: Russ participated in the first three weeks of training camp, and played in the first two preseason games — including the American Bowl game vs. San Francisco in Tokyo — but spent the season on the reserve/military list while fulfilling his Air Force commitments.

COLLEGE: Russ finished his football career at the Air Force Academy with 201 tackles (105 solo) in 36 games, 22 of which were starts. As a senior in 1994, Russ started all 12 games at inside linebacker and earned third-team All-America honors from The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. He was also a second-team All-Western Athletic Conference pick. He led the team with 113 tackles (59 solo), two sacks, five tackles for loss (-13), one interception and four passes defensed. His interception came against Colorado State, and was returned 21 yards. He had a career-high 17 tackles (10 solo) in a 10-6 Falcons win over Army, and added nine stops, an eight-yard sack and a three-yard loss vs. Notre Dame. Russ played in all 12 games and made 10 starts at inside linebacker as a junior, after seeing action in 11 as a sophomore and just one as a freshman. He received his bachelor of science degree in management in May 1995.

PERSONAL: Russ was an all-conference selection as a defensive end and tight end at Medford High School in Stetsonville, Wisc. He was all-district, all-state and conference Defensive Player of the Year as a senior. Russ was also a three-time all-conference and two-time all-district performer in basketball, earning all-state and Conference Player of the Year honors in the latter as a senior, averaging 24.5 points per game as a forward. He lettered all four years in track and won the state title in the 300-meter dash. He also set school records in the 100, 200, and 300-meter dashes, the 110-meter high hurdles and the triple jump. Russ was born Sept. 16, 1972 in Stetsonville, Wisc. His wife, Betsy, is a United States Air Force pilot. They were married during the 1999 offseason.

When one thinks of the word persistence and how it equates to football, the image of Mark Schlereth immediately comes to mind for the toughness and ability to overcome adversity that he has shown throughout his 10 years in the NFL. Despite undergoing 21 surgeries and one kidney stone procedure over his playing career, he continues to perform at an All-Pro level, as his selection to the Pro Bowl in 1998 and his 1997 All-NFL selection by Sports Illustrated attest. Schlereth, one of only 30 players to win a Super Bowl with two different teams — and one of just 13 to win one in each conference — has played in 132 games (116 starts) and has started all 15 postseason games in which he has played, including Super Bowl XXVI with Washington and Super Bowls XXXII and XXXIII with Denver. He was named to the 1991 NFC Pro Bowl squad as a member of the Redskins, and at one point in his career had started in 43 consecutive games. The 10-year NFL veteran, who came to Denver as an unrestricted free agent in 1995, is one of only four Alaskan-born players in the league. He was originally a 10th round pick (263rd overall) out of Idaho by the Redskins in 1989.

ond-most productive rushing attack, which averaged 154.3 yards per game. In the preseason Schlereth missed the New Orleans contest (8/14) after undergoing surgery to remove bone chips in his left elbow, the 20th surgical procedure of his career. Postseason Schlereth started at left guard in all three playoff games and helped pave the way for a rushing attack that averaged 183 yds-per-game, as Denver won its second straight Super Bowl and Schlereth won his third ring.

1997: Schlereth — named All-NFL by Sports Illustrated and winner of the Halas Award by the Pro Football Writers of America — started the first 11 games of the season at left guard before being sidelined by a disc injury in his back. He underwent surgery on the herniated disc Nov. 20, and missed the final five weeks of the regular season. Schlereth returned to practice during the final week of the regular season, in preparation for the AFC Wild Card Playoff game vs. Jacksonville (12/27/97). The surgery was the 19th of his career, the majority of which have been performed on his knees (16). In the postseason Schlereth started all four games at left guard as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed the Broncos to control games with its rushing attack. Denver averaged 187 rushing yards per game in the postseason, and the offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for the Wild Card weekend. Schlereth joined a list of just 30 NFL players who have won a Super Bowl with more than one team (Washington, SB XXVI), and one of just 13 to win one in each conference. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Schlereth started at left guard on his 32nd birthday and became the seventh player to start in a Super Bowl on his birthday and the sixth to be on the winning team. He is the first to do so since Lester Hayes started at cornerback for the Los Angeles Raiders in Super Bowl XVIII. The other five players to start in Super Bowls on their birthday are Washington LB Neal Olkewicz (Super Bowl XVII), Cincinnati FS Brian Hicks (Super Bowl XVI), Dallas DT Randy White (Super Bowl XII), Miami DE Bill Stanfill (Super Bowl VIII) and Green Bay T Ron Kostelnik (Super Bowl II). All were winners except for Hicks. 1996: Schlereth started 14 of the 16 regular season games at left guard for a unit that cleared the way for the AFC's leading rusher (Terrell Davis, 1,538 yards) and allowed just 31 sacks. He missed the Minnesota contest (11/24) because of a left knee injury and then missed the season finale at San Diego because of a right knee injury. Schlereth underwent arthroscopic surgery on his left knee Nov. 18 and missed just one game (at Minn., 11/24) before returning to action vs. Seattle (12/1). He felt the irritation to his cartilage during the New England game (11/17) and sat out the second half. He suffered an irritation to his right knee vs. Oakland (12/15) and underwent his fifth arthroscopic surgery on that knee Dec. 17, while also undergoing the 10th arthroscopy on his left knee the same day. He added the 11th surgery to his left knee following the season-ending playoff loss to Jacksonville (1/4/97) on January 6, 1997. Schlereth also missed most of the Cincinnati game (9/29) after suffering an ankle sprain on the Broncos' first possession. The injury kept him out the rest of the game, and put his status in question for the San Diego (10/6) game, but he started and played the whole contest. Schlereth also underwent arthroscopic surgery on his left knee in the preseason and missed three weeks, but still managed to play in the final two preseason contests to tune up for the opener. Overall, Schlereth underwent five surgeries (four knee and one ankle) between the start of training camp and the end of the regular season, but missed just two regular season starts. 1995: Schlereth started all 16 games at left guard, helping the Broncos' offense improve from 10th in the NFL in 1994 to 3rd in 1995 (1st in AFC). Schlereth suffered a slight impingement in his knee at Kansas City (12/17), and underwent an MRI (12/18) that proved negative. Schlereth was a big part of a Broncos offensive line that paved the way for a 240-yard rushing day against Seattle (12/10), the most by a Denver team since Dec. 8, 1974, when the Broncos racked up 243 yards against Houston. Displaying his toughness, Schlereth started at left guard vs. Oakland (10/16) and played the entire first half, despite having undergone a procedure to remove a kidney stone less than 24 hours before the game. He sat out the second half after the Broncos had built a 14-0 halftime lead. 1994: Schlereth played in all 16 games — including five starts at right guard — for the Redskins and participated in 607 of a possible 1,016 snaps (60%). He played in every game despite having to recover from various physical problems that hampered his success in 1992 and '93. He played all of the season opener vs. Seattle (9/4) and a Week 15 (12/18) matchup vs. Tampa Bay. He also started the season finale at the Rams (12/24). 1993: Schlereth played in nine games, starting eight. In week one, he and his offensive linemen helped Brian Mitchell to a 116-yard rushing performance vs. Dallas (9/6). They sealed the 35-16 victory over the defending world champions with a 99-yard drive late in the third quarter. He had started 43 consecutive games until he injured his left knee before a week three matchup at Philadelphia (9/19). He came back the following week and started every game until week nine at the Giants, when he was diagnosed with Guillain-Barre syndrome, a neurological condition that involves the destruction of the outside covering around nerves or the extensions of the nerve cells that carry signals. It strikes one out of every 100,000 people. Guillain-Barre syndrome short-circuits the route between the impulses sent from the brain and the body's muscles and produces weakness in the body's extremities, and can be life-threatening. The syndrome tends to move up the body, from the feet to the legs to the thighs to the hands. It forced Mark to be placed on injured reserve for the rest of the season. 1992: Despite playing in constant pain on a left knee sprain and a right elbow sprain that required surgery on the same day following the season, Mark was the only Redskins offensive linemen to start every game at the same position, including both playoff games. 1991: Schlereth enjoyed the finest season of his career, starting all 16 games and being selected to the Pro Bowl for the first time in his career. He also started all three playoff games, as the Redskins went on to win Super Bowl XXVI over Buffalo 37-24. He also earned three Redskins offensive player of the week honors (11/3 vs. Hou; 11/17 at Pitt.; 12/15 vs. Giants). He was one of the reasons the Redskins allowed a league-low nine sacks (team record) and had the league's seventh-best rushing attack (128.1 yards per game). The Redskins offensive line also helped to produce a 1,000-yard rusher that season in Earnest Byner, who finished the season with 1,048 yards on 274 carries (3.8 avg.) and five touchdowns. 1990: Schlereth played in 12 games, starting seven, and also started both playoff games. He started the first four games of the season, then suffered a sprained ankle at Detroit (11/4) that sidelined him for four weeks. He returned to the starting lineup in a 25-10 victory at New England (12/15). Schlereth started at Philadelphia in an NFC Wild Card Game (1/5) and at San Francisco in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game (1/12). 1989: Mark started all six games in which he played during his rookie campaign. He got his first career start at right guard in a 10-3 victory at Philadelphia (11/12). He had to move into the starting lineup due to various injuries to the starters.

COLLEGE: Mark played nose tackle, defensive tackle and center before settling in at guard in his junior season at Idaho. Despite being hampered by knee and elbow injuries, Mark came back his senior season to help the Vandals to the I-AA semifinals and a school record 11 victories (11-2).

PERSONAL: Mark attended Robert Service High School in Anchorage, Ak., where he won the state heavyweight wrestling title despite being the lightest competitor at 210 pounds. He was one of the most active players in community and charity appearances as a member of the Redskins, and has continued that commitment in Denver. Schlereth has talked to many children about his battle with dyslexia, and was named the Professional Athlete of the Year in the state of Idaho in 1991, edging out college teammate and former Seahawks quarterback John Friesz. Mark and his wife Lisa have three children: daughters Alex and Avery, and son Daniel. Mark and Lisa are also involved in Ronald McDonald House, and he is a past honorary co-chairman of Camp Dynamite, working with disadvantaged children in Southeast Washington, D.C. The one-week camp in Lancaster, Pa., exposes children to sports, singing, arts and crafts and other activities not available in Southeast Washington. During the season, Schlereth opens his home to players and staff members for a Monday Night Bible study which is usually attended by about 20-25 people and is led by Team Chaplain Bill Rader. Schlereth joined Broncos offensive linemen David Diaz-Infante and Tony Jones for an appearance on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien show in late January 1998, days after the Broncos' Super Bowl victory over Green Bay. Schlereth is also the first native born Alaskan to play in the NFL. His teammates refer to him by a nickname given to him by his former Redskin teammates, "Stink," in reference to stinkheads, an Eskimo delicacy made from rotting fish heads.

If there was any doubt about Shannon Sharpe's place among the game's all-time tight ends, it was further erased by his performance in 1998.

Sharpe continues to put up numbers that are not only beginning to make a lot of noise in Denver's record books, but are also prompting discussion about the Pro Football Hall of Fame. The nine-year veteran has produced three 1,000-yard receiving seasons (tied for 1st in NFL history by a tight end), a franchise-record seven straight 50-catch seasons and has been selected to seven straight Pro Bowls. The seven straight 50-catch seasons also represents an NFL record for a tight end. Sharpe entered the NFL in 1990 as the Broncos' seventh-round selection (192nd overall) out of Savannah State. Here is a look at some of Sharpe's more prominent career statistical notes after nine seasons:

- Sharpe has now played in 139 games (106 starts) with 529 career receptions (second in franchise history), 6,759 receiving yards (2nd) and 44 touchdown receptions (tied for 1st). He also has 6,768 total yards from scrimmage (4th) and 6,768 combined yards (6th).
- Sharpe shares the team record for most receptions in a game (13) and most touchdown receptions in a game (3), and holds the record for most receptions in a postseason contest (13), which is also tied with Kellen Winslow (1981) and Thurman Thomas (1989) as an NFL postseason record.
- Sharpe ranks third in franchise history with 15 games of 100 or more receiving yards (including one in the postseason).
- He has played in 11 postseason contests — all starts — and ranks No. 1 in franchise play-off history in receptions (42) and No. 3 in receiving yards (474), for an average of 11.3 with two touchdowns.
- Sharpe has been selected to seven consecutive Pro Bowls, tied for third-most in club history, and tied for the longest string of consecutive selections (Steve Atwater—1990-96).
- He is one of only four tight ends in NFL annals to post more than one 1,000-yard receiving season (3), and one of four to amass 6,000 receiving yards. Sharpe has more receptions and yards than any tight end in the NFL since he entered the league in 1990.

1998: Sharpe turned in another spectacular season, being selected to play in the Pro Bowl for the seventh straight year, and his third in a row as a starter, as well as being named first-team All-NFL by the Associated Press (5th time; 4th as first-teamer), The Sporting News, USA Today, Pro Football Weekly, College & Pro Football Newsweekly and Football Digest, and All-AFC by Pro Football Weekly and Football News. He started at tight end in all 16 games for the second straight and caught 64 passes for 768 yards (12.0) with a long of 38 (TD) and 10 touchdowns. Sharpe led all NFL tight ends in receiving yards, and ranked third among his peers in receptions. He shared the AFC lead (T6th NFL) in receiving touchdowns and tied for sixth in the AFC (T13th NFL) in total touchdowns, and posted his seventh straight 50-catch season, a first by a tight end in pro football history. The seven total and seven straight also represent new franchise records in both categories. His first touchdown of the year came on a 12-yd. scoring toss from Elway in the first quarter of the season-opener vs. New England (9/7) to give Denver a 10-0 lead. His 51 yds. in that contest gave him 6,042 for his career, making him just the third Bronco to surpass 6,000 receiving

SHARPE MOVES UP DENVER'S ALL-TIME RECEIVING CHART

With his two-touchdown performance against Seattle Dec. 27, 1998, Shannon Sharpe tied Haven Moses and Lionel Taylor for first place in all-time receiving touchdowns by a Bronco. Meanwhile, Sharpe moved into second place on the Broncos' receiving-yardage list Sept. 13, 1998 vs. Dallas, overtaking Steve Watson. He now trails only Lionel Taylor.

yds. (L. Taylor—6,872; S. Watson—6,112), and only the fourth tight end in NFL history to do so, joining Ozzie Newsome (7,980), Jackie Smith (7,918) and Kellen Winslow (6,741). Sharpe missed most of the second quarter after sustaining a mild concussion while leveling a crushing block on Patriots linebacker Chris Slade to free Howard Griffith on a screen pass at the beginning of the period. He returned to the game after halftime. Sharpe posted his fifth career multi-touchdown game in Week 2 vs. Dallas (9/13), hauling in 23- and 38-yard touchdown tosses from John Elway in the first half to help Denver mount a 35-17 lead at the break. Those two touchdowns moved him past Steve Watson (36) into a tie for fourth on the club's all-time receiving touchdowns list. In that game Sharpe (6-97) also moved into second place on Denver's all-time receiving yardage list, passing Watson (6,112), and finished the year with 6,759. Sharpe caught six passes for 46 yards and a touchdown vs. Philadelphia (10/4) to move into sole possession of fourth place on Denver's all-time receiving-touchdowns list, breaking a tie with Vance Johnson (37), and added his 39th (5th of '98) a week later at Seattle (10/11) on a 19-yd. pass from Elway in the first quarter. Sharpe caught his 500th career pass in Week 9 at Cincinnati (11/1), on his last of 3 receptions for 35 yds. The milestone catch came on a 2-yd. pass from Elway just before halftime, which, incidentally, will go down as Elway's 4,000th career completion. Sharpe became one of just three tight ends in NFL history with 500 receptions, joining Ozzie Newsome (662) and Kellen Winslow (541), and he and his brother Sterling form the only brother combination in pro football history to record 500 receptions apiece. Sharpe caught three passes for 31 yds. and a TD at San Diego (11/29), his seventh of the year, and the 41st receiving TD of his career to tie Riley Odoms (1972-83) for third place on the Broncos' all-time list. Sharpe moved into sole possession of third place on Denver's receiving TDs list vs. Kansas City (12/6), doing so in dramatic fashion with a 24-yd. fourth-quarter scoring reception from Elway to give Denver a 35-31 win. It was Sharpe's only catch of the day, and his eighth TD catch of the season to help Denver tie the all-time league record of 18 consecutive wins (regular and postseason), set by four other teams. Sharpe finished the season on a high note vs. Seattle (12/27) with his sixth career multiple-touchdown game, hauling in two from John Elway as part of a 6-catch, 68-yard performance. The two TDs gave him 44 for his career to tie the franchise record (Lionel Taylor, Haven Moses), and moved him into a fifth-place tie (Taylor, Riley Odoms) on the franchise list for total TDs. He also moved past Sammy Winder for fourth place on the Broncos' all-time career list for total yards from scrimmage, finishing the season at 6,759. Postseason: Sharpe started at tight end in all three games and caught nine passes for 78 yds. (7.8) with a long of 14. He became the Broncos' all-time leader in postseason receptions (42), and remained third in postseason receiving yards (474). In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami

RAZOR SHARPE (PART II)

On Dec. 21, 1997 vs. San Diego, Shannon Sharpe went over the 1,000-yard mark in receiving yards for the season, the third time he has topped the 1,000-yard plateau in his career. He is now one of only four tight ends in NFL history to have multiple 1,000-yard seasons, and one of just three to post three. Sharpe now owns three of the 12 1,000-yard seasons posted by tight ends in league annals:

(1/9) Sharpe caught a team-high five passes for 38 yds. (7.6), and followed that showing with two catches for 14 yds. in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). He caught two passes for 26 yards (13.0) in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31) before leaving the game with a knee sprain. His 14-yd. reception to the 1-yd. line set up Denver's first touchdown, but he was upended by Atlanta's Ray Buchanan on the play, resulting in the injury. Sharpe returned to game but left after one more series, missing the game's final three quarters.

1997: Sharpe started all 16 games and was selected to his sixth straight Pro Bowl, named All-NFL by the Associated Press for the fourth time in his career (third time as a first-teamer), and also named first-team All-NFL by The Sporting News, USA Today, Pro Football Weekly and College & Pro Football Newsweekly. He was also named second-team All-NFL by Football Digest and All-AFC Pro Football Weekly. Sharpe ranked second on the team with 72 receptions for 1,107 yards (15.4; career-best) with three touchdowns, posting the third 1,000-yard season of his career to tie Todd Christensen for the NFL tight end record. He began his milestone pursuit in Week One by moving into third place on the Broncos' all-time receiving list, catching four passes to raise his career total to 397. The second-quarter 15-yard catch moved him past Riley Odoms, and also made him the leading pass-catching tight end in franchise history. Two weeks later vs. St. Louis (9/14) he caught two passes for 20 yards in the first quarter to top the 5,000-yard career mark before a twisted left ankle forced him from the contest. He returned to the starting lineup a week later vs. Cincinnati (9/21). Sharpe's 11th regular season 100-yard game came the following week in his return to his native Georgia to take on the Atlanta Falcons (9/28). He caught six passes for 119 yards on the day, including a then-career-best 65-yard touchdown from John Elway on the fourth play from scrimmage in Denver's 29-21 win. Sharpe had 93 receiving yards by the half, and his three first-half receptions put he and his brother Sterling at over 1,000 receptions for their careers, a first by a brother combination. His one TD reception tied Al Denson (32) for sixth place in all-time touchdown receptions by a Bronco. Sharpe passed Vance Johnson (416) on the Broncos' all-time receptions list at Oakland (10/19), catching eight passes for 94 yards. His highest yardage output of the season came in Denver's 34-0 shutout of Carolina (11/9), as he caught eight passes for 174 yards, the second-highest total of his career topped only by the 180 he had in Week One of 1995 (vs. Buffalo, 9/3). It was also his second eight-catch game of the season. This was the 13th 100-yard receiving game of Sharpe's career and the 12th such game in the regular season, third most in franchise history behind Lionel Taylor (24) and Steve Watson (15 regular season). He also moved past Haven Moses (5,450) for fifth place in club history in receiving yards during the contest. The next week at Kansas City (11/16), he caught three passes for 27

SHARPE JOINS THE 500 AND 6,000 CLUBS

Shannon Sharpe went over the 500-reception plateau Nov. 1, 1998, with a three-catch, 35-yard effort at Cincinnati. He is the second Bronco with 500 receptions and third tight end in NFL history to reach that milestone. Sharpe exceeded the 6,000-yard receiving mark for his career in Denver's 27-21 win over New England, Sept. 7, 1998, making him the sixth Bronco to accomplish the feat and the fourth tight end to do so.

yards and a touchdown in Denver's 24-22 loss. The TD was the 33rd of Sharpe's career, moving him into sixth place in franchise history, passing Al Denson. In Denver's 31-3 Monday Night Football win over Oakland (11/24) he caught 10 passes for 142 yards, the fifth 10-catch game of his career, one off the NFL record for tight ends (Kellen Winslow). He also became just the second player in franchise history to record six total and consecutive 50-catch seasons, joining Lionel Taylor (1960-65). He closed the regular season vs. San Diego (12/21) on a high note with eight receptions for 162 yards and a 68-yard touchdown, the longest of his career. It marked his 15th career 100-yard game, the 14th in the regular season. He and his brother Sterling have now combined for 99 career touchdowns, the most ever by a brother combination. In the postseason Sharpe finished in a tie for the team lead in receptions with 12 for 149 yards (second on team), for a 12.4 average with a long of 23. In Denver's 42-17 Wild Card victory over Jacksonville (12/27/97) Sharpe moved into sixth place in postseason receiving yards by a Bronco, passing Ricky Nattiel (251) and Michael Young (255). He also passed Mark Jackson (21) for third place in postseason receptions by a Bronco. He added two receptions for 33 yards (long of 22) in Denver's 14-10 Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98). In Denver's 24-21 AFC Championship victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98) Sharpe caught three passes for 49 yards, including an 18-yarder on third-and-six with 2:00 remaining in the game to all but wrap up Denver's fifth Super Bowl appearance. During the game he passed Haven Moses (314) for fifth place and tied Steve Watson (358) for fourth place on the Broncos' all-time postseason list for receiving yards. In the Broncos' 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII (1/25/98) Sharpe was Denver's leading receiver, reeling in five passes for 38 yards with a long of 12. He also did a magnificent blocking job on Green Bay LB Seth Joyner, enabling teammate Terrell Davis to rush for 157 yards (the team ran for 179) and earn MVP honors. During the contest, Sharpe moved past Steve Watson (358) for fourth place and Steve Sewell (375) for third place on the teams' all-time postseason receiving yardage list. He also passed Sewell (31) for second place all-time in postseason receptions by a Bronco. 1996: Sharpe — selected to his fifth consecutive Pro Bowl and named first-team All-Pro by the Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly — started 15 of the 16 regular season games at tight end, missing only the season finale at San Diego (12/22) when he was declared inactive to rest a sore ankle for the playoffs. He was also named All-AFC by UPI and Football News. For the year he tied for eighth in the AFC in receptions (80; 16th NFL) and was ninth in receiving yards (1,062; 15th NFL) for an average of 13.3 yards per catch with 10 touchdowns (78th AFC/13th NFL).

SHARPE'S 50-CATCH SEASONS

With his game-winning touchdown catch against Kansas City Dec. 6, 1998, Shannon Sharpe went over the 50-catch plateau for the seventh consecutive season, becoming the 16th player in NFL history with seven straight 50-catch seasons and the first tight end to do so. Sharpe now also owns the franchise record for consecutive and overall 50-catch seasons, surpassing Lionel Taylor:

establishing a new career high. His 1,062 receiving yards also represented a career high, topping his 1,010-yard effort in 1993. Sharpe led all NFL tight ends in receptions, receiving yardage and receiving touchdowns. With his 10 touchdowns Sharpe joined Terrell Davis (15 TDs) to give Denver two players with double-figure touchdowns in the same season for the first time in franchise history. Sharpe had a seven-game stretch early in the year (9/22-11/10) in which he topped the 100-yard mark three times and was over 90 twice, for an average of 107.6 yards per game. His four-catch, 21-yard, one-touchdown performance vs. Seattle (12/1) gave him career single-season bests in receiving yardage (finished at 1,062) and receiving touchdowns (10, previous best was nine in '93). Sharpe's longest reception was a 51-yarder vs. Chicago (11/10), and he also had a 46-yard touchdown to his credit, vs. Kansas City (10/27). He, along with Davis and quarterback John Elway, made the Broncos just the fifth team in NFL history to have a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher and a 1,000-receiver in the same season. Sharpe's 1,000-yard effort was the second of his career, making him one of only four tight ends in league annals to have more than one 1,000-yard receiving seasons. He left the season-opener vs. the Jets (9/1) in the third quarter with a mild ankle sprain after recording four receptions for 55 yards and a touchdown, but was well enough to start at Seattle a week later (9/8). In Week Four at Kansas City (9/22) Sharpe had his first big breakout game of the season, hauling in a game-high nine passes for 131 yards, followed by a game-high six passes for 60 yards and one touchdown the following week at Cincinnati (9/29). The next week vs. San Diego (10/6) Sharpe had a career day, hauling in a franchise-record (tie) 13 passes for 153 yards and three touchdowns in Denver's 28-17 come-from-behind victory. The three touchdowns tied his previous best, which he shares with several other players as the franchise record. Sharpe's touchdowns came on passes of 20, 20 and 3 yards from John Elway. In the game, Sharpe also moved ahead of Al Denson (4,150) into eighth place on the Broncos' career receiving yardage chart, and moved into seventh all-time on the touchdown reception chart, surpassing Mark Jackson, Bob Scarpitto and Rick Upchurch. He was named the Miller Lite/NFL Player of the Week for his performance. Versus Baltimore (10/20) Sharpe caught a game-high nine passes for a season-high 161 yards, with a long of 32 yards, his longest of the season. It was his third 100-yard game in the past four outings. The following week vs. Kansas City (10/27) Sharpe continued his midseason onslaught by catching a game-high six passes for 99 yards, with two touchdowns. Both scores came in the first quarter: the first a season-best 46-yarder and the second a 10-yarder in Denver's 34-7 win. Against Chicago (11/10) he caught five passes for a game-high 92 yards, and hauled in his ninth touchdown pass of the year to tie his previous career high set in 1993. Two weeks later at Minnesota (11/24) Sharpe caught four passes for a game-high 90 yards to move ahead of Mark Jackson (4,746) into sixth place on the Broncos' all-time

SHARPE'S 10-CATCH GAMES

In 1999, Shannon Sharpe has a chance to accomplish something done by only one tight end in the history of the NFL. Sharpe, who currently has five 10-catch games in his career, needs one more to tie Kellen Winslow for the most 10-catch performances by a tight end in NFL history. He had his fifth 10-catch game Nov. 24, 1997 against Oakland.

receiving yardage chart. He took a vicious blow under his chin in the second quarter from Orlando Thomas, but remained in the contest and helped lead Denver to a 21-17 come-from-behind win. The next week vs. Seattle (12/1) Sharpe moved past his previous single-season yardage best of 1,010 set in 1993, and topped his previous single-season touchdown best of nine (also '93). His one-yard touchdown reception in the first quarter put Denver ahead 7-0 en route to a 34-7 win. Two weeks later vs. Oakland (12/15) he was hit hard after making his one catch on the day and sustained an injury to his lip that kept him out of the rest of the game. In the regular season finale at San Diego (12/22) Sharpe missed his only game of the year when he was declared inactive to rest a sore ankle. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) he started at tight end and caught two passes for 31 yards, including an 18-yard touchdown from John Elway to put Denver ahead 12-0 in the first quarter. 1995: Sharpe, who was selected as a Pro Bowl reserve (fourth straight Pro Bowl), played in the first 13 games and started 12, despite continuing to be bothered by sore ankles. He was named second-team All-Pro at tight end by the Associated Press. Sharpe's 63 receptions were the 12th-most in the AFC, while his 756 receiving yards ranked 16th, despite missing three games entirely, and playing sparingly in three others due to injury. He was second among all NFL tight ends in both receptions and receiving yards. In the season opener vs. Buffalo (9/3), Sharpe made a magnificent 1995 debut, tying a regular season career best with 10 receptions, and establishing a new career high with 180 yards, fourth-most all-time by a Bronco in a single game. It was the seventh 100-yard game of his career, and the most receiving yards by a Bronco since Steve Watson accumulated 183 on 10 catches at the L.A. Raiders on 12/12/82. Sharpe suffered an ankle sprain against Washington (9/17) and missed the final three quarters of that game, but was back in the lineup — though not at 100% — the following week at San Diego (9/24). His first touchdown reception of the year came at New England (10/8). Sharpe's second-best game of the year came vs. San Diego (11/19) when he caught a game-high eight passes for 137 yards and one touchdown, with a long of 40. Sharpe's fourth and final TD of the season came Dec. 3 against Jacksonville, before he took a blow to the face and suffered an orbital fracture to his left eye in the second quarter. He underwent surgery on the eye Dec. 7, forcing him to miss the final three games of the season (against Seattle, 12/10; at Kansas City, 12/17; and at Oakland, 12/24), but he was not placed on the injured reserve list. 1994: Sharpe was selected to his third straight Pro Bowl as he posted career-best numbers in receptions (87) and yardage (1,010), though he did not play in the Pro Bowl game because of ankle and knee injuries. His 87 catches were the most by any Bronco since 1961 (Lionel Taylor, 100) and the third-most all-time for a Denver player. He ranked fourth in the AFC and eighth in the NFL in receptions. His 1,010-yard total was second-best on the team as well as ninth in the AFC, and gave Sharpe his first 1,000-yard season after just missing with 995 in 1993. He joined Anthony Miller (1,107 yards) to give Denver two 1,000-yard receivers in the same season for the first time in franchise history. He scored four touchdowns and had six or more catches on eight occasions. He and his brother Sterling (Green Bay Packers) remain the only brother combination to lead their teams in receptions in the same year, as they have now done for three straight seasons. Sharpe matched his career high with 10 receptions (95 yards) in Denver's dramatic overtime victory at Kansas City (12/4), and followed that a week later with nine catches for 89 yards at the Raiders (12/11). His career high in yardage came in game seven at San Diego (10/23) when he gained 121 yards on six catches, including a 44-yard pass from Elway for his longest reception of the year. Sharpe played in 15 of the Broncos' 16 games and made 13 starts. After an outstanding opening day (9/4) on which he caught nine passes for 97 yards against San Diego, he was placed on the inactive list for game two at the N.Y. Jets (9/11) because of a knee injury suffered in the opener. He was expected to miss up to five weeks, but returned for spot duty the next weekend at the L.A. Raiders and went without a catch for the first time since Nov. 30, 1992. He returned to the starting lineup in game five at Seattle and stayed there the rest of the season, playing through the pain of aching knees and ankles. He did not practice at all the week of the Cleveland game (10/30), but showed up on Sunday to lead the team in receptions (9) and yards (85). 1993: Sharpe was named to his second straight Pro Bowl, along with being named to virtually every All-NFL team. He led the Broncos in receptions with 81, which ranked third in the AFC and eighth in the NFL. His 81 receptions ranked fourth in Bronco history, and were at the time the most since Lionel Taylor's 85 in 1965. Sharpe was also on the receiving end of nine TD passes; which tied for second in the AFC. He accounted for at least two receptions in every game in 1993, with his season high coming against Kansas City (12/12). In that game Sharpe recorded 10 receptions for 65 yards and three touchdowns. His best game yardage-wise came in the season finale at the L.A. Raiders (1/2) when he accounted for 115 yards on six receptions with two touchdowns. The next week in the wild card matchup with the same Raiders (1/9). Sharpe tied a playoff record with 13 receptions. 1992: Sharpe led all Denver receivers in 1992 with a career-high 53 receptions for 640 yards and two touchdowns. Shannon and his brother Sterling of the Green Bay Packers became the only brother combination in NFL history to lead their respective teams in receiving in the same season. Sharpe had two 100-yard receiving games in '92, catching seven passes for 109 yards at Buffalo (12/12) and nine for a career-high 118 yards vs. Kansas City (10/4). He also had nine receptions at Washington (10/12) and had seven in the season finale at Kansas City (12/27). Sharpe, who was in the starting lineup 12 times in 1992, also set a new career high with a 55-yard reception at Cleveland (9/27). 1991: Sharpe was converted from wide receiver to H-back in 1991 and had a fine season, catching 22 passes for 322 yards and a touchdown and also gaining 15 yards on a reverse. He made half of his receptions in the final three weeks of the campaign, with 11 catches for 159 yards. Sharpe established new career highs at Cleveland (12/8) with four receptions for 59 yards, and had four catches the following week vs. Phoenix (12/15). On special teams he posted a team-high 12 tackles, with five assists and two knockdown blocks. Sharpe appeared in Denver's starting line-up nine times during the regular season. He closed out the postseason with six catches for 60 yards, with three for 20 against Houston (1/4) and three for 40 at Buffalo in the AFC Championship Game (1/12). 1990: Denver's seventh-round draft choice in 1990, Sharpe saw more playing time as the season progressed and closed out the year with seven receptions for 99 (14.1) yards and a score. He had his top receiving game at Kansas City (12/9) with three catches for 41 yards and his first professional touchdown. Sharpe was also one of the Broncos' top special teams performers, netting 16 total tackles, six knockdown blocks, and a forced fumble.

COLLEGE: Sharpe had a tremendous career at Savannah State College, where he was a three-time All-American, All-Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, and all-state selection, as well as the three-time conference Offensive Player of the Year. Sharpe closed out his college play with 192 receptions for 3,744 yards, a 19.5 average, and 40 touchdowns. He ended his career with appearances in the East-West Shrine and Blue-Gray all-star games. Sharpe set school records for most consecutive games with a reception (39), with a touchdown (14), and for most games with over 100 yards receiving (17). As a senior he caught 61 passes for 1,312 yards and 18 TDs, and had three games with more than 200 yards receiving and one game with four touchdown catches. Sharpe was a criminal justice major.

PERSONAL: Sharpe hails from Glennville, Ga., where he was all-county, all-region and all-area in football at Glennville High School. In addition to four letters in football, Sharpe lettered three times in basketball and four times in track, setting a Georgia state Class A record in the triple jump (48'-3") as a junior, and breaking that mark as a senior (49'-5"). He won the regional triple jump title three straight years and the regional discus throwing title twice. Shannon was also a two-time all-area selection in basketball, scoring more than 1,000 points in three seasons, and averaging 30 points and 15 rebounds as a senior. He once scored 52 points in a game and once grabbed 27 rebounds in a game. His brother Sterling was an All-American at South Carolina who earned All-Pro status in five of his seven NFL seasons with the Green Bay Packers. Sterling is now a reporter for ESPN television, and a studio host for the network's award-winning NFL Countdown and Prime Monday programs. Shannon has several cousins who played college football, and he lists his hobbies as fishing, basketball, weight lifting, and his two Rottweilers, Kane and Killian. Shannon is single and makes his home in Glennville, Ga.

LONG DROUGHT

The Broncos' longest current drought between meetings with any NFL opponent is with Detroit, whom the Broncos have not faced since Nov. 22, 1990. That will end on Christmas Day, 1999, however, when Denver travels to Detroit for a nationally-televised game. Last season, Denver ended the previous longest drought it had held with Miami, facing the Dolphins at Pro Player Stadium Dec. 21, 1998. Interestingly, after not facing Miami since Sept. 29, 1985, the Broncos then faced the Dolphins again three weeks later in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game at Mile High Stadium.

Clay Shiver was a late addition to the Broncos roster in 1999, signing a free agent contract June 8, but figures to add valuable depth to a talented offensive line. Shiver has played in 44 games (25 starts) in three seasons with Dallas, by whom he was drafted in the third round (67th overall) in 1996.

1998: Shiver started the first nine games at center for Dallas before being deactivated at Arizona (11/15) because of a turf toe injury. He was active but did not play in one other game (vs. Minn., 11/26). Shiver also did not play in Dallas' Wild Card playoff loss to Arizona. 1997: Shiver started the entire 1997 season at center for the Cowboys, earning the starting job after the final preseason game. In his first NFL start, he helped Dallas gain 380 total yards in a victory at Pittsburgh. He earned a game ball in the Cowboy's win against Jacksonville on Oct. 19, and also played a key role in Dallas' victory over Washington (11/16) in which they threw 46 times and only allowed one sack. He fumbled twice, recovering one. 1996: Shiver played in 14 games in his rookie season with Dallas. He was inactive vs. New England (12/15) and did not play the next week at Washington. He was also used as a blocking tight end in short yardage situations throughout the year and was a member of the kickoff return unit. Shiver suffered a concussion in the first half at San Francisco (11/10) and did not return to the game. He was originally a third round pick (67th overall) by Dallas.

COLLEGE: Shiver was a four-year starter at center at Florida State, where he served as team captain and was voted All-America as a senior. A three-time first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice, he was also a Lombardi Award finalist. The Seminoles' offense ranked third in the nation in offense in 1995, averaging 551.5 yards per game. Shiver was twice named the conference offensive lineman of the week as a junior. As a sophomore he gave up just half a sack in 700 offensive plays. Shiver shared the starting job at center as a redshirt freshman in 1992. The Seminoles were 11-1, 12-1 (National champs), 10-1-1 and 10-2 in his four years playing at FSU.

PERSONAL: Shiver was a Parade All-American as a senior at Tift County High School in 1990, and was also named first-team all-state. His brother, Stan, is a former Seminole strong safety. Clay majored in business at FSU, and has been very active in the community, hosting an annual golf tournament to raise money for Irving Cares — a non-profit group that assists underprivileged children in Irving, Texas. He and his wife, Ty, were married this past offseason, and make their home in Irving.

HIGH SCHOOL: Lake Highlands High School, Dallas, Texas

PRO YEAR: 4th • YEAR WITH BRONCOS: 4th

Detiron Smith became more of a reliable contributor on offense and furthered his reputation as an imposing force on special teams in 1998, joining starter Howard Griffith to give Denver perhaps the league's best 1-2 tandem at fullback. The fourth-year pro gave Griffith a breather when needed — and started two games — and was Denver's main wedge-buster on kickoffs, as well as starring on other special teams units. He has played in 44 regular season and seven postseason contests, rushing four times for 10 yards (2.5), catching seven passes for 65 yards (9.3) and a touchdown, and returning four kickoffs for 51 yards (12.8). Smith was the Broncos' third-round draft choice (No. 65 overall) in 1996 out of Texas A&M.

1998: Smith saw action on special teams and in the offensive backfield in 15 of the 16 games and posted 15 special teams tackles, while also returning three kickoffs for 51 yards (17.0) (1-21 vs. Dal., 9/13; 1-15 at Oak., 9/20 and 1-15 at Miami, 12/21). Smith started two games, including the first start of his career in Week 9 at Cincinnati (11/1) in place of the injured Howard Griffith (hamstring) and caught three passes for 24 yds. (8.0) with a long of 16 (at K.C., 11/16), while helping to pave the way for two Terrell Davis 100-yd. efforts (111 and 149). Smith's 2 receptions in the Cincinnati contest represented a career high. He played almost the entire San Diego game (11/8) at fullback after Griffith left the contest on the first series with a second-degree medial collateral tear in his left knee. Smith still performed well on special teams despite the double-duty, posting a season-high two tackles. His second start came at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football when he started in place of the still-ailing Griffith. Smith caught a 16-yd. pass and tied his season high with 2 special teams tackles. Smith missed a portion of the Philadelphia game (10/4) after spraining his right knee and ankle during the contest, and was declared inactive (Fri.) the following week at Seattle (10/11) because of the same injuries. He returned to action after the bye week vs. Jacksonville (10/25) and played on special teams (1 tackle), as well at fullback during the 4th qtr. after Griffith suffered his hamstring injury. Postseason: Smith saw action on offense and special teams in all three postseason games.

1997: Smith contributed in all 16 games at fullback, catching four passes for 41 yards (10.3) and a touchdown (at Atlanta, 9/28), while rushing four times for 10 yards (2.5). He was also a stalwart on special teams, where he made seven tackles and fielded a kickoff for no return, while also serving as the wedge-buster on kickoff coverage. Smith played most of the Atlanta game (9/28) at fullback after Howard Griffith went down with a knee injury on the first series. He recorded his first career rush for one yard in the first quarter, and later snagged his first career reception for a 17-yard touchdown from John Elway in the third quarter to give Denver a 29-14 lead. He also recorded one kickoff return for no yards. After catching one pass for seven yards against the Raiders (10/19), Smith also replaced the injured Griffith at fullback at Buffalo (10/26), but did not start the game as the Broncos opened in a two-tight end set. He rushed once for -2 yards and caught one pass for eight yards. In the regular season finale vs. San Diego (12/21) he rushed twice for 11 yards and caught one pass for 9 yards, and made one tackle on special teams. In the postseason Smith played in all four games as the backup fullback, and also contributed on special teams. He filled in admirably for Griffith in the Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97), as Denver racked up over 300 yards rushing in the game. His crushing block on Jaguars' linebacker Bryan Schwartz sprung Terrell Davis on his postseason franchise-record 59-yard jaunt late in the third quarter. Smith narrowly missed recovering a Tamarick Vanover fumble near the end of the first half at Kansas City (1/4/98) in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff victory. 1996: Smith played in 13 of the 16 regular season games in his rookie season, missing only the Cincinnati (9/29), Seattle (12/1) and Oakland (12/15) contests when he was declared inactive. He saw some action at fullback, but played primarily on special teams, where he made three tackles according to unofficial press box statistics. Smith, bothered early in training camp by a sprained ankle suffered July 25, played in all four preseason games both on offense and special teams. He did not have a rushing attempt, but did catch six passes for 33 yards (5.5) with a long of 11. Smith was declared inactive for Denver's lone playoff contest vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97).

COLLEGE: Smith was primarily a blocking back during his career at Texas A&M, creating holes first for Greg Hill and then for current Bronco Leeland McElroy. He rushed 57 times for 184 yards (3.2) and one touchdown, while catching 33 passes for 300 yards (9.1) with a long of 35 yards. Smith also returned five kickoffs for 54 yards (10.8) with a long of 15. In his first two years at A&M (1992-93) Smith's running backs coach was Broncos offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak.

PERSONAL: Smith was a consensus Texas Top 100 selection at Lake Highlands High School in Dallas, and rated the second-best fullback prospect in the Southwest, receiving a perfect score of 10 points on Max Emfinger's Blue Chip List. He carried the ball 181 times for 1,351 yards (7.5) and scored 15 touchdowns. Smith was a wildlife and fisheries major at Texas A&M. Detiron Negil Smith was born Feb. 25, 1974 in Dallas. He is single and resides in Aurora, Colo.

Neil Smith has discovered football's version of a fountain of youth in the past two years, coming to Denver and winning back-to-back Super Bowl titles in his 10th and 11th NFL seasons. That elixir has motivated Smith to prove he still has some football left in him after being allowed to test the free-agent market by Kansas City after the 1996 season. Now in his 12th season out of Nebraska, Smith has been voted to six Pro Bowl berths (three starting assignments), the most recent coming after the 1997 season, his first in a Broncos uniform. He has contributed 12.5 sacks in his two years with the Broncos, to increase his career total to 98 (-720 yds.). Smith has now played in 166 regular season games (154 starts) and accumulated 630 tackles (466 solo), 28 pass breakups, 31 forced fumbles, 13 fumble recoveries, four interceptions (68 yards). Smith is just two sacks shy of the century mark for his career, a feat accomplished by only 15 players in NFL history. He ranks sixth in the NFL in sacks since 1992 with 71.5. Smith has posted four double-digit sack seasons in his career (1992-95) and has accumulated 19 career multiple-sack games. Smith has also played in 16 postseason contests (13 starts) with 58 stops (45 solo), six forced fumbles, three fumble recoveries, four pass breakups and 9.5 more sacks. (63.5 yards). Smith entered the NFL in 1988 as Kansas City's No. 1 draft choice, going second overall.

1998: Smith started at left defensive end in 14 of the 16 games and recorded 38 tackles (25 solo), including four sacks (-38) to raise his career total to 98, as well as one forced fumble, two passes defended and an interception. He was declared inactive for the final two games of the regular season (at Mia., 12/21 and vs. Sea., 12/27) because of an abdominal strain that had been bothering him for several weeks prior. In Week 1 vs. New England (9/7) he left the game in the second quarter with a right shoulder strain, but returned in the second half. His first sack of the season came at Washington (9/27) when he leveled Trent Green for a 7-yd. loss on a 3rd-and-10 play in the third quarter, forcing a fumble. His second came a week later vs. Philadelphia (10/4) when he dropped Bobby Hoyer for a 7-yd. loss late in the first half, and his third came vs. Jacksonville (10/25) when he caught up to Mark Brunell for a 20-yd. loss on the final play of the game. Smith plucked his fourth career interception — and first since 1994 — vs. Oakland (11/22), pulling down a tipped Donald Hollas pass and returning it two yards to set up a Broncos touchdown. He registered his fourth sack of the season vs. Kansas City (12/6), dropping Rich Gannon for a 4-yd. loss on the Chiefs' final possession. Preseason: Smith started all four games at left defensive end and posted one solo tackle with one forced fumble. Postseason: Smith saw action at defensive end in all three games and posted an assisted tackle and a pass defended, as well as a recovered fumble which he returned 79 yds. for his first postseason touchdown in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9). In that game he returned to action for the first time since Week 15 after missing the final two regular season games because of an abdominal strain, and he made quite a statement with the fumble return for a score, which came after Darrius Johnson had stripped the ball from Oronde Gadsden at the Broncos 21-yd. line. Smith recorded his one pass defended in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17), and made one assisted tackle in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Smith started 14 of the 16 games at left defensive end in his first year in Denver and earned his sixth career Pro Bowl invitation (third as a starter). For the year he made 46 tackles (38 solo), including 8.5 sacks (-39.5) — tied for the team lead and tied for tenth in the AFC — while also adding a forced fumble and four passes defended, despite missing two games due to a torn right triceps muscle. Smith started the season opener at left defensive end against his former team, Kansas City, and recorded one solo tackle in Denver's 19-3 victory. The next week at Seattle (9/7), he made four solo tackles, including his first sack as a Bronco for a 2-yard loss in Denver's 35-14 come-from-behind victory. He missed several plays due to back spasms but returned to finish the game. Smith picked up his sack pace a week later vs. St. Louis (9/14), accumulating two (-8) among his five tackles (4 solo), to record his first multi-sack game as a Bronco, and his first since Oct. 22, 1995. The following week vs. Cincinnati (9/21) Smith made two solo tackles, including an 11-yard sack of Jeff Blake, on which he forced a fumble that was recovered by Alfred Williams and returned 51 yards for a coffin-nailing touchdown in the final minute of a 38-28 win. His season high for tackles (6; 5 solo) came in Week Six vs. New England (10/6) on Monday Night Football. Smith posted a half a sack at Oakland (10/19), then recorded his second multi-sack game of the season at Buffalo (10/26) with two for 12 yards in losses. He also suffered a partially torn right triceps in the contest, which was expected to keep him out for a minimum of 10 days. He missed Denver's next two games with the injury, but returned to the starting lineup at the Chiefs (11/16) for his first game back in Kansas City and posted four tackles (3 solo) in Denver's 24-22 loss. On Monday Night Football vs. Oakland (11/24), Smith did not start but saw significant action at left defensive end and made four tackles (3 solo), including a sack (-4) of Jeff George to raise his season total to 7.5. The sack came in the final minute of the first half deep in Broncos territory, and helped limit the Raiders to a field goal on the drive, their only score of the night. Smith's final sack of the regular season came at San Diego (11/30), dropping Craig Whelihan among his four tackles (3 solo). In that same contest his tipped pass just before halftime allowed Steve Atwater to make an interception, which he returned 22 yards for a Broncos score. In the postseason Smith started all four games at left defensive end and recorded 10 tackles (8 solo), including a team-high three sacks (-26), as well as one pass defended, two forced fumbles and a fumble recovery. His first two sacks came in the Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98) against his former teammates, as he posted four solo tackles and forced a fumble in Denver's 14-10 triumph. His first sack came early in the second quarter when he dropped Elvis Grbac for an 8-yard loss, and his second came on the final play of the first half as he got to Grbac for a 12-yard loss and forced a fumble that was recovered by the Chiefs' Glenn Parker. His third post season sack came a week later in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), forcing a fumble by Kordell Stewart on the final play of the third quarter that teammate Mike Lodish recovered, squelching yet another attempt by the Steelers to cut into Denver's 24-14. Denver went on to win the game 24-21. Smith also forced a critical holding penalty near the end of the first half against Steelers right tackle Justin Strzelczyk that put Pittsburgh in a deep hole and forced them to punt the ball back to Denver, who would go in and score their second TD late in the quarter and take a 10-point lead to the locker room. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Smith recovered a fumble caused by Steve Atwater early in the second quarter, setting up a Jason Elam field goal that gave Denver a 17-7 lead en route to a 31-24 win. 1996. Smith started all 16 games for Kansas City and had 54 tackles (40 solo), six sacks (31.5 yards lost), a club-high 77 quarterback pressures, two pass deflections and one forced fumble. Rod Smith has now climbed into the echelon of the league's top wide receivers with his performance in 1998, improving upon an already impressive 1997 season that ranked among the best in franchise history. With two straight 1,000-yard seasons for a Broncos team that won back-to-back World Championships, Smith now seeks to climb to even new heights and achieve All-Pro status as the Broncos attempt to defend again. The fifth-year pro has now played in 58 games and started 34, catching 178 passes for 2,791 yards (15.7) with 21 touchdowns and a long of 78 yards. He has also rushed 11 times for 79 yards (7.2) on reverses; returned 24 punts for a 12.3-yard average (295 yds.) with a long of 36; returned five kickoffs for a 16.6-yard average (83 yds.) with a long of 29 and completed his only pass attempt, a 14-yarder to John Elway in 1998. Smith now holds the Nos. 3 and 4 spots on the Broncos' all-time single-season receiving-yardage list, with last year's 1,222 yards resting just above his 1,180-yd. total from 1997, becoming just the fifth player in franchise history to post back-to-back 1,000-yard receiving seasons. His combined regular and postseason total of 1,482 receiving yards in 1998 is the best in franchise history, and his combined two-year regular season receiving total of 2,402 yards in 1997 and '98 is the second-best over a two-year span in franchise history, behind Lionel Taylor's 2,411 yds. (1960-61). Smith has also played in eight postseason games (7 starts) and caught 24 passes for 480 yards (20.0) and three touchdowns, with a long of 80, which went for a touchdown in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta. The 80-yard score tied for the second-longest play from scrimmage in a Super Bowl game, and ranks as the longest play from scrimmage in Broncos postseason history. Smith's 152 yards in Super Bowl XXXIII rank as the fourth-highest receiving figure in Super Bowl history, and moved him into second place on Denver's all-time postseason receiving chart. He also ranks fifth in receptions (24), third in receiving touchdowns (3) and fourth in avg. yds. per catch (20.0). Smith's first NFL touchdown in 1995 — on his first NFL reception — may always be his most memorable, as he outleaped Washington Redskins All-Pro Darrell Green to haul in a 43-yard John Elway pass in the end zone as time expired, giving Denver a 38-31 victory. Smith entered the NFL in 1994 as a rookie free agent with the Broncos out of Missouri Southern. He spent that season on the practice squad before making the 53-man roster for the first time in '95.

1998: Smith — named second-team All-NFL by College & Pro Football Newsweekly — started at wide receiver in all 16 games and continued to establish himself as one of the league's most productive receivers with a team-leading 86 receptions (fourth-best in club history) for 1,222 yds. (third-best in club history) for a 14.2-yard average and six touchdowns, including a long of 58 (vs. K.C., 12/6). He also gained 63 yards rushing on six reverses (1-37 at Wash., 9/27; 1-9 vs. Phila., 10/4; 1-8 vs. Jax., 10/25; 1-7 at K.C., 11/16; 1-12 at S.D., 11/29 and 1-10 at Miami, 12/21) to give him 1,285 total yards from scrimmage, and threw one pass, a 14-yd. completion to John Elway (vs. Oak., 11/22). Smith tied for second in the AFC (T3rd NFL) in receptions and ranked second in the AFC (4th NFL) in receiving yards, while also tying for fifth in the AFC (T8th NFL) in third-down receptions (24-352) and ranking eighth (14th NFL) in first downs earned (63). With 1,222 receiving yards this season, on the heels of his 1,180-yd. campaign in 1997, Smith became just the fifth player in franchise history to post 1,000 or more receiving yards in back-to-back seasons (Lionel Taylor, 1960-61; Steve Watson, 1983-84; Anthony Miller, 1994-95 and Shannon Sharpe, 1996-97), and with Ed McCaffrey (1,053) gave Denver two 1,000-yd. receivers in the same season for just the third time in franchise history (1994, '97). He tied his then-career high for receptions vs. Philadelphia (10/4) with 7 for a then-season-high 95 yds. (13.6) and his first two touchdowns of the season. The first score came on an 8-yd. toss from Bubby Brister in the 1st qtr. and a 31-yarder in the 3rd. A week later at Seattle (10/11) Smith shattered his previous career bests with a game-high eight receptions for 136 yards (17.0) and a touchdown, on a season-best 50-yd. reception from John Elway in the first quarter. He posted six catches for 95 yds. (15.8) and a touchdown (28 yds., 4th qtr.) vs. Oakland (11/22), but made the day even more memorable by throwing a pass back to Elway for a 14-yd. completion after taking the ball on a reverse. It was Smith's first career pass completion in the NFL, though he was a part-time quarterback in college. Smith would later haul in a 28-yd. TD pass from Elway in the 4th qtr. to increase Denver's lead to 26-14. At San Diego (11/29), Smith tied his then-career high with 8 receptions and posted his eighth career 100-yd. game (101), while adding a TD on a 13-yd. pass from John Elway in the 2nd qtr. He would post back-to-back 100-yd. games for the first time in his career by virtue of his career-high-tying eight receptions for a career-high 165 yds. (20/6) the next week vs. Kansas City (12/6) which included his longest catch of the season (58 yds. from Elway). It was Smith's ninth career 100-yd. game and his third in '98 as he joined Ed McCaffrey (103 yds.) to give Denver two 100-yd. receivers in the same game for the first time since Nov. 20, 1994 vs. Atlanta (Cedric Tillman — 175, Anthony Miller — 102). Postseason. Smith started at wide receiver in all three games and was the Broncos' leading receiver with 12 receptions for 260 yds. (21/7) and two touchdowns, including an 80-yard score in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31). His previous postseason long accounted for his other touchdown, on a 28-yd. strike from John Elway in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9). In that contest he caught four passes for a team-high 71 yards, including the 28-yd. touchdown reception from Elway early in the 4th qtr. Smith added three more receptions for 37 yds. (12/3) with a long of 15 in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). But he saved his best for last with a five receptions for a game-high 152 yards in the Super Bowl, including the 80-yd. scoring reception from Elway in the 2nd qtr. to give Denver a 17-3 lead. It tied for the second-longest play from scrimmage in Super Bowl history and the longest pass play in Broncos' postseason history, and was the longest in the club's Super Bowl history. Additionally, Smith's yardage total was the fourth-highest in a Super Bowl game, and moved him into second place (from seventh) on the Broncos' postseason career list (480).

1997 Smith started all 16 games at wide receiver and finishing second on the team in receptions with 70 for a team-leading 1,180 yards (16/9) with a long of 78 yards and 12 touchdowns in his first year as a full-time starter. The yardage and touchdown totals both represented the third-highest single-season totals in franchise history at the time. He also earned the ball five times on reverses for a net total of 16 yards rushing (3/2), with a long of 21 (at San Diego, 11/30). Smith's 16.9 yards per catch average ranked third in the NFL, and he also ranked fourth in the AFC (T8th NFL) in receiving yardage, tied for 10th (T18th NFL) in receptions, tied for first in the AFC (T2nd NFL) in receiving touchdowns, tied for third (T5th NFL) in total touchdowns and points scored by a non-kicker (T6th NFL), and 11th in total yards from scrimmage (1,143). Smith posted six 100-yd. receiving performances in 1997, the second-highest total in franchise history behind Lionel Taylor's seven in 1960. He posted back-to-back two-touchdown games in Weeks Four and Five, and added two more multi-TD games (at Pittsburgh, 12/7 and vs. San Diego, 12/21). Smith posted nine receptions of 30 yards or longer during the regular season (30, 37, 40, 41, 43, 47, 59, 72, and 78), plus two more in postseason play (43 and 40). His 72- and 78-yard receptions represent the two longest completions by Elway to the same receiver in a single season. Smith also returned one punt for 12 yards against St. Louis (9/14). It all began on opening day for Smith vs. Kansas City (8/31) when he set then-career highs with five receptions for 122 yards to lead both teams. His total included a career-best 78-yard reception from John Elway late in the second quarter to set up a Denver field goal. It was the third-longest non-scoring reception in Broncos history. Versus St. Louis (9/14), he caught four passes for 126 yards and two scores (from 72 and 38 yards out) in Denver's 35-14 victory. Smith set a career high for receptions (7) in Week Four vs.

Cincinnati (9/21) — a feat he would match at Kansas City on 11/16 — on 82 receiving yards in Denver's 38-20 victory. He also caught two touchdowns in the game from 1 and 8 yards out for his second straight two-TD game. Smith posted a new career high with 130 yards on five receptions in the Broncos' 34-13 Monday Night win over New England in Week Six (10/6). He registered his first NFL rushing attempt at Oakland (10/19), gaining 14 yards on a reverse, to go along with five passes for 58 yards (11/6). His next 100-yd. game came vs. Seattle (11/2) when he caught five passes for 114 yards (22/8), including a 59-yard touchdown reception from Elway in the third quarter to put Denver ahead 27-20. It was Smith's fourth 100-yd. game of '97, the most by a Bronco since Anthony Miller had five in 1994. Smith also carried once on a reverse and gained three yards. The next Sunday vs. Carolina (11/9), Smith caught four passes for 40 yards (10/0), including his sixth touchdown of the season on a 20-yard pass from John Elway in the third quarter of Denver's 34-0 romp. At Kansas City (11/16), he tied his career high with a game-high seven receptions for 114 yards, including a long of 43, to notch his fifth 100-yd. game of the season, tied for second-most in franchise history. His 43-yarder in the first quarter will likely be remembered as one of the most outstanding the league has seen in recent years, as Smith showed remarkable concentration while drawing a pass interference call and nearly being tripped as the ball neared his hands. Smith's seventh touchdown (15 yds.) came vs. Oakland (11/24) on Monday Night Football, and he added his eighth the following week at San Diego (11/30) on a 5-yard reception from Elway, in addition to a career-best 21-yard rushing gain on a reverse. Smith came up big at Pittsburgh (12/7), catching four passes for 115 yards with a long of 41 and two touchdowns, his third two-touchdown game of the season. His scores came on a 37-yard pass play from Elway in the first quarter and a 25-yard play from Elway in the second, as he eclipsed the 1,000-yard receiving mark for the season. He closed the regular season on a high note vs. San Diego (12/21) with his fourth two-TD game, catching four passes for 53 yards and scoring on tosses of 11 and 15 yards from Elway. In the postseason Smith started all four games at wide receiver and caught 11 passes for a team-leading 205 yards (18/6) with a long of 43 yards, which accounted for his only postseason touchdown. The play came in the first quarter of Denver's Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97) and gave the Broncos a 14-0 lead. He would catch three passes for 99 yards and one TD on the day. All three receptions came in the first half, and came on third down, including a later 40-yard reception on 3rd-and-6 from the Broncos' 12-yard line. That kept the drive alive, as Denver went on to score for a 21-0 lead. His and Ed McCaffrey's blocking from the wide receiver position helped turn reasonable gains on the ground into long ones as Denver racked up 310 yards rushing in the contest, a franchise postseason record and the fifth-most ever in a playoff game. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), he caught two passes for 19 yards. His longest reception, of 17 yards, came on a 3rd-and-7 play late in the second quarter and spotted the Broncos at the Chiefs' 4-yard line, from which they would punch it in to produce their first touchdown of the day and take a 7-0 lead. In Denver's 24-21 AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), he caught a career playoff-high six passes for 87 yards to lead all Broncos receivers. His longest catch covered 20 yards. Smith started at wideout in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), but he did not catch a pass, only recording a fair catch on a punt in the ballgame. 1996: Smith handled the role of No. 3 receiver for much of the season and caught 16 passes for 237 yards (14/8) and two touchdowns, returned 23 punts for 283 yards (12/3) with a long of 36 and posted one special teams tackle after beginning his season late (vs. Baltimore, 10/20) because of injury. Smith's 12.3-yard punt return average was second-best in the AFC and fourth in the NFL. His first touchdown of the year was the game-winner in Game 9 at Oakland, as he hauled in a 49-yard John Elway pass with 4:14 remaining to give the Broncos a 22-21 win on Monday Night Football. On the night he finished with a career-high four receptions for 72 yards. It was the second time in his two seasons that Smith had caught a game-winning pass, following the dramatic final-play 43-yard touchdown grab from Elway to push the Broncos over the Redskins 38-31 (9/17/95) during his rookie season. His other '96 touchdown came against Oakland in Denver's 24-19 victory Dec. 15. Smith was inactive for the first six games of the season while recovering from a broken collarbone suffered in the preseason at Dallas (8/17). He saw his first action of the regular season vs. Baltimore (10/20), catching one pass for 35 yards and returning a kickoff for 29 yards. Smith regained his No. 1 punt returner job prior to the Kansas City game (10/27), in which he fielded seven punts for 99 yards, including a 36-yarder in the first quarter. He also caught two passes for 22 yards against the Chiefs. Smith began throwing and catching again during the week of the Tampa Bay game (9/15). Prior to his injury, Smith was pushing Ed McCaffrey in competition for a starting wide receiver spot, and was the No. 1 punt returner. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Jacksonville, Smith caught one pass for 15 yards, returned two punts for 12 and made two special teams stops. 1995: Smith was used in all 16 games both at wide receiver and on special teams, where he recorded six tackles and forced a fumble. On the season he had six catches for 152 yards (25.3) with a long of 43, and returned four kickoffs for 54 yards (13.5) with a long of 17. Smith's spectacular game-ending 43-yard touchdown reception from John Elway in Week Three gave the Broncos a 38-31 win over Washington (9-17), and was the first of his NFL career. Smith out-jumped and out-duelled Redskins All-Pro Darrell Green for the ball before landing just inside the end zone as time expired. He recorded his first career kickoff return for 16 yards, at New England (10/8), and forced a fumble on special teams coverage vs. San Diego (11/19). Smith had his best all-around performance in the season finale at Oakland (12/24), starting at wide receiver as the Broncos opened in a four-wide receiver set. He caught two passes for 56 yards, including a 26-yarder in the fourth quarter on a third-and-10 play, helping the Broncos continue their game-tying drive, en route to a 31-28 come-from-behind victory. 1994: Smith spent the season as a member of the Broncos' practice squad, showing steady improvement each week, after being signed as a rookie free agent.

COLLEGE: Smith enjoyed a stellar career at Missouri Southern, finishing with league records in career receiving yards (3,043) and touchdowns (34). He also broke the school's reception record (153) and was named first-team All-America by AP, Kodak, Football Gazette, and NCAA Div. II sports information directors after his senior year. In his final season, Smith caught 63 passes for 986 yards and 13 touchdowns, and was a finalist for the Harlon Hill Award, given annually to the top football player at the Division II level. Maa Tanuvasa has developed into a top-flight NFL defensive lineman, capable of playing both the tackle and end positions, as he has tied for the team lead in sacks each of the past two seasons. After starting the majority of games at right defensive tackle in 1997, Tanuvasa started every game at right defensive end in '98, and seeks to utilize that versatility again in the coming season to keep Denver's defensive line ranking among the best in the league. He makes up for his lack of prototypical size with extraordinary quickness, strength and agility. Tanuvasa has played in 48 regular season games (22 starts) and posted 98 tackles (82 solo), including 22 sacks (-150), with three fumble recoveries, one forced fumble and one pass defensed. In eight postseason contests (seven starts) he has added 13 tackles (9 solo), including one sack (-8). Tanuvasa was signed by the Broncos in February 1995 after brief stints with the Rams and Steelers. He was originally an eighth round pick (209th overall) out of Hawaii in 1993 by the Rams.

1998: Tanuvasa started at right defensive end in all 16 games and posted 53 tackles (47 solo), including 8.5 sacks (-73.5) to tie for the team lead and tie for 10th in the AFC, as well as a forced fumble, two fumble recoveries and a kickoff return for 13 yds. (vs. Oak., 11/22). Tanuvasa recorded 5.5 sacks in a six-game stretch during the second half of the season (Nov. 8-Dec. 13). His first sack of the season came in Week 1 vs. New England (9/7) when he dropped Drew Bledsoe midway through the third quarter (-9), and his second came two weeks later at Oakland (9/20) when he toppled Jeff George late in the third quarter (-7). Tanuvasa registered his third sack at Seattle (10/11), dropping Warren Moon for a 5-yd. loss just before halftime, en route to his high-tackle game of the season (7; 5 solo). His fourth came vs. San Diego (11/8) when he dropped Chargers QB Ryan Leaf for a 3-yd. loss on his team's first offensive play from scrimmage. Tanuvasa came up big again late in the game, collecting a Natrone Means fumble that had been forced by Bill Romanowski at the Denver 3-yd. line to keep San Diego out of the end zone with 3:57 remaining in the game. Tanuvasa posted his first two-sack game of the season before a Monday Night Football audience at Kansas City (11/16), dropping Rich Gannon for a 14-yd. loss on the final play of the first half, and for a 9-yd. loss on the Chiefs' final series of the game. A week later vs. Oakland (11/22) he raised his total to seven by sacking Raiders quarterback Donald Hollas early in the 4th qtr., and also recorded his first career kickoff return by plowing forward for 13 yds. after fielding a short game-opening kickoff. Tanuvasa made a key play at a crucial moment at San Diego (11/29), stripping the ball from Kenny Bynum at the Broncos' 2-yd. line, thwarting a potential Chargers scoring drive with Denver holding a slim 14-10 lead. He recorded his eighth sack vs. Kansas City (12/6), getting to Rich Gannon for a 4-yd. loss on the Chiefs' final possession. Tanuvasa had previously recovered his second fumble of the season after the ball was knocked loose by Darrien Gordon to end the Chiefs' first drive at the Broncos' 37-yd. line. Tanuvasa combined with Trevor Pryce for an 11-yd. sack of Giants QB Kent Graham at New York (12/13) to raise his season tally to 8.5, en route to a season-high seven solo tackles (tied season-high for total tackles). Postseason: Tanuvasa started at right defensive end in all three games and posted five tackles (3 solo). In the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9) he had one solo tackle, and he came back with one assisted tackle in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Tanuvasa closed an outstanding season with three tackles (2 solo) in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Tanuvasa saw action in 15 of the 16 games and started five after moving into a full-time role at right defensive tackle before the ninth game of the season (vs. Seattle, 11/2). He made quite an impact with 21 tackles (20 solo), including 8.5 sacks (-44.5) tied for the team lead and tied for 10th-most in the AFC. Tanuvasa suffered a sprained right ankle early in the first quarter vs. Oakland (11/24) and did not return to the game. X-rays were taken, and proved negative, but the ankle would bother him for the remainder of the season. He played but did not start the next week at San Diego (11/30), and was inactive the following week at Pittsburgh (12/7). Tanuvasa had a breakout game on Monday Night Football vs. New England in Week Six (10/6) posting three sacks (-23) of Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe, the most by a Bronco since Simon Fletcher had four in a Nov. 11, 1990 game at San Diego. Tanuvasa's first two sacks came in the season-opener against Kansas City (8/31), and he added his third vs. Cincinnati (9/21). He reached 7.5 with one solo vs. Carolina (11/9) and 8.5 with another solo at Kansas City (11/16). He also had a career-high six solo stops in the K.C. game. In the postseason Tanuvasa started all four games at right defensive tackle and made seven stops (5 solo), including one sack (-8), which came in the Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). He had two tackles in that game, two solo stops the next week at Kansas City (1/4/98), two tackles (one solo) at Pittsburgh (1/11/98) in the AFC Championship Game, and one solo stop in Denver's 31-24 Super Bowl XXXII victory over Green Bay (1/25/98). 1996: Tanuvasa played in all 16 regular season games and made one start at right defensive tackle (at San Diego, 12/22) in place of Michael Dean Perry (ankle). He played as a reserve on the defensive line in the other 15 contests and had a breakthrough season with 24 tackles (15 solo) — including five sacks (-39) — and one pass break-up. He also made one tackle on special teams. On opening day vs. the Jets (9/1) Tanuvasa was credited with one of the Broncos' nine sacks in Denver's 31-6 victory. He registered his second sack of the season as well as one solo tackle in Denver's 28-17 win over San Diego (10/6) and added his third sack — among six total tackles (four solo) — at Oakland (11/4) in a Monday Night game won by the Broncos 22-21. Tanuvasa's fourth sack came at New England (11/17), and his season was capped by his career-high fifth at San Diego (12/22), as he started his first NFL contest at right defensive tackle in place of Michael Dean Perry (ankle). For the night he made three total tackles (2 solo) and broke up a pass. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Tanuvasa saw action on the defensive line and made one solo tackle. 1995: Tanuvasa, originally signed by the Broncos Feb. 22, 1995, spent the first eight games of the season on the practice squad before being elevated to the active roster Oct. 24. He was declared inactive for each of his first two games, before making his first professional appearance against San Diego (11/19), seeing action on special teams. 1994: Tanuvasa spent a portion of the season as a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers practice squad after being released by the Rams in training camp. He started the Rams' first preseason game at Green Bay (8/6/94). 1993: Tanuvasa spent the season on injured reserve with the Rams after injuring his knee in a preseason game at Cleveland (8/21/93).

COLLEGE: Tanuvasa finished his three-year career at the University of Hawaii with 190 tackles (116 solo) and 10 sacks. As a senior he had 84 tackles (57 solo) and 10 sacks. He posted 41 stops (27 solo) as a junior and 65 (32 solo) as a sophomore.

PERSONAL: Tanuvasa was an Oahu Interscholastic Association All-Star selection in both football and track at Mililani High School in Mililani, Hawaii. His first name means "rock" in Samoan, providing the reason for his nickname "The Rock." Maa Junior Tanuvasa was born Nov. 6, 1970 in American Samoa. His name is pronounced "MAH-ah TAH-noo-VAH-sah." He and his wife, Kris, have a daughter, Chantel (10), and a son, Maa, Jr. (1). The family makes its home in Highlands Ranch, Colo.

Trey Teague enters his second NFL season with great promise for the future after a rookie season in which he gained valuable experience learning from the premier offensive line in the league. He figures to provide strong depth at either tackle position in 1999. Teague was selected by Denver in the seventh round (No. 200 overall) of the 1998 NFL Draft.

1998: Teague was declared inactive (Fri.) for all 16 games in his rookie season. Postseason: Teague was declared inactive for all three games.

COLLEGE: Teague was a two-year starter on the offensive line at Tennessee, earning third-team All-America and first-team All-Southeastern Conference kudos from The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft as a senior. He started all year at center, registering 87 knockdowns while grading 83.5% for a team that ranked fourth in the nation with an average of 482.8 yards per game in total offense. As a junior, Teague started the first eight games at left tackle and the last four at center, after a sophomore seasons in which he played in every game, starting the final two at right tackle. Keith Traylor has continued to develop into one of the most formidable defensive tackles in the National Football League, further refining his game in his two years back in Denver where he began his career as a linebacker in 1991. He has become the immovable object the Broncos so desperately needed in the middle of their defensive line, and appears headed toward Pro Bowl status in the near future. Traylor, who spent his first two pro seasons in Denver, has also played for Green Bay and Kansas City, as well as in the World League of American Football (now called NFL Europe). He has played in 99 regular season games (36 starts) and posted 228 tackles (160 solo), including 7.5 sacks (-57), with nine pass breakups, three forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. In 10 postseason contests (seven starts) he has added 19 tackles (14 solo), including one sack (-1), with three passes defended. A unique athlete, Traylor has grown into the current force he is in the middle of the defense without losing any of the quickness he brought with him from Central State (Okla.) as a third-round draft choice (61st overall) in 1991. At 6-2, 304 lbs., Traylor is not only one of the quickest linemen in the NFL, he is also one of very few who can dunk a basketball.

1998: Traylor played in 15 of the 16 games, and started 14 at left defensive tackle, posting 49 tackles (40 solo), including two sacks (-8), two passes defended and a fumble recovery. His first sack came vs. Philadelphia (10/4) on Bobby Hoying in the third quarter of Denver's 41-16 win, and his second came at Kansas City (11/16) on Monday Night Football when he stopped Rich Gannon for a 1-yd. loss. Traylor's fumble recovery came against Jacksonville (10/25) after a bad center/QB exchange at the Jaguars' 9-yd. line, setting up a two-play TD drive to give Denver a 17-3 lead in the second quarter. He suffered a sprained ankle in the third quarter of the Dallas game (9/13), and did not return. Traylor returned to practice the following Friday, but was declared inactive two days later at Oakland (9/20). He returned to the starting lineup in Week Four at Washington (9/27) and posted his high-tackle game with five solos. Traylor played but did not start at Seattle (10/11) when the Seahawks opened the game in a three-wide receiver alignment. Traylor's high-tackle game of the season came vs. San Diego (11/8) when he posted six (4 solo) in a 27-10 Broncos win. Preseason Traylor started all four games at left defensive tackle and recorded seven solo tackles, including one sack (-9). Postseason Traylor started at left defensive tackle in all three games and made six tackles (3 solo) and one pass defended. He posted two solo tackles in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1/9), and added an assisted tackle in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). His pass defended, as well as three tackles (1 solo), came in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997 Traylor was outstanding in starting all 16 games at left defensive tackle and leading all Denver defensive linemen with 51 tackles (39 solo), including two sacks (-20), two passes defended and one interception. The pickoff — the first of his career — came at Buffalo (10/26) and was returned 62 yards for his first professional touchdown. He began the regular season against one of his former clubs, as he registered three tackles (one solo) in Denver's 19-3 victory over the Chiefs. He had six stops (four solo) the next week at Seattle (9/7) and registered his first sack of the season (-12) to go along with four solo tackles in Denver's 35-14 win over St. Louis on Sept. 14. Traylor missed several series in the Cincinnati game (9/21) with a bruised right shoulder, but did return to limited action and had one solo stop in Denver's 38-20 win. He tied a season-high with six tackles (four solo) the next week at Atlanta in a 29-21 victory. His action was limited against Seattle (11/2) because of a deep thigh bruise, but he came back the next week against Carolina (11/9) and recorded four solo tackles in Denver's 34-0 victory. In the postseason Traylor started all four games at left defensive tackle and recorded 11 stops (9 solo), including one sack (-1), with two passes defended. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27/97), Traylor started at left defensive tackle and posted four tackles (3 solo) with one pass defended. The next week in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), he posted three solo tackles, two of which came behind the line of scrimmage just two days after the death of his mother. After the game, he was awarded the game ball in the locker room by head coach Mike Shanahan. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh, he made a big impact with two tackles (1 solo), including a sack (-1) and a pass defended as Denver advanced to the Super Bowl with a 24-21 victory. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Traylor started at left defensive tackle and posted two solo tackles in Denver's 31-24 win over the Packers. 1996 Traylor shared time on the defensive line for the Chiefs and posted a career-high 42 tackles (31 solo) with one sack, 11 quarterback pressures, one forced fumble and one pass defended. He played in 15 games, including a start against Indianapolis (12/15/96) at right defensive tackle, in which he made four tackles (3 solo). Traylor's one sack came against Detroit (11/28) for a three-yard loss. He also blocked a field goal against the Raiders (9/8) in a Kansas City victory, and had a season-high six tackles with two quarterback pressures vs. Pittsburgh (10/7) on Monday Night Football. 1995 Traylor was a steady backup at defensive tackle, playing in the NFL for the first time since 1993. He played in all 16 games, contributing 19 tackles (13 solo), 1.5 sacks, one forced fumble, one fumble recovery, four passes defended and 33 quarterback pressures. Traylor's best game was a three-tackle, one-sack effort vs. San Diego (10/9). He had two tackles in the Chiefs' playoff loss to Indianapolis (1/7/96). In the spring of 1995 Traylor was with the Barcelona Dragons of the World League, playing in eight of 10 games (three starts) and posting 16 tackles, including 14 solo stops, and recovering a pair of fumbles. 1994 Traylor was signed by Kansas City Feb. 9 and was waived during the final roster cutdown Aug. 28. He did not sign with any other team that season. 1993 Traylor was signed by the Raiders as a free agent July 19 after the Broncos chose not to re-sign him. He was waived by the Raiders Aug. 30, then signed with Green Bay Sept. 14 and played in five games, making one tackle. He was released by the Packers Nov. 9 and signed with Kansas City Jan. 5, 1994, in time to be active for the Chiefs' playoff loss to the Steelers (1/8/94). Traylor was then released two days later. 1992 Traylor saw action in all 16 games with Denver (one start), making 39 tackles (21 solo), one fumble recovery and one sack. He notched his first NFL sack vs. Seattle (12/20). 1991 Traylor earned all-rookie honors from Pro Football Weekly and Football Digest as a linebacker for the Broncos. He played in all 16 games and started two. Traylor was a backup to Michael Brooks and Karl Mecklenburg at inside linebacker and made 27 tackles (12 solo) on defense, as well as 16 more (nine solo) on special teams. He started for Brooks vs. Seattle (9/15), making nine stops, and vs. San Diego (9/22), recording 10 tackles. Traylor was also used at the fullback position in several postseason goal-line situations, a la the Bears' William "Refrigerator" Perry. Traylor played in both playoff games with the Broncos. He was picked by Denver in the third round (61st overall) of the 1991 NFL Draft.

COLLEGE Traylor played collegiately for two seasons at Central State (Okla.) after transferring from Coffeyville (Kan.) Junior College. At Central State he made 146 tackles, five sacks, two interceptions, three forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. Traylor played in just four full games and parts of two others as a senior because of a leg injury, but still managed 67 tackles and three forced fumbles. He was a first-team All-Lone Star Conference pick as a junior when he amassed 79 stops, five sacks, two fumble recoveries and two interceptions. Traylor's two years as a starter at Coffeyville included an MVP performance in the 1988 JUCO Championship Game. He had 229 tackles, 14 sacks and nine interceptions at Coffeyville.

Alfred Williams seeks to rebound from a difficult season in which he missed the first six games while rehabilitating a triceps injury on which he had undergone surgery in the offseason. He returns in 1999 with a full offseason to prepare, and looks to return to the form that saw him lead the team in sacks in 1996 and share the lead in '97. Williams, who came to Denver as an unrestricted free agent in 1996 from San Francisco, has tallied 24.5 sacks over the past two seasons, leading the club over that period. He has played in 121 regular season games (86 starts) with 314 tackles (258 solo), 21 pass breakups, 12 forced fumbles, five fumble recoveries and 55.5 sacks (-410 yards), and played in nine postseason contests (five starts) with 19 tackles (15 solo), three pass breakups and two sacks (-14 yards). Williams played in the Pro Bowl following the 1996 season, and earned several All-NFL honors. The former University of Colorado All-American was drafted 18th overall in 1991 by Cincinnati, with whom he spent his first four NFL seasons before signing with San Francisco in 1995. He signed with the Broncos Feb. 26, 1996, fulfilling a quest he had made known since leaving CU after his collegiate career.

1998: Williams played in 10 games after being activated from the reserve/P.U.P. list Oct. 23 and posted 19 tackles (11 solo), including three sacks (-24), to go along with two passes defended (at NYG, 12/13 and vs. Oak., 11/22). His first sack at Cincinnati (11/1) on Neil O'Donnell in the 4th qtr., and the second came vs. Kansas City (12/6) when he dropped Rich Gannon for a 5-yd. loss to end the Chiefs' final hopes in the closing minutes. He closed the regular season with an 11-yd. sack of Seattle's Jon Kitna (12/27). Williams also had one pass defended, tipping a Donald Hollas pass in the 4th qtr. vs. Oakland (11/22), which resulted in an interception by Neil Smith. Williams played in his first game of the '98 season vs. Jacksonville (10/25) in a reserve role at right defensive end, after missing the first six weeks because of a triceps injury, and responded with one solo tackle. Postseason: Williams saw action at defensive end in all three games and contributed eight tackles (6 solo), two passes defended and a forced fumble. He made one solo tackle in the AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Miami (1-9), and added four stops (3 solo) plus the forced fumble in the AFC Championship Game vs. the Jets (1/17). Williams stripped Curtis Martin of the ball near midfield on the Jets' second possession, and Tyrone Braxton recovered. He closed his season with two solo tackles and two passes defended in Super Bowl XXXIII vs. Atlanta (1/31).

1997: Williams started all 16 games at right defensive end and made 48 tackles (39 solo), including 8.5 sacks (-74) to tie for the team lead and tie for 10th-most in the AFC, as well as one forced fumble and one fumble recovery which he returned 51 yards for a touchdown against Cincinnati (9/21). The recovery and touchdown came with 57 seconds remaining in the game after Neil Smith had sacked Jeff Blake and forced the ball loose. In the season opener vs. Kansas City (8/31), Williams returned to the starting lineup after missing the final three preseason games with a left triceps tear and recorded two tackles (1 solo). Williams had returned to practice Monday, Aug. 25. The next week at Seattle (9/7) he made six tackles (5 solo) in Denver's 35-14 victory. Williams' first two sacks came in Week Five at Atlanta (9/28), both in the fourth quarter against Billy Joe Tolliver. He added his third at Oakland (10/19), with his fourth coming at Buffalo (-20 yards on 10/26). Williams added six tackles (four solo) against the Raiders and a forced fumble against Buffalo. He earned the sack by tracking down Andre Reed as the Bills' wide receiver took the ball on a reverse and attempted to pass, but was thrown for a 20-yard loss in overtime. That set up Jason Elam's 33-yard game winning field goal. Versus Carolina (11/9) he posted two solo tackles, including a half sack of Kerry Collins (-2) in the fourth quarter of Denver's 34-0 win. On Monday Night Football vs. Oakland (11/24) Williams made four solo tackles, including a sack of Jeff George for a 9-yard loss on the Raiders' first possession of the second half in Denver's 31-3 victory. The next Sunday at San Diego (11/30), he slightly tore his right triceps muscle, but the injury was not believed to be as serious as the tear of his left triceps during the preseason. Williams notched his second two-sack game of the season at San Francisco (12/15) to raise his season total to 7.5, and closed with an 8-yard sack vs. San Diego (12/21) to reach 8.5. In the postseason Williams started all four games at right defensive end and recorded 10 tackles (7 solo), including two sacks (-14), both of which came in the AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98). His initial sack came in the first quarter, resulting in a 4-yard loss, and his second came on the Chiefs' final possession of the game, resulting in a 10-yard loss. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), Williams posted five tackles (3 solo) and helped to harass Kordell Stewart all day, as Denver advanced to the Super Bowl with a 24-21 victory. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Williams started at right defensive end and posted two tackles (1 solo). 1996: Williams proved to be one of the league's most valuable free-agent acquisitions of 1996, earning selection to his first Pro Bowl in addition to first-team All-Pro nods from the Associated Press, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly and Football News, second-team mention from College & Pro Football Newsweekly and first-team All-AFC kudos from UPI and Football News. Williams started all 16 regular season games at right defensive tackle and ranking among the league leaders in sacks. Overall he made 65 tackles (55 solo) and tied for third in the AFC (T5th NFL) in sacks with 13 (-102), the highest figure put up by a Bronco since Simon Fletcher had 13.5 in 1993. The franchise record is 16 by Fletcher in 1992. He also knocked down four passes, forced five fumbles and recovered one. On opening day vs. the Jets (9/1) Williams started at right defensive end in his first game as a Bronco and made a big impact with 4 tackles (3 solo) — including 1.5 sacks for 12.5 yards in losses — and two forced fumbles. Williams was named AFC Defensive Player of the Week for Week Three when he recorded two sacks, recovered two fumbles and forced another in a 27-23 Broncos defeat of Tampa Bay (9/15). The following week at Kansas City (9/22) Williams switched sides with Dan Williams to start at left defensive end, and harassed Chiefs' quarterback Steve Bono all day, making five tackles (4 solo) and knocking down two passes. One of the sacks included a fumble by Seahawk quarterback Kelly Stouffer which was recovered by Bengal teammate Ferdinand Vinson and returned 22 yards for a touchdown. BIRTHDATE: June 24, 1976

DRAFT CHOICE: 3rd Round (93rd overall)

FLORIDA83

Travis McGriff was a late bloomer who came into his own as a senior at Florida and hopes to continue his steady improvement in the NFL. He is fearless going for the ball in traffic despite his lack of great size. McGriff became the Gators' go-to guy during his senior season, and finished his career ranked 12th on the school's all-time receptions list with 123.

1998: McGriff was an All-Southeastern Conference first-team choice as a senior at Florida, and was one of 10 semifinalists for the Fred Biletnikoff Award, given to the nation's top receiver. He started every game, leading the team with a career-high 70 receptions for 1,357 yards (19.4 avg.) and 10 touchdowns. Only Reidel Anthony (72 in 1996) and Carlos Alvarez (88 in 1969) had more catches in a season for the Gators. McGriff's 1,357 yards broke the school's season-record of 1,329 by Alvarez in 1969, and his 10 scoring grabs rank seventh on Florida's season-record chart. He also returned 21 punts for 145 yards (6.9). Versus Tennessee he gained 176 yards on 9 grabs with a 70-yard touchdown, and against Alabama he hauled in 9 passes for 213 yards and a score. His 213 yards rank third on the school's single-game list. McGriff showed his versatility against LSU, catching five passes for 125 yards and a score, while also throwing a 49-yard touchdown pass to Travis Taylor, earning SEC Player of the Week honors. Against Vanderbilt he caught 8 passes for 157 yards and a 9-yard score, and in a victory over Georgia McGriff tossed a 10-yard touchdown to quarterback Doug Johnson on a flea-flicker. He had another big day against South Carolina, grabbing a career-high 13 passes for 222 yards with 36 and 39-yard touchdowns. His 222 yards rank second on the school's record list behind Carlos Alvarez (237 vs. Miami in 1969) and along with his performance vs. Alabama, it marked the first time in Gators history that a receiver gained over 200 yards in a game twice in either a season or a career. 1997: McGriff was named the Gators' Comeback Player of the Year, as he caught 24 passes for 363 yards (15.1 avg.) and three touchdowns after missing the end of the previous season with a knee injury. He played in 11 games and started five vs. Central Michigan, Vanderbilt, Southern Mississippi, South Carolina and Florida State. 1996: McGriff was a reserve receiver, seeing action in eight games before suffering a season-ending knee injury in practice prior to the Vanderbilt game. He finished the year with 167 yards on 14 catches (11.9 avg.). 1995: McGriff played in every game, performing as a reserve receiver during the first four games before moving to cornerback vs. Louisiana State. He returned to receiver two weeks later vs. Georgia, scoring his first career touchdown, an eight-yard reception. He finished the year with 12 catches for 139 yards (11.6 avg.) and a touchdown. 1994: McGriff saw limited action vs. New Mexico State, Kentucky and Tennessee, catching three passes for 31 yards before being granted a medical redshirt. McGriff earned his bachelor's degree in sports management.

HIGH SCHOOL: McGriff was a Blue Chip Illustrated third-team All-American and first-team All-Southeast pick as a senior, playing quarterback and cornerback at PK Yonge High School in Gainesville, Fla. He also added Class 2A all-state and Super Prep Top 35 honors. OLANDIS GARY

RUNNING BACK • 5-11 • 218

BIRTHDATE: May 18, 1975

DRAFT CHOICE: 4th Round (127th overall)

GEORGIA24

Olandis Gary looks to carry on the fine tradition of Georgia running backs in the NFL over the past two decades, headed by the Broncos' own Terrell Davis. Gary is a durable workhorse with great leg drive and upper body power. He is very tough and physical dragging defenders for extra yardage up the middle. Gary was recently timed at 4.51 in the 40-yard dash, and is also a superb wedge-buster on special teams. He began his collegiate career at Marshall.

1998: Gary was a second-team All-Southeastern Conference selection and Super Sleeper Team choice by The Sports Network, as well the recipient of the school's Dan M. Post Endowed Scholarship. He started nine games at tailback, coming off the bench vs. Louisiana State and Vanderbilt (team opened with a double tight end formation). Gary led the Bulldogs with 698 yards and 10 touchdowns on 143 carries (4.9 avg.) and caught 10 passes for 117 yards (11.7 avg.). Against Auburn he tore apart the Tigers defense as he rushed 24 times for 130 yards with 6- and 11-yard touchdowns, and against Mississippi was chosen SEC Offensive Player of the Week after amassing a Georgia career-high 132 yards on 25 attempts, including touchdowns of 4 and 28 yards to stake the Bulldogs to a 24-17 triumph. Gary closed his career against Virginia in the Peach Bowl with 19 carries for 110 yards, scoring on runs of 15 and 2 yards — the latter of which proved to be the game-winner in a 35-33 Bulldogs triumph — to earn Offensive Most Valuable Player honors. 1997: Gary played in every game at tailback, starting vs. South Carolina and Northeast Louisiana for an injured Robert Edwards, and vs. Auburn and Georgia Tech at fullback. He finished second on the team with 66 carries for 381 yards (5.8 avg.) and seven touchdowns, and caught seven passes for 75 yards (10.7 avg.) and a score. He also made 3 tackles on special teams. Against Wisconsin in the Outback Bowl, Gary iced a 33-6 triumph with a 3-yard scoring run just before halftime, and then set up another score with a 44-yard scamper, finishing the day with 61 yards on only four carries. 1996: Gary sat out under NCAA transfer rules. 1995: Gary played in 11 games for Marshall's Thundering Herd, starting at fullback vs. East Tennessee State and The Citadel. He was third on the team with 69 carries for 501 yards (team-high 7.3 avg.), and second on the squad with nine touchdowns on the ground. He also caught five passes for 18 yards (3.6 avg.). 1994: Gary appeared in seven games as a true freshman at Marshall, finishing second on the team with 262 yards and three touchdowns on 34 carries (team-high 7.7 avg.). He made four catches for 14 yards (3.5 avg.) and had a 16-yard kickoff return and led special teams with 13 tackles (6 solos). Against Morehead State Gary found the end zone in his first collegiate game, running for a 12-yard touchdown. Gary earned his bachelor's degree in consumer economics.

HIGH SCHOOL: Gary was a three-time all-county selection, and as a senior added Chesapeake All-Star and all-state honors at Riverdale (Md.) Baptist High School. He set a state record with 5,375 career rushing yards, while also lettering twice in basketball and competing in track and field.

Seven-Time Pro Bowl Selection

Sept. 13, 1998 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Partly Cloudy, 76°, Wind NE 9 mph • Attendance: 75,885 • Time: 2:52

The Broncos improved to 2-4 for the third straight year — and the 12th time in franchise history — with an impressive 42-23 victory over the Dallas Cowboys in front of 75,013 at Mile High Stadium. The Broncos' offense dominated the day, scoring 21 points in the first quarter and 35 points in the first half (fourth-most in franchise history), en route to 515 yards of total offense (379 in the first half), the fifth-highest total in franchise history, and a franchise-record average of 9.5 yards per play.

Denver stopped the Cowboys on their initial possession, then proceeded to score on five straight first-half possessions, starting with a 38-yard touchdown from John Elway (16-22, 268 yds., 2TD) to Shannon Sharpe (6-9*, 2FD). After a Dallas touchdown, Terrell Davis took over, scoring on consecutive runs of 63 and 59 yards (third- and first-longest of his career) to produce the seventh 100-yard half of his career (154 yds.) and the second 100-yard quarter of his career (138). Another Sharpe touchdown and an Elway one-yard TD run gave the Broncos a 35-17 halftime cushion.

Both teams slowed their pace in the second half, with Denver scoring the only TD of the half when Davis (23-191, 3TD) went over from three yards out with 7:33 to play in the contest. Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman left the game midway through the second quarter with a fractured right collarbone, and Elway, who completed better than 70% of his passes for the 18th time in his career, was forced out of the game in the fourth quarter with a strained hamstring. But by then the Broncos had the game wrapped up, securing Denver's franchise-record 18th straight regular season home victory, tying for the fourth-longest such streak in NFL history.

During the contest Sharpe moved into second place on Denver's all-time receiving yardage list and moved into a tie for fourth place on the club's all-time TD reception list. Davis' 191 rushing yards represented his fourth-highest single-game rushing total and his three rushing touchdowns tied the franchise record he already shared and moved him into second place on Denver's all-time career list. This was also his sixth consecutive game with a rushing touchdown, setting another team mark he shared with Winder. Ed McCaffrey added a career-high 117 yards on five catches.

3 DENVER 34, OAKLAND 17 Sept. 26, 1998 • Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum • Oakland, Calif.

Weather: Sunny, 65°, Wind W 10 mph • Attendance: 56,578 • Time: 2:58

The Broncos improved to 3-0 for the seventh time in franchise history with a 34-17 victory over the Oakland Raiders in front of 56,578 at Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum. It also marked the first time in franchise history that the Broncos have started three consecutive seasons with a 3-0 record.

Denver jumped to a 7-0 advantage courtesy of John Elway's 282nd-career touchdown pass, this one from 1 yard out to Ed McCaffrey. It would be Elway's only TD pass of the day, as he aggravated the same right hamstring he hurt the previous week against Dallas, this time in the second quarter. He finished the game with 71 yards passing on 6 of 10 attempts.

Bubby Brister replaced Elway in the second quarter and was immediately picked off by Eric Turner, who ran it back 44 yards for a 10-7 Raider lead. But Brister led the Broncos to 10 late-first half points, including a three-yard TD pass to Howard Griffith, concluding a drive set up by a Bill Romanowski interception of Jeff George. The lead was stretched to 24-10 in the third quarter when Brister hit McCaffrey with a 13-yard score to cap a seven-play, 57-yard drive. A muffed punt return by Damien Gordon set up the Raiders at Denver's 11-yard line for their final score of the afternoon, an 11-yard TD hookup between George and Rickey Dudley.

The Broncos scored the last 10 points of the game, including a touchdown on an 80-yard interception return by Ray Crockett, his second pick of the day, to give him his second career two interception game. Terrell Davis racked up his first 100-yard game against the Raiders, going for 104 on 28 carries, and passed Otis Armstrong (1,023 career att.) for third place in rushing attempts by a Bronco. Jason Elam booted his 136th and 137th field goals as a Bronco, passing Rich Karlis for second place all-time.

Denver improved its record against the Raiders to 6-1 since Mike Shanahan took over as head coach (1995), their most successful stretch in the history of this storied rivalry. McCaffrey was the leading receiver with five catches for 44 yards and two scores. Tom Rouen also booted a 76-yard punt, longest of his career and third-longest in franchise history.

The Broncos ran their record to 4-0 with a 38-16 victory over the Washington Redskins in front of 71,880 at Jack Kent Cooke Stadium. The victory, which came without starting quarterback John Elway (strained right hamstring), was the ninth straight for Denver (including postseason), one off the team record. It was the first victory for the franchise in a game that Elway did not start since Nov. 20, 1969 — also a win at Washington.

The Broncos struck early, scoring on their opening possession. The drive capped was a 14-yard TD pass from Bubba Brister to Ed McCaffrey. After a Jason Elam field goal pushed the margin to 10-0, Darrien Gordon intercepted a Trent Green pass and raced 55 yards for a touchdown and a 17-0 lead.

After taking a 17-7 advantage to the locker room at halftime, the Broncos put the game away in the third quarter, as RB Terrell Davis scored from 42 yards out and FB Howard Griffith caught a 14-yard touchdown to give Denver a 31-7 lead. Derek Loville ran one in from 1 yard out in the fourth quarter to give Denver a 38-10 advantage before the Redskins struck back with WR Michael Westbrook scoring on a 75-yard pass play.

Davis, who reeled off his third straight — and 23rd career — 100-yard regular season rushing game, also tied Riley Odoms (44) and Lionel Taylor (44) for fourth place all-time in total touchdowns by a Bronco. He finished the day with 119 yards on 21 carries and one TD. Brister, starting his first game in three years, filled in admirably for Elway, completing 16 of 24 passes for 180 yards and two touchdowns. Shannon Sharpe led all Denver receivers with six catches for 69 yards.

DT Trevor Pryce recorded the first interception of his career and LB Bill Romanowski recorded his career-high fourth sack of the season. The touchdown by Gordon was the eighth return for a touchdown in his career (6 punts, 2 int.) and his fifth with Denver (3 punts, 2 int.). The victory gave Denver an undefeated September for the second consecutive season — a feat accomplished once before (1986-87) — and the seventh time in franchise history. This was also the second time in franchise history that five different players have scored a touchdown in the same game for Denver.

DENVER 41, PHILADELPHIA 16

Oct. 4, 1998 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Partly Cloudy, 57°, Wind NW 15 mph • Attendance: 73,218 • Time: 3:11

The Broncos ran their record to a perfect 5-0 with a 41-16 win over Philadelphia in front of 73,218 at Mile High Stadium, the team's 19th consecutive regular-season home win and the 10th straight victory (regular and postseason combined) for the franchise, tying the all-time record. Denver's 5-0 start is the best by a defending Super Bowl champion since the 10-0 start by the 1990 San Francisco 49ers.

Although Denver was without its starting quarterback John Elway for the second consecutive week, the Broncos managed to set a team record by scoring 28 points in the first quarter, essentially ending the ball game shortly after it started. Bubba Brister filled in admirably for Elway for the second straight game, throwing for 203 yards on 16 of 29 passing and tying a career high with four TD passes, two of which went to Rod Smith (team-high seven catches for 95 yards).

Brister found Ed McCaffrey for a 48-yard hookup on the first play from scrimmage — the longest reception of McCaffrey's career — and five plays later Terrell Davis scored from 20 yards out to make the score 7-0. Davis' two first-quarter scores surrounded Smith's first TD and Shannon Sharpe's nine-yard touchdown reception to give Denver its record-setting total and a 28-0 lead after one period. Sharpe's touchdown was the 38th of his career, moving him into fourth place on the franchise charts. A McCaffrey TD catch of 12 yards was followed by Smith's second TD, a 31-yarder.

Davis rushed for 168 yards on 20 carries and scored two touchdowns — all in the first half — as he sat out the entire second half with his team comfortably ahead. In another record-setting day for the Broncos' tailback, Davis tied Floyd Little (43) for most rushing touchdowns in Broncos history; passed Riley Odoms (44) and Lionel Taylor (44) for fourth place on Denver's all-time touchdown list (46) and passed Jim Brown for the sixth-most rushing yards in the first four years of a career. His most impressive feat of the day was becoming the seventh player in NFL history to rush for 5,000 yards in his first four NFL seasons, reaching that total in his 50th NFL game, faster than any other Bronco and fourth-fastest in NFL history. Only Eric Dickerson (45), Earl Campbell (46) and Jim Brown (48) did so faster than Davis.

DENVER 21, SEATTLE 16

Oct. 11, 1998 • Kingdome • Seattle, Wash.

Weather: Indoors • Attendance: 66,258 • Time: 3:23

The Broncos improved to 6-0 and recorded the 300th regular or postseason win in franchise history with a 21-16 victory over the Seattle Seahawks in front of a sell-out crowd of 66,258 at the Kingdome. The win gave Denver a two-game cushion over their nearest competitor in the AFC West after six games.

For the sixth time in six games the Broncos struck first, as John Elway — returning from a two-game absence (hamstring/back) — connected with WR Rod Smith from 50 yards out to give Denver a 7-0 advantage. The lead grew to 14-0 when Elway found TE Shannon Sharpe from 19 yards out later in the first quarter. The one-play drive was set up by a 36-yard Damien Gordon punt return. A Darin Smith interception return of 23 yards gave Seattle its first points, and sent Denver to the locker room at halftime with a 14-7 lead.

Seahawks QB Warren Moon left the game in the third quarter after aggravating a rib injury and the Seattle offense continued to sputter as the Broncos opened up an 11-point advantage on the strength of their running game. Terrell Davis' franchise-record 44th career rushing TD gave Denver a 21-10 lead that looked safe until the Seahawks answered on their next drive with a touchdown. Backup QB John Friesz hit WR Mike Pritchard for a 50-yard score to cut the margin to 21-16, and the Seahawks then had a chance to take the lead in the waning moments, but LB Glenn Cadrez found an opportune time to pluck his first career interception, halting the Seattle drive at the Denver 28-yard line. The victory, however, wasn't sealed until Davis turned a 3rd-and-3 play at the Denver 25 into a 70-yard gain with 1:37 to play.

Davis added another stellar performance to his coffer with his third career 200-yard rushing effort, finishing the day with 208 yards and a touchdown on 30 carries. The 208 yards represented the second-highest rushing total of his career, and second-highest in franchise history, and his fourth-quarter touchdown moved him into first place in Broncos history for rushing TDs. It was also Davis' fifth straight 100-yard rushing effort, breaking a franchise record he had tied four times previously, originally established by Otis Armstrong (1974) and later matched by Bobby Humphrey (1990). Davis also passed Steve Watson for fifth place on Denver's all-time total yards from scrimmage list, and his 70-yard run was the second-longest of his career and the longest non-scoring run in franchise history. Rod Smith posted career highs in both receptions (8) and yards (136) to lead all receivers.

DENVER 37, JACKSONVILLE 24

Oct. 25, 1998 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Partly Cloudy, 63°, Wind N 7 mph • Attendance: 75,217 • Time: 3:30

On a day full of record-setting performances, the Broncos ran their record to 7-0 for the first time in franchise history with a 37-24 victory over Jacksonville in front of 75,217 at Mile High Stadium. The Broncos used a balanced offense (285 pass, 170 rush), an aggressive defense (7 sacks, 1 turnover) and a special teams effort that will never be forgotten to secure their 20th consecutive regular season home win, their eighth straight regular season win, and their 12th consecutive victory regular and postseason overall.

The highlight of the day was an NFL record-tying 63-yard field goal by Jason Elam, equalling the 28-year-old standard set by New Orleans' Tom Dempsey (Nov. 8, 1970). With Elam's history-making effort to close the first half preceded by the Terrell Davis and John Elway show, Denver took a 27-10 lead to the locker room at halftime. Elway connected with Ed McCaffrey from 41 yards out on the first play of the second quarter to give Denver a 10-3 lead. After a fumble by Mark Brunell at the Jaguars' nine, Davis plowed in from four yards out to give the Broncos a 14-point advantage. Jacksonville scored its first touchdown on a 4-yd. Fred Taylor run to cut the lead to 17-10, but then Davis scored again, this time from 1 yard out, to set up Elam's record kick.

The Jaguars scored the only points of the third quarter on Brunell's second TD pass of the day, but Davis countered with his franchise record-tying third TD of the game, this time from 37 yards out. Davis would finish the day with 136 yards on 31 carries, putting him at 1,001 yards after seven games, joining him with Jim Brown (1958) and O.J. Simpson (1973-75), as the only NFL players to reach 1,000 that fast. With three rushing TDs he reached 50 for his career, passing Sammy Winder (48) for second place on the Broncos all-time list. It was the third time in his career that Davis has rushed for three touchdowns in a game and the fifth time he had scored three TDs total in a game. Elway threw the 7,000th pass of his career, joining Dan Marino as the only QB to reach this figure, and Elam passed Rich Karlis (655) for second place on Denver's all-time scoring list. The win was the 46th in the regular season for Mike Shanahan as Broncos' head coach, reaching this win total in just 55 games, another team record.

The Broncos improved to a franchise-best start of 8-0 with a 33-26 nail biter over the Bengals in front of 59,974 at Cinergy Field in Cincinnati. The win was also Denver's ninth straight in the regular season — tied for second-best in franchise history — and 13th straight including postseason (team record). The Broncos prevailed over the Bengals for the eighth consecutive time and 16th in the last 17 meetings.

The day did not begin on a promising note for the Broncos, as they allowed an opponent to score on its opening drive for the first time all season — falling behind — at any point in a game — for only the second time, 8-0. The two teams would exchange field goals until right before halftime, when Neil O'Donnell hooked up with Damon Gibson from 17 yards out to put the Broncos behind at the half for the first time all year, 12-0.

The Broncos came out on fire in the second half, driving 74 yards in seven plays, capped by a John Elway to Willie Green scoring pass from 17 yards out to give Denver a 13-12 lead. The Bengals would regain the lead at 18-13 only to see Denver drive 68 yards in nine plays, capped by a Terrell Davis 2-yard touchdown run.

After a blocked punt by Vaughn Hebronn set up an Elway-to-McCaffrey 25-yard score, the Bengals tied the score at 26 with 2:34 remaining on a spectacular one-handed grab by tight end Marco Battaglia from 1 yard out and a two-point conversion. However, Elway led the Broncos to another fourth-quarter win (the 46th of his career) with a five-play, 53-yard drive that was set up by Hebronn's 38-yard kickoff return and capped by a 5-yard run by Davis.

Davis, who rushed for more than 100 yards for the seventh straight game, passed Sammy Winder (5,428) for second place in rushing yards by a Bronco. Elway completed his 4,000th pass on the same play that produced Shannon Sharpe's 500th career reception, a 2-yd. completion on the final play of the first half. Elway also tied Warren Moon (250) for fourth place all-time in touchdown passes. McCaffrey led all receivers with a career-high 133 yards and scored a touchdown among his seven receptions.

DENVER 27, SAN DIEGO 10

Nov. 5, 1998 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Cloudy, 37° (wind chill 31°), Wind S 6 mph • Attendance: 74,925 • Time: 3:23

The Broncos ran their record to 9-0 to start a season for the first time in franchise history and recorded their franchise record-tying 10th regular season win (14th overall) with a 27-10 victory over San Diego in front of 74,925 at Mile High Stadium. It was also Denver's franchise-record 21st consecutive regular season home victory, the third-longest streak in NFL history.

The game started inauspiciously for the home team, as QB John Elway strained rib muscles in pre-game warmups and was unable to start a game in which he played for only the third time in his career, and first time since 1983 (at Chicago, Sept. 9). However, Bubba Brister filled in admirably again, completing 20 of 34 for 229 yards with 2 TDs and one INT to lead Denver to a 20-0 halftime lead. Terrell Davis scored both of Denver's first-half touchdowns, the first on a 4-yard catch and the second on a 24-yard run on 3rd-and-6 out of the shotgun formation. The two field goals in the first half by Jason Elam tied him with Rich Karlis for the team record of 13 consecutive field goals made.

A Darrien Gordon interception of a Ryan Leaf pass set up Brister's second touchdown pass of the day, a 7-yarder to Ed McCaffrey. McCaffrey, who recorded his second straight 100-yard game for the first time in his career, tied his career highs of nine receptions and 133 yards, the latter total coming for the second week in a row. Davis, who rushed for 69 yards on 20 carries and caught two passes for 19 yards, scored two touchdowns in the game to run his season total to 16 and break his own franchise single-season record in just nine games. The rushing touchdown was his 15th of the season, tying his single season franchise record in that category. Davis' two TDs raised his career total to 54, tying Floyd Little for the franchise record. Denver's win also enabled them to become only the ninth team in NFL history to start a season 9-0.

DENVER 30, KANSAS CITY 7

Nov. 16, 1998 • Arrowhead Stadium • Kansas City, Mo.

Weather: Clear, 54°, Wind N 5 mph • Attendance: 78,100 • Time 3:09

The Broncos ran their record to 10-0 and won their franchise-record 11th consecutive regular season game (15 including postseason) with a 30-7 triumph at Kansas City in front of 78,100 at Arrowhead Stadium and an ABC Monday Night Football national television audience.

The win also helped Denver tie the NFL record for best start by a defending Super Bowl champion, equaling the 1990 San Francisco 49ers' mark of 10-0. It was also the second straight win at Arrowhead for the Broncos, something they have not done since winning six straight at Arrowhead from 1974-79.

The Broncos, playing without starting quarterback John Elway (ribs) and starting fullback Howard Griffith (knee), blew the contest wide open in the first quarter, scoring long touchdowns on their first two drives. First, Bubba Brister ended the 5-play, 67-yard opening drive with a career-best 38-yard bootleg run for a 7-0 lead. Terrell Davis followed that with a 41-yard TD run on Denver's next possession, capping a 3-play, 79-yard drive that took just 1:05 off the clock.

The Chiefs countered with their only score of the night, a three-yard TD pass from Rich Gannon to Kimble Anders midway through the second quarter to cut the Broncos' lead to 14-7, but Jason Elam closed out the first half scoring with two field goals. The first was his 14th in a row without a miss, helping him set a new franchise record for consecutive field goals, breaking the record he shared with Rich Karlis (13).

The Broncos' defense and numerous personal foul penalties by the Chiefs dominated the second half, with the only scores coming on another Elam FG and a 2-yard TD run by Derek Loville. Davis notched his fifth career 100-yard game against the Chiefs and has fourth in a row against the AFC West foe. During the contest he passed Floyd Little (34) for first place on Denver's all-time touchdown list, passed Sammy Winder (6,730) for third place on Denver's all-time total yards from scrimmage list, and broke his own team mark with his 16th rushing touchdown of the season. The 18 rushes are the fewest Davis has ever needed to reach the century mark. The win made Denver the first NFL team to start a season 10-0 since the 1991 Washington Redskins and made the Broncos the first team in NFL history to start three consecutive seasons winning nine of their first 10 games (9-1 in both 1996 and 1997).

DENVER 40, OAKLAND 14

Nov. 22, 1998 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 73°. Wind: NE 5 mph • Attendance: 75,325 • Time: 3:07

The Broncos ran their record to 11-4 and scored their 16th straight win (including postseason) with a 40-14 triumph over the Raiders in front of 75,325 at Mile High Stadium. The win gave Denver a four-game cushion in the AFC West and a three-game lead on the entire AFC, and enabled the Broncos to become only the 10th team in NFL history to begin a season 11-0.

After a slow offensive start with just a Jason Elam field goal in the first quarter, the Broncos ran off 14 second-quarter points to build a 17-0 advantage just before the half. Oakland would fight back however, to close the gap to 17-7 at the break with a 6-play, 80-yard drive in just 41 seconds, capped by a Donald Hollas-to-Rickey Dudley 29-yard TD pass.

The highlight of the first half, however, came on a routine 5-yard completion by John Elway to Willie Green — providing the yardage to lift Elway over the 50,000-yard passing mark for his career, just the second player to do so (Dan Marino). Elway became the only player in NFL history to run for more than 3,000 yards and throw for more 50,000 in a career.

The Raiders would score another touchdown in the third quarter, this time on a 14-yard hookup between Hollas and James Jett to narrow the Broncos' lead to 17-14. But the Broncos would answer as they had all season long, reeling off the last 23 points of the game to produce the comfortable margin of victory.

Elway would complete 17 of 25 passes on the day for 197 yards and three touchdowns, enabling him to tie Warren Moon (290) and Johnny Unitas (290) for third place all-time in touchdown passes. Terrell Davis rushed for 162 yards on 31 carries (1 TD) and caught three passes for 26 yards in the victory to move him past the 7,000-yard mark in total yards from scrimmage, the second-highest total for a player in the first four years of his career. Only he and Eric Dickerson have been able to reach this staggering number just four years into their careers.

Tyrone Braxton set up Denver's final touchdown with the 34th interception of his Bronco career (36th overall), moving him into fourth place on the franchise's all-time list. Elam also ran his franchise-record consecutive field goal streak to 18. The win extended Denver's franchise-record regular season home win streak to 22 games.

DENVER 31, SAN DIEGO 16

Nov. 29, 1998 • Qualcomm Stadium • San Diego, Calif.

Weather: Clear, 63°. Wind WSW 9 mph • Attendance: 66,532 • Time: 3:14

The Broncos wrapped up their ninth AFC West crown and improved to 12-0 on the season with a 31-16 victory over the San Diego Chargers before 66,532 at Qualcomm Stadium and an ESPN national television audience.

The win stretched Denver's overall win streak to 17 (one off the NFL record), their regular-season win streak to 13 (franchise record), and their road win streak to six (one off the team record). They also swept the AFC West on the road for the first time since 1977.

After an inauspicious start that saw a fumble on their first offensive play turn into a 3-0 Charger lead, the Broncos' offense cranked it up, scoring on their next two possessions, both on John Elway-to-Ed McCaffrey hookups of 15 and 37 yards. The first of those two moved Elway into sole possession of third place all-time in touchdown passes, breaking the tie he had with Warren Moon (290) and Johnny Unitas (290).

In the second quarter, the two teams combined for six turnovers and only seven points. Those seven were scored by Denver, as Elway hooked up with Rod Smith from 13 yards out to send the Broncos to the locker room with a 21-10 lead.

The lead grew to 31-10 on the strength of Elway's fourth TD pass of the night, this one to Shannon Sharpe in the third quarter, and Jason Elam's 34-yard field goal in the fourth quarter. Elam, who maintained his season-long perfection on both field goals and extra points, went over the 700-point mark for his career, joining Jim Turner as the only Broncos to do so. He also eclipsed the previous franchise record for PAT's in a season, breaking his own mark of 46 (1996, '97).

Ferrell Davis, returning to his hometown and the site of his Super Bowl MVP performance of a year ago, was held to 74 yards on the night by the Chargers' No. 1-ranked run defense, but he still managed to reach another milestone during the contest. He became the third player in NFL history (Barry Sanders, 1994-97) to accumulate three 1,500-yard rushing seasons in a row. He also became the second player (Eric Dickerson) to reach three 1,500s in the first four years of a career. With the win, Denver became the fourth team in NFL history to start a season 12-0.

Dec. 21, 1993 • Pro Player Stadium • Miami, Fla.

Weather: Partly Cloudy, 76° Wind E 13 mph • Attendance: 74,363 • Time 3:13

The Broncos dropped their second straight decision, this time coming up on the short end of a 31-21 score against the Miami Dolphins in front of 74,363 and an ABC national television audience. It marked the second straight season that Denver had lost its 14th and 15th regular-season games.

In only the second ever meeting between John Elway and Dan Marino, the Dolphins quarterback threw for 355 yards and four touchdowns, the first three to Lamar Thomas (6:13:36), helping Miami overcome a 10-0 deficit. Denver began the scoring with a 52-yard Jason Elam field goal and pushed the margin to 10-0 with a fumble recovery in the end zone by Rod Smith off an Elway scramble at the conclusion of 10-play, 50-yard drive that took 5:50 off the clock.

But Miami would score 28 of the next 31 points — on Marino touchdowns passes of 56, 17 and 8 yards — to take a 28-13 lead midway through the fourth quarter. And just when it looked as if Miami had put the final nail in the Broncos' coffin, Vaughn Hebronn picked an opportune time to end a 26-year drought by returning a kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown to get the deficit to 28-21 with the two-point conversion pass play from Bobby Brister to Ed McCaffrey with plenty of time, 7:57 — left in the contest. It was the first Broncos' kickoff return for a score since Randy Montgomery scored on a 94-yarder at San Diego Sept. 24, 1972.

The night, however, did indeed belong to the Dolphins, as Elway threw his second interception of the night on the Broncos' next possession, setting up a Dolphins field goal with 1:10 remaining that effectively ended the contest. The win put Miami in the postseason. Both teams combined rushed for only 94 yards.

Dec. 27, 1998 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Partly Cloudy 46° Wind chill 31° Wind NW 13 mph • Attendance: 74,057 • Time: 2:58

The Broncos closed the 1998 regular season with a 28-21 victory over Seattle in a game that saw more record-making than Motown. The victory was Denver's 14th of the season, establishing a new franchise mark, and their 24th in a row at home in the regular season to set an NFL record by becoming the first team since the 16-game schedule began in 1978 to claim three consecutive undefeated regular seasons at home. Only four teams in NFL history can now make that claim.

After taking behind 1-0, Denver reeled off the game's next 28 points, with all four touchdowns coming on TD passes from John Elway. He connected twice with Shannon Sharpe and once each with Rod Smith and Terrell Davis. Davis was the man who stole the show on this day, becoming the fourth player in NFL history to rush for 2,000 yards in a season with a 15-yard gain on a 2nd-and-6 play from the Seahawks' 48-yard line midway through the fourth quarter. His season total of 2,008 ranks third all-time behind Eric Dickerson (2,105 in 1984) and Barry Sanders (2,053 in 1997). He claimed his first NFL rushing title — and the second ever by a Bronco — Otis Armstrong (1974) — with his third carry of the game, a nine-yard gain, and also claimed his third straight AFC rushing crown. He also became the Broncos' all-time leading rusher, passing Floyd Little (6,323) in the third quarter, and set four new single-season franchise records, scoring with 138 points, passing Gene Mingo (137), 100-yard games, notching his 11th of the year, total yards from scrimmage, breaking his own record of 2,037 set in 1997, and rushing attempts, breaking his own team mark of 369 from 1997.

Sharpe got in on the act too, with his two TD catches tying him with Lionel Taylor and Haven Moses for first place on the Broncos' all-time list for touchdown receptions. Elway's four TD passes gave him 300 for his career, a feat that has been accomplished by only Dan Marino and Fran Tarkenton.

Denver's 501 points scored on the season made the Broncos the 6th team in NFL history to top the 500-point mark in a season.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME

DENVER 38, MIAMI 3

Jan. 9, 1999 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 49°, Wind W 13 mph • Attendance: 75,729 • Time: 2:48

The Denver Broncos won their fifth straight postseason contest and advanced to the AFC Championship Game for the second year in a row with a record-setting 38-3 win over Miami in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game played before 75,729 raucous fans at Mile High Stadium.

The 35-point differential represented Denver's largest margin of victory in a postseason game, and was punctuated by a defensive effort that limited Miami to just 14 yards on 13 carries for an average of 1.1 yards per rush — all of which set new franchise records. The three points allowed were also the fewest allowed by Denver in a postseason game.

The Broncos offense was just as sharp, putting points on the board in all four quarters, including 14 in both the first and fourth quarters. Denver's two first quarter TD both came courtesy of T.D. himself — Terrell Davis — who scored on runs on 1 and 20 yards, the latter of which would qualify for any highlight film as Davis juked two Dolphins defenders with separate moves as he dashed to the end zone. Davis was, unequivocally, the offensive star, posting a franchise-record 199 yards on 21 carries, which also represented the fourth-highest single-game total in NFL postseason history. Davis, who moved into eighth place all-time in NFL postseason rushing in just his sixth game, had rushed for 129 yards by halftime to notch his first 100-yd. half in the postseason, to go along with 10 in the regular season.

Miami closed the gap to 14-3 in the second quarter, scoring its only points of the game on a 22-yd. Olinde Mare field goal, but Denver answered with an 11-play, 87-yard drive capped by Derek Loville's 11-yard TD run to increase the lead to 21-3 at halftime. The Broncos pushed the margin to 24-3 early in the third quarter when Jason Elam converted a 32-yd. field goal, and put the game far out of reach early in the fourth quarter when John Elway hooked up with Rod Smith for a 28-yd. touchdown play that was his 25th career postseason TD, tying him for fourth-place all-time.

The icing on the cake was provided when Neil Smith picked up a fumble forced by Darrius Johnson at the Broncos' 21-yd. line and ran it back 79 yards for his first career postseason and a 38-3 Broncos lead, that would stand up over the final 9:49 for Denver's most lopsided postseason win.

Shannon Sharpe led all Denver receivers with five catches, while Smith was the top yardage-gainer through the air with 71 on four catches. Defensively, Darrius Johnson and Bill Romanowski each intercepted Dan Marino, with Johnson returning his pickoff 48 yards for the second-longest interception return in franchise postseason history.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
DENVER 23, NEW YORK JETS 10

Jan. 17, 1999 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 41°, Wind NW 24 mph (wind chill 18°) • Attendance: 75,482 • Time: 3:16

The Broncos clinched their AFC-record sixth berth in a Super Bowl by defeating the New York Jets 23-10 in the AFC Championship Game before a crowd of 75,482 at Mile High Stadium and a CBS national TV audience. The win was Denver's 19th straight at home including postseason.

After not scoring in the first half, the Broncos scored 20 third-quarter points and reached the Super Bowl for the second consecutive season — matching the back to AFC Championships of the 1986 and '87 Broncos.

The Jets had taken a 10-0 lead on a John Hall 32-yard field goal and a 1-yard Curtis Martin touchdown run that was set up by a blocked punt at the Broncos' 1-yard line. That touchdown proved to be just the wake-up call that Denver needed to ignite its offense, as well as the unusually quiet Mile High crowd. On 1st-and-10 from the 36-yard line, John Elway connected with Ed McCaffrey on a 47-yard pass play, and two plays later found fullback Howard Griffith with an 11-yard touchdown pass to get Denver on the board and narrow the Jets' lead to 10-7.

Then, a wind-stifled kickoff was recovered by Keith Burns and turned into a 44-yard Jason Elam field goal. Another Elam kick of 48 yards gave Denver the lead, and then a 31-yard touchdown run by Terrell Davis gave the Broncos a 10-point cushion they never relinquished.

The Broncos defense — which deserved credit for keeping the Broncos in the game in the first half while the offense sputtered — forced six turnovers (including two interceptions by Darrien Gordon) on the day and held the Jets to 14 yards rushing on 13 carries. The four opponent fumbles recovered by Denver set a franchise postseason record.

Davis set numerous records during the contest, including passing his own NFL-record total of 2,331 yards rushing in an entire season (regular and postseason combined) set in 1997, and rushing for 100 yards for the sixth straight postseason game, tying John Riggins for the most all-time. He also passed Larry Csonka and Riggins for seventh and sixth place in career postseason rushing yards. Tight end Shannon Sharpe tied Vance Johnson (40) for the most receptions in postseason by a Bronco. Elam's three field goals tied a Denver single-game postseason record. The Broncos maintained a perfect record (10-0) in the postseason when outrushing the opponent and a perfect mark (12-0) when leading after three quarters.

Jan. 31, 1999 • Pro Player Stadium • Miami, Fla.

Weather: Mostly Cloudy, 73°, Wind E 10 mph • Attendance: 74,803 • Time: 3:18

The Denver Broncos clinched their second straight World Championship with a 34-19 victory over the Atlanta Falcons in Super Bowl XXXIII before 74,803 at Miami's Pro Player Stadium and millions more watching around the world. With the win, Denver joined just five other franchises who have won back-to-back Super Bowl titles, and posted the seventh repeat championship in Super Bowl history. The win also gave Denver 34 wins in the past two seasons and 46 wins in the past three, both NFL records.

Quarterback John Elway claimed the game's Most Valuable Player award by completing 18 of 29 passes for 336 yards (3rd-most in Super Bowl history), including an 80-yard touchdown toss to Rod Smith in the second quarter that tied for the second-longest TD pass in Super Bowl history. He also ran for a 3-yard score in the fourth quarter, making him the oldest player (38) to score a touchdown in the Super Bowl, eclipsing the record he set a year earlier by scoring in Super Bowl XXXII.

Elway's accurate passing and Terrell Davis' effective running (25 carries, 102 yards) kept the Falcons off balance all day. The Broncos' defense chipped in, as well, with two sacks and four forced turnovers, including two interceptions by Darren Gordon, who set Super Bowl records for most interception-return yards in a game (108).

Atlanta took the opening kickoff and capped its drive with a 32-yard Morten Andersen field goal, before Denver answered with the game's next 17 points. The first score came on a 1-yard run by fullback Howard Griffith that capped a 10-play, 80-yard, pass-and-run drive by the Broncos, and the lead was increased to 10-3 on a 26-yard Jason Elam field goal that capped Denver's third possession. After Andersen missed a 26-yard field goal attempt the Broncos answered with the Elway-to-Smith 80-yard score on the next play to push the lead to 17-3. The Falcons narrowed the margin to 17-6 at halftime with a 28-yard Andersen field goal.

After a scoreless third quarter, Denver took advantage of Gordon's first interception by capping a short 24-yard drive with another Griffith 1-yard touchdown run early in the fourth quarter. Gordon's second pickoff set up Elway's 3-yard touchdown run that put Denver ahead 31-6 with 11:20 remaining. Two late touchdowns by Atlanta sandwiched around a 37-yard Elam field goal to produce the final margin.

Davis set an NFL record with his seventh straight 100-yard game in the postseason, defensive tackle Mike Lodish set a record by playing in his sixth Super Bowl, and Bill Romanowski became just the second player to win back-to-back titles with two different teams.

DENVER BRONCOS STARTERS, 1960-98

These are the usual starters, by position, for the Denver Broncos on a season-by-season basis from 1960-98. A player must have been the starter for the majority of the games that season to be designated as the starter. If the number of starting assignments at a position were virtually equal, two players have been listed with the player who had the greater playing time listed first. The term "Ret" is used to designate someone who was a kick return specialist.

The Denver Broncos clinched their second straight World Championship with a 34-19 victory over the Atlanta Falcons in Super Bowl XXXIII before 74,803 at Miami's Pro Player Stadium, and millions more watching around the world. With the win, Denver joined just five other franchises who have won back-to-back Super Bowl titles, and posted just the seventh repeat championship in Super Bowl history. The win also gave Denver 33 wins in the past two seasons, and 46 wins in the past three, both NFL records.

Quarterback John Elway claimed the game's Most Valuable Player award by completing 18 of 29 passes for 336 yards (third-most in Super Bowl history), including an 80-yard touchdown toss to Rod Smith in the second quarter that tied for the second-longest TD pass in Super Bowl history. He also ran for a 3-yard score in the fourth quarter, making him the oldest player (38) to score a touchdown in the Super Bowl, eclipsing the record he set a year earlier by scoring in Super Bowl XXXII.

Elway's accurate passing and Terrell Davis' effective running (25 carries, 102 yards) kept the Falcons off balance all day. The Broncos' defense chipped in, as well, with two sacks and four forced turnovers, including two interceptions by Darrien Gordon, who set Super Bowl records for most interception-return yards in a game (108).

Atlanta took the opening kickoff and capped its drive with a 32-yard Morten Andersen field goal before Denver answered with the game's next 17 points. The first score came on a 1-yard run by fullback Howard Griffith that capped a 10-play, 80-yard opening drive by the Broncos, and the lead was increased to 10-3 on a 26-yard Jason Elam field goal that capped Denver's third possession. After Andersen missed a 26-yard field goal attempt the Broncos' answered with the Elway-to-Smith 80-yard score on the next play to push the lead to 17-3. The Falcons narrowed the margin to 17-6 at halftime with a 28-yard Andersen field goal.

After a scoreless third quarter, Denver took advantage of Gordon's first interception by capping a short 24-yard drive with another Griffith 1-yard touchdown run early in the fourth quarter. Gordon's second pickoff set up Elway's 37-yard touchdown run that put Denver ahead 31-6 with 11:20 remaining. Two late touchdowns by Atlanta sandwiched around a 3-yard Elam field goal to produce the final margin.

Davis set an NFL record with his seventh straight 100-yard game in the postseason, defensive tackle Mike Lodish set a record by playing in his sixth Super Bowl, and Bill Romanowski became just the second player to win back-to-back titles with two different teams.

DENVER 23, NEW YORK JETS 10

Jan. 17, 1999 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 41°. Wind NW 24 mph (wind chill 18°) • Attendance: 75,482 • Time: 3:16

The Broncos clinched their AFC-record sixth berth in a Super Bowl by defeating the New York Jets 23-10 in the AFC Championship Game before a crowd of 75,482 at Mile High Stadium and a CBS national TV audience. The win was Denver's 19th straight at home including postseason.

After not scoring in the first half, the Broncos scored 20 third-quarter points and reached the Super Bowl for the second consecutive season — matching the back-to-AFC Championships of the 1986 and '87 Broncos.

The Jets had taken a 10-0 lead on a John Hall 32-yard field goal and a 1-yard Curtis Martin touchdown run that was set up by a blocked punt at the Broncos' 1-yard line. That touchdown proved to be just the wake-up call that Denver needed to ignite its offense, as well as the unusually quiet Mile High crowd. On 1st-and-10 from the 36-yard line, John Elway connected with Ed McCaffrey on a 47-yard pass play, and two plays later found fullback Howard Griffith with an 11-yard touchdown pass to get Denver on the board and narrow the Jets' lead to 10-7.

Then, a wind-stilled kickoff was recovered by Keith Burns and turned into a 44-yard Jason Elam field. Another Elam kick of 48 yards gave Denver the lead, and then a 31-yard touchdown run by Terrell Davis gave the Broncos a 10-point cushion they never relinquished.

The Broncos defense — which deserved credit for keeping the Broncos in the game in the first half while the offense sputtered — forced six turnovers (including two interceptions by Darren Gordon) on the day and held the Jets to 14 yards rushing on 13 carries. The four opponent fumbles recovered by Denver set a franchise postseason record.

Davis set numerous records during the contest, including passing his own NFL-record total of 2,333 yards rushing in an entire season (regular and postseason combined) set in 1997, and rushing for 100 yards for the sixth straight postseason game, tying John Riggins for the most all-time. He also passed Larry Csonka and Riggins for seventh and sixth place in career postseason rushing yards. Tight end Shannon Sharpe tied Vance Johnson (40) for the most receptions in postseason by a Bronco. Elam's three field goals tied a Denver single-game postseason record. The Broncos maintained a perfect record (10-0) in the postseason when outrushing the opponent and a perfect mark (12-0) when leading after three quarters.

DENVER 38, MIAMI 3

Jan. 9, 1999 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 49°, Wind W 13 mph • Attendance: 75,729 • Time 2:48

The Denver Broncos won their fifth straight postseason contest and advanced to the AFC Championship Game for the second year in a row with a record-setting 38-3 win over Miami in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game played before 75,729 raucous fans at Mile High Stadium.

The 35-point differential represented Denver's largest margin of victory in a postseason game, and was punctuated by a defensive effort that limited Miami to just 14 yards on 13 carries for an average of 1.1 yards per rush — all of which set new franchise records. The three points allowed were also the fewest allowed by Denver in a postseason game.

The Broncos offense was just as sharp, putting points on the board in all four quarters, including 14 in both the first and fourth quarters. Denver's two first quarter TD both came courtesy of T.D. himself — Terrell Davis — who scored on runs of 1 and 20 yards, the latter of which would qualify for any highlight film as Davis juked two Dolphins defenders with separate moves as he dashed to the end zone. Davis was, unequivocally, the offensive star, posting a franchise-record 199 yards on 21 carries, which also represented the fourth-highest single-game total in NFL postseason history. Davis, who moved into eighth place all-time in NFL postseason rushing in just his sixth game, had rushed for 129 yards by halftime to notch his first 100-yd. half in the postseason, to go along with 10 in the regular season.

Miami closed the gap to 14-3 in the second quarter, scoring it's only points of the game on a 22-yd. Olindo Mare field goal, but Denver answered with an 11-play, 87-yard drive capped by Derek Loville's 11-yard TD run to increase the lead to 21-3 at halftime. The Broncos pushed the margin to 24-3 early in the third quarter when Jason Elam converted a 32-yd. field goal, and put the game far out of reach early in the fourth quarter when John Elway booked up with Rod Smith for a 28-yd. touchdown play that was his 25th career postseason TD, tying him for fourth-place all-time.

The icing on the cake was provided when Neil Smith picked up a fumble forced by Darrius Johnson at the Broncos' 21-yd. line and ran it back 79 yards for his first career postseason and a 38-3 Broncos lead, that would stand up over the final 9:49 for Denver's most lopsided postseason win.

Shannon Sharpe led all Denver receivers with five catches, while Smith was the top yardage-gainer through the air with 71 on four catches. Defensively, Darrius Johnson and Bill Romanowski each intercepted Dan Marino, with Johnson returning his pickoff 48 yards for the second-longest interception return in franchise postseason history.

SUPER BOWL XXXII

DENVER 31, GREEN BAY 24

Jan. 25, 1998 • Qualcomm Stadium • San Diego, Calif.

Weather: Clear and Sunny, 67°. Wind WSW 8 mph • Attendance 68,912 • Time: 3:25

The Denver Broncos won their first Super Bowl and became the first representative from the American Football Conference in 14 years to claim the Vince Lombardi trophy, as they used a powerful running game and a solid defensive performance to dethrone the defending Super Bowl champion Green Bay Packers 31-24 in front of 68,912 at Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego, Calif.

Denver running back Terrell Davis, playing in his hometown, was named the game's Most Valuable Player, in recognition of his 157-yard rushing effort on 30 carries, which included a Super Bowl-record three rushing touchdowns, each from 1 yard out. Davis' three total touchdowns and 18 points each tied Super Bowl records, and were made even more remarkable by the fact that he missed almost the entire second quarter when he was sidelined by the onset of a migraine headache.

Both offenses displayed their talents immediately, as Super Bowl XXXII became the first ever in which each team scored a touchdown on its opening possession. The Packers struck first when Brett Favre connected with Antonio Freeman on a 22-yard scoring pass to cap a 76-yard, 8-play opening drive. The Broncos answered by driving 58 yards in 10 plays the first time they touched the ball, culminating in a 1-yard Davis touchdown run with 5:39 remaining in the first quarter.

The Broncos turned two Packers turnovers into 10 more points to take a 17-7 lead early in the second quarter, making them the fourth team in Super Bowl history to score on each of its first three possessions. The first opportunity was created when strong safety Tyrone Braxton intercepted a Brett Favre pass, and eight plays later John Elway rushed around right end for a 1-yard touchdown. Free safety Steve Atwater sacked Favre on the next Green Bay possession, forcing a fumble that was recovered by defensive end Neil Smith. Four plays later Jason Elam converted a 51-yard field goal, the second-longest in Super Bowl history.

Green Bay pulled to within 17-14 with a touchdown just before halftime, and tied the score early in the third quarter on a 27-yard Ryan Longwell field goal. Denver broke the tie late in the third quarter on a 1-yard Davis touchdown run, and looked to increase the lead after recovering a Green Bay fumble on the ensuing kickoff. But Elway was intercepted by the Packers' Eugene Robinson in the end zone on the next play. Green Bay would move 85 yards in just four plays to tie the game at 24-24, setting the stage for Davis' late-game heroics.

After the Denver defense turned back the Packers on their next two possessions — including one advance to the Denver 39-yard line that was thwarted when Steve Atwater broke up a potential first-down pass to Robert Brooks — the Broncos set up shop at the Packers' 49-yard line for their game-winning drive. Five plays later Davis scored his third touchdown of the day, from 1 yard out, giving Denver a 31-24 lead that would hold up over the final 1:45 for the victory.

DENVER 24, PITTSBURGH 21

Jan. 11, 1998 • Three Rivers Stadium • Pittsburgh, Pa.

Weather: Sunny 38°, Wind SW 3 mph • Attendance: 61,382 • Time: 2:59

The Denver Broncos advanced to their fifth Super Bowl — and their first since 1989 — with a 24-21 victory at Pittsburgh in the AFC Championship Game, in front of 61,382 fans at Three Rivers Stadium. The Broncos became just the fifth Wild Card team to advance to the Super Bowl, since the Wild Card format was established in 1970.

The passing of John Elway and the running of Terrell Davis, along with a defensive effort that included big play after big play, combined to propel Denver to a 24-14 halftime lead, that they rode to a 24-21 win.

Elway was intercepted by Levon Kirkland on the game's second play, but the Steelers failed to answer when Norm Johnson's 38-yard field goal attempt sailed wide to the left. Denver then got on the board when Davis — who would rush for 139 yards and become the club's all-time postseason rushing leader — capped a six-play, 72-yard drive with an 8-yard touchdown run on the Broncos' second possession.

Pittsburgh evened the score on its next possession, as quarterback Kordell Stewart rushed 13 yards around right end for a touchdown to punctuate a 6-play, 65-yard drive that covered 3:02 on the clock. The Steelers' then broke the deadlock early in the second quarter when Jerome Bettis powered his way into the end zone from one yard out to put the finishing touches on an 11-play, 68-yard drive.

But the Broncos would score the game's next 17 points, and, in effect, put the game away as the defense held up its end of the bargain down the stretch. The scoring began with a 43-yard Jason Elum field goal with 8:20 remaining in the half. After each team punted on its next possession, Denver got the ball back when Ray Crockett intercepted a Stewart pass in the end zone, setting up a 14-point assault that would send Denver to the locker room ahead 24-14. Elway hit Howard Griffith for a 15-yard touchdown with 1:47 remaining, and Denver then forced a Pittsburgh punt and found the end zone again when Elway connected with Ed McCaffrey for a 1-yard touchdown with 1:3 seconds left in the half.

Denver rode that 24-14 lead into the fourth quarter before the Steelers scored the only points of the second half on a 14-yard Stewart-to-Charles Johnson touchdown pass with 2:46 remaining. But the Broncos succeeded in running out the clock on their final possession, and established a new franchise record with their 15th win of the season.

Elway tied Roger Staubach for fourth place on the NFL's all-time list for postseason touchdown passes (24) with his two on the day, and the Broncos' three interceptions tied the franchise postseason record for most in a game.

DENVER 14, KANSAS CITY 10

Jan. 4, 1998 • Arrowhead Stadium • Kansas City, Mo.

Weather: Overcast, 32° (wind chill 26°), Wind NW 6 mph • Attendance: 76,965 • Time: 2:59

The Denver Broncos posted their first road playoff win in 11 years — and only the second in franchise history — with a 14-10 victory over Kansas City in front of 76,965 at Arrowhead Stadium. Denver advanced to its first AFC Championship Game since the 1991 season, on the strength of two Terrell Davis touchdowns — tying the franchise postseason record for the second week in a row — and a defensive effort that limited the Chiefs to just 10 points, tied for the fewest in club playoff history.

Davis broke a scoreless tie late in the second quarter, plowing into the end zone from 1 yard out to give Denver a 7-0 lead with 1:56 remaining in the half, capping an 8-play, 65-yard drive that covered 4:51 on the clock. Key to the drive was a 17-yard John Elway completion to Rod Smith on a third-and-seven play that gave the Broncos a first down at the Kansas City 4.

The Chiefs, limited to 58 yards total offense in the first half, came out strong after the break, moving the ball to the Denver 6-yard line, before settling for a 20-yard Pete Stoyanovich field goal. Kansas City struck again late in the quarter when Elvis Grbac found tight end Tony Gonzalez in the back of the end zone for a 12-yard score and the Chiefs' only touchdown of the day.

The Broncos, however, would answer on their ensuing possession, driving 49 yards in 6 plays for what would prove to be the game-winning touchdown. The key play of the drive was a 43-yard Elway-to-Ed McCaffrey completion on third-and-five from the Chiefs' 44-yard line, which gave Denver a first down at the Chiefs' 1-yard line. After two unsuccessful attempts from close range, Davis muscled his way through the middle of the Chiefs' line for his second touchdown of the day and the fifth of his career in the postseason to establish a new franchise record.

Kansas City would have possession three more times in the game, but would be turned back each time by the Broncos' defense after reaching Denver's 31 (punt), their own 36 (punt) and the Broncos' 20 with 0:19 left (downs). The final play was a pass to the end zone on 4th-and-2 that was knocked down by Damien Gordon, ending the Chiefs' hopes, and propelling Denver to the AFC title game.

Elway, with 170 passing yards on the day, moved into second place in NFL postseason history in that category, supplanting both Terry Bradshaw (3,833) and Jim Kelly (3,863) to finish the day at 3,940.

1997 AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME

Dec. 27, 1997 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Partly Cloudy, 44° (wind chill 19°), Wind N 30 mph • Attendance: 74,481 • Time: 3:02

The Denver Broncos advanced to the AFC Divisional playoffs by literally running the Jacksonville Jaguars out of town, as they piled up a club postseason-record 310 rushing yards en route to a 42-17 victory in front of 74,481 at Mile High Stadium. The Broncos set numerous other postseason records during the contest, including new standards for rushing attempts (49), total yards (511), points in a quarter (21; 4th qtr.), total points (42), first downs (28), rushing first downs (18) and third-down efficiency (75%), while the 237 yards allowed by the defense was the second-lowest total in Denver's 21-game playoff history.

The Broncos scored touchdowns on each of their first three possessions, racking up a 21-0 lead on 32 offensive plays, during which the Jaguars ran only six. Terrell Davis capped Denver's opening drive with a 2-yard touchdown run and Rod Smith punctuated the next when he reeled in a 43-yard touchdown pass from John Elway. The lead was increased to 21-0 when Davis — who set franchise postseason records for rushing attempts (31), rushing yards (184) and longest run from scrimmage (59) before leaving in the third quarter with bruised ribs — tied the franchise records for rushing touchdowns and total touchdowns in a postseason game with his second of the day, this one from 5 yards out.

The Jaguars answered by scoring the game's next 17 points, courtesy of a 1-yard Natrone Means touchdown run before the half, a 38-yard Mike Hollis field goal early in the third quarter and a blocked punt by Travis Davis, which the Jacksonville safety returned 29 yards for a touchdown to pull the Jaguars to within 21-17.

But the Broncos dominated from there, as Derek Loville took over for the injured Davis and slashed his way to 103 yards (second-most by a Bronco in postseason on 11 attempts, and scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns on runs of 25 and 8 yards to tie the club touchdown record already achieved in the game by Davis. Vaughn Hebronn then got into the act, scoring Denver's fifth rushing touchdown of the day on a 6-yard run with 1:11 remaining, to push the lead to its final margin of 42-17. With Davis' 184 rushing yards and Loville's 103, Denver became just the third team in NFL postseason history to boast two 100-yard rushers in the same game. Additionally, Denver's 40 minutes and 59 seconds of possession time and their 310 rushing yards both were the fifth-highest recorded in an NFL playoff game.

JACKSONVILLE 30, DENVER 27

Jan. 4, 1997 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny 46°, Wind NW 15 mph • Attendance: 75,678 • Time: 3:02

The Broncos' most successful season since 1991 came to a surprising end at the hands of the Jacksonville Jaguars in an AFC Divisional Playoff game in front of 75,678 stunned fans at Mile High Stadium, by a final score of 30-27. The loss was Denver's first of the season at home and only their second ever at home in the postseason.

The contest began on a promising note for the Broncos, as they scored on two of their first three possessions to take a 12-0 lead into the second quarter. First, Vaughn Hebronn scored his first ever postseason touchdown on a 1-yard plunge on fourth down. During that drive, Terrell Davis set a franchise record for the longest postseason run with a 47-yard scamper. On Denver's next possession, Shannon Sharpe hauled in an 18-yard pass from John Elway to produce the 12-point margin.

The Jaguars then proceeded to score on their next six possessions, with the first five being unanswered by the Broncos, producing a 23-12 advantage for Jacksonville. The Broncos responded with a 19-play, 57-yard drive capped by a 2-yard touchdown run by Elway, who then kicked on the two-point conversion himself to cut the deficit to three. But then Mark Brunell, who threw for 245 yards and two touchdowns on the day, connected with Jimmy Smith on a critical third-and-five play at the Broncos' 16-yard line with 3:39 remaining in the game to restore a 10-point advantage.

The Broncos again pulled to within three points when Elway found Ed McCaffrey in the end zone for a 15-yard touchdown with 1:50 left, but Denver's magic ran out as the Jaguars held on for the 30-27 win.

During the contest, Elway — who played in his franchise-record 15th postseason game — passed Terry Bradshaw for fourth place on the all-time NFL postseason list for pass attempts. Natrone Means, who led Jacksonville's 203-yard ground attack, rushed for 140 yards on 21 carries. Brunell added 44 more on seven rushes.

1993 AFC WILD CARD GAME LOS ANGELES RAIDERS 42, DENVER 24

Jan. 9, 1994 • Los Angeles Coliseum • Los Angeles, Calif.

Weather: Sunny, 76° Wind 0 mph • Attendance: 66,094 • Time: 3:36

The Broncos returned to the playoffs after a one-year hiatus and faced the L.A. Raiders for the second time in as many weeks, but unlike the previous week, this time it was a do-or-die situation for both teams.

Early on the game looked to have the makings of a defensive struggle, with both teams going four downs and out on their first possession, but the game's pace quickly picked up on the second possession. The Raiders struck first on a 7-play, 80-yard drive that was capped with a nine-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jeff Hostetler to tight end Ethan Horton.

Quarterback John Elway and the Broncos responded by driving 63 yards in 7 plays as Elway hooked up with tight end Shannon Sharpe for a 23-yard touchdown. The Raiders bounced back with a 65-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Tim Brown to take a 14-7 lead. The Broncos responded by driving 64 yards in 11 plays setting up a 6-yard touchdown pass from Elway to tight end Reggie Johnson to tie the score. Hostetler continued to be red hot on the Raiders' next possession, leading the club 84 yards in just five plays, wide receiver James Jett helped pad Hostetler's totals by catching a 54-yard touchdown pass in the five-play drive.

As had as the Broncos defense looked in three straight possessions, the Broncos offense picked up the slack. In the Broncos' last drive of the half, the offense chewed up nearly seven minutes and went 77 yards to tie the score, 14-14. Wide receiver Derek Russell caught a six-yard scoring pass that tied the score, but the real hero of the drive was John Elway who completed passes to six different receivers and showed his versatility by running twice.

The two teams combined for nearly 500 yards of total offense by halftime, but only the Raiders continued that pace in the second half. After receiving the opening kickoff, the Broncos failed to move the ball on their first three possessions, giving the Raiders great field position after three punts that averaged 30 yards by Tom Rouen. The Raiders took advantage, starting drives at the Denver 43 and 35, and their own 48, and parlayed two of those into touchdowns on drives of three and five plays to take a commanding 35-21 lead.

The Broncos made a dent in the score at the beginning of the fourth period on a 33-yard field goal by Jason Elam, but the Raiders responded to that with a 10-play, 76-yard drive that was capped by Napoleon McCallum's third touchdown of the game from one yard out. That would prove to be all of the scoring, as the Raiders walked away with a 42-24 victory.

BUFFALO 10, DENVER 7

Jan. 12, 1992 • Rich Stadium • Buffalo, N.Y.

Weather: Sunny, 42°, Wind SSW 15 mph • Attendance: 80,272 • Time: 2:59

The Broncos were denied their fifth AFC Championship, losing 10-7 to the Bills before 80,272 in Rich Stadium. Denver's defense shut down the high-powered Buffalo offense, limiting it to just 213 total yards and only 12 first downs, but the Broncos offense failed to capitalize on several first-half opportunities.

Buffalo punted on its first two drives after a total net of -2 yards, and had its third drive ended when nose tackle Greg Kragen tipped and then intercepted a pass on the Buffalo 29. But Denver could not take advantage as David Treadwell's 47-yard field goal attempt sailed wide right. The defense rose up again to thwart the Bills and the Broncos began their next drive on their own 24, but would later stall when Treadwell missed again, hitting the right upright from 42 yards out.

Once again the Bills punted after failing to get a first down, and a 10-yard punt return by Vance Johnson set Denver up on the 50. On first down, quarterback John Elway threw a middle screen to running back Steve Sewell, who gained 26 yards to the Buffalo 24. The Broncos could move no closer than the 20, and David Treadwell's 37-yard attempt hit the right upright, ending the last scoring threat of the first half. Through the first two quarters Denver outgained the Bills 123 yards to 58, had nine first downs to Buffalo's three, and had a time of possession of 20:19, but at halftime the score stood at 0-0.

The Bills' second drive of the third quarter began at their 20 and 11 plays later they faced a third-and-seven on Denver's 26. Kelly attempted to hit wide receiver James Lofton but cornerback Tyrone Braxton intercepted the ball and returned it to the Denver 19. On second-and-10 Elway attempted another middle screen to Sewell, but linebacker Carlton Bailey picked off the pass and ran 11 yards for a touchdown.

The Broncos' first possession of the fourth quarter began with Gary Kubiak at quarterback, replacing Elway, who left the game with an injured thigh muscle. Kubiak drove Denver from its 21 to the Buffalo 23, but the Broncos failed to convert a fourth-down attempt. The Bills then drove 50 yards in 9 plays to score on a 44-yard field goal by Scott Norwood. Now down 10-0, Kubiak engineered a frantic drive in which Denver covered 85 yards in 8 plays, and Kubiak scored a 3-yard quarterback draw to pull Denver within 3 points.

The ensuing onside kick was recovered by the Broncos' Steve Atwater, and Denver began its last chance drive on its 49 with 1:43 left on the clock and two time-outs. On first down, Kubiak hit Sewell for seven yards, but cornerback Kirby Jackson stripped the ball away and he recovered on the Buffalo 44. The Bronco defense forced the Bills to punt, but Denver could only reach the 50 as time ran out. Kubiak, playing his final game as a pro, outgained both Elway and Kelly, completing 11 of 12 passes for 136 yards.

DENVER 26, HOUSTON 24

Jan. 4, 1992 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 36°, Wind W 14 mph • Attendance: 75,301 • Time: 3:09

The Denver Broncos advanced to their fourth AFC Championship Game in six years after defeating Houston 26-24 before 75,301 in Mile High Stadium. David Treadwell's 28-yard field goal with 20 seconds remaining capped a 12-play, 78-yard drive in which the Broncos converted two fourth-down plays.

Houston quarterback Warren Moon drove his team 70 yards in four plays — highlighted by a 49-yard strike to Haywood Jeffries, who would also haul in the touchdown pass from 15 yards — to put Houston up 7-0 with only 1:46 gone in the game. After a Denver punt, Moon again drove his team down the field and threw his second touchdown pass, this one for 9 yards to wide receiver Drew Hill.

The Broncos started their next possession on their 35 and covered 65 yards in 8 plays to score on a 10-yard pass from quarterback John Elway to wide receiver Vance Johnson, but a fumbled snap on the conversion attempt left the score 14-6. On the sixth play of the ensuing Oilers' drive, Moon was intercepted by free safety Steve Atwater, but a roughing the passer call nullified the effort. Three plays later Houston scored on a 6-yard pass from Moon to wide receiver Curtis Duncan.

The next Oilers' possession ended when Atwater intercepted a pass and gave Denver the ball on its own 12 with 6:03 left in the half. In a drive that saw Elway complete all 6 passes for 64 yards and Steve Sewell complete one to Johnson for 10, the Broncos covered 88 yards in 12 plays to score on a 1-yard run by running back Greg Lewis, cutting the Houston lead to 21-13. After a missed Houston field goal attempt, the Broncos drove from their 20 to Houston's 31 and David Treadwell nailed a 49-yard field goal, the longest in Denver post-season history. Now up by only five at 21-16, the Oilers reached the Broncos' 31 on their next drive, but had to settle for a 25-yard field goal.

Denver started on its 20 and 9 plays later faced a fourth-and-four from the Houston 41. Elway threw a short pass to wide receiver Michael Young, who broke two tackles and was finally brought down on Houston's 15, a gain of 26 yards. Three plays later Lewis bumbled over from one for his second touchdown of the day, making the score 24-23 in favor of the Oilers. The Oilers' next drive stalled and Greg Montgomery punted to the Denver two. With 2:07 and no time outs remaining, Elway hit Young for a 22-yard gain on first down, but three plays later the Broncos had a fourth-and-six on the 28. Elway dropped back, then scrambled left upfield and ran out of bounds a yard past the first down marker. Three straight incompletions again left Denver with a do-or-die fourth-down situation. Elway again dropped back and scrambled left, but as he headed upfield he tossed a pass to Johnson, who ran to the Houston 21 for a 44-yard gain. Running back Steve Sewell ran for 10 yards on first down, and two plays later Treadwell came on for the winning kick.

SUPER BOWL XXIV

SAN FRANCISCO 55, DENVER 10

Jan. 28, 1990 • Louisiana Superdome • New Orleans, La.

The San Francisco Forty-Niners captured their fourth World Championship with a 55-10 victory over Denver in Super Bowl XXIV. In the Louisiana Superdome, San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana completed 22 of 29 passes for 297 yards and five touchdowns — three to wide receiver Jerry Rice.

The Forty-Niners scored two touchdowns in every quarter and outgained the Broncos 461 yards to 167. After stopping Denver on the game's initial possession, San Francisco drove 66 yards in 10 plays, scoring on a 20-yard pass from Montana to Rice. The Broncos' next possession covered 49 yards in 10 plays and resulted in a 42-yard field goal by David Treadwell.

After limiting the Niners to four yards on their next drive, Denver took possession on its own 49, but on first down running back Bobby Humphrey fumbled and defensive end Kevin Pugin recovered for San Francisco on the Niners' 46. That turnover led to a 7-yard touchdown pass from Montana to tight end Brent Jones, and after a failed extra point attempt, San Francisco led 14-3 with 3 seconds left in the first quarter.

The Broncos failed to cross mid-field in the second period while the Niners scored on a one-yard run by running back Tom Rathman and a 38-yard pass from Montana to Rice. San Francisco was unable to move the ball on the initial drive of the second half, but Elway was intercepted on the first play of Denver's next drive and the Niners took possession on the Broncos' 28. On first down Montana threw a touchdown pass to Rice to put his team up 34-3. The next Denver drive also ended with an interception, leading to a 35-yard scoring pass from Montana to wide receiver John Taylor. The Broncos, spurred by a 34-yard run by Humphrey, moved 64 yards in 5 plays and a penalty to score on a 3-yard run by Elway. San Francisco scored back with an 11-play, 75-yard drive that ended with a 3-yard touchdown run by Rathman. Following another Bronco fumble, running back Roger Craig plowed 1 yard into the end zone to round out the scoring.

DENVER 37, CLEVELAND 21

Jan. 14, 1990 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 53° Wind W 10 mph • Attendance: 76,005 • Time: 3:28

The Denver Broncos won their third American Football Conference Championship in four years with a dramatic 37-21 victory over Cleveland before 76,005 fans in Mile High Stadium. Broncos quarterback John Elway threw for 385 yards and three touchdowns, earning back Matt Winder (and a Denver postseason record with two touchdowns) and strong safety Darin Smith nabbed two of the Broncos' three interceptions. Denver had 497 yards of total offense to the Browns' 256 and had a time possession of 38:55.

The Browns took the opening kickoff and drove to the Cleveland 1, but on third down, Elway's pitch to running back Bobby Humphrey was fumbled and the Browns' Andrew Stewart recovered on the 5. With 5 minutes left in the first quarter, Smith picked up a Brent Kosar pass and returned it to the Cleveland 32. Denver moved to the Cleveland 12 but had to settle for a 29-yard field goal by David Treadwell.

Neither team mounted scoring drives until the Broncos took possession on their own 18 with 6:54 left in the half. On first down Elway threw a 70-yard pass to Mark Jackson for 12 yards, and three plays later he connected with wide receiver Michael Young for a 70-yard touchdown pass. The Browns took the opening kickoff of the second half and drove 70 yards in 8 plays, scoring a 27-yard pass from Kosar to Brian Brennan. Denver moved right back on its next possession, going 80 yards in 6 plays and scoring on a 5-yard pass from Elway to tight end Quinn Mobley. The key play on that drive was a 55-yard pass from Elway to Young. Cleveland was unable to move the ball and punted back to Denver. The Browns moved from their own 40 and buoyed by a 25-yard run by Elway covered 60 yards in 6 plays and scored on a 7-yard run by Winder, making the score 24-7.

The Browns needed just 6 plays to go 72 yards and score on a 10-yard Kosar-to-Brennan pass and two plays into Denver's next drive, Cleveland's Felix Wright recovered a Denver fumble and returned it to the Browns' 1. On second down Tim Matney barreled over from the 2, cutting Denver's lead to 24-21 with one second left in the third quarter. The Browns shut out the Browns in the final quarter while posting 4 punts. Their final drive of the quarter covered 80 yards in 6 plays and ended with a 39-yard touchdown pass from Elway's Winder. Denver's Kip Corrington intercepted Kosar to set the Broncos up on the Cleveland 9. Denver got a 50-yard field goal from Treadwell but had to settle for a 39-yard Treadwell field goal. Smith grabbed his second interception to end the Browns' next drive, leading to a 31-yard field goal.

DENVER 24, PITTSBURGH 23

Jan. 7, 1990 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 55°, Wind W 6 mph • Attendance: 75,868 • Time: 2:57

The Denver Broncos advanced to their third AFC Championship Game in four years with a come-from-behind 24-23 victory over the Steelers behind 75,868 in Mile High Stadium. Although Pittsburgh held the upper hand in total yards—404 to 364—and time of possession (34:14 to 25:46) Denver was able to mount a late fourth quarter drive and score the winning touchdown with just 2:27 remaining.

The Steelers took the opening kickoff return and drove 65 yards in 13 plays, scoring on a 32-yard Gary Anderson field goal. Late in the opening quarter Pittsburgh took possession at its own 7-yard line, but after a 48-yard run by Merrill Hoge and a 33-yard Bobby Brister to Tim Worley pass play, Pittsburgh was knocking on the door and scored three plays later on a 7-yard run by Hoge to put Pittsburgh up 10-0.

The Broncos took their first possession of the second quarter and drove 75 yards in 12 plays to score on a 1-yard plunge by running back Mel Bratton on third-and-goal. The Steelers reared back, traveling 77 yards in 12 plays to score on a 9-yard pass from Brister to wide receiver Louis Lippes. The Broncos got the ball back on their own 33 with 20 seconds left in the half. On first down, quarterback John Elway and wide receiver Mark Jackson combined for 26 yards, and then Elway fired a 15-yard pass to wide receiver Rocky Nattiel, putting Denver at the Pittsburgh 26 with 2 seconds left. David Treadwell kicked a 43-yard field goal to pull Denver within 17-10 at the half.

Early in the third quarter, Denver NT Greg Kragen forced a Tim Worley fumble and CB Tyrone Braxton recovered for the Broncos on the Steeler 37. On first down Elway hit wide receiver Vance Johnson for a touchdown, tying the score at 17. Pittsburgh's next two possessions ended in Anderson field goals and the Steelers held a 23-17 lead in the early stages of the fourth quarter. After an exchange of punts the Broncos took possession on their own 29 with 7:06 left in the game. After a first down penalty, making it first-and-19 from the 20, Elway hit Jackson for 18 yards. Elway then handed off to running back Bobby Humphrey, who pitched the ball back to Elway, and he threw a 36-yard strike to Johnson, giving Denver a first down on the Steeler 26. Humphrey ran on the next four plays, gaining 24 yards and taking the ball to the 2. On third-and-goal from the 1, Bratton scored again and Treadwell's extra point gave Denver its first lead of the game with 2:27 left. Pittsburgh got the ball on its own 20, but on third down Brister's signals were drowned out by the crowd and he mishandled the snap. Randy Robbins recovered for Denver on the Pittsburgh 18 and the Broncos were able to run out the clock.

SUPER BOWL XXII

WASHINGTON 42, DENVER 10

Jan. 31, 1988 • Jack Murphy Stadium • San Diego, Calif.

Weather: Mostly Cloudy, 61°, Wind SW 5 mph • Attendance: 73,302 • Time: 3:40

The Washington Redskins scored 35 points in the second quarter to power their way to a 42-10 victory over the Broncos in Super Bowl XXII, played at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium.

Super Bowl MVP Doug Williams of Washington completed 18 of 29 passes for 340 yards and four touchdowns, while rusher Timmy Smith gained 204 yards on 22 carries, scoring twice, and wide receiver Ricky Sanders caught 9 passes for 194 yards and two touchdowns.

Overall, the Redskins gained 602 yards of total offense to Denver's 327. The Broncos took the early lead on their first play from scrimmage, a 56-yard bomb from John Elway to Ricky Nattiel, coming with 1:57 gone in the game. Denver's next possession stalled at the Redskins' 7-yard line, as Rich Karlis put the Broncos up 10-0 with a 24-yard field goal.

In the second quarter, however, Denver's dreams of a World Championship were blown apart by the Redskins. On Washington's first play of the quarter, Williams and Sanders combined for an 80-yard touchdown to bring the score to 10-7. The Redskins took the lead for good on the fifth play of their next possession when Williams hit Gary Clark for 27 yards and a score.

Denver got as far as the Washington 26 on its next drive, but Karlis' 43-yard field goal attempt sailed wide left. Two plays later Timmy Smith scored on a 58-yard run to increase the Washington lead to 21-10. The Redskins' next possession ended with a 50-yard Williams-to-Sanders TD pass, and minutes later, Williams and Clint Didier combined for a 7-yard touchdown pass to give the Washington Redskins a 35-10 lead at halftime.

The Broncos could move only as far as the Redskins' 48-yard line in the second half, while Washington closed out the scoring late in the game on a 4-yard run by Smith.

DENVER 38, CLEVELAND 33

Jan. 17, 1988 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Mostly Sunny, 44°. Wind NE 8 mph • Attendance: 75,993 • Time: 3:37

Denver's Jeremiah Castillo recovered a Cleveland fumble on the Denver 3-yard line with just over a minute left in the game, halting a desperate drive by the Browns and preserving a victory for Denver. With the win, Denver became the first AFC Champion since the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1975-76 to win the conference in consecutive seasons.

The Browns were presented with the game's first scoring opportunity when Freddie Gilbert caught a deflected Bernie Kosar pass on the contest's third play. Denver took 4 plays to go 18 yards, scoring on an 8-yard pass from John Elway to Rocky Nattiel. The Browns' next drive reached the Broncos 45 before Kevin Mack fumbled, and it was recovered by Steve Wilson on the Denver 40. Two plays later Gene Lang took off on a 42-yard run that would stand for nine years as the longest in postseason history for Denver, taking the ball to the Cleveland 11. Six plays later, on third-and-goal from the 3, Elway's throw incomplete into the end zone, but Cleveland was penalized for holding, giving the Broncos new life at the Browns' 1. Steve Sewell scored on first down to give Denver a 14-0 lead with 11 minutes gone in the first quarter.

The Browns took thirteen plays to move 64 yards for their first points of the game, scoring on a 24-yard Matt Bahr field goal. Elway responded by moving the Broncos 80 yards in 11 plays, capped by a 1-yard Gene Lang touchdown run to up Denver's lead to 21-3. Both teams missed field goals in the latter part of the first half, and the Broncos took their 18-point lead into the dressing room at halftime.

After Elway was intercepted by Felix Wright late in the second half, Cleveland needed only three plays to go 35 yards and score on an 18-yard pass from Bernie Kosar to Reggie Langhorne. The Broncos answered four plays into their next drive, when on third and 10 from the Denver 20, Elway scrambled right and threw to Mark Jackson, who caught the ball at the Broncos 25, evaded two tacklers and sprinted for a touchdown to complete an 80-yard scoring play and give the Broncos a 28-10 lead. Kosar and the Browns roared right back, moving 80 yards in 5 plays to score on a 32-yard Kosar-to-Earnest Byner pass.

After a Brown punt, Cleveland engineered another scoring drive, going 42 yards in 4 plays and scoring on a 4-yard run by Byner to narrow the Bronco lead to 28-24. Just before the end of the third period, Rich Karlis capped off a Denver possession with a 38-yard field goal. The Browns, however, moved 58 yards in 9 plays to tie the score at 31-31 on a 4-yard pass from Kosar to Webster Slaughter. After an exchange of punts, Denver began a drive at their own 25 with 5:14 left in the game. A pair of 26-yard pass plays to Rocky Nattiel put Denver at the Cleveland 20, setting up a 23-yard Elway-Sammy Winder pass play for a touchdown to put the Broncos up 38-31 with just over 4 minutes left. Kosar and the Browns advanced to the Denver 8-yard line with 1:12 remaining, when Byner ran the 3 but had the ball stripped by Castillo, who recovered for the Broncos. Denver was forced into a fourth-down situation with 13 seconds left, and punter Mike Horan earned the ball out of the back of the end zone for a safety, making the score 48-33 in Denver's favor. After the ensuing free kick, Cleveland attempted one pass before time ran out.

1987 AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME

DENVER 34, HOUSTON 10

Jan. 10, 1988 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Mostly Sunny, 45°. Wind E 6 mph • Attendance: 75,968 • Time: 3:07

The Denver Broncos advanced to the AFC Championship game after beating the Oilers 34-10, the largest margin of victory ever for the Broncos in postseason play. The Broncos were led on defense by Mark Haynes and Karl Mecklenburg, who both picked up key interceptions, and on offense by quarterback John Elway (14 of 25, 259 yards, two TDs) and receivers Vance Johnson (4 catches for 105 yards) and Clarence Kay (3 catches for 57 yards and two TDs).

Punter Mike Horan put the Oilers in a hole after the Broncos' first drive stalled, sending a punt to the Houston 5-yard line, where two plays later, a lateral pass from Warren Moon to Mike Rozier was fumbled, and Steve Wilson recovered for Denver. In the 1st game, Lang scored two plays later to give the Broncos an early 7-0 lead. Houston's next drive reached the Broncos' 20-yard line before Mecklenburg intercepted a pass and returned it to the Denver 28. Elway hit Kay for 29 yards on the next play to move into Houston territory, and five plays later the same connection was made for a 27-yard touchdown pass, giving the Broncos a 14-0 lead.

Both teams added field goals on their first drive of the second quarter to make the score 17-3 in Denver's favor. On the fourth Denver play after Houston's field goal, Elway threw a 55-yard bomb to Johnson to move the ball to the Oilers' 11. Five plays later Elway hit Kay again for a touchdown on a 1-yard pass to up the lead to 24-3 with less than 2 minutes left in the half.

Denver's first possession of the second half resulted in a Rich Karlis field goal. Houston then took 10 plays to reach the Denver 7, but Mark Haynes picked off a Moon pass in the end zone and returned it 57 yards, a Broncos playoff record. Houston's next drive reached the Broncos' 11, but a pass on fourth down fell incomplete. The Oilers got the ball back three plays later when Patrick Allen intercepted an Elway pass, and that led to a 19-yard touchdown pass from Moon to Ernest Givins, cutting Denver's lead to 27-10. The Broncos' Kevin Clark recovered the onside kick that followed, and Denver moved 52 yards in 7 plays to score the final points of the game on a 3-yard run by Elway.

SUPER BOWL XXI

NEW YORK GIANTS 39, DENVER 20

Jan. 25, 1987 • Rose Bowl • Pasadena, Calif.

Weather: Sunny, 76°, Wind W 2-5 mph • Attendance: 101,063 • Time: 3:25

The New York Giants broke open a close game with 24 unanswered points to open the second half, capturing a 39-20 win over the Broncos in Super Bowl XXI. The game, played before a crowd of 101,063 in Pasadena's Rose Bowl, featured outstanding performances by the two quarterbacks, Super Bowl MVP Phil Simms of New York (22-25, 268 yds., 3 TDs) and Denver's John Elway (22-37, 304 yds., 1 TD).

The Broncos drove to the Giants' 31-yard line on their opening drive and took a 3-0 lead when Rich Karlis booted a Super Bowl record-setting 48-yard field goal. New York answered with a 9-play, 78-yard scoring drive that culminated with a 6-yard touchdown pass from Simms to tight end Mark Bavaro.

With five-and-a-half minutes remaining in the first quarter, the Broncos took possession on their own 42 after a 28-yard kickoff return by Ken Bell. Elway completed passes on the first three plays of the drive as Denver reached the New York 33. Two Giant penalties left the Broncos with a first-and-10 at the 12, and on third down, Elway called his own number, scoring from 4 yards out on a quarterback draw to give Denver a 10-7 lead. The Giants' next drive stalled and the Broncos got the ball back at the 14-minute mark of the second quarter. On the third play of the drive, on third-and-18, Elway unleashed a 54-yard bomb to Vance Johnson, giving the Broncos a first down on the Giants 28. Seven plays later Denver had a first-and-goal at the New York 1, but failed to score in three plays and Karlis was wide right on a 23-yard field goal attempt.

Denver's Orange Crush defense stifled the next Giant drive at the New York 47, and after a punt, the Broncos got the ball back on their own 15. Controversy entered the game when, on second-and-twelve, Elway threw an apparent completion for a first down to Clarence Kay. The pass was ruled incomplete, a call that was upheld after review of the television replay. On the next play, Giant defensive end George Martin sacked Elway in the end zone for a safety to pull New York within a point of Denver at 10-9. The Denver defense held again, giving Denver the ball at its own 37. Elway quickly hit Steve Watson for 31 yards and Gerald Willhite for 11 more to give the Broncos a first-and-10 at the Giants 21 with 43 seconds left in the half. Denver reached the 16-yard line, but Karlis was wide right on a 34-yard field goal attempt with 13 seconds left in the half.

New York scored on all three third-quarter drives and outgained Denver in the period 163 yards to 20. With the score at 26-10, the Giants mounted a scoring drive on their first possession of the fourth quarter and they went up 33-10 after Phil McConkey caught a deflected pass in the end zone, Simms' third touchdown strike of the day. Denver got the ball back at its own 16 and Elway moved the squad to the New York 10, as Karlis kicked a 27-yard field goal to make the score 33-13. The Giants took only five plays to move 46 yards for their next touchdown, a 2-yard run by Ottis Anderson which made the score 39-13. Elway took Denver down the field again and hit Vance Johnson with a 47-yard touchdown pass for the game's final points.

DENVER 23, CLEVELAND 20

Jan. 12, 1987 • Cleveland Stadium • Cleveland, Ohio

Weather: Solid Overcast, 30°, Wind NW 14 mph (-5°) • Attendance: 79,915 • Time: 3:50

Rich Karlis kicked a 33-yard field goal 5:48 into overtime to give the Broncos a 23-20 victory over the Browns. The game was played before a crowd of 79,915 people, who braved a wind-chill of 5 degrees.

Cleveland took an early 7-0 lead when Bernie Kosar threw a 6-yard touchdown pass to Herman Fontenot with 5:19 left in the first quarter to cap a 14-play, 86-yard drive. The Broncos stopped the next two Cleveland drives with interceptions, the first Rocky Hunley and the second by Jim Ryan, who returned the ball 26 yards in the Cleveland 9. Four plays later Karlis nailed a 19-yard field goal to make the score 7-3. Denver got another break on Cleveland's next play when Kevin Mack fumbled and Ken Woodard recovered the ball on the Browns' 37. On first down John Elway rambled 34 yards, and two more rushes got Denver to the 1-yard line. On fourth-and-goal Gerald Wilhite plunged into the end zone to give the Broncos a 10-7 lead.

Cleveland kicker Mark Moseley tied the score at 10 with a 29-yard field goal with 20 seconds left in the first half. Both teams saw their first two possessions of the second half end in punts before Denver scored on a 26-yard Karlis field goal 12 minutes into the third quarter capping an 11-play, 81-yard drive. The Browns responded as Mack rushed for 34 yards in a 10-play, 76-yard drive that culminated with a 24-yard Moseley field goal, knotting the score at 13-13. The Broncos' next two possessions ended in punts, and Cleveland followed the second with a 48-yard touchdown strike from Kosar to Brian Brennan on a third-and-six play to put Cleveland ahead 20-13 with 5:43 left in regulation.

The ensuing kickoff rolled to the Denver 2-yard line where Gene Lang fell on it. Pro Bowl-bound Elway then engineered the longest and most important drive of his four-year career. On the fifth play of the drive (2nd and 7 from the Broncos' 15), Elway rushed for 11 yards and a first down. He then hit Steve Sewell for a 22-yard gain, followed by a 12-yard strike to Steve Watson to give Denver a tie in the third quarter. Cleveland 40. After an incomplete and an 8-yard sack, Elway threw a 20-yard pass to Mark Jackson, moving the team to the Cleveland 28. Another incomplete was followed by a 14-yard Elway-to-Sewell pass, giving the Broncos a first down on the Brown's 14 with 57 seconds left. After an incomplete Elway ran 9 yards to the Cleveland 5-yard line. On the next play, he hit Jackson for a touchdown, and Karlis's extra point tied the score at 20 with 37 seconds left. Cleveland was unable to move the ball as time ran out in the fourth quarter.

The Browns won the overtime coin toss and elected to receive. Three plays into the drive, on third-and-two from the Cleveland 48, the Orange Crush rose up to snuff Herman Fontenot for no gain. Cleveland punted and Wilhite returned it to the Broncos 25, where the Denver juggernaut revved it up again. On second-and-five, Elway hit Orson Mobley for a 22-yard gain, and three plays later Elway threw a 28-yard pass to Watson. With a first down on Cleveland's 22-yard line, the Broncos rushed three times to get to the 15, and on fourth down, Karlis hit the 33-yard game-winner. Elway accounted for 300 total yards in the game, rushing for 56 and completing 22 of 36 passes for 244 yards. The Broncos kept alive a 1986 record of 13-1 when they scored 20 or more points. Denver also notched its 11th win on natural turf, losing only to San Diego at home on grass.

DENVER 22, NEW ENGLAND 17

Jan. 4, 1987 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 65°, Wind S 9 mph • Attendance: 76,105 • Time: 3:09

Rulon Jones sacked Tony Eason in the end zone for a safety with 1:37 left on the clock to put Denver up 22-17 and halt the Patriots' final comeback drive. The playoff victory was the first since Jan. 1, 1978 for the Broncos, when they defeated Oakland for the AFC Championship.

The two teams traded punts for the first 9 minutes of the game before Denver posed the initial scoring threat. Starting at their own 20, the Broncos took four plays to reach the New England 7, behind John Elway completions of 39 and 21 yards. On second-and-goal from the 4, Elway rolled around the left side and was hit just short of the goal line. He was penalized (delay of game) for spiking the ball after the play, and that sent Denver back to the 6. Two plays later, Rich Karlis nailed a 27-yard field goal to give Denver a 3-0 lead.

New England mounted a 7-play, 87-yard drive later in the quarter, with Eason hitting Stanley Morgan for a 19-yard touchdown. The Broncos roared right back with a 13-play, 82-yard drive that was punctuated by a 22-yard touchdown run by Elway, giving Denver a 10-7 lead midway through the second quarter. The Patriots tied the score on the last play of the half with a 38-yard Tony Franklin field goal.

Denver received the kickoff to open the second half and proceeded to chew up over 9 minutes off the clock. The Broncos ran the ball 11 times on the drive, which stalled on the Patriot 5. Karlis' 22-yard field goal put Denver up 13-10.

Five plays into the next New England drive, the Patriots took a page out of Dan Reeve's bag of tricks, scoring on a flea-flicker that ended with a 45-yard touchdown pass from Eason to Morgan to give New England its first lead of the game at 17-13. Denver jumped right back on top, traveling 86 yards in 6 plays to score on a 48-yard Elway-to-Vance Johnson pass on the last play of the third quarter.

The two teams both punted three times in the fourth quarter, and the last one, a Mike Horan punt of 54 yards, backed New England to its own 10. On first down, Eason dropped back to pass but was sacked for a safety by Rulon Jones. Denver recovered the onside free kick and held on to the ball to preserve the win.

SEATTLE 31, DENVER 7

Dec. 24, 1983 • Kingdome • Seattle, Wash.

Weather: Indoors • Attendance: 60,752 • Time: 2:53

Seattle broke open a close contest with two second-half Dave Krieg touchdown passes as the Seahawks beat Denver 31-7 in the AFC Wild Card playoff game.

Seattle scored on its first possession of the day with a 17-yard pass from Krieg to Steve Largent. Later in the first quarter, Denver mounted a 9-play, 76-yard drive, scoring on a 13-yard pass from Steve DeBerg to Jesse Myles. Seattle cornerback Kerry Justin intercepted a DeBerg pass on Denver's next drive and the Seahawks drove to the Denver 20-yard line, with Norm Johnson converting a 37-yard field goal.

Denver then drove to the Seattle 4-yard line, but Gerald Willhite fumbled and Seattle recovered, and then ran the remaining time off the clock. The second half belonged to the Seahawks as Krieg passed for two touchdowns and running back David Hughes ran for another, making the final score 31-7.

1979 AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME

HOUSTON 13, DENVER 7

Dec. 23, 1979 • Astrodome • Houston, Texas

Weather: Indoors • Attendance: 48,776 • Time: 2:59

Tom Fritsch kicked two field goals to provide the margin of victory as the Houston Oilers played strong second half defense and defeated the Broncos 13-7, earning the Oilers advancement in the American Football Conference playoffs.

Fritsch opened the scoring with a 31-yard first period field goal, but Denver came back to take a 7-3 lead on a 7-yard pass from Craig Morton to running back Dave Preston, an 80-yard drive that took the Broncos 13 plays.

Houston went ahead to stay on a 3-yard burst by Earl Campbell at 14:14 of the second period. However, Campbell was injured on the play and did not return to action in the second half. Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini and wide receiver Ken Burrough also left the contest due to injuries, both early in the second half, putting a severe crimp in the Houston attack. But the Broncos were able to move the ball for only 216 yards total offense, and the tenacious Houston defense sacked Morton times for 40 yards in losses as the Oilers held on to win.

Linebacker Bob Swenson intercepted a Gifford Nielsen pass at the Oiler 26-yard line midway through the fourth period, but two sacks of Morton led to a 50-yard field goal attempt by Fred Steinfort. Steinfort's kick hit the upright, and the Oilers later drove for a second field goal by Fritsch, this one of 20 yards, providing the final victory margin.

Denver drove to the Houston 27 at the 2-minute mark, but the Oiler defense again rose to the occasion to stifle the threat and secure the win, eliminating the Broncos from the playoffs.

1978 AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME

PITTSBURGH 33, DENVER 10

Dec. 30, 1978 • Three Rivers Stadium • Pittsburgh, Pa.

Weather: Light Rain, 33°, Wind S 5 mph • Attendance: 48,921 • Time: 3:02

Two fourth-quarter touchdown passes by Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw lifted the Steelers to a 33-10 victory over the Denver Broncos and into the American Football Conference Championship game.

Bradshaw's scoring tosses included a 45-yard bomb to John Stallworth and a 38-yarder to Lynn Swann, capping a brilliant performance by the Pittsburgh passer.

The Broncos took the early lead on a 37-yard Jim Turner field goal, but Pittsburgh's Franco Harris ran for two touchdowns—a 1-yarder and an 18-yarder—and Roy Gerela kicked a 24-yard field goal to give the Steelers a 16-3 advantage. Denver cut the margin to 16-10 on a 3-yard Dave Preston touchdown run, but Gerela kicked another field goal to make the halftime margin 19-10.

Denver threatened to come closer in the third period, but Turner's 29-yard field goal attempt was blocked, and Bradshaw's passing sealed Denver's fate early in the final stanza.

The Steelers rolled to 425 yards total offense, with Bradshaw accounting for 272 through the air—156 on 10 receptions by Stallworth.

The eventual World Champion Steelers limited the Broncos' ground game to just 87 yards in earning the right to play the Houston Oilers for the AFC crown the following week.

SUPER BOWL XII

DALLAS 27, DENVER 10

Jan. 15, 1978 • Louisiana Superdome • New Orleans, La.

Weather: Indoors • Attendance: 76,400 • Time: 3:32

The Dallas Cowboys evened their Super Bowl record at 2-2 by defeating the Denver Broncos 27-10 before a sellout crowd of 76,400, plus 90 million television viewers, the largest audience ever to watch a sporting event.

Dallas converted two pass interceptions — by safety Randy Hughes and cornerback Aaron Kyle — into 10 points and Efren Herrera added a 35-yard field goal to give the Cowboys a 13-0 half-time advantage. The Denver offense had trouble getting untracked against the hard-hitting Cowboy defense. The Broncos lost three fumbles and were intercepted twice on their last five possessions of the first half.

The Broncos came back momentarily at the outset of the third period. Craig Morton engineered a drive to the Cowboys 30-yard line from where Jim Turner booted a 47-yard field goal to make the score 13-3. After an exchange of punts, Dallas wide receiver Butch Johnson made a spectacular diving catch in the end zone to complete a 45-yard pass from Roger Staubach to put the Cowboys ahead 20-3.

However, the momentum swung back to the Broncos as Rick Upchurch returned the kickoff 67 yards to the Dallas 26. On the second play of the series, Norm Waseleski of Craig Morton at quarterback. Morton, who was intercepted only eight times during the regular season, had thrown a Super Bowl record four interceptions. Weese guided the Broncos to a touchdown — a 1-yarder by Ron Lytle — to cut the Dallas lead to 20-10 with 5:39 left in the third quarter.

But Dallas finished the victory when running back R. Newhouse threw a 29-yard touchdown pass to Golden Richards on an option play with 7:04 remaining in the game. It was the first pass thrown by Newhouse since the 1975 regular season. The Cowboys' offense amassed 325 yards while the defense limited the Broncos to 156 in a game that saw the Cowboys control the ball 38:34 to Denver's 21:26.

Roger Staubach completed 17 of 25 passes for 183 yards while Harvey Martin and Randy White — who were named co-MVPs — led the Cowboys defense which recovered four fumbles and intercepted four passes.

DENVER 20, OAKLAND 17

Jan. 1, 1978 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Mostly Sunny, 18°. Wind: NE 5 mph • Attendance: 74,982 • Time: 2:55

Denver quarterback Craig Morton threw two touchdown passes to Haven Moses as the Broncos defeated the defending NFL Champion Oakland Raiders, 20-17 and moved into their first Super Bowl.

Morton, who was drafted and spent nine-and-a-half years with the Cowboys, would face his former Dallas teammates after completing 10 of 20 passes for 224 yards. It would be the second meeting in five weeks for these two teams — Dallas won 14-6 in the regular season finale as Morton played only the opening series due to a bruised hip.

On a sunny, 18-degree day before 74,982 Denver partisans, the Raiders scored on their initial possession as Errol Mann kicked a 20-yard field goal to climax an 18-play drive. Morton hit Moses for their first scoring hookup two plays later on a 74-yard touchdown bomb, and the Broncos were on top to stay.

Denver took advantage of two Oakland turnovers in the second half to win its second game in three meetings with Raiders during the 1977 season. Defensive end Bryon Manor recovered running back Clarence Davis' fumble at the Oakland 17 and running back Jon Keyworth scored from the 1-yard line to increase the margin to 14-3 in the third quarter.

Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler hit tight end Dave Casper on the first of two scoring passes to narrow the lead to 14-10 with 39 seconds elapsed in the final period. But on Oakland's next possession, linebacker Bob Swenson intercepted a Stabler pass and ran to the Raiders' 14. Morton then threw 12 yards to Moses for the Broncos' final touchdown. Oakland finished the scoring on the next series as Stabler threw 17 yards to Casper for the game's last touchdown.

Denver controlled the ball for the final 3:08 and gave Red Miller the AFC title in his first year as head coach. Moses, a 10-year veteran, had 5 receptions for 168 yards. The Denver defense, which was No. 1 against the rush in the NFL during the regular season, held the Raiders to 94 yards on the ground.

DENVER 34, PITTSBURGH 21

Dec. 24, 1977 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 43°, Wind E 9 mph • Attendance: 75,011 • Time: 3:15

After ties at 7, 14, and 21, veteran Jim Turner kicked a 44-yard field goal to put Denver ahead to stay as the Broncos — in their first playoff game ever — beat the perennial AFC Central Champion Steelers.

Leading 24-21, the Broncos capped their victory with two fourth-quarter interceptions by linebacker Tom Jackson, the last of which set up Craig Morton's 34-yard game-clinching touchdown pass to Jack Dolbin.

Denver capitalized on a blocked punt and a fumble recovery for two scores in the first half, which ended 14-14. Morton and Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw traded touchdown passes in the second half before Turner's kick. Jackson's interceptions, and Morton's arm kept Pittsburgh from the AFC title game for the first time in four years.

The Denver victory set up a third game between the AFC Western Champion Broncos and the AFC Wild Card Raiders, who split two regular season games.

RETIRED JERSEY NUMBERS

The Denver Broncos have retired three jersey numbers in their 39-year history: the No. 18 worn by quarterback Frank Tripucka, the No. 44 worn by running back Floyd Little and the No. 7 worn by John Elway. The most recent addition is Elway's, retired in a halftime ceremony during the Broncos' 1999 season-opening game vs. Miami, Sept. 13, 1999.

John Elway

Frank Tripucka

Floyd Little

John Elway, who wore number 7 from 1983-98, led the Broncos to five Super Bowl appearances and two World Championships, and retired ranked second in nearly every all-time NFL passing category. He passed for 51,475 yards and 300 touchdowns in his 16-year career, and retired as the all-time winningest starting quarterback in NFL history, with a career mark of 148-82-1 (.643). Elway was named Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXIII, leading Denver to its second straight World Championship with a 34-19 defeat of the Atlanta Falcons, becoming the only player in NFL history to close his career by earning Super Bowl MVP honors in his final game. His image was forged early in his career, as he developed a reputation for leading the Broncos to victory against seemingly insurmountable odds. Elway directed the Broncos on an NFL-record 47 fourth-quarter, game-winning or game-saving drives in his legendary career. Elway was inducted into the Denver Broncos Ring of Fame in 1999, the first inductee in six years. The only other players to wear No. 7 in franchise history were quarterbacks Mickey Slaughter (1963-66) and Craig Morton (1977-82).

Frank Tripucka, who wore number 18 from 1960-63, was Denver's first quarterback and helped lay the foundation for the club's future success. He played in the American Football League all-star game in 1962 and passed for 7,676 yards in his Denver career. Tripucka's passing total still ranks third in franchise history, and his single-game record of 447 yards at Buffalo, Sept. 15, 1962, remains the franchise record. He also ranks third in completions (662) and attempts (1,277), fourth in touchdown passes (51) and guided Denver to its first .500 season, with a 7-7 mark in 1962. Tripucka was inducted into the Broncos Ring of Fame in 1986.

Floyd Little, who wore number 44 from 1967-75 with the Denver Broncos, as well as during his legendary college career at Syracuse, retired as the club's all-time career leader in rushing yards (6,323) and total touchdowns (54). He held both marks until 1998 when they were eclipsed by Terrell Davis. Little was All-AFL in 1969 and played in two AFL all-star games (1968, 1969) and three Pro Bowls (1971, 1972, 1973). He remains the franchise career record-holder in rushing attempts (1,641), his 89-yard kickoff return in 1968 is the longest non-scoring kickoff return in club history. When Little retired, he ranked among the top 10 rushers in NFL history. Little joined the Broncos in 1967 as the club's No. 1 draft choice, becoming the first No. 1 pick to sign with the team in its eight-year history. During his career, Little helped the Broncos to their first winning seasons in 1973 and '74, with back-to-back 7-5-2 and 7-6-1 marks, and retired in 1975 with Denver just two years away from its first Super Bowl appearance. He was inducted into the club's Ring of Fame as part of its inaugural class in 1984. The only other player to wear No. 44 in franchise history was defensive back Miller Farr in 1965.

DENVER BRONCOS RING OF FAME PROFILES

The Denver Broncos' Ring of Fame was inaugurated in 1984 to honor former players and administrators who played significant roles in the franchise's history.

Quarterback John Elway becomes the first addition to the Ring of Fame in six years, by virtue of his Sept. 12, 1999 induction in a ceremony held at halftime of the Broncos season-opening Monday Night contest vs. Miami. As testament to the legend he established during his 16-year career, Elway becomes the first inductee for whom the customary five-year waiting period was waived.

Elway's induction is the first since 1993 when cornerback Louis Wright (1975-86) was inducted into the Ring of Fame, a year after linebacker Tom Jackson (1973-86) entered the Ring in 1992.

Linebacker Randy Gradishar (1974-83) was the only 1989 inductee, following the 1998 inductions of quarterback Craig Morton (1977-82), wide receiver Haven Moses (1972-81) and kicker Jim Turner (1971-79).

Former defensive back Bill Thompson (1969-81) was honored in 1987 and three players joined the elite group in 1986: quarterbacks Frank Tripucka (1960-63) and Charley Johnson (1972-75), and defensive end Paul Smith (1968-78).

In 1985, former owner Gerald H. Phipps became the first non-player to have his name placed on the Ring.

The Ring of Fame was established in 1984 with an inaugural class of four members: running back Floyd Little (1967-75), defensive end Rich Jackson (1967-72), wide receiver Lionel Taylor (1960-66) and safety Austin "Goose" Gonsoulin (1960-66).

The Ring of Fame is on the facade of Mile High Stadium's east stands, just below the third level. The following are biographical sketches of each of the 16 Ring of Fame members, in alphabetical order. The profiles begin below with Elway's, and continue with Gonsoulin's on page 494.

QUARTERBACK

CAREER John Elway capped his brilliant career in 1998 by winning Most Valuable Player honors in Super Bowl XXXIII, leading the Denver Broncos to their second straight World Championship. He also posted the highest quarterback rating of his career in his final campaign, with a rating of 93.0. At the close of the 1998 season, Elway ranked second among active NFL players for number of appearances with one team (234), trailing only the Oilers' Bruce Matthews (248), and retired having played in and started 331 more games in more seasons (16) than any player in Denver Broncos history. Elway, the NFL's all-time winningest starting quarterback

(148-82-1, .643), was voted to a franchise-record nine Pro Bowl appearances (1986 season, '87, '89, '91, '93, '94, '96, '97 and '98), tied for the most ever by a quarterback (Marino, Moon), and as a starter six times ('87, '89, '93, '96, '97 and '98). He was the NFL's Most Valuable Player in 1987, AFC Player of the Year in 1993, was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week 15 times and AFC Offensive Player of the Month twice. Elway was named the Edge NFL Man of the Year for 1992, and was inducted in to the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame in 1999. He ranks second behind Marino's Dan Marino in most major NFL career passing categories, including passing yards (51,475), attempts (7,250), completions (4,123) and total offense (54,882). He also figures third in total touchdowns with 334 (300 pass/33 rush/1 rec.); third in passing touchdowns with 300 (behind Marino and Fran Tarkenton) and leads all NFL quarterbacks in career rushing attempts (774), while figuring fourth in rushing yards (3,407). Elway is the only player in NFL history to pass for over 3,000 yards and rush for over 200 yards in the same season for seven straight years (1985-91). He was responsible for 334 touchdowns (300 passing; 33 rushing and 1 receiving), third all-time, and generated 4,771 of the 5,806 points (82.2%) scored by the Broncos during his 16-year tenure with the club. Elway ranks No. 1 in NFL history in fourth-quarter, game-winning or game-saving drives with 47 (46-0-1 record), and had 36 career 300-yard passing games in the regular season, third among active quarterbacks at the time of his retirement (Marino, Warren Moon). He also caught three passes in regular season play for 61 yards, including a touchdown of 23 yards from Steve Sewell in 1986. In 1997, Elway broke his franchise record for consecutive passes without an interception with the streak reaching 189. For his career, Elway had 19 games in which he completed 70% or more of his passes (min. 20 att.) and fashioned a 17-2 record in those games. He started 2,595 drives as a pro and was replaced just 10 times due to injury (.039%). POSTSEASON Elway played in a franchise-record 22 postseason games (including five Super Bowls), with 21 starts, and produced a 14-7 record (9-2 at home, 3-2 on the road and 2-3 at neutral sites). He is the only player ever to start in five Super Bowls, and has the NFL's all-time best record as a starting quarterback in Conference Championship Games, at 5-1. The others with four Super Bowl starts are Joe Montana, Terry Bradshaw, Roger Staubach and Jim Kelly. Elway owns or shares 18 Broncos' postseason records, including most passing yards, most touchdown passes and total offense (combined rushing and passing yards). He completed 355 of 651 passes (54.5%) for 4,964 yards, 27 touchdowns and 21 interceptions. He also rushed 94 times for 461 yards (4.9 avg.) and six touchdowns and caught one pass for 23 yards in postseason play. Elway ranks second in NFL postseason history in passing yardage (trailing only Montana-5,772); second in pass attempts (Montana-734); second in completions (Montana-460); and fourth in passing touchdowns (Montana-45; Marino-39 and Bradshaw-30). In Super Bowl games Elway ranks No. 1 in pass attempts (152), No. 3 in completions (76), No. 2 in passing yards (1,128) and tied for second in rushing TDs (4) with Franco Harris and Thurman Thomas (Emmitt Smith has 5). Six of Elway's NFL record 47 fourth-quarter, game-winning or game-saving drives came in the postseason.

1998 Elway was selected to his ninth Pro Bowl (tying Dan Marino and Warren Moon for most by a QB) — his sixth as a starter and his third straight selection — while being inducted in the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame with the 1999 class after a season in which he played in 13 of the 16 games (12 starts) and showed that he still ranked among the NFL's most dangerous signal-callers, completing 210 of 356 passes (59.0) for 2,806 yards and 22 touchdowns with 10 interceptions. He was sacked 18 times (-135) and his longest completion was a 50-yd. toss to Rod Smith in Week 14 vs. Kansas City, 12/6). Elway also rushed 37 times for 94 yards (2.5) with a long of 16 (at Miami, 12/21) and one touchdown (vs. Dal., 8/13/98), and caught a 14-yd. pass from Smith (vs. Oak., 11/22). Elway ranked second in the AFC (5th NFL) in passer rating (93.0), first in average gain per attempt (7.88, 4th NFL), while also figuring third in completion pct. (11th NFL), fourth in TD passes (9th NFL) and sixth (12th NFL) in passing yards. He was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week and Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week for his 400-yard passing performance Dec. 6 vs. Kansas City, marking the 15th time in his career he has earned the AFC honor chosen by the NFL. Elway started all three playoff games and completed 45 of 86 passes (52.3%) for 691 yards and three touchdowns with one interception and a long of 80 yds. (TD), and was awarded the Pete Rozelle Trophy as Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXIII, the only player ever to win such honors in his final game. Elway's performance, which lifted Denver to its second straight title, was his best performance in a league-record five Super Bowl starts. Setting a record by being the oldest quarterback to start a Super Bowl (38 years, 7 mos.), Elway completed 18 of 29 passes (.621) for 336 yards — the third-highest total in Super Bowl history — and a touchdown with one interception, en route to becoming the first No. 7 in the championship game's history — and the oldest player — to be named MVP. Elway cemented the honor by rushing for a 3-yd. touchdown in the 4th qtr. to give Denver a 31-6 lead, and made Elway the oldest player in Super Bowl history to score a touchdown, adding a year onto the record he set with his rushing TD in Super Bowl XXXII. Elway's passing touchdown was perhaps the play of the game, however, as he found Rod Smith deep down the middle of the field in the 2nd qtr. for an 80-yd. scoring play to put Denver on top 17-3. It tied for the second-longest play from scrimmage in Super Bowl history, and was the longest by a Bronco in a Super Bowl.

1997 Elway enjoyed yet another stellar season, quarterbacking the Broncos to the first World Championship in franchise history with a 31-24 win over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII. He was voted to his eighth Pro Bowl (fifth as a starter), and was named to the All-AFC team by Pro Football Weekly and Football News, and was named second-team All-Pro by College and Pro Football Newsweekly. Elway was also the recipient of the NFL Players Association's Mackey Award as the top quarterback in the AFC. For the year he completed 280 of his 502 pass attempts (55.8%) for 3,635 yards, 27 touchdowns and 11 interceptions. The 27 passing touchdowns set a new franchise record, and his 28 total touchdowns (one rushing) were the second-most of his career (30 in 1996). Elway also had 50 carries for 218 yards rushing (4.4 avg.) on the season, posted a quarterback rating of 87.5 (4th-best in the AFC, 7th in the NFL), and was 10th in the AFC in completion percentage. His third-down passer rating of 87.7 ranked 3rd in the AFC (5th NFL), as did his 27 touchdown passes (4th NFL). Elway helped Denver lead the NFL in total offense (second straight season) and in scoring offense for the 1997 season. He was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week for Week 10 (Nov. 2) when he moved into second place all-time in passing yardage and eclipsed 50,000 yards in total offense for his career in a win over Seattle. Elway would later be named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for November (92-149, 61.7%, 1,231 yards, 8 TDs, 0 INT) as the Broncos went 4-1, marking his second such award ever (October 1996). Elway started all four postseason games and engineered the Denver offense on its four-game run to the World Championship, completing 56 of 96 passes (58.3) for 726 yards and three touchdowns, with two interceptions. He was sacked six times (-44) and carried the ball nine times for 25 yards (2.8) with a long of 10 yards and one touchdown.

1996 John Elway put together one of the finest seasons of his phenomenal 14-year career in, being voted to his seventh Pro Bowl (third as a starter), named second-team All-Pro by AP, College & Pro Football Newsweekly and Football Digest and first-team All-AFC by UPI, Pro Football Weekly and Football News; voted second in the AP NFL Most Valuable Player balloting; voted AFC Player of the Year by the Touchdown Club of Columbus; AFC Offensive Player of the Year by the Kansas City 101 Club; Mackey Award winner for highest quarterback rating in the AFC and AFC MVP by the NFL Players Association. He started 15 of the 16 regular season games and completed 287 of 466 pass attempts (61.6) for 3,328 yards and 26 touchdowns with 14 interceptions, and also rushed 50 times for 249 yards (5.0) with a long of 22 and four touchdowns. His 26 touchdowns tied a career high and franchise record set in 1995. Elway led the AFC in quarterback rating (89.2; 4th NFL), was second in completion percentage (61.6; 5th NFL), third in touchdown passes (26; 4th NFL) and fifth in passing yardage (3,328; 7th NFL), completions (287; 8th NFL) and attempts (466; 9th NFL). His start at Seattle (9/8) marked the 192nd game he has played in his career, most by any player in Broncos franchise history, surpassing Tom Jackson who played in 191 games from 1973-86. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff loss to Jacksonville (1/4/97), Elway started and completed 25 of 38 passes for 226 yards and two touchdowns with a long of 18. He also rushed five times for 30 yards with a long of 19.

1995 Elway started all 16 games, completing 316 of 542 passes (58.3%) for 3,970 yards, a then-career-best 26 touchdowns and 14 interceptions. He threw for more than 300 yards on five occasions also a career best. It was the 10th time in his 13-year NFL career that he had topped the 3,000-yard mark, joining him with Dan Marino (11) as the only quarterbacks in NFL history to accomplish that feat 10 or more times. He also rushed 40 times for 179 yards (4.5) and one touchdown, with a long of 15. He led the AFC (tied for 5th NFL) in passing yards, finished third (8th NFL) in completions and was third (8th NFL) in pass attempts. Meanwhile, his fourth-quarter passer rating of 95.2 ranked third in the AFC and fifth in the NFL.

1994 John Elway earned his sixth AFC Pro Bowl berth, though he missed two of the final three games (at Los Angeles and vs. New Orleans) due to a strained left knee. He finished the season second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in passer rating with an 85.7, and third in the AFC in passing yards (3,490), attempts (494) and completions (207), with a 2.0-interception percentage. His 62.1 completion percentage was second in the AFC and sixth overall. Elway went over the 3,000-yard passing mark for the ninth time in his career, second only to Dan Marino (10) and went over the 40,000-yard career total-offense mark. He rushed for 236 yards (second on the team and his ninth 200-yard season), giving him a season total offense figure of 3,725 in the 14 games he played.

1993: Elway was named AFC Most Valuable Player (NFL Players Association), AFC Offensive Player of the Year (UPI), and the Kansas City 101 Club and AFC Player of the Year (Football News) in 1993. Elway performed at an MVP-pace all year, earning all-AFC (UPI, Football News) and second-team All-NFL (AP, College and Pro Football Newsweekly, and Football Digest), and he was the starting quarterback in the 1994 Pro Bowl (fifth Pro Bowl berth) after a regular season that saw him lead the AFC in all six major quarterback stats categories. Elway's 1993 stats and rankings included a 92.8 rating (first in the AFC, third in the NFL), 551 attempts (first in the entire NFL), 348 completions (first in the entire NFL), a 63.2 completion percentage (first in the AFC and third in the NFL), 25 TD passes (first in the AFC and second in the NFL), 4,030 yards (first in the AFC), Elway's 1.8 interception avoidance percentage was fourth in the AFC, but stands as the best in Denver history for any quarterback with more than 75 single-season attempts. In 1993 he set new personal and Denver records for total yards offensively (4,183), completions (348), passing yards (4,030), TD passes (25), and completion percentage (that 63.2 mark tied the figure set by Norris Weese in 1978). The 1993 season was Elway's first 4,000-yard campaign and his eighth 3,000-yard season. He also rushed for 153 yards. Elway was named the AFC Offensive Player of the Week twice and was named by his teammates as Denver's offensive MVP.

1992: Elway completed 174 of 316 passes for 2,242 yards, with 10 touchdowns and 17 interceptions. He gained 94 yards and scored twice on 34 rushing attempts. He missed games 11 through 14 because of a bruised tendon in his right shoulder, suffered while running for a first down against the Giants (11/15). Elway earned two AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the year.

1991: Elway completed 242 of 351 passes for 3,253 yards, a total ranked sixth in the AFC and ninth in the NFL, as he was voted to his fourth career Pro Bowl berth. He threw 12 touchdown passes and tied a career low with just 12 interceptions. He had 36 pass completions of 20+ yards, nine of 40+, five of 50+, and four of 60+. Elway was third on the team with 258 yards rushing, and his six TDs led the team and set a new career single season high. He was bothered throughout the second half of the season by a shoulder problem that was corrected by arthroscopic surgery in the 1992 offseason. Elway started both of Denver's playoff contests, completing 30 of 54 passes (55.6%) for 378 yards and one touchdown with two interceptions. He also rushed 10 times for 49 yards (4.9). Elway completed 11 of 21 passes for 121 yards and an interception before leaving the AFC Championship Game in the fourth quarter with a thigh injury.

1990: Elway completed 294 of 502 passes in 1990 (a .586 completion percentage that stood as the highest over the first 10 years of his career) for 3,526 yards, 15 touchdowns, and 14 interceptions. He gained 258 yards on 50 rushing attempts and scored three touchdowns on the ground.

1989: Elway led Denver to its third AFC Championship in four years and earned his third career Pro Bowl invitation. He completed 223 of 416 passes for 3,051 yards, with 18 touchdowns and 18 interceptions, and he rushed for 244 yards on 48 carries, scoring three times. Elway started all three Denver playoff games, including Super Bowl XXIV vs. San Francisco, and completed 42 of 82 passes (51.2%) for 732 yards and four touchdowns with three interceptions, while also rushing for 91 yards on 16 carries (5.7) with a long of 32 and one touchdown.

1988: Elway threw for 3,309 yards and rushed for 234 yards despite being bothered for most of the season by several nagging injuries. He was voted by teammates as Denver's most valuable offensive player for the fourth straight year, sharing the award with running back Sammy Winder, following a campaign in which he completed 274 of 496 passes, with 17 touchdowns and 19 interceptions to earn his second straight Pro Bowl invitation.

1987: Elway was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player (AP) and the AFC's starting quarterback in the Pro Bowl after turning in a tremendous season in 1987, a year in which he became the first AFC signal-caller since Terry Bradshaw (1978-79) to lead his team to consecutive conference crowns. Elway was named All-NFL (The Sporting News, NEA, AP-second team) and All-AFC (UPI, Pro Football Weekly, The Football News), in addition to being tabbed as the AFC MVP (NFLPA), AFC Player of the Year (The Football News), AFC Offensive Player of the Year (UPI, Kansas City 101 Club), and Colorado Pro Athlete of the Year (Colorado Sports Hall of Fame), as well as earning his second Pro Bowl invitation. He was voted the Broncos' offensive MVP for a regular season performance in which he completed 224 of 410 passes for 3,198 yards, an average of 267 yards per game, with 19 TD passes. He led all AFC quarterbacks in rushing for the fourth straight season was second on the team with a career-high 304 yards, scoring four times. Elway started all three of Denver's playoff contests, including Super Bowl XXII vs. Washington, and completed 42 of 89 passes (47.2%) for 797 yards and six touchdowns with five interceptions, while also rushing 18 times for 78 yards (4.2) with a long of 21 and one touchdown. His 56-yard scoring strike to Ricky Nathel on Denver's first play from scrimmage provided the earliest touchdown in Super Bowl history (elapsed time of 1:57).

1986: Elway led the Broncos to their first AFC Championship in nine seasons in 1986, while earning his first Pro Bowl berth. He was honored with the Seattle Gold Helmet Award (Professional Football Player of the Year) and received the King of the Hill award from the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, in addition to being named honorable mention All-NFL (AP) and All-AFC (UPI-second team). Along with his 18 TD passes that year, Elway also scored on an 11-yard run and a 23-yard pass reception from Steve Sewell that is the longest TD catch by a full-time starting QB in NFL history. For the year he completed 280 of 504 passes (55.6%) for 3,485 yards and 19 touchdowns with 13 interceptions, while also rushing 52 times for 257 yards (4.9) with a long of 24 and one touchdown. In the postseason he added 805 more yards on 57 of 107 passing efficiency (53.3%), with three touchdowns and four interceptions, while rushing 15 times for 101 yards (6.7) with a long of 34 and two touchdowns. Elway directed one of the greatest drives in NFL postseason history in pacing Denver to a 23-20 overtime win over Cleveland for the AFC title. He completed 22 of 38 passes for 244 yards and a TD, that coming on a five-yard strike to Mark Jackson that capped a 15-play, 98-yard drive that tied the game at the end of regulation. In overtime Elway drove the team 60 yards in nine plays to the winning field goal.

1985: Elway took some spectacular steps forward in 1985, as he re-wrote the Denver record book. Elway set Broncos single season records for attempts (605 which led the NFL and fell just four passes short of the NFL record of 609 held by Dan Fouts), completions (327 second in the NFL), passing yards (3,891 second in the NFL), total rushing and passing plays (656 first in the NFL), and total offense (4,414, also first in the league).

1984: Elway led the Broncos to a 12-2 record in his 14 regular season starts in 1984. He completed 214 of 380 passes for 2,598 yards, with 18 TDs and 15 interceptions. Not only was his passing a factor in his leadership of the offense, but he finished third on the team in rushing with 237 yards.

1983: Elway started 10 games in 1983, including the first five before being replaced by Steve DeBerg, and five more after DeBerg was injured. While Elway did not have impressive stats as a rookie, finishing 17th among AFC passers, he carried a tremendous emotional burden—having come to the NFL as the most publicized college prospect since Joe Namath in 1965. Elway was the first player chosen in the 1983 draft and joined the Broncos by trade with Baltimore on May 2. The Broncos, in return, gave the Colts quarterback Mark Herrmann, the rights to OL Chris Hinton and a first-round pick in the 1984 Draft (G Ron Solt). He was also chosen by the Oakland Raiders in the 1983 USFL territorial draft.

COLLEGE: John concluded his college career with five major NCAA Division I-A records and nine major Pac-10 marks. Elway completed 62.1 percent of his career passes (774 of 1,243, both NCAA highs) for 9,349 yards and 77 touchdowns, while setting an NCAA record for the lowest percentage of passes intercepted in a career (3.13 percent). As a senior, John was a consensus All-American and finished second in Heisman Trophy balloting while setting virtually every Pac-10 and Stanford career record for total offense and passing. A two-sport star, John played baseball for the New York Yankees' Oneonta (N.Y.) single-A farm club in 1982, hitting for a .318 average and knocking in a team-high 25 RBI in 42 games. John, who batted left-handed and threw right-handed, was the Yankees' first selection in the 1981 summer draft (June 8). John hit .349 with nine homers and 50 RBI in 49 games in his final college baseball season as a sophomore. Elway has a degree in economics from Stanford.

PERSONAL: John and his wife Janet have four children, including three daughters, Jessica Gwen (10/17/85), Jordan Marie (6/1/87) and Juliana (3/7/91), and a son, Jack (8/1/89). The family makes its home in Englewood, Colo. In addition to his considerable time spent on the football field, John and Janet have poured a great deal of energy into The Elway Foundation (an organization that contributes funds and resources to the prevention and treatment of child abuse). He also owned and operated seven automobile franchises in the Denver area until selling them in late 1997, and now is associated with 17 John Elway AutoNation dealerships in the Denver area. A native of Port Angeles, Wash., Elway was the most highly recruited prep athlete in the nation in 1979 and was listed on Parade, Scholastic Coach, Football News, and National Coaches Association All-America teams. He had an unparalleled football-baseball career at Granada Hills High School. John was 129 of 200 for 1,837 yards and 19 TDs as a senior, while leading the baseball team to the Los Angeles City championship with a .491 batting average and a 4-2 pitching record. He completed 60 percent of his high school passes for 5,711 yards and 49 TDs. The football field at Granada Hills High School was re-named in John's honor in a ceremony June 5, 1998. The Kansas City Royals selected him in the 18th round of the 1979 summer draft (June 5), although he already had signed a national letter of intent with Stanford. John's father, Jack, coached his son in the East-West Shrine contest in which John earned Offensive MVP laurels. Jack is currently in his fifth year as the Broncos' Director of Pro Scouting, and his seventh year overall with the Broncos.

*—the second number is the percentage the quarterback has put his team in position to score, allowing for missed field goal and subtracting those drives ended by the clock and replaced due to injury. #—drives for 1984 add to one more than drives started because Elway replaced Kubiak on one drive.)

NOTES:

- For his career, he has directed Denver to scores in better than 3 in 10 drives when you adjust the figure as stated above, the figures work to just over 4 in 100.
- In 2,608 career drives started, he has been replaced only 10 times due to injury (based on if a replacement QB earned at least one first down on the drive; that's 0.383 percent, or 3.83 in 1,000).
- As far as drive efficiency is concerned, Elway had his best seasons in 1995 and 98

JOHN ELWAY'S FOURTH-QUARTER HEROICS

In his career (1983-98) John Elway has engineered 47 fourth-quarter or overtime, game-saving or game-winning drives for the Broncos, and the team has a record of 46-0-1 in those contests. Those games include:

- 40 fourth-quarter or overtime, game-winning drives (marked on the following page with an asterisk). The Broncos have scored the winning points 23 times with fewer than three minutes remaining, 21 times under two minutes and 13 times with less than a minute left.
- seven fourth-quarter, game-tying drives. Denver went on to win six of those contests in regulation or overtime, and one game ended tied. The Broncos won in regulation vs. New England (11/4/84) and at Seattle (12/20/85). In overtime, Elway directed the game-winning drive in the AFC Championship game at Cleveland (1/11/87), while the defense and special teams set up OT wins vs. San Diego (11/17/85), at San Francisco (10/9/88) and at Seattle (10/22/89). The game at Green Bay (9/20/87) ended in a tie.

ELWAY VS. HALL OF FAME QUARTERBACKS AFTER 16 SEASONS

At the time of his retirement, after 16 seasons, John Elway had thrown and completed more passes, and thrown for more yards than all 18 quarterbacks currently enshrined in the Hall of Fame at the equivalent point in each of their careers. He also ranks first in rushing attempts and total offense (combined rushing and passing yards), second in rushing yards, tied for second in rushing touchdowns, second in completion percentage, and second in touchdown passes. Among those enshrined in Canton, only Fran Tarkenton had thrown more touchdown passes in his first 16 seasons than Elway, and only Otto Graham has more rushing touchdowns.

ELWAY NAMED 1992 EDGE NFL MAN OF THE YEAR

John Elway was named the 1992 Edge NFL Man of the Year for his work with the Elway Foundation, a non-profit organization which has raised millions of dollars that have been directed toward the prevention and treatment of child abuse throughout Colorado.

Among the groups assisted by the Elway Foundation are Family Focus and the Kempe Children's Foundation. The Elway Foundation in 1991 alone raised over $400,000.

Elway is also a member of the Mayor's Council on Physical Fitness and has served as chairman of the National Kidney Foundation for the Rocky Mountain region.

The NFL Man of the Year award, now sponsored by True Value, is truly unique in that it is the only league-sponsored award that recognizes a player's off-the-field community service work as well as his playing excellence. Perhaps the most prestigious of all NFL awards, it has been in existence since 1970.

THEN: Austin "Goose" Gonsoulin was one of the four original Ring of Fame inductees in 1984, recognized for his splendid play at safety for seven seasons. Gonsoulin was one of the original Broncos from the 1960 season. At the end of his Bronco career, he was the all-time American Football League leader in interceptions with 43. His 11 pickoffs in 1960 are still a Denver club record, and he shares the team record for interceptions in a game with four, a feat he accomplished Sept. 18, 1960 at Buffalo. Gonsoulin was an All-AFL choice in 1960, 1962 and 1963. His amazing durability and toughness enabled him to start 61 consecutive games at one point in his career. Gonsoulin was also the captain of his college team at Baylor.

Now: Gonsoulin has operated a construction company in Texas since his retirement.

During his career, Gradishar was a seven-time Pro Bowler, the most by any Bronco at the end of his career, and he is also the all-time leader in tackles for Denver, finishing with 1,958. His teammates also voted him team defensive MVP in 1978 and 1980. While at Ohio State, Gradishar was referred to by his head coach — the legendary Woody Hayes — as "the best linebacker I ever coached at Ohio State." Randy was a three-year starter for the Buckeyes and was named to every All-America team following his senior season, as well as being an Academic All-America selection, graduating with a degree in distributive education. Gradishar was also the president of the Denver Broncos Youth Foundation from 1982-92. He was inducted in 1998 into the College Football Hall of Fame.

THEN: Rich Jackson is one of the four original Ring of Famers who were inducted in 1984. He was considered by many as the best defensive end in professional football during his prime. Jackson was the first Bronco to be named to the All-NFL first team in 1970. He posted his career high in quarterback sacks in 1969 with 11, and had 10 sacks in both 1968 and 1970. He was All-AFL from 1968-69 in addition to starting in the 1970 Pro Bowl. He made the Pro Bowl again in 1971 despite playing in only seven games due to a knee injury which eventually forced him out of football. Jackson finished his career with 34 sacks. He was a standout end at Southern University on both sides of the ball. He also lettered in track and was the NAIA shotput champion.

Now: Jackson is a school administrator in New Orleans, La., where he and his wife, Katherine, reside.

THEN: Tom Jackson was the only player inducted into the Ring of Fame in 1992. "TJ" was always one of the most popular players among his teammates, who voted him most inspirational player six consecutive seasons (1981-86). He finished his career having played the most games in Broncos history at 191 and still ranks second on that list behind John Elway. He is also tied for third in games played at 177. Jackson is one of only three Broncos to wear the Denver uniform for 14 seasons, joining Dennis Smith and John Elway. He made three consecutive Pro Bowl appearances from 1977-79 and was named first team All-Pro twice (1977-78). He was also named by his teammates as Denver's defensive MVP in 1974, '76, and '77. Upon his retirement in 1986, Jackson was tied for first with fellow Ring of Famer Randy Gradishar for the most interceptions in Broncos history by a linebacker with 20, and was fifth on the all-time sack list with 44. Jackson was also a standout performer at Louisville, where he was the Missouri Valley Conference Player of the Year twice — as a sophomore in 1970 and as a senior in 1972.

Now: Jackson currently is a reporter for ESPN, and along with Chris Berman, Jim Kelly and Sterling Sharpe, hosts the award-winning "NFL Countdown" show every Sunday morning during the NFL season. During the season he makes occasional trips to Denver to do interviews for Bronco features on the show. Tom, his wife Jennifer and their daughter, Taylor, reside in Cincinnati, Ohio.

THEN: Floyd Little is one of the four original Ring of Fame inductees from 1984. He was the first No. 1 draft pick ever signed by the Broncos and was widely regarded as "The Franchise" for much of his nine-year career. Little was the first serious threat for the Broncos at running back. A Pro Bowl participant in 1971, Floyd twice played in the AFL All-Star game (1968 and 1969). He finished his Broncos career ranked No. 1 on the franchise's all-time list for rushing attempts (1,641), rushing yards (6,323), rushing touchdowns (43) and total touchdowns (54). He now ranks second in all but rushing attempts, having been surpassed in the other three during the 1998 season by Terrell Davis. He still ranks seventh on the Broncos' all-time scoring list with 324 points. Little totaled 12,103 all-purpose yards during his career, including a team-record 2,523 on kickoff returns. Little also holds the Broncos' record for the longest non-scoring kickoff return, of 89 yards (vs. Oakland, Nov. 10, 1968). When Little retired, he was among the Top-10 all-time rushers in NFL history. Little was a three-time All-American at Syracuse, following in the footsteps of Jim Brown and the late Ernie Davis as superstar tailbacks for the Orangemen. Little actually shattered most of the records set by his two predecessors, rushing for 2,704 yards, returning punts for 845, kickoffs for 797 and passed for 19 — for a grand total of 4,947 yards. He also scored in 22 of 30 regular season games, including five times in one game.

Now: Little has gone into business for himself and owns an auto dealership in Seattle, Wash.

OWNER

THEN: Gerald H. Phipps became the first and only non-player to be inducted into Denver Broncos' Ring of Fame in 1985. Under the guidance of Phipps and his brother Allan, the Broncos rose from their less than auspicious beginnings to the top of the American Football Conference. In 1977, the Broncos laid claim to their first ever AFC Championship, won the Western Division title in 1977 and 1978 and made three consecutive playoff appearances (1977-79). Under Phipps, the Broncos ultimately rose to a position as one of the NFL's most stable franchises. With the success of the Broncos, the doors were opened for other major league teams from other sports to grab a piece of the Denver sports pie. Following the takeover by the Phipps brothers, Denver Broncos season ticket sales improved from 8,002 in 1964 to 22,905 in 1965. Before purchasing the Broncos on February 15, 1965, Phipps was the president of the Gerald H. Phipps Inc. Construction Company, which he continued to operate. Phipps was born March 4, 1915 in Denver.

Mr. Phipps passed away August 6, 1993.

Smith posted 55 sacks for his career, sixth-most on the Broncos' all-time list. He also posted 11 sacks in both the 1972 and 1973 seasons, propelling him to back-to-back Pro Bowl appearances. Smith was one of the leaders during the years when Denver was establishing its reputation for defensive excellence. His head coach, John Ralston, once said that Smith was "the finest defensive tackle in pro football." Smith's 11-year career was the longest in Bronco annals until he was surpassed by fellow Ring of Famer Billy

Thompson. He was the first 10-year man in Bronco history. Smith played collegiately at New Mexico

Taylor was regarded by many as the possessor of the best hands in pro football. He never had fewer than 76 receptions in a season over those first six years, averaging 84.7 catches from 1960-65, at that time the highest six-year total in football history. Taylor was an All-AFL selection in 1960, '61 and '65 and played in the league all-star game in 1962. Taylor performed collegiately at New Mexico Highlands.

Now: Taylor has enjoyed an extensive coaching career as an assistant in the NFL, including with the championship teams of the Pittsburgh Steelers in the 1970's, and also in the collegiate ranks. He has also served as head coach of the England Monarchs of NFL Europe League.

BILLY THOMPSON

36

THEN: Billy Thompson, regarded by many as the best defensive back in Denver Broncos annals, was the only Ring of Fame inductee in 1987. He was the first player in team history to play 13 seasons with Denver and he was the team captain for many years. Thompson, despite being retired for 18 seasons, still ranks second on the Broncos' all-time list for games started with 178, second in consecutive starts with 142, and sixth in games played with 179. He finished his career with 61 turnovers, (most in team history), 40 of which came via interceptions (third in team history). He holds two NFL records, one of which has stood for over two decades.

As a rookie in 1969, Thompson became the only player in NFL history to lead the league in both kickoffs and punt returns in the same season. He is also one of only two players in NFL history to return four opponent fumbles for touchdowns. Thompson was a three-time Pro Bowl selection (1977, '78 and '81), and earned All-NFL honors twice (1977 and '78) and All-AFC honors four times (1977-'79, '81). Billy also enjoyed a brilliant career at Maryland State (now Maryland-Eastern Shore), earning All-CIAA honors three times as a defensive back and being named team MVP as a senior. He also twice earned NAIA All-America honors. Thompson also made All-CIAA three times in baseball as a centerfielder.

Now: Thompson was a college scout for the Broncos for two years before moving into his current position as Director of Player Relations and Alumni Coordinator. As Director of Player Relations, Thompson coordinates three major functions: family assistance, continuing education and career development. Each of these programs is designed to assist the player with his life off the field. As Alumni Coordinator, Billy works with the Alumni Council and former Broncos who live in the area, who are considered an important part of the Broncos' organization. Thompson is also a member of the Board of Directors of the African American Leadership Institute and Metropolitan State College. He also volunteers time with the Urban League, Hispanic Chamber of Commerce and several other non-profit organizations. Thompson, his wife Barbara, and their son Richie make their home in Aurora, Colo.

PILING UP THE POINTS

Through the 1998 season, the Broncos have scored 12,239 points in 39 seasons of play and 580 regular season games (313.8 per season; 21.1 per game). The 10,000th point in franchise history was scored Oct. 31, 1993 by running back Robert Delpino when he plunged into the end zone from one yard out in the third quarter of Denver's 28-17 win over Seattle. The total was at 9,997 points before the touchdown. At Denver's current seasonal pace, the club will score its 15,000th point sometime during the 2008 season. Their 12,000th point was scored last season.

FORMER BRONCOS IN THE PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME

Two players enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame — cornerback Willie Brown and running back Tony Dorsett — spent a portion of their professional playing careers with the Denver Broncos. A brief review of their Hall of Fame careers is outlined below.

WILLIE BROWN

CB

INDUCTED: 1984

Cornerback Willie Brown, inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1984, played for the Broncos from 1963-66, and was named All-American Football League in 1964. He intercepted nine passes that season, including a team-record four in one game (vs. New York, 11/15/64), and was named the outstanding back in the AFL All-Star game in January, 1965.

The 6-foot-1, 195-pound Brown, who played his college ball at Grambling, joined the Broncos as a free agent in Aug. 1963 and played four seasons with the club. In 50 games he intercepted 15 passes and tallied 195 yards in returns, while also returning three punts for 29 yards (9.7) and three kickoffs for 70 yards (23.3).

Brown was traded to Oakland in 1967 and went on to play 12 seasons with the Raiders (1967-78). He was an all-league performer every year from 1968-73, while making three AFL All-Star game (1967-69) and four Pro Bowl (1970-73) appearances. In 16 seasons Brown played in 204 games and finished his career with 54 interceptions for 472 return yards and two touchdowns.

TONY DORSETT

RB

INDUCTED: 1994

Running Back Tony Dorsett, though best known for his brilliant 11-year tenure with the Dallas Cowboys, was a Denver Bronco during the 1988 and 1989 seasons. He joined the Broncos in 1988 and went on to lead the club in rushing that season with 703 yards on 181 carries. He spent the 1989 season on injured reserve before his retirement, and was inducted into the Hall of fame in 1994.

Dorsett, who ranks third on the all-time NFL rushing list with 12,739 yards, captured rookie of the year honors in 1977 with the Cowboys, en route to four Pro Bowl selections (1978, 1981-83). His highest rushing total came in 1981 when he ran for 1,646 yards, just one of eight 1,000-yard seasons during his brilliant career. Dorsett also caught 398 passes for 3,554 yards (8.9) and accounted for 91 total touchdowns (77 rushing, 13 receiving, 1 fumble recovery).

Dorsett was a college star at the University of Pittsburgh where he won the Heisman Trophy in 1976 while leading the Panthers to the national title.

DENVER BRONCOS IN THE COMMUNITY

For nearly 40 years, the Broncos have committed both financial support and the time of players, coaches and staff to the community in which we live and work. We've always understood that the loyalty of our fans comes with a responsibility to be truly worthy of that loyalty, and that means more than simply winning football games.

The Broncos' commitment to the Rocky Mountain region starts at the very top. Owner Pat Bowlen has served as Honorary Chairman for the Colorado Family Classic and Colorado Special Olympics Hall of Fame dinner for more than 13 years and runs in the annual Colorado Family Classic 5K fundraising race. Vice President of Administration John Beake serves on the boards of the National Sports Center for the Disabled and St. Joseph Hospital Foundation. From their example, the entire Broncos organization takes its cue.

Our primary mission is simple – to win football games and bring home Super Bowl championships. But along the way, we can certainly find the time and energy to help make Colorado a better place for us all.

DENVER BRONCOS CHARITIES FUND

No single effort better exemplifies the Broncos' commitment to our community than the Denver Broncos Charities Fund. Created in 1994, the Fund raises and grants money to qualified non-profit organizations throughout the state of Colorado. Each dollar raised by the Fund is matched by the Robert R. McCormick Tribune Foundation, greatly increasing the level of assistance provided to the non-profit sector.

The impact of DBCF is best demonstrated by its financial contributions. Since its inception, the Fund has granted nearly $10 million to charitable organizations in Denver and across the state. In 1998, the Fund raised just under $3.6 million – an increase of nearly $1 million from 1997's total.

DBCF focuses its support on three critical areas: programs designed to impact young people in the areas of education, athletics and life skills with efforts aimed at disadvantaged and at-risk youth, programs devoted to physically and mentally challenged individuals and programs for the hungry and homeless. Throughout the year, Denver Broncos Charities Fund Manager Pam Krotchko helps stage nearly 20 events with partners who work in one or more of these mission areas.

PLAYER INVOLVEMENT

Many Broncos players have faced the challenge of growing up in an adverse environment. Even those who haven't quickly learn how much power they have to improve the lives of those less fortunate than themselves. From delivering anti-drug messages at schools to running youth football camps to chairing fund-raising drives, the Denver Broncos are just as worthy of admiration for their off-field activities as for what they do on the field.

The following list is just a sample of some of the programs Broncos players are actively involved with. Though being a professional football player can certainly be demanding, the men who wear the Denver Broncos uniform understand the importance of taking an active role in our community.

Bubby Brister	— Sungate Family Resource Center
Ray Crockett	— Ronald McDonald Children's Charities, United Way
Terrell Davis	— Salute the Kids Foundation
Jason Elam	— Sungate Family Resource Center
Ed McCaffrey	— Project Home and Denver Ronald McDonald House

FOR THE KIDS

Broncos players often see something very special when they look in the eyes of their young fans. They see themselves. That could explain why so many of the club's off-field programs are targeted at young people. Broncos Youth Coordinator and former running back Steve Sewell makes nearly 100 visits a year himself to area schools, delivering anti-drug and anti-alcohol, conflict resolution and esteem-building talks to students throughout Colorado.

Linebacker John Mobley was one of eight Broncos to visit Denver-area schools last season to reward students for their performance in the "Tackle Geography" component of The Denver Post's News in Education Program

Participating in organized athletics helps build self-esteem, confidence and discipline. From the Police Athletic League to the annual Broncos Bowl state championships, the Broncos help organize and run a number of youth football programs throughout the metro Denver area. Two Broncos Bowl finalists have scrimmaged at halftime of a Broncos home game each of the past three seasons, giving the young participants the once-in-a-lifetime thrill of playing in front of 76,000 fans.

All the action isn't just for boys, either. The Broncos partner with Nike to offer the annual Let Us Play! Sports Camp for high-risk girls every summer. The camp offers girls the opportunity to learn how sports can significantly change their lives. Female athletes and Broncos players talk to the camp attendees about what sports has done for them

The Broncos have made the Wells Fargo Bank Cup an annual event that raises money for the National Sports Center for the Disabled, located at Winter Park Ski Area

Broncos staff members, as well as current and former players, have donated their time generously to make the annual Colorado Family Classic a hit with kids and a major fund-raiser for St. Joseph Hospital.

ALUMNI AND CHEERLEADERS

Denver Broncos Cheerleaders and alumni both pride themselves on playing an active role in the Denver community. Civic responsibility is a key element of the Cheerleaders' selection process, and the very mission of the Broncos Alumni Council is "to be actively involved in the community with honor and integrity."

Broncos Cheerleaders spend eight to 10 hours a week practicing in addition to being students or holding full-time jobs. The squad still found the time to spend nearly 800 hours in 1998 participating in 52 community programs and events. Craig Hospital and Children's Hospital both receive annual visits from the Cheerleaders, who brighten the days of all the patients they meet. Even on game days, team members make a point to meet sick or disabled fans before kickoff to give them a special Broncos greeting.

Broncos alumni are also giving back to the region that gave so much to them during their playing days. Kicker and Alumni Council President Rich Karlis devotes much of his time to domestic violence center Family Tree. Linebacker Karl Mecklenburg is an active supporter and board member of A Grassroots Aspen Experience, an outdoor esteem-building program for inner-city youth. Ring of Fame defensive back Billy Thompson remains with the club as the Broncos Director of Player Relations, representing the organization at many local fundraisers. And many former players are frequent speakers at area Rotaries and other civic groups

THE DENVER BRONCOS CHEERLEADERS

Now in their seventh season, the Denver Broncos Cheerleaders are one of the newest teams in the National Football League, especially for an NFL franchise in its 40th year. The Broncos brought back cheerleaders in 1993 after a 17-year absence and are proud of the work the team does both on the field and, most importantly, in the community.

The Broncos Cheerleaders are selected through auditions held each spring. This year, nearly 300 women tried out for the 26 available positions. Auditions focus primarily on dance ability, however appearance, personal accomplishments and community involvement are also contributing factors.

Known for their distinctive western uniforms, the Cheerleaders wear long, leather chaps and jackets in the fall months, ski-wear for cold games and a more traditional cheerleading leather skirt and vest in the summer months. The three uniform changes give them flexibility with the ever-changing Colorado weather.

Each member of the Broncos Cheerleaders has an average of 14 years or more of dance experience. In addition, the team is comprised of athletes, students, mothers and businesswomen. For example, on this year's team there are two mothers, 13 bachelor's degree-holders, one teacher, the current 1999 Miss Colorado USA, 1998 Miss Teen Colorado USA, 6 gymnasts and 10 full time students.

The Denver Broncos Cheerleaders are active in the Denver community, donating their time for appearances on behalf of a variety of non-profit organizations, including the Broncos Charities Fund. During the 1998 season, the cheerleaders donated over 800 hours to various charities and attended 60 events representing the Denver Broncos. In 1999, the cheerleaders will have a calendar, poster, and other merchandise available for sale.

For more information on the Cheerleaders, call (303) 649-0553, or look up their page on the official Denver Broncos web site at www.DenverBroncos.com.

"THUNDER"

THE DENVER BRONCOS MASCOT

When the Denver Broncos take the field at Mile High Stadium, Thunder, the team's mascot, leads the charge.

Although Thunder's registered name is JB Kobask, he was given the "stage name" Thunder for his mascot duties. Thunder made his Mile High Stadium debut September 12, 1993 for the Broncos' victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The 16-year old, pure-bred Arabian stallion, provided by Magness Racing Ventures of Fort Lupton, Colo., is in his sixth season with the Denver Broncos Football Club in 1998. In his first four seasons, Thunder has delighted the crowds and been a big hit with the children. He has also started a new tradition with the Broncos, holding an annual Christmas party for underprivileged kids of the Denver area.

"We are avid Bronco fans and felt that an Arabian stallion would be an appropriate mascot. We are thrilled to have this chance to show the general public that Arabians are athletic, intelligent and friendly animals," says Sharon Magness, administrator of Magness Racing Ventures.

Thunder lives on a 350-acre ranch that serves as the training, showing, breeding and marketing center of Magness Racing Ventures. Sharon Magness also owns and operates a ranch bearing the same name in Santa Ynez, Calif., which she ran jointly with her husband Bob until his death three years ago. The Denver Broncos family mourns the passing of a good friend, but is proud to continue the close relationship it has had with the Magness family over the years.

Thunder — not shy in front of crowds — is a champion show horse whose wins include the Hunter Pleasure Champion of the Wyoming Arabian Horse Association Show in 1993, Reserve Champion of the Pure Breed Western Pleasure at the Colorado State Fair in 1989 and first place in Pure Breed Western Pleasure at the Rocky Mountain Arabian Horse Show in 1989.

Thunder is trained by Tom Hudson, manager/trainer of Magness Racing Ventures and an accomplished equestrian. Hudson shows horses in the top Arabian horse shows around the country, although not with Thunder — he has been taken off the horse-show circuit for his career in football.

Thunder made his debut as the Broncos' mascot in 1994 and was an instant hit with fans in Mile High Stadium.

MILE HIGH STADIUM

Mile High Stadium, home of the Denver Broncos, has been filled for every regular season game since the beginning of the 1970 season, with the exception of two replacement games played during the 1987 player's strike (both games were sold out before the strike). The Broncos have sold out 219 consecutive non-strike regular season games, and with postseason contests the total reaches 232 over the 29-year period.

Expansion of the stadium, begun in 1975, was completed for the 1977 season to give the Broncos the seventh-largest home facility in the league (capacity 76,098).

Denver voters passed a $25 million bond issue in 1974 to expand and improve the stadium from its capacity of 51,706 to 75,100. The stadium held 63,532 for the 1976 season, halfway through the project.

Bringing the stadium capacity to its present 76,098 in 1986 was the construction of the Penthouse Suites atop the west stands. There are 60 luxury suites that seat 14, 16 or 24 fans each, accessed by private elevators and fully serviced for every Bronco home game.

Making Mile High Stadium unique, however, is its movable east stands. The east stands move in a single section which, when fully extended, forms a horseshoe configuration for football. When the section is retracted, the stadium is in position for baseball.

The dynamics involved in the move are fascinating. First, bear in mind that the east stands section is a three-tiered structure, 535 feet long, 135 feet tall and 200 feet deep, weighing nearly nine million pounds. Second, the stands must be moved a distance of 145 feet.

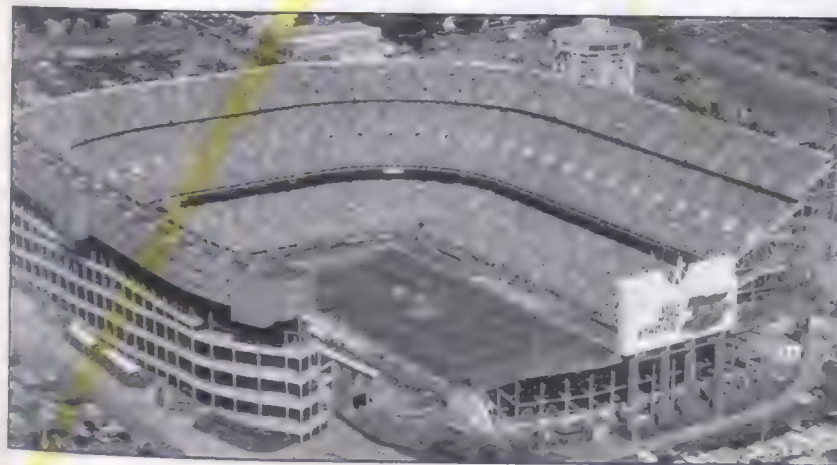

How is it done? The answer, says DMJM-Phillips-Reister, the engineering-architectural firm in charge of the project, is water.

More than 90,000 square feet of runways serve as the operating surfaces over which the stands move. Water is pumped onto the runways and form a .003 inch sheet upon which the stands rest. Hydraulic rams then push the stands forward at the rate of three feet per minute, making the move last somewhere around two hours.

Originally called Bears Stadium, the facility was built in 1948 for the Denver Bears of baseball's old Western League, with long range plans to utilize it for football as well. When Denver became a charter member of the American Football League in 1959, the south stands (8,100 seats) and portable east stands (9,616 seats) were added to give a capacity of 34,657 for football.

After Denver voters turned down a stadium bond issue to build an all-purpose metropolitan stadium in 1967, a non-profit group began a fund-raising drive with the goal of purchasing the stadium for the city.

In February of 1968, the group bought the stadium from Rocky Mountain Empire Sports for $1.8 million and presented it to the city of Denver. A 16,000-seat upper deck was immediately constructed over the west stands, raising the capacity to over 50,000 for the 1968 season. In December of 1968, the stadium was renamed Denver Mile High Stadium.

BRONCOS' RADIO NETWORK

It's a Rocky Mountain tradition: 850 KOA and the Denver Broncos. For the 30th consecutive season, Denver's 50,000-watt station serves as the flagship for the Denver Broncos game broadcast network.

Dave Logan is in his third full season as voice of the World Champion Broncos, following seven years as a color analyst. Logan's background reads like an All-American dream: A Colorado native, he is one of two athletes (Dave Winfield) drafted by franchises in Major League Baseball, the NBA and the NFL. Logan chose the latter, starting for the Cleveland Browns from 1976-83, and ascending into the top 5 of virtually every receiving category in the franchise record books. He played his final season in Denver in 1984.

Since then, Logan has brought his love for sports and knowledge of the games to Colorado radio listeners as co-host of KOA's award-winning talk show, the Sports Zoo, weekdays from 3-7 p.m. He was named 1997 Broadcast Citizen of the Year in Colorado, following Colorado SportsCaster of the Year awards in 1992 and '93. Logan and Ron Zappolo co-host the weekly, in-season television show, "Broncos Huddle with Mike Shanahan," on KUSA-TV, and he is also the head football coach at Arvada (Colo.) West High School, leading his team to a state championship in 1997.

Scott Hastings joins Logan in the booth for his third year as color commentator, having proved himself a savvy and thorough analyst, complementing Logan's play-by-play during the Broncos' back-to-back World Championship seasons of 1997 and 1998. An 11-year veteran of the National Basketball Association, Hastings was a member of the 1989-90 World Champion Detroit Pistons.

In addition to his co-hosting duties on KOA's Sports Zoo, Hastings provides NBA sideline reports for TNT and color analysis for Fox Sports Rocky Mountain, and is a former sports anchor on Denver's Channel 2 "Sports Tonight."

MEDICAL GLOSSARY

AC Joint — Acromioclavicular joint; joint of the shoulder where acromion process of the scapula and the distal end of the clavicle meet; most shoulder separations occur at this point.

Abduct — Movement of any extremity away from the midline of the body. This action is achieved by an abductor muscle.

Abrasion — Any injury which rubs off the surface of the skin.

Abscess — An infection which produces pus; can be the result of a blister, callus, penetrating wound or laceration.

Adduct — Movement of an extremity toward the midline of the body. This action is achieved by an adductor muscle.

Adhesion — Abnormal adherence of collagen fibers to surrounding structures during immobilization following trauma or as a complication of surgery which restricts normal elasticity of the structures involved.

Aerobic — Exercise in which energy needed is supplied by oxygen inspired and is required for sustained periods of vigorous exercise with a continually high pulse rate.

Anabolic Steroids — Steroids that promote tissue growth by creating protein in an attempt to enhance muscle growth. The main anabolic steroid is testosterone (male sex hormone).

Anaerobic — Exercise without use of oxygen as an energy source; short bursts of vigorous exercises.

Anaphylactic Shock — Shock that is caused by an allergic reaction.

Anterior Compartment Syndrome — Condition in which swelling within the anterior compartment of the lower leg jeopardizes the viability of muscles, nerves and arteries that serve the foot. In severe cases, emergency surgery is necessary to relieve the swelling and pressure.

Anterior Cruciate Ligament (ACL) — A primary stabilizing ligament within the center of the knee joint that prevents hyperextension and excessive rotation of the joint. A complete tear of the ACL necessitating reconstruction could require up to 12 months of rehabilitation.

Anterior Talofibular Ligament — A ligament of the ankle that connects the fibula (lateral ankle bone) to the talus. This ligament is oft times subject to sprain.

Anti-Inflammatory — Any agent which prevents inflammation, such as aspirin or ibuprofen.

Anteriogram — A film demonstrating arteries after injection of a dye.

Arthrogram — X-ray technique for joints using air and/or dye injected into the affected area; useful in diagnosing meniscus tears of the knee and rotator cuff tears of the shoulder.

Arthroscope — An instrument used to visualize the interior of a joint cavity.

Arthroscopy — A surgical examination of the internal structures of a joint by means for viewing through an arthroscope. An arthroscopic procedure can be used to remove or repair damaged tissue or as a diagnostic procedure in order to inspect the extent of any damage or confirm a diagnosis.

Aspiration — The withdrawal of fluid from a body cavity by means of a suction or siphonage apparatus, such as a syringe.

When making requests for working press credentials, please allow time for mailing. Press credentials are normally issued approximately seven days before the game. Should transmission facilities be required, please arrange for same through local representatives.

As a general rule, the Denver Broncos do not issue any types of press credentials to weekly newspapers or magazines, unless they are of national circulation on specific assignment.

It is understood that all credentials will be used for the purpose for which they were issued, without exception. Violation of this policy will subject the bearer to ejection from Mile High Stadium.

WORKING PRESS: Admittance to the Broncos' press box is restricted to the WORKING PRESS ONLY. Credentials are marked with individual identification. Passes are non-transferable.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Photographers are asked to take special note of the following conditions for use of press credentials, as set by the National Football League:

NOTICE OF CREDENTIAL USE CONDITIONS

"This working credential is issued to an organization (the "Accredited Organization") for the sole purpose of providing stadium access to an individual (the "Bearer") who has a legitimate working function (media or game service) in connection with the game for which this credential is issued (the "Game"). IT IS NON-TRANSFERABLE. Any unauthorized use of this credential subjects the Bearer to ejection from the stadium and prosecution for criminal trespass, and subjects the Accredited Organization to revocation of its credentials for future NFL games or events. The NFL is defined for the purposes of this credential to include the National Football League, its affiliates, its member clubs, and their agents and employees.

This credential (if issued for a media function) authorizes (i) the use by the Accredited Organization, for news and editorial coverage of the Game, of any descriptions (including statistical descriptions), accounts, photographs, films, audio or video recordings, or drawings of the game or of any player interviews, press conferences, or other stadium activities related to the Game (collectively, "Game Information") taken, made, created or compiled by the Accredited Organization or the Bearer, and (ii) the use by the Accredited Organization of any NFL or NFL club logos or trademarks (the "Marks") in connection with its authorized use of the Game Information. Any other use or attempted use by the Bearer or the Accredited Organization of Game Information or Marks, including any distribution of Game Information to third parties other than ultimate consumers (e.g., newspaper readers) for their use (whether before or after the conclusion of the Game, and whether or not for editorial purposes) and any authorization of any third party to redistribute any Game Information or to use any Marks, is expressly prohibited, unless the Accredited Organization has obtained the advanced written permission of the NFL for such other use.

Accredited Organizations agree that Game Information taking the form of film, video or digital video recordings ("Video Material") may only be used in connection with a regularly scheduled broadcast television newscast aired by the Accredited Organization within a seven-day period following the Game, and further agree that their use of Video Material in such newscasts shall not exceed (a) six (6) minutes of "same-day" post-game highlights on game days and (b) two (2) minutes of current-season highlights on any other day, or (c) if an Accredited Organization airs a continuous-loop news service. Video Material including more than seven (7) plays in any 15-minute segment or fourteen (14) plays in any 30-minute segment of such service. Use of Video Material in any other manner without the advance written permission of the NFL and, where applicable, NFL Films, Inc., is expressly prohibited.

The Accredited Organization and the Bearer assume all risk incident to the performance by the Bearer of his or her services; assume all risk incident to attending NFL games; agree that the NFL has no responsibility for any equipment in use in the stadium; agree that they are not acting for the NFL in any manner whatsoever and are not employees or agents of the NFL; and agree to indemnify and hold harmless the NFL, its affiliates, its member clubs, and their agents and employees from and against all liability, loss, damage or expense, resulting from or arising out of the issuance of this credential or the Bearers' presence in the stadium, except to the extent such liability, loss, damage or expense arises out of the willful or intentional misconduct of the NFL or any other indemnified party.

This credential is subject to such additional credential use conditions as to which the Denver Broncos from time to time may give notice. Any violation of terms of credential use or such additional conditions may result in the withholding or revocation of this credential and any credential for any subsequent Denver Broncos football games.

Acceptance of the credential constitutes agreement by the Accredited Organization and the Bearer to abide by the foregoing conditions. Thank you for your cooperation."

• Sideline photo passes will be tightly controlled by the Public Relations Department and are generally limited to photographers shooting for a daily newspaper, wire service, or magazine of national circulation on specific assignment, or television station.

RADIO-TELEVISION: In making requests for broadcast credentials, please specify requirements for spotters and/or statisticians.

STADIUM ACCESS: To get to Mile High Stadium, which is located at 19th Avenue and Eliot Street, take Interstate 25 to the Mile High Stadium Exit (19th Avenue Exit). The Press Box is located on the West side of the stadium.

DRIVING INSTRUCTIONS TO MILE HIGH STADIUM FROM DENVER INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT: Exit airport on Pena Boulevard and continue to Interstate 70. Take Interstate 70 West to Interstate 25 South. Continue on Interstate 25 South until you come to Mile High Stadium Exit (19th Avenue Exit).

DRIVING INSTRUCTIONS TO DENVER INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT FROM MILE HIGH STADIUM: Take one of two routes depending on your parking lot location. You can take 20th Avenue East to Clay Street, turning left at Clay and proceeding to 23rd Avenue. Take a right at 23rd Avenue and continue to Interstate 25 entrances. Another route (Northbound) would be to take 17th Avenue East, which will continue beneath an overpass and will take you directly to Interstate 25 north. Take I-25 North to I-70 East. Follow the signs to DIA. Please allow 45 minutes from Mile High Stadium to DIA.

TRANSMISSION FACILITIES: The Broncos provide eight complimentary telephones in the visitors area of the working pressbox for use with VDT or fax equipment. Only collect, credit card or third party billing calls can be made from these telephones. Should you wish a private telephone installed at your seat, the Broncos will be pleased to assign you a seat location and provide you with a contact for you to make the appropriate arrangements with the local telephone company.

POST-GAME TRANSPORTATION: Please advise Broncos PR personnel as soon as possible should you require transportation following the game. The amount of time you must wait will obviously decline as time goes by following the conclusion of the game. All taxis will make pick-ups curb side at the Ticket Office, which is located at 19th Avenue and Eliot Street. Should you wish to make your own arrangements, the numbers of local cab companies are 777-7777 and 333-3333.

NEW STADIUM

On Tuesday, Nov. 3, 1998, voters in the six-county area that comprises Metro Denver approved a plan to construct a new football stadium in Denver. Construction was to begin on the 76,125-seat stadium in 1999, with the facility scheduled to open in time for the 2001 NFL season.

The Broncos' new home will be located in the vicinity of Mile High Stadium, just west of Interstate-25 in an area that has comprised the south and west parking lots of Mile High Stadium and McNichols Arena.

The cost of the new stadium will be borne by Broncos President and Chief Executive Officer Pat Bowlen, and by tax-payers through a penny-per-$10 sales tax on retail goods.

The site where Mile High Stadium currently stands — which will border the new stadium to the northwest — will feature grass, trees and landscaped parking lots. The new facility will be highlighted by an emphasis on state-of-the-art technology, while maintaining the traditional aspects of Mile Stadium that have given the Broncos a decided home-field advantage over the years. Those features include the close proximity of the seats to the field, as well as steel treads and risers that could be used to create the same deafening roar that has characterized Mile High Stadium.
